Renegades in tough battle vs. Greenville for SAL title

By Rich Thomaselli

A step – now two – away from a league title.

The Hudson Valley Renegades are currently going for their first league championship since 2017.

Hudson Valley began the best-of-three finals in the South Atlantic League against the Greenville Drive late Sunday afternoon with the first game at Heritage Financial Park. Greenville is the high Class A affiliate of the Boston Red Sox.

Alas, it will have to be another come-from-behind effort – if it happens. That's because Greenville shut out the Renegades 2-0 in Game 1.

Both sides received strong starts from their starting pitchers with Jackson Fristoe tossing four scoreless innings in his High-A debut. The right-hander only had to work through one jam – in the fourth inning after two singles and a fielder's choice loaded the bases with two outs. Kristian Campbell grounded out to leave the bases loaded.

The Drive plated the game's first runs in the top of the sixth. After Baron Stuart (0-1) tossed a scoreless fifth inning, he walked the bases loaded in the sixth. Sebastian Keane entered and walked Ronald Rosario and Kristian Campbell to score Allan Castro and Bryan Gonzalez to give Greenville a 2-0 lead.

Luis Perales (1-0) stifled the Hudson Valley offense, allowing just two walks and a hit across six innings. The Renegades best offensive chance came in the ninth after Felix Cepeda hit Ben Cowles to begin the inning. Jared Serna singled to left field to place two runners on with no outs, but Christopher Familia hit into a double play and Jesus Rodriguez flied out to end the contest.

The second game was scheduled for Tuesday night in South Carolina. Game 3, if necessary, was scheduled for Wednesday night in South Carolina.

This is the first playoff appearance since the Renegades became a New York Yankees affiliate three years ago.

Hudson Valley got to the finals by defeating Jersey Shore in the divisional series, two games to one. In the third and deciding game last Friday, Jersey Shore took an early lead with a run in the top of the first against Brock Selvidge. After a one-out double from Otto Kemp, Felix Reyes singled him home to give the BlueClaws a 1-0 lead.

Just like Game 2, Hudson Valley responded with a run in the bottom half of the first. Ben Cowles led off the frame with a triple, and later in the inning, Rafael Marcano (0-1) threw a wild pitch that scored Cowles to tie the game at 1-1.

The Renegades took the lead in the second after Rafael Flores led off with a double, he scored on a Cowles single to give the Renegades their first lead at 2-1. A sacrifice fly from Alexander Vargas scored Flores in the fourth and padded the Renegades lead at 3-1.

Hudson Valley lost the first game of the series against Jersey Shore, 2-1, but rebounded to take the second game 6-2.

Organization seeks local volunteers to help Ukrainian refugees

By Stacey Vanden Thoorn

North America for Ukraine (NA4U), a sponsor-matching organization, is seeking volunteers to help with the process of safely bridging the gap for resettlement support of Ukrainians who have had to flee their country due to the ongoing war against Russia.

St. John's Reformed Church in Red Hook was the site of a recent presentation where volunteer Jenn Moak, Director of NA4U U.S. Resettlement, and a family of Ukrainian refugees presented information to educate the local community about NA4U's goal to provide assistance with the immigration process of host families. Employment opportunities and general resources are also needed in an effort to support Ukrainians through the process of resettlement as there is still a waiting list of well over 10,000 Ukrainians in need.

The project does not have any religious affiliation and is completely volunteer driven. The federal state department oversees their work to assure compliance. So far, the New York State Chapter has helped 200 refugee families, of which many consist of single parents, parents of children with disabilities and senior citizens who have lost their homes in Ukraine.

According to Moak, NA4U does its best to prioritize families as best they can in the order of need. Moak herself decided to get involved after watching the news last March and was moved to get involved to do something to be part of a solution. "After seeing the images of people huddling in basements with their families and pets, I could not sit idly by," said Moak. "I'm a concerned citizen. I also hate bullies. I could not be a bystander and watch without doing anything."

Since then Moak has taken the helm as volunteer director to help displaced Ukrainians and to recruit volunteer sponsors who are able to help in the process of either hosting families or willing to manage the paper side of the process regarding application filing and documentation submissions.

For the past 18 months, Moak, also a host to a refugee family in her own home, has learned a lot about the Ukrainian people. "From my interactions with so many refugees, I have come to the understanding that Ukrainians are very fiercely independent and proud. They are determined to get out on their own and to return to their lives by either staying here in the US, finding housing and employment or to return back to the country they love," said Moak. "It is the goal of NA4U to support Ukrainians through the entire process."

According to Moak NA4U, has helped several communities around the country start sponsor circles that involve several volunteer families within a specific locale who volunteer to bring Ukrainian families in need to their area, and work together to help the newcomers get settled in. "Sponsor circles help provide housing and create a small community for the refugees to feel at home. A community like Red Hook would be a great place to foster a sponsor circle," said Moak, who is dedicated to providing information and direction to anyone interested in starting a sponsor circle in their community.

Anyone interested in learning more about how to help with NA4U is encouraged to contact Jenn Moak, Director of U.S. Resettlement at jennifer@na4ukraine.org. You can also find North America for Ukraine on Facebook and Instagram, as well as at www.na4ukraine.org.

Get ready for some 'spirit' in Beacon

The Main Street stage will be at Veterans Place and the secondary stage is at Cross St. The parade kicks off at 1 p.m. and goes down Main St. The Spirit of Beacon Day Awards will be down at Polhill Hill, off Route 9D, and will be handed out before the parade.

Hellmuth stated, "This event was established in 1977 in response to racial tensions between Beacon's youth and the community. As a result, various community leaders from our local churches, library, police, City Council, and others came together to figure out what to do."

"A solution was proposed that we have a community day," she said.

She read a quote from an earlier Spirit of Beacon Day that appeared in a local paper about how everyone was in agreement that the Beacon community should get together to know each one better.

"Come to enjoy the organizations and services that are available," said Hellmuth.

On the Spirit of Beacon Day website, it states: "'Level Up' can mean many things, and we want to know how you perceive it. What does Leveling Up mean to you?"

Anthony Scarrone, director of the Beacon High School drama club The Beacon Players, said about the student performers participating in the annual event, "The Beacon Players have been a part of Spirit Beacon Day for many, many years."

Scarrone continued, "We have marched in the parade as well as set up a booth along Main Street and performed. It has been a mutual success story, supporting the community while being able to promote our shows. We have marched in costume in the past and we have a surprise in store this year to promote our production of 'Phantom of the Opera' it will be fun!"

"Annually, upwards to three thousand people gather to enjoy the diverse Spirit of Beacon Day Parade, shake hands with dignitaries, browse community booths, and savor scrumptious street food from local businesses and churches. Also, local eateries are open for business. The celebration is in view of beautiful Mount Beacon," said Goldee Greene, Spirit of Beacon Day Media Coordinator, who will also sing as part of GG & The Shades that day. Greene noted that rap artist Tony E, will be returning to Beacon from New York City. Youth rock bands from Beacon School of Rock, and Beacon Music Factory will wow the crowd, she added.

The Spirit of Beacon Day Committee thanks the businesses for all their support and sponsorship.

Wellness Fest Saturday in Wappingers Falls

"In 2007 when I official started Dynamic Intervention, it launched as a Wellness Collective, now 16 years later and many twists, turns and expansions navigating my own life and societal situations, my passion continues to be to bring people together to teach and share from experiences, strength and hope and to expose others to different ways to find a pathway to wellness that I know work," said Muller.

So, what can one expect during the event?

"People can expect to find a variety of providers of practices, products and services as well as community organizations that provide services or experiences that educate and promote health and wellness for mind, body, spirit and community," said Muller.

Those who go to the fest can also attend children's book readings, a yoga class, and visit with puppies/dog trainers.

John Tyliszczak, who is on the Wappingers Falls Village Board and Recreation Committee, said, "We should recognize that not just our body, but our mind, behavior and emotions all contribute to a healthy life. Healthy and happy people contribute to healthy and happy communities."

"Health and Wellness is important for individuals, families, and our community. When people feel connected, cared for and understood they are certainly more active in their families' lives and the community they live in. It is the goal of DIWS and the Recreation Committee to make faces more familiar and to bring back that old-fashioned feeling of community where people knew people, cared about people, and shared their talents and time with people," Muller remarked.

The Recreation Committee has been working hard even through the past few years to keep the spirit of community alive, according to Muller. "From parades to egg hunts and Trunk O'Treats, volunteers run these family-friendly events and work hard to make them happen. DIWS want to help this mission, as a Family Therapy practice, our goal it to be involved and offer opportunities to connect people to the spirit of community, promote inclusivity of all people and cultures, sharing from a large bank of knowledge knowing that we can only ever scratch the surface if we don't connect with our neighbors. The Wappingers Falls Business Association similarly knows how important it is to our communities to understand the changing needs and be able to provide that locally. We are committed to this being the beginning of building a healthy community for all. Gathering community, we build UNITY!" she said.

Never Forget: Ukraine helped the U.S. after 9/11; So we must continue to support Ukraine now

To the Editor:

These past few weeks, the hillside in front of Stanford's Town Hall has again hosted its poignant reminder to Never Forget the attacks this country suffered on September 11th, 2001 and to always remember the sacrifices of those who answered the call to duty both on that day and in the weeks, months, and years which followed. We thank the leaders of the Stanford Fire Company for this annual testament to the victims and heroes and to the national unity which coalesced around the events of that day.

International unity followed as NATO answered our call, and non-NATO countries as well, including Ukraine, who provided boots on Afghanistan's ground in support of America. We must not forget this just as we must not forget the security guarantees we committed to Ukraine when they gave away their nuclear weapons, just as we must never forget the impunity of Stalin's Russia, which on September 17th, 1939, entered WWII by joining with Hitler's Germany to divide up Poland.

We must not forget the destabilizing role Russia has played around the globe and continues to play today overtly in Ukraine, Georgia, Moldova, Syria, and in countless African countries where the instability sowed by Russia will deliberately provoke another wave of refugees intended to fragment European unity.

The unity provided to us by 9/11 has long disappeared. But we still agree on some things. Despite daily barrages of disinformation, 70 percent of Americans know that Ukrainian victory is in our core national interests, and people from both sides of the aisle call for more support for Ukraine.

Leaders such as Senators McConnell and Graham, and Former Vice President Pence argue that sending sufficient weapons and ammunition for Ukraine's victory is the cheapest and best investment we could ever make for our National security and stability in Europe. Despite the 9/11s Ukraine experiences weekly, some argue that it's time to negotiate with Putin – a man who has never honored any agreement he's ever signed.

Just as we did not negotiate with Osama Bin Laden, no one should expect Ukraine to negotiate when 20 percent of her land and millions of her citizens are enduring torture, rape and barbarity. We must not forget them and the other victims of Russia.

As we remember our own times of trial, please join the voices supporting Ukraine continuing by contacting our Congressional Representative and Senators to demand continued support for Ukraine.

Weishaupt a 'true law-and-order' candidate

To the Editor:

The recent smash and grab robbery at the Home Depot in Wappingers Falls highlights the clear advantage of electing the Republican candidate for District Attorney in November - Matt Weishaupt.

The defendants, who (allegedly) came to Dutchess County from Brooklyn, (allegedly) assaulted a brave employee who tried to stop them from (allegedly) stealing electronics worth thousands of dollars. They then (allegedly) led five different law enforcement agencies on a chase that injured another motorist before finally being stopped and arrested on Route 84 in Putnam County.

Matt Weishaupt has been a member of the Dutchess County District Attorney's office for over 35 years. He currently serves as the Chief Assistant DA and skillfully oversees all administrative functions of that office. He spearheaded the successful prosecutions of three street gangs during his extensive career in the courtroom: the Mad Drama gang in 2000, Partner N' Crime in 2007, and a famous national gang in 2013.

The reason the criminals are stealing all over the state is because Democrats in Albany, aware of the consequences, want it so. They passed bail reform and decriminalized most larceny crimes in New York. So, what would one expect? And store employees are scared. These smash-and-grab crimes are now occurring in our own Dutchess County retail stores.

We need a true law-and-order candidate who will not coddle these criminals and pursue justice to the full extent of the law. Endorsed by both the Republican and Conservative parties, Matt Weishaupt will keep our community safer as our next District Attorney.

Please join me in voting for him in November.

VETERANS NEWS WITH ADAM ROCHE

Veterans' One-Stop to be featured in Discovery Network series

Veterans programming producer to move operations to Pleasant Valley campus

Lights, Camera, Action! Exciting things continue to happen at the new Mental Health America's (MHA) Dutchess County Veterans One Stop location on Route 44 in Pleasant Valley. We have had record numbers of veterans and their families coming in to see us at Dutchess County Veterans Services, as they take advantage of the full spectrum of services offered by in this convenient "one stop" location.

And now there is a great new addition to the Veterans One Stop! Global Center Social Entrepreneurship Network? (GCSEN) Foundation has joined our Dutchess County Veterans Services, MHA's Veterans Programs, Veterans Sportsmen Association, Hudson Valley Veterans Alliance and the VA with a new location in the building.

GCSEN Foundation's mission is to enable people to create meaningful change in their lives and their careers by inspiring, teaching and supporting social venture founders and their teams. They help people to discover and leverage their passion and purpose to have an enduring impact that moves the world to a better place.

One of GCSEN Foundation's signature projects is a new veterans-focused, 12-episode TV series for the Discovery Network's Destination America called "Veterans Playbook," which is slated to premire on October 4. On "Veterans Playbook," GSCEN finds and features inspiring veteran ventures. Each story is a journey into a Hero's military experience, and their transition to civilian life and entrepreneurship.

GSCEN sees "Veterans Playbook" as a strategic catalyst to increase U.S. veteran entrepreneurship. Veterans today have one of the lowest business formation rates of any U.S. demographic group. The "Veterans Playbook" is a show with a purpose – to inspire active military and existing veterans to consider business ownership as a viable path to success and fulfillment. According to GSCEN, 30-40% of America's 16 million veterans each day face food insecurity, housing challenges, economic difficulties, and for some, even a debilitating lack of purpose, with 17 veterans committing suicide each day.

The "Veterans Playbook" shows how the entrepreneurial process has powerful healing properties for veterans driven by passion and purpose to serve others. Through a business customized to leverage a veteran's uniqueness, a sense of belonging and camaraderie is created within a highly supportive veteran ecosystem.

So how did GCSEN wind up at the Dutchess County Veterans One Stop?

We met with GCSEN, Founder & CEO, Mike Caslin, during the development of the "Veterans Playbook" series, to help the show's producers identify veteran entrepreneurs and veterans' organizations that are part of the ecosystem that helps returning vets successfully make the transition back into civilian life. We are excited that Dutchess County's own Hudson & Packard, founded by U.S. Army veteran Charlie Webb, will be the focus of one of the episodes. Show producers also filmed here at the Veterans One Stop for the opportunity to talk one-on-one with local veterans. The producers were so impressed by the layout of the facility and the services offered here. The synergy of all involved and the future possibilities the producers envisioned excited them about what a special place the Veterans One Stop is and can be.

So special, in fact, that on September 1, GCSEN moved its entire operation from the Kingston-based office and took up residence in the first unit of the Veterans One Stop and will now be working side by side with us in our common mission to assist those who have served our country so faithfully.

GCSEN Founder Mike Caslin believes this one-stop concept is a proven model that can be accelerated and adapted by counties and communities across the country. GCSEN has done extensive research and interviews with veterans organizations across the state and the country, and it was clear to Mike that what is happening here is a leadership model for empowering veterans. He went on to say that we all have a social responsibility to play a part in healing and enriching our Vet's lives as they face many emotional and life challenges transitioning from active duty to civilian life.

We are excited to welcome GCSEN as our newest neighbor at the Veterans One Stop and eager to work with them on our common mission of serving and empowering all veterans who have served our country.

We will keep you posted as we learn more about specific air times for the "Veterans Playbook" on the Discovery network. In the meantime, stop in to see us at Dutchess County Veterans Services and check out GCSEN's new location at the Veterans One Stop.

You can also call us at 845-486-2060 or email us at veterans@dutchessny.gov to make an appointment. We are here to serve you.

Prominent historian uncovers family stories in Dutchess County Ancient Documents

By Will Tatum Dutchess County Historian

For the past decade, the Dutchess County Clerk's Office and the Dutchess County Department of History have worked to rehouse, index, and digitize the oldest legal records in the county, providing free online access to researchers.

In late July, prominent historian of Early America, Dr. Karin Wulf, released a blog post exploring a (child conceived out of wedlock) case drawn from the online Ancient Documents Search Portal. Dr. Wulf is currently engaged in a study of how residents of early America defined their family histories.

In her post "Love, Actually?," Wulf explores the complicated romantic relationship between Marytje Berringer Giselbregh and Benjamin Kip of Rhinebeck. The birth of their daughter in October 1760 sparked a lawsuit, which still survives in the Ancient Documents Collection today.

During the 18th and early 19th centuries, town governments were required to pay for the upkeep of children born out of wedlock as part of the larger system of poor relief. The crime of fathering a child out of wedlock empowered local officials to seek restitution from the putative father, generating a paper trail that one can still follow today. Wulf's entry takes the reader through the surviving court records, unfolding the complicated dynamics at play in early American families.

Dutchess County Clerk Brad Kendall said, "Sharing the historic resources of the Clerk's Office promotes a greater understanding of Dutchess County history. We are grateful for the continued funding provided by the New York State Education Department that has helped us preserve and promote this unique collection."

The Ancient Documents Collection contains the surviving records of the Dutchess County Courts of Common Pleas and General Sessions, dating between 1721 and 1889. The Court of Common Pleas heard civil cases, mostly debt litigation, while the Court of General Sessions was reserved for criminal cases with charges brought by a grand jury.

While every county in New York had similar records at one time, Dutchess County's collection is unusual in both the relative age of the collection and its completeness. Prior to the beginning of the current digitization project in 2013, the Ancient Documents Collection was partially inventoried by clerks under the direction of former Vassar College President Henry Noble MacCracken in the 1950s. Professor Wulf's post on the Giselbregh-Kip case demonstrates how important these Dutchess County collections are for historians and scholars of American History.

Formerly the Director of the Omohundro Institute of Early American History & Culture at the College of William and Mary, Wulf is the Beatrice and Julio Santo Domingo Director and Librarian of the John Carter Brown Library and a Professor of History at Brown University. She has published two books, Delaware, 1638-1776 and Not All Wives: Women of Colonial Philadelphia. To access Professor Wulf's blog post, please visit her website at www.karinwulf.com and click on the "tidbits" link. The Ancient Documents Search portal is accessible for free online at dutchessny.gov/ancientdocuments.

Work is currently underway to expand the county's online archive of early documents, current offerings of which are available at the Dutchess County Historical Resources page, accessible at www.dutchessny.gov/history.

FeedHV, Red Hook Responds collaborate for second annual food rescue at the DC Fair

Amid the flurry of activity as the Dutchess County Fair closed on Sunday night August 27, a team of volunteers from Red Hook Responds fanned out across the Fairgrounds to collect excess food products from vendors. This was the second annual collaboration between Red Hook Responds and FeedHV to collect viable, but unserved food products for distribution to agencies with food assistance programs.

Working until around 10 p.m. that night, the volunteers circulated with coolers, and loaded the trays and bags into a trailer which headed back to the cold storage at Red Hook Responds, and then for distribution to agencies. The group collected over 670 pounds of a variety of food products.

Administered by Hudson Valley AgriBusiness Development Corporation (HVADC), FeedHV is a regional food rescue and harvesting network operating throughout Dutchess, Orange, Ulster, Columbia, Greene, Putnam and Sullivan counties. It links donors of prepared, but unserved, food and fresh produce with nonprofits and food assistance programs. Through an app-assisted network of food donors, volunteers and feeding agencies, FeedHV facilitates the harvesting, processing and distribution of locally grown or produced agricultural products, shelf-stable food donations and prepared nutritious foods. Among the donors are restaurants, farms, food makers, stores, hotels, institutions and universities – and now the Dutchess County Fair. The food assistance programs include food pantries, soup kitchens and shelters.

"Building off last year's collection, we received a nice reception from the food vendors when we canvassed them, and who were well aware of the end-of-Fair rescue," said Jeung-il Tsumagari, former Executive Director, Red Hook Responds, who acted as the FeedHV coordinator this year. "It's hard to gauge what the true donations will be at the end of an event such as the Fair, since the vendors' inventories are affected by so many factors, including weather and attendance. We were very pleased to be able to collect slightly more than we did in 2022," she continued.

In all, 16 vendors made donations, which included various produce (lettuce, corn, potatoes, garlic, scallions, cucumbers, lemons, carrots, celery, tomatoes, onions, peppers, broccoli), prepared food such as rice and beans, chili, pizza, vegetables, and empanadas; various breads and rolls, deserts, cheese, dressings, condiments, macaroni salad, coleslaw, and cooked meats such as beef, chicken, Gyro meat, and sausages.

"The success of the event is a testament to the good people of Northern Dutchess, from the Dutchess County Fair staff and vendors, to the volunteers from Red Hook Responds. This type of food rescue event requires coordination, dedication and a commitment to save food for those in need. We cannot thank all who participated enough for the work they did as the fair ended, and made this our second success with the Fair," said Mary Ann Johnson, Deputy Director of HVADC.

Back at Red Hook Responds, the donations were being organized for distribution, and in the coming days, FeedHV volunteers also transported items to receiving agencies, including to Hope on a Mission and Hudson River Housing in Poughkeepsie; and Peoples Place, Darmstadt Shelter and Seasoned Gives in Kingston.

Volunteering for the Red Hook Responds teams was a family affair, much as it was in 2022. Among the crew were three generations of the Beck family returning for their second time volunteering at the event, and Tim and Madison Curry who joined the team this year.

"I am so pleased that we were able to once again work with FeedHV and get product to the Hudson Valley food banks and people who can use it. We have had other Fairs pick up on the idea and are pleased to part of this grass roots effort. It is truly a testimony to teamwork! It could not be accomplished without the dedicated people involved, from the organizers, to the collectors, to the very Fair vendors themselves," said Deborah Aschmann, Concessions, Vendors & Partnerships, for the Dutchess County Fair.

This year's Dutchess County Fair featured approximately 100 food vendors across the fairgrounds, including the Grange, 4H and Midway areas. However, many are not suited to participate in a FeedHV collection, such as those whose primary business is to serve alcoholic beverages or frozen or other confections. To learn more about FeedHV, its donor and volunteer programs, visit www.feedhv.org. To become a food donor, contact info@feedhv.org. To make a monetary donation to FeedHV, visit <https://www.feedhv.org/donate-today>.

Fair directors thank all for support in 2023 event

The Dutchess County Fair has wrapped up for another successful Fair season, according to Fair organizers. From animals, agriculture, exhibits, entertainment, food and fun, there was definitely something for everyone.

"Our Board of Directors is very pleased with this year's Fair. The dedication of fairgoers, staff, volunteers, vendors, livestock exhibitors, competitors, safety and security partners and so many others who go above and beyond are what makes us the summer's most anticipated event," said Andy Imperati, President/CEO of the fairgrounds. "It's an absolute pleasure for our team to bring the Dutchess County Fair to the community every year. We look forward to seeing everyone again in 2024."

Attendance was solid despite a couple of iffy weather days with the Fair welcoming 280,443 guests through the gates. "We consider our 177th Fair to be a success and all of that is made possible by the continued support of our community. I would like to express my sincere thank you to our guests for supporting the DC Fair and everyone who came out to see us," said Imperati.

Fair organizers are already planning to welcome everyone back August 20 – 25, 2024 for the 178th Dutchess County Fair.

Life in the Dutchess County Home

By Will Tatum

There was a crispness in the air this morning and the calendar states that we are approaching the Fall equinox. The signs are in abundance that Autumn is swiftly arriving, and with it, spooky season.

For most people, the fall is the perfect time for ghost stories, often set in eerie locations, including old hospitals, sanitaria, and ...poorhouses. Historians' minds also tend to go to these places, but not for spooks and thrills. Fall lends itself to discussions of more serious topics, some of which have twists and turns that may surprise you.

The Dutchess County Home, also known as the Poorhouse, the Almshouse, the County Farm and the Infirmary, operated off County House Road in the Town of Washington from 1864 to 1998. The specific goals and methods employed there changed over the years. In the beginning the facility was charged by the state to care for the ill, the indigent, the insane and individuals suffering from short bouts of extremely communicable diseases.

If you heard the term "pest house" thrown around, that's not where you put annoying people, animals, or insects. It is a shortening of the old and longer title "House of Pestilence," where people suffering from smallpox and similar diseases (which could infect large populations quickly) could be housed while recovering. Given New York's penchant for overly-long titles, one wonders why the shortened version of the name survived here. Those early days at the County Home were challenging ones, given the broad spectrum of care required and perpetually limited resources. It certainly didn't help that the germ theory of disease was only just making the European scientific circuit when the poorhouse opened.

But that was just Phase 1 of the operation. Less than a decade after the county home opened, the state hospital system came to the Hudson Valley. The Hudson River State Hospital opened in 1873 and by the 1880s was taking some of the patient load from the County Home: individuals needing extensive physical or psychiatric care could go to the state hospital for treatment by specialists.

The FDR era

The next big turn in the County Home's operations came courtesy of native son Franklin D. Roosevelt. As part of his New Deal social relief, Roosevelt brought the federal government into the poor relief (we call it social welfare today) with a number of measures. Most famous among them was the Social Security Administration, established in 1935. While the New Deal did not completely eliminate poverty in Dutchess County, it did provide enough at-home relief that the County Home was again relieved of some of its broad spectrum of responsibilities.

Beginning slightly before the introduction of social security, and accelerating afterwards, the County Home's operations turned to focus on long-term care for chronically ill individuals. Louise Tompkins, the long-serving Millbrook Historian, began her lifelong stay at the County Home in the 1920s when an especially severe form of arthritis effectively locked all of her joints in place.

Until its closure in 1998, the County Home operated primarily as this form of nursing facility. And while the spooky season and the legions of ghost hunting programs might conjure ghastly visions in your head of an old nursing home site, there is far more to the story of the County Home's final phase than phantoms in the night. In fact, the entire situation was quite the opposite.

Hilda Bauer

How do we know that? Enter Hilda Bauer.

Born in Valatie, Columbia County, in February 1900, Hilda was a Mid-Hudson socialite. She spent much of her life traveling, visiting friends both locally and out of the county. In 1953, one of those friends gave her a photo album for Christmas. That album survives to this day in the collections of the Dutchess County Department of History courtesy of an accident of fate.

Hilda came to reside at the County Home in 1983, where she remained until her passing in 1988. Hilda's album accompanied her to the Home, and due to lack of any kin to take it, became part of our collection. And for that, residents of Dutchess County owe Hilda Bauer an enormous debt, because her album preserves so much information that would otherwise be lost to time.

Amidst the snapshots of trips to New England and a regular round of visits to the country seats of Dutchess and Columbia are peppered a constant stream of photos featuring the County Home. These photos emphasize the message that emerges from other less-thrilling documentation: that despite the sadness that the end of life brings, the places dedicated to caring for people in the final years of their journey do not have to be sad. Individuals who have only seen the County Home site during its abandonment would be amazed at the brightness, cleanliness, and tidiness of both the exterior and interiors of the building when Hilda photo documented in between the 1950s and 1980s. While certain grim realities of medical practice and human aging are always present in these situations, Hilda's photos remind us of the other side of the coin: the feeling of community, camaraderie, and significance.

The residents of the County Home were not abandoned individuals tucked away at an obscure site to await the inevitable: instead, the County Home was a place of active socializing and celebration. Hilda made many trips to the facility with her young and active friends to visit residents, relax on the County Home's grounds, and, on at least one occasion, to watch a costumed pageant. During these visits, Hilda assisted Louise Tompkins in her research and writing, while also capturing shots of the nursing staff going about their duties. The final series of images preserved in the album features a party for residents and staff on the grounds, with many smiling faces around long tables laden with refreshments.

If you want to learn a bit more about the broad scope of the County Home's operations, join me at the Millbrook Library at 7 p.m. on Oct. 19 for a presentation on life at the County Home from 1864-1998. The PowerPoint slides will feature many images from Hilda Bauer's albums, along with other material in the county's collections.

Hilda Bauer was a native of Valatie and long-time Millbrook resident whose photo album presents an inside view of the County Home from the 1950s through the 1980s.

While headless horsemen ride to our west and our south, take a break from spooky skeletons to join the Millbrook Historical Society for this more thoughtful exploration of the dignities that the County Home afforded to those in the final years of their lives.

Will Tatum has served as the Dutchess County Historian since 2012. He holds a Ph.D. in History from Brown University and pursues projects ranging from archival access to public educational programming. Since 2020, in partnership with Dutchess County Clerk Brad Kendall, he has been imaging historical material from across the county, including many sources on the County Home. This material will soon become available to the public via the county webpage.

Final Hot Tuna Electric tour makes stop at UPAC Sept. 21

Hot Tuna

Bardavon announces the final Hot Tuna Electric – Going Fishing Tour is coming to UPAC on Thursday, Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m. This will be Electric Hot Tuna's farewell tour and the last chance to see this iconic blues rock band which was formed in 1969 by former Jefferson Airplane members Jorma Kaukonen (guitarist/vocals) and Jack Casady (bassist). They will be joined by drummer Justin Guip.

Although it has always been a fluid aggregation, with musicians coming and going over the years, the band's center has always been Kaukonen and Casady's ongoing collaboration. The two are lifelong friends, growing up together in Washington, D.C., and playing in the group the Triumphs.

After high school, guitarist Kaukonen and his government-service parents relocated to the Philippines, but he returned to the U.S. in time for the advent of psychedelia, landing in San Francisco and co-founding the Airplane in 1965. Casady joined not long after, and together they helped lead the group to massive success during the late '60s which also saw the creation of Hot Tuna.

The final electric tour of this iconic band is indeed an historic music event.

Tickets start at $59 (Members get $5 off). Tickets available at Bardavon and UPAC box offices - Tuesday-Friday 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Bardavon, (845) 473-5288, UPAC (845) 339-6088 or email at box-office@bardavon.org.

'Down by the Riverside' premiere September 27

"Down by the Riverside," a feature documentary about folk singer Pete Seeger's environmental legacy, will have its world premiere at the Woodstock Film Festival on September 27.

"Down by the Riverside," which runs 85 minutes, tells the story of Seeger's unconventional campaign to save the polluted Hudson River, starting with the 1969 launch of the Hudson River Sloop Clearwater, a 106-foot-long wooden replica sailboat built to bring people down to the water for free riverside concerts. The documentary includes exclusive and rarely seen archives, as well as extensive interviews with Seeger and other musicians who originally crewed the vessel. The film also pulls from over 800 hours of verite footage shot between 2012 and 2014, providing intimate access to Seeger and the Hudson Valley community he and his spouse Toshi anchored for over 40 years.

In 1969, Seeger declared, "If there's hope for the human race, then there's hope for Hudson."

The screening will take place at 7:30 p.m. at the historic Bearsville Theater and will open with a live musical performance by Linda Richards. A Q&A with the directors Jodie Childers and Dan Messina will follow.

East Fishkill Bridge dedicated to late NYPD officer

A law dedicating a Dutchess County bridge to Zone Sgt. James Sweeney, a former NYPD and State Police officer who lived in the Hudson Valley, was recently signed into law by Gov. Hochul. During his time as an officer, Sweeney served at Ground Zero and passed away in 2021 due to the lingering effects.

Assemblyman Anil Beephan said he is honored to have been part of recognizing this local hero.

"I am deeply honored to share that Governor Hochul has signed our bill paying tribute to the indomitable spirit of Zone Sergeant James G. Sweeney," Beephan said. "His sacrifice at Ground Zero, which eventually claimed his life, is a testament to his unwavering dedication. Today, twenty-two years after that tragic day, we proudly unveil the 'Zone Sergeant James G. Sweeney Memorial Bridge' in East Fishkill. This isn't just a bill; it's a symbol of resilience and remembrance, echoing the stories of thousands of victims. My heartfelt gratitude to Senator Rolison, Governor Hochul, and all who supported this endeavor."

The bill was carried in the state Senate by Sen. Rob Rolison.

"Zone Sergeant Sweeney's life was ordered and defined by service to his community and his state," Rolison said. "As a former Town of Poughkeepsie police officer who knew Sergeant Sweeney, I am honored to carry this bicameral legislation along with my colleague and friend Assemblyman Beephan designating an East Fishkill bridge and stretch of state highway in his memory. We must continue to support and honor those who sacrifice to protect us."

Ulster Savings Bank supports Bike for Cancer Care for 20 years

As the founding sponsor of Benedictine Health Foundation's Bike for Cancer Care, Ulster Savings Bank will be celebrated at their 20th anniversary, which takes place on September 24. Ulster Savings Bank, Bill Calderara, President and CEO, and John Finch, EVP and COO, will be honored at this event.

Since then, more than $1,000,000 in assistance has been given to over 2,500 individuals diagnosed with cancer.

"Rosemary Gruner was our inspiration. She taught us to work hard and take care of others. When she was sick, she saw a need. As her family, we found a way to help," said Ellen Gruner Arsenault.

As the Foundation's major fund-raiser, the Bike for Cancer Care Ride & Run is now in its twentieth year. It will start at the Freeman Building, 79 Hurley Avenue, Kingston.
