Serving meals during the holidays

“Meals on Wheels of Wappingers Falls has been delivering hot nutritious meals to seniors and shut-ins for 48 years. It was originated by a group of women representing the churches of the Village [of Wappingers Falls]. The women of The United Methodist Church saw the need and called a meeting. When it first started, they served 10 people and took prepared meals from the then Southern Dutchess Nursing Home on Mesier Ave. Today we serve 48 people and the meals are prepared by our cook in the kitchen of The First Presbyterian Church on South Ave. We serve a hot meal and if required a bag lunch five days a week, including holidays,” said Christina Contelmo, Volunteer Coordinator, Meals on Wheels of Wappingers Falls.

Contelmo said, “Our holiday meals are the traditional meal for that particular holiday.” For example, she said, on Thanksgiving there was the usual turkey and all the trimmings.

“Our volunteers (85) are scheduled to deliver one day a week or alternate weeks. We have six routes and each is covered by two people. On holidays fewer meals go out as many of our clients go to family dinners. The regularly scheduled people deliver unless they are unable. There are many people standing by to cover the route. It’s so festive with special napkins and cards made by Girl Scouts or school groups. At Christmas there will be something special from the Verplanck Garden Club,” noted Contelmo.

“At every end of year meeting, the garden club will take time to create a special gift to members of the local community. This year, our Vice President, Gail Whitefield, explored several opportunities, and decided on the Meals on Wheels program of Wappingers Falls,” said Verplanck Garden Club (VGC) President Katherine Gambino. “We are making small centerpieces of winter greens, housed in a reusable mini-loaf pan, to accompany the Meals on Wheels food deliveries. The VGC members bring in evergreens and pinecones from their gardens, and we work as a team to create something beautiful to adorn the recipients’ table. We’ve targeted various groups over the years, and the club really enjoys preparing the gifts. It’s a highlight of our year.”

Libby staff collects, presents stockings to area veterans

By Kristine Coulter

Stockings were delivered to local veterans for the holidays. Recently Joseph Schuka, funeral director for Libby Funeral Home in Beacon, and NYS Senator Sue Serino dropped off stockings at the VA Hudson Valley Health Care System campus at Castle Point.

Libby Funeral Home staff began collecting stockings for the veterans on Nov. 11, Veterans Day. Collection took place until Dec. 20.

“This is our fourth year,” said Schuka about collecting and distributing the stockings to the nation’s heroes. He noted that stockings are delivered to Castle Point and surrounding assisted living homes for veterans.

“Every year has been great (regarding the feedback). We’ve been able to collect the same number of stockings just about every year – close to 150 stockings,” remarked Schuka.

As for what the staff at Libby’s hopes veterans will think when they receive the stockings, Schuka replied, “I hope they know how much they are appreciated, and loved, especially those that feel lonely during the holidays and have no family.”

Putting together the stockings and receiving the donation helps put the community in the holiday spirit, said

County mobilizes efforts to help with staffing shortages

Signs like these are common all over Dutchess County as employers seek to fill openings.

-Photos by Curtis Schmidt

By Rich Thomaselli

The staffing shortage that has plagued the nation in recent months is very much an issue right here in our backyard.

Whereas employment issues are usually are classic cases of supply and demand – too many workers, not enough jobs – this is the complete opposite.

There are jobs and employers practically using sandwich boards and walking up and down Route 9 to advertise their open positions, but the COVID-19 pandemic has changed the landscape over the past 20 months for potential employees.

Some have taken buyouts, some have outright retired, some have gone back to school, some won’t take any job unless there’s a work-from-home component and still others, as one staffing expert told the Southern and Northern Dutchess News last week, won’t even consider a job unless it starts at $18 an hour.

“This,” says Louise McLoughlin, Executive Director at the Dutchess County Workforce Investment Board, “is definitely uncharted waters.”

To that end, the County is mobilizing its efforts much as it did when the pandemic first hit. Only now they’re trying to marry an apparent apathetic workforce with hopeful employers.

Dutchess County agencies are working together and with outside groups to try to alleviate the problem, which has continued to grow even though the extra unemployment benefits expired in September.

McLoughlin and the Workforce Investment Board for instance partnered with the Dutchess County Regional

Annual Firemen's Christmas Stocking Giveaway

Beacon Sophisticated Sista's of the Red Hat Society honor veterans

For the 41st year in a row, four students in the Beacon City School District were presented with the annual Firemen's Christmas Stockings. This year's winners, one from each of the four elementary schools in the district, each received a five-foot stocking filled with gifts including a smoke detector. The annual event is sponsored by the volunteer firefighters of Lewis Tompkins Hose Fire Co., Beacon Engine Co., Mase Hook & Ladder Co., Dutchess Junction Fire Co. and Slater Chemical Fire Co. This year's winners were: Evan Pantojas of Glenham Elementary, Natalia Garcia of J.V. Forrestal Elementary, Luis Jimenez Bueso of South Ave. Elementary and Sophia Eldermire of Sargent Elementary. Posing with the children is Lewis Tompkins Hose member Bob Simmonds.

Firefighters and organizers offer their sincere thanks to Peg Badami who made the stockings for this event.

County participates in statewide STOP-DWI holiday season enforcement effort

Police agencies throughout Dutchess County are participating in a special enforcement effort to crack down on impaired driving to coincide with the holiday season. The statewide STOP-DWI High Visibility Engagement Campaign effort started on Friday, Dec. 17, 2021 and will conclude on Saturday, Jan. 1, 2022.

The Dutchess County Sheriff's Office, New York State Police and municipal law enforcement agencies will collaborate across the state and will be out in force in this coordinated effort to reduce the number of alcohol-related injuries and deaths during this period.

According to the U.S. Department of Transportation's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, 210 lives were lost nationwide in alcohol-impaired driving crashes during the Christmas to New Year's Day holiday period in 2019. The number of impaired drivers on Christmas and New Year's Day is expected to increase this year, as both holidays fall on a Saturday.

The Dutchess County Sheriff's Office, New York State Police and municipal law enforcement agencies will collaborate across the state and will be out in force in this coordinated effort to reduce the number of alcohol-related injuries and deaths during this period.

Always giving back - O'Hanlon enjoys role as 'real beard Santa'

By Jim Donick

A Pleasant Valley military veteran has found another way to give back and to serve the community. Former U.S. Marine Keith O'Hanlon has taken on the role of Santa Claus for all sorts of community organizations, families, and veterans events.

Along with his girlfriend, confidant, and partner in holiday cheer, Terri Brundage, he and she have created a Santa and Mrs. Claus partnership that has been raising large sums of money for the local food pantry in Pleasant Valley and bringing joy to countless families and events over the last five or six years.

They make stops around the county when invited. They only ask for a donation to the food pantry, either cash or food. Cash allows the food pantry folks to get turkeys and hams for distribution close to the holiday as they have limited cold storage.

It all started when somebody was looking for a Santa Claus for a veterans families affair at Liberty Station.

"It was my first time," O'Hanlon said.

"I didn't know how I would do or even what I would do. As I walked in, though, something happened. I started the 'ho, ho, ho' and my voice took on a whole new sound. It was Santa Claus."

A little girl of about five spotted him.

"She came running right up and gave me a big hug and walked me into the room. She just wanted to be with me. At that point, I realized I had another calling."

Blessed with a perfectly "Santa Clausian" beard, O'Hanlon looks the part even when not wearing his Santa Suit. With what they call in the trade, a "real beard Santa," he arrives in a beautiful European or Victorian costume.

"I didn't want to look like the Coca-Cola Santa," he said. Instead, his red velvet suit and demi-cape give him an air of times far away and long ago.

O'Hanlon doesn't do the Santa gig just for fun. He asks anyone who invites him to come to provide a donation for the Pleasant Valley Food Pantry. That donation can be in the form of cash or of foodstuffs.

Sometimes Santa doesn't come in a sleigh. Sometimes he comes in a two-and-a-half ton vintage military truck.

Pleasant Valley military veteran Keith O'Hanlon has been Santa Claus to many veterans and families throughout the county. Here he is pictured at the Pleasant Valley Veterans War Memorial.

"So far this season," O'Hanlon said. "We've gotten nearly $8,000 in donations of food and cash."

Playing at or, maybe really being Santa has left O'Hanlon with a wealth of stories.

"I'll never forget this little girl of about four years old," he recalled. "She came up on my lap with a pacifier in her mouth and started to talk. I don't know why, but as I looked at her I said 'you know it would be so much easier for Santa to see your pretty smile if you took that (pacifier) out of your mouth.' She popped it right out and gave me a smile that lit up the whole room. Later her grandfather, who brought her, came up to me and said, 'I don't know what you said to her, but we've never been able to get her to take that out of her mouth. THANK YOU.'"

O'Hanlon reports a recent event where he was given $300 and the participants also filled the entire bed of his pickup truck with foodstuffs. This past Sunday, Dec. 19, O'Hanlon had some volunteer elves joining him and Mrs. Claus, along with his two-and-a-half ton military truck, Lucy Duecey, in the parking lot of the ACME store in Pleasant Valley. Kids and families could have a photo with Santa and they were asked to donate food for the food pantry.

"We are hoping to fill an entire 'deuce and a half' for the food pantry to distribute over the holidays," he said a few days earlier.

It's been an interesting move from wearing olive drab or camouflage to wearing red velvet and deploying his great white beard, but Marine Keith O'Hanlon is still serving where he's needed.

Serino to State: 'Every penny' from Cuomo book proceeds should go to 'victims' of pandemic policies

To the Editor:

[Now] that Andrew Cuomo must return proceeds from his pandemic book deal, I believe every penny that the disgraced former Governor profited off of New Yorkers' pain should be directed to the victims of his dangerous pandemic policies, like the many families who lost loved ones in New York's nursing homes.

While no amount of money will ever bring these residents back, I urge Attorney General James to take this opportunity to put these misbegotten funds to work to acknowledge their pain, and to send a strong message to New Yorkers that no public official should be able to leverage their office to personally profit off the backs of those they serve.

For those of us who have spent months pushing for accountability, the New York State Joint Commission on Public Ethics' decision is a step in the right direction. However, the Commission remains deeply flawed, and through its inaction on this issue, the Legislature has remained complicit in allowing its pervasive dysfunction to continue.

We will not stop pushing for the full transparency, answers, justice and accountability that these families, and all New Yorkers, deserve.

COVID-19 update

Mandate compliance - Molinaro urges civility toward business employees

By Kate Goldsmith

Reacting to a holiday surge combined with two highly infectious variants in circulation (Delta and Omicron), Gov. Kathy Hochul on Dec. 10 issued a mandate requiring masks to be worn in all indoor public places unless the establishment requires proof of complete vaccination. Dutchess and at least 30 other counties in New York have said they don't have the resources to enforce the mandate; although in Dutchess, at least, County Executive Marc Molinaro and the Department of Behavioral and Community Health (DBCH) continue to focus on educational efforts, testing and hosting vaccination clinics to encourage residents to minimize the risk to themselves and others.

During his latest Facebook Town Hall on Dec. 16, Molinaro continued to encourage residents to get vaccinated (while stressing that it is a personal choice) and took some time to discuss reports of individuals venting their anger over Gov. Hochul's mask mandate on employees of local businesses.

Molinaro pointed out that businesses who do not require proof of vaccination must, under New York State public health law, comply with the mask mandate. He added that Dutchess County government "is not going to engage in the enforcement," but will continue its education and outreach.

The County Executive implored residents not to take out their anger on employees who are only doing their jobs.

"They are advising you of what the New York State health order is," he said. "We have to respect each other ... We cannot accept abuse or violence or hatred [toward those] working in these businesses or establishments."

Molinaro added, "If we're going to protest our views, protest in a civil way," by contacting the officials who are actually creating these edicts.

"There are ordinary residents, our friends and neighbors, who are truly under great pressure just trying to do the right thing," and warned that law enforcement will be engaged if situations become combative.

Hospitalizations being watched

Data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) indicate the risk of COVID-19 infection for unvaccinated individuals in Dutchess County is "high." According to the county's COVID-19 Dashboard, hospitalization rates due to COVID-19 have increased by 60 percent (from 40 on Nov. 25 to 64 as of Dec. 16, the latest data available as this paper went to press). While the county reports that most of those hospitalized (75 percent) are either unvaccinated or partially vaccinated, 25 percent of fully vaccinated individuals are among those 64. As of Dec. 16, there were 1,325 active cases in Dutchess.

"While we're seeing an increase we are not alarmed by the hospitalizations at the moment," said Molinaro, but the Dutchess' Department of Behavioral and Community Health (DBCH) is keeping a close eye on the numbers, he said.

From Thanksgiving to Dec. 16, there were also 18 additional deaths related to COVID-19, bringing the number to 523. According to the CDC, that means 1 in 527 county residents have been lost to the virus.

Doctors at two local hospitals noted the situation is compounded by normal seasonal ailments.

Dr. William Begg, Vice President of Medical Affairs, Vassar Brothers Medical Center, said, "Cold and flu season is here, and at the same time, our county's COVID-19 hospitalizations are on the rise. The governor's mask mandate - in addition to getting a vaccine booster - is a smart step that we can all take to further protect ourselves and our loved ones from spreading COVID-19, influenza, RSV and other illnesses. We should take every precaution to prevent unnecessary hospitalizations and deaths, especially as the holiday season is here."

Dr. W. Andrew Wilson, vice president, medical affairs, Northern Dutchess Hospital said, "Dutchess County hospitalizations today are at about 50 percent of where we were last December (106 on 12/14/2020), so we know vaccines are helping; and the best thing we can do is to get fully vaccinated or, if eligible, a COVID-19 booster before we gather again this Christmas and New Year.

"That said, throughout the pandemic, we have required staff, patients and visitors to wear a mask inside the hospital because it's just one more way we can protect each other. We encourage our community to do their part in staying healthy: Mask up, socially distance, get tested if you have any COVID-19 symptoms and follow all the state and federal guidelines, including the governor's mask mandate. When cases come down, we can unmask again without worries."

Molinaro said the county "will continue to engage with the state. They don't want to compel counties to enforce this mandate."

Blood donors needed during holiday season

Nearly two years into the pandemic, everyone has earned a holiday break with their family and friends. But as the nation gathers again for celebrations this season, the American Red Cross, which provides 40% of the country's blood, is facing historically low blood supply levels.

Donors are urged to schedule an appointment now by using the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting RedCrossBlood.org or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767). There is no blood donation waiting period for those who have received a flu shot or a Moderna, Pfizer or Johnson & Johnson COVID-19 vaccine or booster, so long as they are symptom-free.

To encourage donors to help address the historically low blood supply this holiday season, all who come to give Dec. 17-Jan. 2 will receive an exclusive Red Cross long-sleeved T-shirt, while supplies last.

Serino names Alyssa Carrion to Veterans' Hall of Fame

This Veterans Day, Sen. Sue Serino announced that retired United States Army Capt. Alyssa Carrion has been inducted to the New York State Senate's Veterans' Hall of Fame. Carrion currently serves as the Program Manager for Mental Health America of Dutchess County's Veterans Housing, Employment, Reintegration and Outreach Program, which aims to help homeless veterans throughout Dutchess County.

"Alyssa continuously goes above and beyond to help veterans throughout Dutchess County by using her own personal experiences," said Serino. "Since meeting her, I knew she was a trailblazer in every sense of the word and have been in awe of the incredible work that she does each and every day for our veteran community. It is an honor to be able to induct her into the New York State Senate's Veterans' Hall of Fame and to recognize her for the admirable work that she does to help our local heroes. Alyssa has touched so many lives, and I cannot thank her enough for her selflessness and dedication."

Each year, state senators are given the opportunity to induct one individual from their district into the New York State Senate's Veterans' Hall of Fame to honor their dedicated service both in the military and in their community through civilian life. While inductees are typically invited to the State Capitol for an in-person ceremony in the Spring, in an abundance of caution, this year's event was held virtually.

According to a biography provided for the event, following graduation from Carmel High School, Carrion went on to attend the United States Military Academy at West Point where she earned a Bachelor's Degree in Spanish and Portuguese. Upon completing her degree in 2004, Carrion then went on to serve in the United States Army as a commissioned officer until 2009, and then completed her Army Reserve commitment in 2012. Carrion received the rank of Captain.

Carrion was deployed to Egypt in 2006 during Operation Iraqi Freedom where she served as a Platoon Leader for the 571st Military Police Company. She then went on to serve as the Operations Officer for the 80th Ordnance Battalion and the Executive Officer for the 508th MP Detachment.

While in the service, Carrion earned the Global War on Terrorism Expeditionary Medal, Army Achievement Medal, two Army Commendation Medals and a Meritorious Service Medal for her exemplary service.

Upon retirement, Carrion received a Bachelor of Science degree in Speech and Hearing Sciences from the University of Washington and a Paralegal Certificate from Boston University.

Efforts to combat staffing shortages

Chamber of Commerce in October on a job fair that drew more than 250 participants.

"I think one thing we learned was that business owners are going to have to look beyond the traditional worker," McLoughlin said. "I think we have youth and young people who want to work. I think we have people with disabilities, and their employment rate is extremely high. I think we have seniors who really do have a lot of knowledge to impart that want to come back to the workforce."

The Workforce Investment Board is also working with the Think Dutchess Alliance. In fact, the Alliance's CEO, Sarah Lee, said other partners include the Chamber of Commerce, Dutchess Community College, Dutchess Tourism and the Council of Industry.

"We are trying to connect businesses with employees that meet their workforce and talent needs, including holding job fairs and connecting employers to employee training resources and micro-credentialing that help people looking for work or looking for career pivots to be prepared to work in changing fields," she said.

Tourism is a big part of that. If you stop and think about it, every employee of every hotel and motel in the country is working in a travel-related capacity, as is every docent at a museum or homestead, every restaurant worker, every car rental employee, every person in an antique store, workers in amusement parks, and so on.

It's a huge industry in Dutchess County and the greater Hudson Valley at large.

"Even before the pandemic it was a challenge to find workers in this industry but it's a challenge of perception," explained Melaine Rottkamp, CEO of Dutchess Tourism Inc. "A lot of people think of jobs in travel and tourism as entry-level, low-paying jobs. That's not always true, but even if that's how you start, careers in tourism and hospitality can lead to a fulfilling lifelong career and skills that are transferable."

Dutchess Tourism is doing its part by using monies that the County received from the American Rescue Plan funds to start two entities – one is a certified tourism ambassador program, and the other is for visitor engagement. These are classes that are offered free of charge that will begin in April for anyone who is a Dutchess County resident or who works in Dutchess County tourism who is interested in learning the travel and tourism business.

"If we can train people before they even get to a job, that helps our businesses and it helps the employee," Rottkamp said. "Look, there's been a confluence of factors that have contributed to this situation. It's going to take a confluence of factors to help solve it."

Democratic caucus elects Valdés-Smith, Atkins as minority leaders

In a unanimous vote, the Democratic caucus of the Dutchess County Legislature elected Yvette Valdés Smith (District 16, Fishkill/Beacon) and Barrington Atkins (District 10, City of Poughkeepsie) as Minority Leader and Assistant Leader for 2022-2023 during its meeting on Dec. 13.

According to a statement from the Democratic caucus, they will represent the first team of legislators of color to lead a caucus in County History.

Incoming Legislator Valdés Smith said, "I am honored to be a part of this caucus and to play a leadership role. Our caucus is comprised of true public servants who will continue to do the work of the people. And, I have the deepest respect for Legislator Atkins. As a Puerto Rican and an African American, we will lead together and ensure that we are voices not only for those of us who have been historically disenfranchised, but for our entire community."

Legislator Atkins said, "Together we will work for the greater good. I am proud to serve Dutchess County alongside Legislator Valdés Smith and this amazing caucus. This work requires tireless efforts to advance the ideals held true by our party and the communities we represent. While in the minority of the legislature, our voices will not be silenced, and we will not be rolled over in a 'business as usual' fashion. We are innovators, we are smart, we are hard-working, we know and understand our strengths as well as our weaknesses, and we will hold everyone accountable for the lawmaking process."

Valdés Smith is a former public school teacher and "proud union member" who lives in Fishkill with her husband and two children. She holds two Master's degrees in Education. She has served on the Environmental Management Council, volunteered with her local PTO, and helps run a local environmental education center.

A City of Poughkeepsie native, Atkins holds a Master's degree in social work, with a focus on youth mental health, from Howard University. His legislative priorities have included better outreach and services to youth and strategies to address gun violence as a public health threat, especially on Poughkeepsie's Northside. Atkins has sponsored mental health community trainings and events as well as serving on the county's Police Modernization and Reform Task Force.

County launches school bus safety effort; Pine Plains first district to implement program

Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro announced the County has partnered with BusPatrol to launch a school bus safety program, tackling the issue of motorists illegally passing stopped school buses. As part of the partnership, more than 1,000 school buses across Dutchess County have access to advanced safety technology at zero cost to local taxpayers, including stop-arm cameras to help enforce traffic laws and educate motorists on the dangers of passing school buses.

The Pine Plains Central School District is the first in Dutchess County to implement the program across its entire fleet of 38 school buses; several other local districts are expected to join the program in the coming year. The program will commence with an initial warning period: Effective today, motorists who illegally pass a stopped Pine Plains school bus equipped with these cameras will receive a warning until Jan. 12, 2022. Starting Jan. 13, 2022, drivers who do so will receive a citation and fine in the mail.

Molinaro said, "The safety and well-being of Dutchess County's children is a shared responsibility, one in which we all play a role, and that includes in our homes, in our schools and on our roads. Passing a stopped school bus is more than illegal, it's dangerous and threatens the lives of young students every day. Dutchess County will not tolerate such reckless conduct, and today's partnership with BusPatrol codifies our intent to keep students safe: If you illegally pass a school bus, risking children's safety, be prepared to pay the penalty."

Dutchess County has communicated with several other local districts, which are expected to join the program in early 2022, utilizing this potentially life-saving technology to protect thousands more local students.

According to the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee, an estimated 50,000 motorists illegally pass stopped school buses every day in New York State, putting the lives and safety of children at risk.

Dr. Martin Handler, Pine Plains Schools Superintendent, said, "The safety of our students is a top priority, and the Pine Plains Central School District is eager to protect students from motorists who flout the law and illegally drive around a stopped school bus. Pine Plains is proud to be the first local school district to take part in the County's partnership with BusPatrol and take an active role in protecting our students. We are certain this partnership will improve student safety, and it has the potential to save lives."

In addition to stop-arm cameras, school districts have access to additional safety technology including:

- Cloud-managed, 360-degree safety cameras (interior, windshield, rearview and side-load) to provide a full view of activity surrounding the school bus;
- Emergency response solutions to enable student transportation, school, and law enforcement officials to respond immediately; and
- GPS, routing and telemetry solutions to see where buses are located at any given time.

The technology, installation and maintenance of all hardware and software included in the BusPatrol Student Safety Platform are provided at no cost to the school district and taxpayers. The program is entirely funded by violators over a five-year term.

Jean Souliere, CEO and Founder of BusPatrol, said, "Our safety programs are helping to promote a safer driving culture across the state of New York. We want to create a reflex in drivers, so that every time they see a big yellow bus on the road, they slow down and prepare to stop. That simple action could help save the life of a child."

Rep. Sean Patrick Maloney (NY-18) joined local veterans and leaders from the National Purple Heart Honor Mission and Purple Heart Hall of Honor at the Castle Point VA to unveil the design of the Purple Heart Commemorative Coins which will be produced as a result of Rep. Maloney's bill, The National Purple Heart Hall of Honor Commemorative Coin Act.

"We can never do enough to thank the veterans who put their lives on the line to protect and defend our nation. But, we can ensure their service and sacrifices are never forgotten. That is why, for years, I have led the effort create the Purple Heart Commemorative Coins, which will ensure our veterans stories are preserved for generations to come," said Rep. Maloney. "Today, we finally unveiled the design of the Purple Heart Commemorative Coins which will forever honor the service of America's Purple Heart recipients and support the critical work done at the National Purple Heart Hall of Honor to tell their stories. I am proud that New York's 18th Congressional District is leading the way in honoring our veterans as we are home to both the National Purple Heart Hall of Honor and the West Point Mint where the coins will be produced."

"Today is truly a historic day and what a great place for us to unveil these coins. These coins are befitting Purple Heart recipients. They were done out of love. They were done out of care. And they were done out of dedication to honoring all those that received the Purple Heart," said Retired Corporal Richie Lay, Board Chairman of the National Purple Heart Honor Mission. "We have to thank the artists and the people who did this at the Mint. But there's one person and one person only, and he's in the back of me. [...] We did it and we did it because of his tenacity. So now, Congressman 'bulldog' Maloney, we thank you."

"These guys and gals, now, really are my kids. They're mine. And I want them to have the best. They gave the best. And they deserve to come and heal. And this last group that we had, it was so amazing to see the healing that happened - just them talking to each other, just the places that we went. It was amazing," said Retired 1st Lt. Edie Meeks, Board Secretary of the National Purple Heart Honor Mission.

The National Purple Heart Hall of Honor Commemorative Coin Act was signed into law on December 22, 2020.

Multiple agencies perform mine rescue in Dover

At 1:32 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 14, J.H. Ketcham Hose Company and Town of Dover Ambulance were dispatched to Wingdale Materials on Pleasant Ridge Road for a 40-year-old male trapped in machinery within the mine. Shortly afterward, a mutual aide request for additional resources was made, bringing Town of Amenia Ambulance, and the Technical Rescue Team from Arlington Fire District, LaGrange Fire District and City of Poughkeepsie Fire Department. A helicopter from LifeNet was called to standby at the scene to airlift the victim once he was removed from the mine.

By 2 p.m. rescuers from J.H. Ketcham and Arlington had entered approximately 2500 feet into the mine and made contact with the victim. He was conscious and alert, trapped inside the cab of his excavator by a large boulder that had dislodged from the mine's wall, landing on the machinery.

Technical Rescue Technicians from Arlington, LaGrange and City of Poughkeepsie worked to stabilize the estimated 40-50 ton boulder and then extricate the patient from the machinery. Throughout the extrication, the patient received Advanced Life Support care from LaGrange and Arlington paramedics.

The patient was extricated from the cab approximately 1 hour and 15 minutes from initial contact. He was transferred to LifeNet and air-lifted to Westchester Medical Center with non-life-threatening injuries to both legs and one hand.
