A window on the American Revolution

Veeder's work on abandoned cemetery reveals historic information

by Jim Donick

An abandoned cemetery in the Netherwood area of Pleasant Valley has reminded the community of the role of Dutchess County people in the American Revolution.

Former Pleasant Valley Town Supervisor Gary Veeder tells how he and his wife, Pam, would drive by the small old and overgrown cemetery and he'd say to her, "Somebody ought to clean that up and make it nice again." One day, after years of that reaction, and driving by, he said to her, "I'm somebody; maybe I should do it."

Thus began a multi-year effort of historic research that isn't done yet. It has also been a serious project of clearing the overgrowth, finding the collapsed headstones and repairing and putting them back where they belonged. Veeder is not done yet, but the old cemetery is regaining some of its dignity.

In the course of his research, Veeder learned that the cemetery had been established on a quarter of an acre by one Anthony Badgley. There are several generations of his family there, but Badgley, himself, was the key to looking back into the American Revolution.

His headstone had been knocked over, but not broken. Upon setting it back up and cleaning it, the inscription came to light. It states: "In memory of Anthony Badgley who died October 12, 1810 Age 89 y. 3 Mo. 10 d."

Who was this man, Veeder wondered? And thus began further research to learn more about him.

Anthony Badgley had acquired the property, which was at that time still part of the Town of Clinton. (Pleasant Valley and Hyde Park were created in 1831 when the Town of Clinton was subdivided.) He owned a considerable amount of land in Clinton and set aside one quarter of an acre to be used as a cemetery where

Barn fire in Red Hook wreaks destruction, garners community support

GoFundMe campaign for Migliorelli Farm under way

by Kate Goldsmith

In the early morning hours of May 19, a barn fire at Migliorelli Farm in Red Hook destroyed multiple buildings, vehicles, equipment and ready-to-sell products, according to a GoFundMe page set up to assist the farm with its losses.

The Tivoli Fire Department's Facebook page stated: "Shortly after 2 a.m. this morning [Friday, May 19], Tivoli Fire Department along with Red Hook Fire Company under automatic mutual aid was dispatched to a possible barn fire on Linden Farm Road in Red Hook. First arriving crew members arrived to heavy fire, involving multiple interconnected buildings. Command quickly called for additional manpower and tankers due to the lack of initial water sources."

According to the Facebook statement, the structure was being used for storage of hay, grain, machinery, equipment, and was home to a local brewery.

Katherine Hardeman, organizer of the GoFundMe drive, noted the destruction involved "Products such as hay for his [Migliorelli's] horse customers and mulch delivered in hopes to plant tomatoes, eggplants, and peppers this upcoming week. An International truck fully loaded with the farm's last load of rye, queued to be delivered this morning to a local distillery. And additionally, fertilizer which was needed to be put down today for corn and mixed vegetables before this week's rain."

Renegades struggle in losses to Wilmington and Brooklyn

by Rich Thonaselli

It's official. They are slumping.

The Hudson Valley Renegades lost to the Brooklyn Cyclones, 6-1, on Friday night, for their third loss in four games.

It was also the sixth loss in the last eight games for the Renegades. The lone bright spot of the week came in the second game of a doubleheader on Sunday night when the Renegades grabbed a 3-2 extra-inning walkoff win over Brooklyn.

They are struggling to hold on to first place in the North Division of the South Atlantic League.

The team was scheduled to start a sixth-game trip to Wilmington on Tuesday.

On Friday, the Renegades just could not come up with the clutch hit.

After Juan Carela (1-2) stranded a pair of Cyclones in the first inning, Hudson Valley nearly jumped on the board in the second. After Yoander Suárez (1-2) issued a one-out walk to Aaron Palensky, Grant Richardson singled to center to put runners on the corners with one out. However, Suárez induced Eduardo Torreabla to hit into an inning-ending double play to keep the Renegades scoreless.

The game remained scoreless until the bottom of the fifth when Richardson led off with a solo home run to left-center to put Hudson Valley up 1-0. It was the third round-tripper of the season for he, his wife, Sarah, and many descendants are buried. The quarter acre came to be known as "The Badgley Ground."

It appears that many old family cemeteries are referred to by the family name and the word "ground." Thus there might be the "Haight Ground," or the "McCann Ground" had those families created a family cemetery on their properties.

There are generations of Anthony Badgley's family buried in this cemetery in the Netherwood area, likely over 40 graves. Badgley's wife and at least one son are near his grave. Others are scattered across the entire quarter acre.

Their tombstones, in some cases, tell a little about them. Perhaps the most sad is a small white marble stone that reads: "Our Little Mary Ella, dau. of George R. & Alletta E. Vail. Died Feb 21, 1861. Aged 5 yrs 5 m's 6 d's." Above the inscription a small flower has been engraved. Veeder has cleaned this one carefully. It's white marble now, almost as pure as it was 160 years ago.

Anthony Badgley's story is slowly coming back to life. He was born in Flushing, Queens and was orphaned before he was 10 years old. He was raised by a cousin and her husband, who moved with him to Dutchess County. By 1769, he had become a landowner in Clinton with extensive holdings.

When the revolution began, Anthony Badgley pledged his life and his goods to the cause of independence and took up arms. Research indicates that he was an officer, a Captain with the Dutchess County Militia, Fourth Regiment. The Dutchess County Militia could refer to one of two different units.

There was a local Militia unit that defended the area, guarded military supplies and, among other engagements, fought in the Battle of White Plains. They deterred foraging British troops coming north to steal food and supplies to feed an ever more isolated New York City. They were also critical to the task of keeping the British from moving north from New York City in the attempt to conquer the entire Hudson Valley and cut off New England from the rest of the colonies. This British effort came to an end with their defeat at Saratoga. But their need to secure supplies for New York City continued.

There is another 4th Regiment of Militia often identified as Dutchess. In 1775, the New York Assembly authorized the creation of a Militia. The 4th Regiment of the State Militia was raised in Dutchess County and was referred to for some time as the 4th (Dutchess) Regiment. Some of the Dutchess men could have easily served in that unit as well as doing a short stint in the more local militia.

The 4th Regiment, with one of its 10 companies coming from Dutchess County, went north in the late spring of 1775 after Ticonderoga had been taken from the British. They were a part of the forces led by Brigadier Richard Montgomery, another Dutchess County resident, who lived in Rhinebeck with his wife, Janet Livingston.

The Irish-born Montgomery was an experienced and respected officer of the British Army. When he married Miss Livingston and settled in Dutchess County, he came to share the political feelings of her family that the colonies were being ill-treated by Parliament and, like his in-laws, he came to favor independence.

When George Washington was forming a Continental Army, the Congress asked New York to name two Generals to help lead it and specifically to lead the New Yorkers who would form a part of it. The New York Assembly nominated Philip Schuyler as Major General and Richard Montgomery as Brigadier. In June of that year they headed north to garrison Ticonderoga, lest the British return and to hold the northern approaches to the Hudson Valley. Schuyler, an older man, became ill; and Montgomery, his much more experienced second in command, ensured the success of their assignment both logically and militarily.

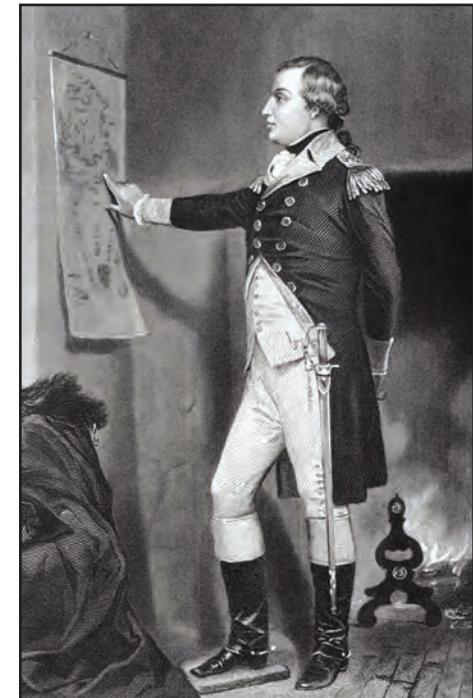

Late in the summer, Schuyler and Montgomery were ordered north to try and deal with the British in Canada. Many had assumed the Canadians would join their cousins to the south in seeking independence. Schuyler took ill and Montgomery assumed command.

The men of Dutchess County served as an important part of his army. They took Montreal, but failed in the attempt to take Quebec. Montgomery fell leading his troops in the assault along with many of the Dutchess County troops. The army fell back to New York State. Montgomery, still respected by his former comrades of the British Army, was buried with honor in Quebec. The New Yorkers reformed the unit and went on to fight at Saratoga, and other battles up to the final victory.

Possibly the saddest tombstone in the entire Badgley Ground Cemetery is this one to 5-year-old Mary Ella Vail. The stone has been cleaned with care and the little girl will not be forgotten. Photo by Jim Donick. Right: General Richard Montgomery of Rhinebeck was one of the first generals of the Continental Army. He commanded the troops at Ticonderoga after it fell to the Americans and then led the assault northward toward Canada. Courtesy image Where exactly did Captain Anthony Badgley serve? That question is still being studied. Whichever role he played, local militia leader or Captain in the larger New York Militia, his grave in the old "Badgley Ground" is being restored to the honor that his memory deserves.

The GoFundMe campaign has already exceeded its goal of $77,000 and as of Monday morning was climbing steadily. To donate, go to <https://www.gofundme.com/f/migliorelli-farm-fire>.

More than a dozen fire companies and emergency agencies worked for hours to extinguish the building contents, the Tivoli Fire Department reported in its Facebook post. By 11 a.m. the final companies on site were able to return to service.

"Great job to the firefighters who were able to save a couple baby raccoons," stated a separate post on the Fire Department's Facebook page.

Assisting the Tivoli Fire Department were the Red Hook Fire Department, Germantown Fire Department, Clermont Fire Department, Rhinebeck Fire Department, Milan Fire Department, Hillside Fire Department, West Clinton Fire Department, East Clinton Fire Department, Ulster Hose, Rhinecliff Fire Department, Livingston Fire Department, Greenport Fire Department, Claverack Fire District, Taghkanic Fire Company, City of Hudson Fire Department, Dutchess County 911, Dutchess County Fire Investigation, & Dutchess County Sheriff's Office and a vintage drafting fire truck from Migliorelli Farms.

The Red Hook Ladies Auxiliary provided coffee and donuts, and Bard College provided hot breakfast for the firefighters.

Hardeman said, "Migliorelli Farm is a family-run farm that has been a staple to Red Hook and surrounding Hudson Valley communities. They have shown support by serving on several town committees and various donations to local functions throughout the years. ... I am hoping that the community can come together and donate in efforts to aid Migliorelli in their time of need."

Voters approve local district budgets

compiled by Kate Goldsmith

All school districts in the Northern Dutchess News readership area saw their budgets approved on May 16. The eight districts presented budgets carrying a tax-levy increase at, or below, their mandated cap, requiring only a simple majority to pass.

The tax levy increases listed for each district represent an average. The actual tax impact will vary from town to town, based on assessed values, STAR values and equalization rates that will be finalized in August. In addition, residents should know that there is no direct correlation between the tax levy increase and the amount of the increase in their individual tax bills.

Please note: Numbers have been rounded to the nearest hundred-thousandth; for example, $230,574,118 would be $230.6 million.

ARLINGTON

Arlington Central School District's $256.3 million budget passed by a count of 1,828 to 756. The budget has a 6.51% year-to-year increase. The $2.8 million (1.85%) tax levy increase is under the district's tax levy cap of 2.05%.

Voters approved a $2.2 million bus and equipment proposition by a count of 1,803 to 774. According to the district's website, bus costs totaling $2,147,000 are eligible for state transportation aid at the rate of 70%, making the local share $644,100.

Eileen Snook, Linda Gaines and Jeff Haight were elected to the Board of Education.

Visit www.arlingtongschools.org for more information.

DOVER

Dover Union Free School District's $41 million budget was approved by a count of 279 to 70. It carries an increase of $3.7 million (9.97%) over last year. The tax levy increase is $2.1 million, which translates to a 6.87% decrease, and which will result in a decrease in property taxes for the second year in a row. In 2022, Dover district taxpayers saw a 1.07% decrease in their property taxes.

Erin McCarthy and Philip Calabroto were elected to the Board of Education for five-year terms, commencing July 1, 2023 and expiring June 30, 2028. Natasha Merritt will fill an unexpired 3-year, six week term, commencing May 17, 2023 and expiring June 30, 2026.

Contact District Clerk Nicole Wilkinson at (845) 877-5700, ext. 1282, or email Nicole.Wilkinson@doverschools.org for more information.

HYDE PARK

Voters approved Hyde Park Central School District's $115.3 million budget by a count of 1,573 to 741. The budget carries an increase of 8.97% over last year. The tax levy is $68.4 million, an increase of 3.7% over last year, falling just within the 2023-2024 tax levy limit.

A proposition to replace school buses passed by a narrower margin, 1,173 to 1,004. State aid will pay for nearly 65% of the purchase, making the net to taxpayers $457,972.

A proposition to continue to allow a student to serve on the School Board as a non-voting member was overwhelmingly approved by a count of 2,081 to 454.

Board of Education candidates Jesslyn Hollar received 1,941 votes and Mike Tibbets received 2,073 votes for the two open seats.

Visit www.hpcsd.org for more information.

MILLBROOK

Millbrook Central School District's $34 million budget passed with a 212 to 58 vote. The budget carries a $1.3 million (4.11%) increase over last year, with a tax levy increase of approximately $834,191 (3.28%), which is at the district's calculated tax levy limit.

Board of Education incumbents Howard Shapiro (218 votes) and Christopher Rosenbergen (219 votes) were re-elected to serve three-year terms beginning July 1, 2023 and ending June 30, 2026.

Visit www.millbrookcsd.org for more information.

PINE PLAINS

Pine Plains Central School District's $36.4 million budget was approved by a count of 422 to 137. It carries a 3.3% increase over 2022-2023. The resulting tax levy increase of 2.8% is within the tax-levy limit.

A proposition to purchase two 71-passenger buses at a cost of $303,994 also passed 394 to 161.

Board of Education incumbents Heidi Johnson and James Griffin retained their seats; Johnson received 455 votes and Griffin received 463 votes. There were also several write-in candidates who received a total of 64 votes.

Visit www.ppcsd.org for more information.

RED HOOK

Red Hook Central School District's proposed budget of $60.3 million passed by a count of 1,048 to 380. It reflects a 3.38% increase over last year. The proposed tax levy of $38.4 million carries a 4.55% increase over 2022-2023, and is below the district's tax levy limit.

A transportation proposition passed by a count of 747 to 676.

A proposition to establish a Capital Reserve Fund was approved 1,054 to 367.

Red Hook Library's budget was approved by a count of 1,038 to 392.

Tivoli Free Library's budget was approved by a count of 1,056 to 371.

A proposition to continue having a (non-voting) student member serve on the Board of Education passed 1,202 to 228.

There were two open seats on the Board of Education. Voters re-elected Russ Crafton with 926 votes and Kate Korbus with 822 votes. Fernando Dongo received 380 votes and Charles Kachigian received 488 votes.

Visit www.redhookcentschools.org for more information.

RHINEBECK

The Rhinebeck Central School District presented a $38.9 million budget to voters, which was approved by a count of 423 to 93. It carries a 4.5% increase over last year. The tax levy of $32.8 reflects a 2.73% increase, putting it below the district's tax levy limit of 3.37%.

A proposition to establish a capital reserve fund passed 433 to 81.

Rose Ann Serpico (440 votes) and Amanda Miller-McGrath (435 votes) were elected to three year terms on the Board of Education.

WEBUTUCK

Webutuck Central School District's $25 million budget passed by a count of 136 to 44. It carries a 3.73% budget-to-budget increase. The tax levy is $17.6 million, a 3.95% increase over last year and below the allowable cap of 4.95%.

The transportation proposition to purchase two 65-passenger buses was approved by a count of 128 to 52.

The proposition to establish a $10 million capital reserve account passed 127 to 52. The fund would use excess fund balance to fund capital reserve over a period of 10 years. There would be no requirement to fund every year or at all, if excess fund balance is not available.

The four vacancies on the Board of Education have been filled by Rick Keller Coffey (135 votes), Judy Moran (137 votes), Aimee Wesley (150 votes) and Jerry Heiser (143).

County to offer free rabies clinic on June 4

The Dutchess County Department of Behavioral & Community Health (DBCH) is again partnering with the Dutchess County SPCA to host a free rabies vaccine clinic for pets on Sunday, June 4, at the Town Center Park Pavilion located at 71 Town Center Boulevard in Hopewell Junction from 8 a.m. to noon. Free parking available on site. Registration is required, walk ins will not be accommodated. Registration is open at DCSPCA.org, or call the DCSPCA at (845) 452-7722, ext. 425.

The clinic will offer Dutchess County residents the opportunity to obtain rabies shots free of charge for their dogs, cats, and domestic ferrets 3 months of age and older. Proof of residency is required. Non-residents will be charged a fee of $10 per each pet vaccinated. All dogs must be on leash, and cats and domestic ferrets must be in carriers. Vaccinations will be good for three years for pets with proper proof of a prior immunization. For those without proof, the vaccination will be good for one year.

Rabies vaccines are required for all cats, dogs, and domestic ferrets by the age of four months by New York State law. Animals must always remain up to date on rabies shots. Vaccination is required on a regular schedule to keep the animal properly immunized against the rabies virus. Owners can be fined up to $200 if they fail to get their pets vaccinated and keep them up to date.

Rabies vaccinations are important to protecting the health and well-being of a pet. If an animal that is unvaccinated or not up to date on its rabies vaccination fights with a rabid or suspect-rabid animal, the pet must be promptly destroyed or placed in quarantine for six months to protect other animals and people in case the pet develops rabies. These mandates do not apply for a vaccinated pet in the same situation. In such cases, only a booster dose of rabies vaccine would be given within five days to treat the pet.

The Dutchess County Department of Behavioral & Community Health is available 24/7 to assist with any questions or concerns regarding potential rabies exposure to people or domestic animals. Pet owners should report to DCBH with any incident in which their pet has been bitten by or has an open wound exposed to the saliva or nervous tissue of a domestic or wild animal. Staff will investigate and advise the pet owner of any necessary steps they should take to ensure the safety of their animal.

DBCH ask residents that see an animal acting strangely to contact their local police agency. If a person has been bitten, or a domestic pet is bitten or is in contact with any animal, contact DBCH immediately at (845) 486-3404 Monday through Friday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; or (845) 431-6465 on nights and weekends.

To learn more about rabies, visit www.dutchessny.gov/rabies or contact DBCH at HealthInfo@dutchessny.gov.

Proud to be an American

To the editor:

Last Saturday, five Reserve Officer Training Corps cadets (including my grandniece), gathered in the "Cradle of Liberty," Boston's Faneuil Hall to be commissioned as Second Lieutenants in the United States Air Force. We, their families and friends, couldn't have been prouder as they, like George Washington first did, solemnly swore to "support and defend the Constitution of the United States..."

The ceremony was both personal and historically relevant, especially this coming Memorial Day. In these divided times, can we as a nation "conceived in Liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal" long endure, as President Lincoln questioned in his Gettysburg Address.

Judging by these young, hard-working American leaders of the future, I am optimistic that our unique government "of the people, by the people, for the people" can endure if we so choose. As Founding Father John Dickinson admonished in his "The Liberty Song" of 1768, we must "join hand in hand, brave Americans all! By uniting we stand, by dividing we fail!"

Editor's note: The issue of bussing migrants/asylum seekers from New York City to Dutchess County brought the following responses last week – from Dutchess County Executive William F.X. O'Neil and Dutchess County Democrats. On Monday, May 22, it was revealed that a number of migrants were in Dutchess County at the Red Roof Inn in the Town of Poughkeepsie. See the update at the end of this article for more information.

O'Neil files State of Emergency, two Executive Orders

"Continuing our ongoing efforts to protect the residents of Dutchess County, I have executed and filed a State of Emergency and two Executive Orders in relation to New York City's imminent, forced relocation of migrants and/or asylum seekers to Dutchess County. These measures will, to the best of the County's ability, preserve our rights and safeguard the well-being of our residents and our community by enforcing various established codes and regulations – a pre-emptive step necessitated by the haphazard efforts of New York City to randomly disperse individuals throughout New York State. Though the City has failed to give Dutchess County a definitive timeframe of when, nor how many individuals could be expected, I am making this proactive move to ensure law and order throughout our County, as well as provide for the safety of our nearly 300,000 residents."

"The County of Dutchess is also exploring its options to commence civil action against the City of New York, and any property owner of a hotel, motel or short-term occupancy rental property who uses or causes to be used, converts or authorizes the use of such hotel, motel or short-term rental property as an emergency shelter, homeless shelter or long-term overnight dormitory, including, but not limited to, seeking injunctive relief and a temporary restraining order."

"While Dutchess County and our residents empathize with the plight of the individuals being inhumanely shuttled out of New York City by Mayor Eric Adams, Dutchess County is already grappling with housing challenges for our residents, and our County does not have the resources to adequately address the myriad needs these individuals will undoubtedly require during their stay. For New York City to simply dump these vulnerable souls into a community that cannot provide for their needs is unconscionable and a further example of Mayor Adams' failure to create and communicate a well thought-out plan with Hudson Valley counties."

"This crisis is the direct result of the Biden Administration's continued failing, inability or unwillingness to conceive and adopt an immigration policy that protects both this country's citizens and those looking to engage in a legal process to make a life here. We in Dutchess County government refuse to be enablers of this incompetent and ineffective administration, and we urge every Dutchess County resident to contact their federal representatives and ask they demand the White House to swiftly act."

Dutchess County Democrats decry lies about bused immigrants displacing homeless veterans

In response to the growing number of Republican-led counties quickly declaring States of Emergency based on not necessarily reliable tales of immigrants being bused from New York City, Dutchess County Democrats demand its elected leaders organize for solutions not punishment.

Dutchess County Comptroller Robin Lois said, "Treating vulnerable populations as an emergent threat stops any kind of meaningful solutions in their tracks. This is not a state of emergency, it is a call to action. We can work together - government, community organizations, and individuals - to figure out how to help those who need it."

One catalyst for this rush, a widely reported claim by Sharon Toney-Finch, herself a veteran and founder of the nonprofit YIT, that 20 homeless veterans had been displaced and evicted from the Crossroads Hotel in Newburgh turned out to be a hoax.

Dutchess County Democratic Chair Michael Dupree said, "Over the last week, Toney-Finch's shameful and false claims spread by Assemblymember Brian Maher and NYS Senator Rob Rolison, took off like wildfire, spread by right-wing news outlets like the New York Post and Fox News. Today, the Albany Times Union reports that Crossroads staff have been threatened with violence and another report notes that Toney-Finch has admitted to hiring homeless men in Poughkeepsie to pretend to be the evicted veterans, by offering them food and alcohol."

Such stoking of embers seems to have led to the explosion of local Republicans acting hastily, though Maher for one has expressed remorse.

"I am in full agreement that NYC Mayor Eric Adams bungled what could have (been) a full-throated effort to organize an area-wide response to any immigrant surge," said Milan resident Russell Frehling. "Adams should have convened a panel of all the Hudson Valley County Executives, heads of area churches and the many volunteer groups we have who are already organizing and in one case, making asylum seeker kits," Frehling continued, "but he didn't; however, our leaders should not have reacted so hysterically either. Using such phrases as 'protect our citizens' to justify hasty declarations of emergencies is just jumping to conclusions and tossing gas on flames."

Orange, Green, Sullivan and Dutchess counties have now joined Rockland in exploring emergency laws to prevent hotel and motel owners from accepting contracts to house immigrants, who as Dutchess County Legislator Kris Munn noted, "Are here legally, because they are seeking asylum." He continued, "Title 42, a Trump-era policy allowing the U.S. to ship asylum-seekers back to Mexico while awaiting a date with customs, ended along with covid restrictions."

Yvette Valdés Smith, Minority Leader in the Dutchess County Legislature said, "Our Democratic caucus recognizes that we are a family of free people from all walks of life. If we cannot assist those who need us most, what does that say about our ability to help neighbors here when they are most in need? Our caucus also recognizes the need for more resources, if we are going to join together to find humane solutions. We stand with state and federal leaders, Assemblymember Jonathan Jacobson and Representative Pat Ryan in calling for more aid for Dutchess County."

Heidi Tucci, Worship Chair at Trinity United Methodist Church, and member of the Union Vale Democrats, agreed, "Our local churches began addressing the needs of asylum seekers in New York when Florida Governor DeSantis first cruelly bused immigrants to the city as though they were cattle. We are now working on Asylum Seeker Kits, with essentials included, and stand ready to assist if and when people in need are placed in Dutchess County."

UPDATE:

On Monday, May 22, as this paper was going to press, Dutchess County Executive William F.X. O'Neil issued a statement on the arrival of asylum seekers transported to Dutchess County by New York City:

"Despite repeated requests, Dutchess County has not received any information about individuals, legally in NYC's custodial care, who have been transported by NYC to Dutchess County. Yesterday, Town of Poughkeepsie police reported two buses arrived at the Red Roof Inn in the Town of Poughkeepsie. Again, despite requests to NYC for information, the County has no information about these individuals, including their identities, how long they'll be in our community, or the total number of people. While the County does not have a confirmed number of individuals that arrived yesterday, it is estimated that as many as 60 to 80 individuals arrived based on police observations and media reports. The owner of the Red Roof Inn and other local hotels, Sam Patel, has also been silent and uncooperative in sharing information. This silence has forced Dutchess County to seek the required information through legal means."

NYC Mayor Eric Adams assured counties that advance notice would be provided of any arrivals – that did not happen. New York City has shown no willingness to coordinate or collaborate with Dutchess County, and New York State has been complicit in exacerbating the issue by taking no action, other than providing New York City with millions of state taxpayer dollars to shelter asylum seekers, yet requiring no coordination, communication or transparency."

Dutchess County War Memorial Ceremony and other local Memorial Day events

Dutchess County Executive William F.X. O'Neil and Veterans Services Director Adam Roche invite residents to participate in Dutchess County's Memorial Day ceremony at the Dutchess County War Memorial on Monday, May 29, at 11 a.m. The Dutchess County War Memorial is located at John K. Rinaldi Memorial Park at the intersection of Raymond Avenue and Main Street in the Town of Poughkeepsie.

The event will gather residents, veterans, and their families to honor the courageous service members who gave their lives in defense of our nation. The remembrance will include a wreath-laying ceremony, presentation of colors by the Poughkeepsie High School ROTC, and keynote remarks from U.S. Navy Seal Alex Othmer, founder and CEO of Guardian Revival, an organization chartered to revive and support the mental health and well-being of local veterans and first responders.

Memorial Day is a national holiday which honors the men and women who lost their life while serving in the United States Armed Forces. They are remembered and honored for their patriotism, love of country and willingness to serve and sacrifice for the common good.

O'Neil and Director Roche encourage Dutchess County residents to celebrate local veterans by participating in one or more of the numerous Memorial Day events planned across the county. The Dutchess County Division of Veterans Services reached out to local municipalities and community organizations and has compiled a listing of events taking place on or around Memorial Day. The event listing follows below with contact information provided for additional inquiries.

Richardson, who finished 2-for-4 with a home run, an RBI and a run scored.

Brooklyn scored the final six runs of the game.

Up 2-1 in the top of the seventh, Mateo Gil hit an RBI double off Enrique Santana and scored on a wild pitch thrown by Harrison Cohen. Parada capped off the three-run frame with an RBI single as the Cyclones extended their lead to 5-1. Brooklyn plated their final run with an RBI single in the ninth by Chase Estep off Ryan Anderson.

In Tuesday's series opener, the Renegades led from start to finish and beat Brooklyn 9-6.

Jones sparked the Renegades offense early with a leadoff home run in the bottom of the first off Jeffrey Colón. In the bottom of the second, Palensky hit a one-out solo home run off Colón (0-2), his league-leading tenth home run of the season. That touched off a three-run rally as the next four batters all followed with hits, with Marcos Cabrera driving in Ben Cowles, and Aldenis Sánchez scoring on a Jones single to extend the lead to 4-0.

The Renegade also played their annual traditional morning start and lost 7-2. "Education Day" featured hundreds, if not thousands, of school children in the sands.

The Cyclones struck first in the second when Chase Estep hit a two-run triple off Tyrone Yulie to open up a 2-0 advantage. Hudson Valley threatened against Blade Tidwell in each of the first two innings, but the Brooklyn right-hander was able to strand runners at second and third in each inning to keep the Renegades off the board.

In a 6-1 loss on Thursday, the Renegades allowed a sixth inning Grand Slam by the Cyclones. And that was the difference in the game.

Brooklyn struck right away in the first inning with a pair of runs on an RBI double from Alex Ramirez, and a sacrifice fly from Jaylen Palmer off 'Gades starter Zach Messinger (0-2). On the sacrifice fly, Aldenis Sánchez recorded an outfield assist as well, throwing out Ramirez at third base while attempting to advance to end the inning. It was Sánchez's second outfield assist of the season.

Renegades Extra!

Low-key Palensky comes up big in terms of home runs and hitting

by Rich Thomaselli

He'll be the first to tell you that he's not a home run hitter.

"I don't think anybody goes up to bat looking to hit a home run," said Hudson Valley Renegades outfielder Aaron Palensky. "I think you do try to drive the ball and hit it hard and put good wood on it. But I don't think anybody says, 'I'm going to hit a home here.'"

Nonetheless, he is pretty adept at hitting them.

Through last Friday's game, and exactly 100 at-bats, Palensky leads the team and the South Atlantic League with 10 home runs. He also leads the team with a .300 batting average.

"He has such an easy, fluid swing," manager Sergio Santos said.

Palensky said he doesn't try to hit home runs because of the spacious size of Heritage Financial Park.

"I think that's the way you get in trouble," Palensky said. "Like I said, you just look to drive the ball and hit it hard. If it results in a single, so be it. If it goes over the fence, so be it."

The right-handed hitter, who hails from the University of Nebraska, also prides himself on being a student of the game and picking up tidbits of information wherever he can. He stockpiles information.

"It's a thinking man's game," he said. "You have to be ready at all times, and if you find even a sliver of information, you try to keep it in your head and under your hat."

And he has been productive. Despite being fifth on the team in at-bats, he is second in RBIs.

"You just go out there and play and try to do your job," he said, "and be ready to produce if you are fortunate to have your name placed into the lineup."

TYSON'S TIDBITS WITH TYSON JEFFERS

Plenty of talking and decisions happen prior to postponements

Each week, writer Rich Thomaselli sits down with Hudson Valley General Manager Tyson Jeffers to talk about the Renegades in particular and Minor League baseball in general.

What are the moments like before a rainout?

Yeah, rainy days are a little more stressful than normal days. We are on the phone with everybody. We pay for some apps that allow us to talk to meteorologists. I mean, sometimes the team is in the dugout and looking at the Weather Channel app and ours are a little more in-depth and sophisticated.

There are a lot of things to consider. What the other team thinks, what the next day is going to be like weather-wise, if this is the last time in the year you're going to see this team, or you can squeeze in a makeup date on a future date. There is a lot of communication going on.

I am in touch with the meteorologist, with the opposing team, with our groundskeepers, and with the configuration and what the opposing manager tells us. We ask him how long he thinks it will take to get his players, and especially his pitchers, ready. Plus, there's a business aspect as well. Maybe we know we have 4,000 or 5,000 people who are coming to the ballpark and we are not so quick to call for a rain out. But, we also want them to have a good experience and sitting through a rain delay is not optimal.

Explain to people that there is no staff for this. It's all hands on deck. Even you, as the general manager, get down to the field and help.

I am communicating with 20-plus people and asking them to disseminate information. Then I have to make sure our social media [person is] communicating the right message to all the people who are still planning on coming to the ballpark. In one form or another, everybody has a job to do on a rainy day.

Is there any way that a rain out, followed by a doubleheader, is beneficial?

Yeah, the only time that it truly is beneficial is when you're able to look at the forecast in your [area and] it's 100-percent chance of rain every single hour for the day, and you're able to make the decision well in advance, where there's really, like, no arguments from any parties, the fans understand. Uh, the teams understand everyone's in agreement that like, we're not going to play baseball today, so let's don't try. That gives us a chance to call it off with no regrets or second thoughts, and to not call in extra staff and save some expenses on the day.

Messinger with one out in the sixth and struck out Drake Osborn, but Mateo Gil turned on a 1-2 pitch Croy grand slam in a commanding 6-1 lead.

In the win on Sunday, Alexander Vargas began the ninth with a fielder's choice that advanced Spencer Jones to third when no out was recorded. Aaron Palensky ripped a line drive to that scored Jones and tied the game at 2-2.

Two batters later, Spencer Henson lined a single to center and Vargas attempted to score from second but was thrown out by Alex Ramirez to keep the game tied. However, the next batter, Grant Richardson, lined a single to right field off Wilton Ramos (2-1) to score Palensky and snap the Renegades four-game losing streak with the walk-off 3-2 victory.

Stanford commemorates Patriots with historic markers

The Town of Stanford Historical Society announced the first of Stanford's historic markers to recognize the graves of its Patriots is in place. This marker is located at the Baptist Cemetery on Cold Spring Road. The marker ceremony with the Sons of the American Revolution is set for Saturday, June 10, 2 p.m., at the cemetery. Courtesy photo

Organizers set 2nd annual Stanford Pride event

The Stanford Pride Committee has announced the second annual LGBTQ+ Pride event in the town on Saturday, June 3, from 1 to 4 p.m. at BANGALLWORKS. This year's celebration promises to be bigger and better than the last, with new activities for attendees of all ages.

Donnie Roberts, co-chair of the Stanford Pride Committee, said, "The Stanford Pride event is a chance for our community to show its support for the LGBTQ+ community and to come together in solidarity. We invite everyone to join us for an afternoon of fun and celebration."

According to Lynn Tondrick, co-chair of the Stanford Pride Committee, "We are thrilled to bring back the Stanford Pride event for a second year. Our goal is to create a welcoming and inclusive environment where everyone can come together to celebrate our LGBTQ+ community and the progress we have made."

Steve Bruman and Tom Ambler, proprietors of BANGALLWORKS, shared their excitement about hosting the event, saying, "We are proud to host the second annual Stanford Pride event at BANGALLWORKS. Our mission has always been to create a community hub that welcomes and celebrates everyone, and this event is a perfect alignment of that mission. We look forward to an amazing day of celebration and connection."

The community event will begin at BANGALLWORKS at 1 p.m., where everyone is invited to enjoy food and refreshments and connect with neighbors and friends. The event will feature an ice cream truck and activities for all.

Wendy Burton, Stanford Town Supervisor, and members of the Town Board will read a proclamation marking June as Pride Month in Stanford. A Pride flag will also be displayed at Stanford Town Hall celebrating Pride weekend in the town.

STANFORD TO HONOR ITS VETERANS JUNE 3

Stanford's Salute to Veterans will take place on Saturday, June 3, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the Stanford Recreation Park Pavilion, 44 Noller Way, Stanfordville. There will be light refreshments, a ceremony to honor local veterans and fundraising raffles.

There will also be a Veterans Resource Drive: bring new canned goods, clothing, bedding and toiletries; financial donations are also welcome.

Children's Home of Poughkeepsie to host cocktail concert June 1

The Children's Home of Poughkeepsie will host their Open Your Heart Cocktail Concert. The event will be held at The Grandview, in Poughkeepsie, on June 1, from 6 – 9 p.m.

This evening begins with a cocktail party featuring hors d'oeuvres and an open bar. The evening continues with a 45-minute musical performance, seated dessert and champagne. This year The Tee-Tones, a Doowop & Motown Soul Tribute Act, for their show Under a Streetlamp will perform.

Event sponsors are NFP and Veith Electric, LLC. Additional sponsors include; Central Hudson Gas & Electric, DSL Financial Services, David Ping Group, Dutchess County Department of Community and Family Services, Foster Flooring & Carpet, Full Deck Design, M&O Sanitation, Marist College, Herbert H. Redl Foundation, Rhinebeck Bank, Small World Wealth Management, Stewart's Shops, Van DeWater & Van DeWalter, LLP, Dr. Peter and Mrs. Cathy Varunok, Vassar College, Webb Family Foundation, Wendy's and Williams Lumber & Home Centers.

Proceeds from this event are used to support the mission of the Children's Home: "Empowering children and families to achieve optimal health and well-being."

"We look forward to seeing our donors and friends again this year as we celebrate having served a record number of 1,020 children and their families in 2022," said Walter Joseph, the Home's Executive Director and Chief Executive Officer. "We are proud of our work to empower kids and families that need it most to thrive. We hope you can celebrate with us on June 1."

Reservations are now being accepted. Sponsorship opportunities are available. Visit: www.childrenshome.us for all the details. For questions about the event, please contact Erin Cafarelli at 845-452-1420, ext.177 or pr@childrenshome.us.

Chamber orchestra to present Pops Concert at historic Amenia church May 27

by Kate Goldsmith

The month of May brings wonderful traditions, old and new. One of the more recent is The Smithfield Chamber Orchestra's Third Annual Pops Concert, happening Saturday, May 27, at 4 p.m., at The Smithfield Church, 656 Smithfield Valley Road (Route 83) in Amenia. Part of the historic church's Bang Family Concert Series, it will feature a mix of classical, pop music and jazz in the pastoral Smithfield Valley. There is a suggested donation of $20 per person.

Directed by multi-instrumentalist, arranger and composer Matt Finley, this year's program will feature Finley's orchestration of many popular classical, pop and jazz songs ranging from the great French, English, and American classical composers, through movie and pop tunes you will recognize, to contemporary original jazz pieces by Larry Ham and Finley. Almost all songs have in common that they are short, mostly under three minutes.

Selections include "Stars and Stripes Forever" (John Phillip Sousa); "Icarus" (Ralph Towner); "Ye Banks and Braes of Bonnie Doon" (Percy Grainger); "A Fond Farewell" (Larry Ham); "Sicilienne in G Minor" (Gabriel Fauré); "Good News" (Matt Finley); Theme from "The Pink Panther" (Henry Mancini); "Legacy" (Chuck Mangione); "The Syncopated Clock" (Leroy Andersen); "Firebird Suite" Finale (Igor Stravinsky); and "New York, New York" (John Kander).

Finley, a resident of Pine Plains and Bolton, N.Y., plays trumpet, flugelhorn, piccolo trumpet, soprano sax, vibes and flute; and he studied composition with Edgar Curtis, Director of the Albany Symphony. He led a Brazilian jazz band, Rio JAZZ, from 1988 to 2018; and for many years that band would help celebrate National Jazz Appreciation Day in April with a free concert at Dutchess Community College (where Finley also served as dean and professor).

The other members of The Smithfield Chamber Orchestra are all highly accomplished, professional instrumental soloists in their own right. The ensemble began in 2018, when they contributed their talent for the benefit of The Smithfield Church's annual Christmas Concert & Tea. In May 2021, this group gave the first public concert in Dutchess County following the easing of pandemic restrictions. Originally eight players, the orchestra has grown steadily to the present size of 12.

Finley got involved with the Smithfield Church concerts through his wife, Denise Jordan Finley, the church's music director and a well-known singer-songwriter. He said most of the orchestra members have performed as soloists at the church at various times.

The Smithfield Chamber Orchestra is: Lynnette Benner (flute, oboe); Michelle Demko, (flute); Matt Finley, (trumpet, arranger, director); Alex Gray (clarinet, sax); Charles Gray (clarinet, sax); Larry Ham (piano); Steve Hubbert (trombone); Denise Jordan-Finley (percussion0; Piotr Kargul (viola); Rob Murphy (violin); Lou Pappas (double bass); Jean Vilkelis (cello).

The Bang Family Concert Series was created "to encourage area residents to hear an eclectic lineup of top regional and

In search of lost bees

Mark looks up and discovers a pollen source that is the 'bee's knees.'

My friend Joe was worried. I was sitting with Joe at an open mic night at La Puerta Azul restaurant, and for some reason we started talking about honeybees. Joe has a couple of hives – I have one – and he's telling me he hasn't seen any of his bees on blossoms in his yard. No bees on dandelions, clover, buttercups, daisy fleabane, or any of the random weeds that bloom this time of year.

"Are the bees coming and going from the hive?" I asked.

"Yes," Joe answered, as somebody strummed a Simon and Garfunkel song in the background, "but I'm afraid they're not finding any nectar, so they might get hungry enough to abandon the hive."

That can happen. I was intrigued, so decided to check on my bees the very next morning.

The typical backyard honeybee hive is home to 50,000 female "worker" bees, a few hundred male "drones" (which don't do any work) and a queen bee. The workers travel up to two miles in search of nectar, used to make honey, and pollen, to feed the next brood of workers. As they forage, the bees pollinate the flowers, wearing themselves out in as little as 30 days. It takes 12 bees their entire lifetime to make one teaspoon of honey. Think about that the next time you sit down to a bowl of Honey Nut Cheerios.

Of course, honey bees are not native to the Hudson Valley. Neither are dandelions or clover.

There was a time a few years back when people were worried that feral honeybees would overpower our 400 species of native bees. And that dandelions would take over our front yards. (The "No-Mow-May" movement is designed to help pollinators. I embrace it wholeheartedly).

So late Friday morning, I went out to check my dandelions for bees. Honeybees come out when the temperature is above 55 degrees. It was a cool morning, and the bumble bees came out earlier. They like dandelions, and especially clover. But as the honeybees emerged, they flew right past those flowers and off into the distance. Later in the day I could see them returning with their pollen sacks full, (located on their hind legs) so I figured they must be having success.

Two miles – that's quite a distance to cover, but I couldn't let Joe down. I just had to find out where those bees were dining. Off I went into the neighborhood. Honeybees love apple blossoms, crab apple, Japanese cherry, and lots of other

Sudoku requires no arithmetic skills.

The object of the game is to fill all the blank squares with the correct numbers.

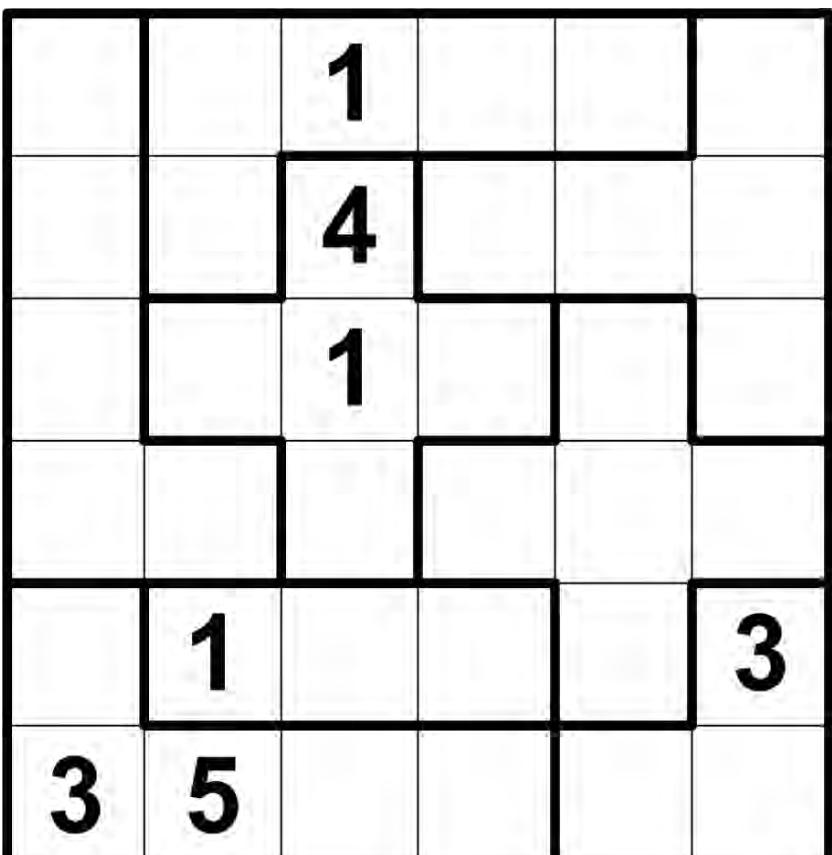

Each row of 9 numbers must include all digits 1 through 9 in any order.

Each column of 9 numbers must include all digits 1 through 9 in any order.

Each 3 by 3 subsection of the 9 by 9 square must include all digits 1 through 9.

Suguru

The heavy lines indicate areas, called cages, from one to five squares in size. Fill each cage with unique digits, counting up from 1. So for example a 2-square cage contains the numbers 1 and 2; and a 5-square cage contains the numbers from 1 to 5. Adjacent (touching) squares, even ones that touch diagonally, may never contain the same number.

Picnic panache

A ‘whole’-istic approach to sandwiches on the go

Venturing outside in warm weather very often means we work up an appetite. We work and play or just soak up the sunshine, and the time all of that takes spans the times we typically eat. Then there are day trips, parades, picnics ... and I've heard we're in for a hot summer, so the urge to stand over a hot stove or even hotter grill may not be something you'll want to do all that much. Salads, as great as they are, likely will not be enough to sustain you all summer long. Of course there's ice cream but, even though we're adults and can do what we want, I think we know we can't live on that either, although it sure would be fun to try.

Memorial Day is right around the corner, the unofficial kickoff to summer, and a lot of us will surely be outside doing any or all of the above, with a party or two being thrown in the mix. In all of these scenarios the humble sandwich might be just the thing. Meats, cheeses, vegetables and condiments between slices of bread may at first not seem very appealing or special, so I can't blame you for feeling a little let down at the suggestion. But wait! Think of the versatility, the possibilities, the portability! Imagine being able to feed a few or a crowd with something delicious that's fast and easy to put together, doesn't require heat of any kind and can be made ahead of time (and is better for it!). Maybe not so crazy a thought after all, huh?

I think it was last year about this time that I shared one such sandwich that I made to take on our annual Mother's Day weekend trip. Well, I did it again, this time for a Mother's Day picnic by the river for the whole family and had enough to feed us all with leftovers. It all packed and traveled really well, and was tailored to accommodate everyone's tastes. Assembling the night before was not only easier but also allowed all the flavors to come together just in time to serve al fresco.

It's quite possible that you know by now that I love and adore picnics. I have them every chance I get and have for decades, so I can honestly say I know a thing or two about what to pack. While cheeses and charcuterie top my list, the sandwiches I sometimes opt for often reflect that preference, basically being all the things I love to nibble rolled into one handheld package. I still love grazing on a carefully put together cheese board with all the accompaniments, but more and more I like the ease of crafting a gourmet sandwich to take along instead.

If you're not sure what will work for packing perfection, taking a cue from charcuterie boards is a great place to start. Most things you'll find on one hold up well to travel, aren't overly messy to eat, and the flavors and textures complement each other. Think cured meats, pickled and fresh vegetables, coarse-grained mustard, spreadable and hard cheeses, fig jam, olives, roasted peppers. With these you get a variety of flavors and textures that play beautifully together so you really can't go wrong. In short, there are endless possibilities!

I find that making BIG sandwiches works best, as opposed to individual ones for each person. They assemble more quickly, the flavors marry better, and you just wrap up the whole thing to cut once you get to your destination. Trust me, it's just easier and better. Just make sure you pack the knife and cutting board.

If you're not sure what people's tastes are, it's best to make a few options to cover all bases; but not to worry – this is easy too! For the last picnic I made two versions of one of the sandwiches. One had no onions, arugula or tomatoes, three things I happened to know were not favorites for everyone but tend to be a pretty safe bet to omit even without this insight. I even substituted a few things for what I took out. Having two options (well, three with the exclusion version), meant everyone had a choice, and so most tried both, which was easy enough to do since they could also cut any size pieces they wanted.

The bread you choose is up to you, of course, but it also depends on what you're putting inside. Tomatoes and grilled mushrooms, for example, give off a lot of moisture as they sit, and oil-heavy dressings seep into soft bread for soggy results that can be hard to hold or, worse yet, hold together. For these situations I favor firmer, chewier focaccia, baguette or ciabatta and recommend putting a good layer of mayo (I like mixing it with pesto) on at least the side of the bread that will touch wetter ingredients. It acts as a barrier that will likely be enough to prevent a mess in the time before you're ready to eat. Another trick is to make sure any juicy stuff is in the middle so it doesn't touch the bread. And in case I didn't make it clear, you'll be using whole loaves, which makes the whole layering thing even easier. Even so, for any wetter ingredients it's best to use firmer bread. If you can't find any, you can always offer those ingredients that tend to be mess makers on the side or make your sandwiches only a few hours ahead. See? There's always a solution!

So my “messy” sandwich consisted of, in order of layering, pesto mayo (literally just pesto mixed with mayo), fresh mozzarella, black pepper salami, grilled portobello mushrooms, baby arugula, balsamic glaze, roasted red peppers, red onions, tomatoes, salt, and freshly ground pepper. The mushrooms gave off a LOT of moisture, coming from the sides of the sandwich and puddling a bit underneath, but this was easily remedied by wiping off the bottom before placing it on the cutting board to serve. Thanks to the ciabatta being so robust the bottom crust was absolutely fine – no sog and no one was any the wiser, but most importantly, it wasn't overly messy to eat at all. I promise!

As for the other crowd-pleaser, I went more old school-traditional: a good, old-fashioned mixed combo. This time I went with a big Italian loaf since none of the fillings would pose the moisture problem. The layers: mayo on both pieces (but just enough to make that barrier we talked about), ham, provolone, red onions, salami, turkey, tomatoes, shaved lettuce, salt, pepper and Greek salad dressing. You kinda can't go wrong!

Oh, and don't be afraid to pile on those toppings or even repeat layers! There's a good amount of bread to balance out, so as long as you can fit it in your mouth you're good to go! It's also a good idea to bring along some extra condiments just in case. I brought the balsamic glaze, the Greek dressing and more pesto mayonnaise, as well as some mozzarella, tomatoes and roasted peppers. We didn't end up using any of it but better safe than sorry, dry and flat in flavor!

Before assembling your sandwiches I recommend centering the cut loaf on a piece of parchment atop a big piece of foil. These will wrap it all up and it's much easier this way than to heft those bad boys onto them after they're assembled. I like the parchment layer because things tend not to stick to it. And, if I'm feeling fancy, I'll tie some twine around it to try to elicit some ooohs as I transfer it to the cutting board (almost never happens but it still looks pretty). Once they are assembled, press down on the top crust to condense the whole thing a bit, checking for any stray fillings, especially helpful if you've piled them high, then wrap it as tightly as you can in the parchment before doing the same with the foil. My sandwiches were too big for one measly piece of foil, though, so it took a few to make sure all was secure. Then in

Levyosn Concert
Thursday, June 1 @ 7:30 pm
Levyosn, a Boston-based Yiddish and klezmer trio, celebrates the release of their debut album. Founded in 2021, Levyosn takes its name from the Ashkenazi Hebrew word for "leviathan," a mythical sea creature trawling the world's oceans for songs, krill, and dreams. Our repertoire includes traditional music and original songs in Yiddish, Hebrew, Ladino, and English, and draws from adjacent East European folk traditions. We bring rich vocal harmonies and driving dance rhythms to classic Yiddish songs, little-known gems, and originals alike.

Band members include Adah Hetko (guitar/vocals), Kaia Berman-Peters (accordion/vocals), and Lysander Jaffe (violin, vocals).

Reservations requested. Suggested donation: $10-25. Tickets for multiple audience members: simply have this reflected in your suggested donation - no need to buy multiple tickets.

international artists and discover a warm community of music lovers in the church's beautiful Greek Revival building,” according to the church's website. The series is made possible through a generous endowment from lifelong musician Bill Bang, whose daughter, Susan, is a parishioner of Smithfield Church.

“My late father ... was a self-described ‘child prodigy who never got any better,’ whose public debut at the age of 12 was playing tuba for a local traveling circus,” Susan said. “He only received $1 for hours of nonstop playing, but it meant the world to him because it officially made him a professional musician.”

Bill finished his career in publishing, Susan said, but he and her late mother Mary Ann were philanthropists and major supporters of the arts in their Ventura, California community.

“They were founders of the New West Symphony, which continues to this day,” said Susan. “Bill was very passionate about musicians having a local performance venue and getting paid for their craft.”

When Bill was diagnosed with Stage 4 cancer, Susan said “he faced it with uncommon dignity and grace.”

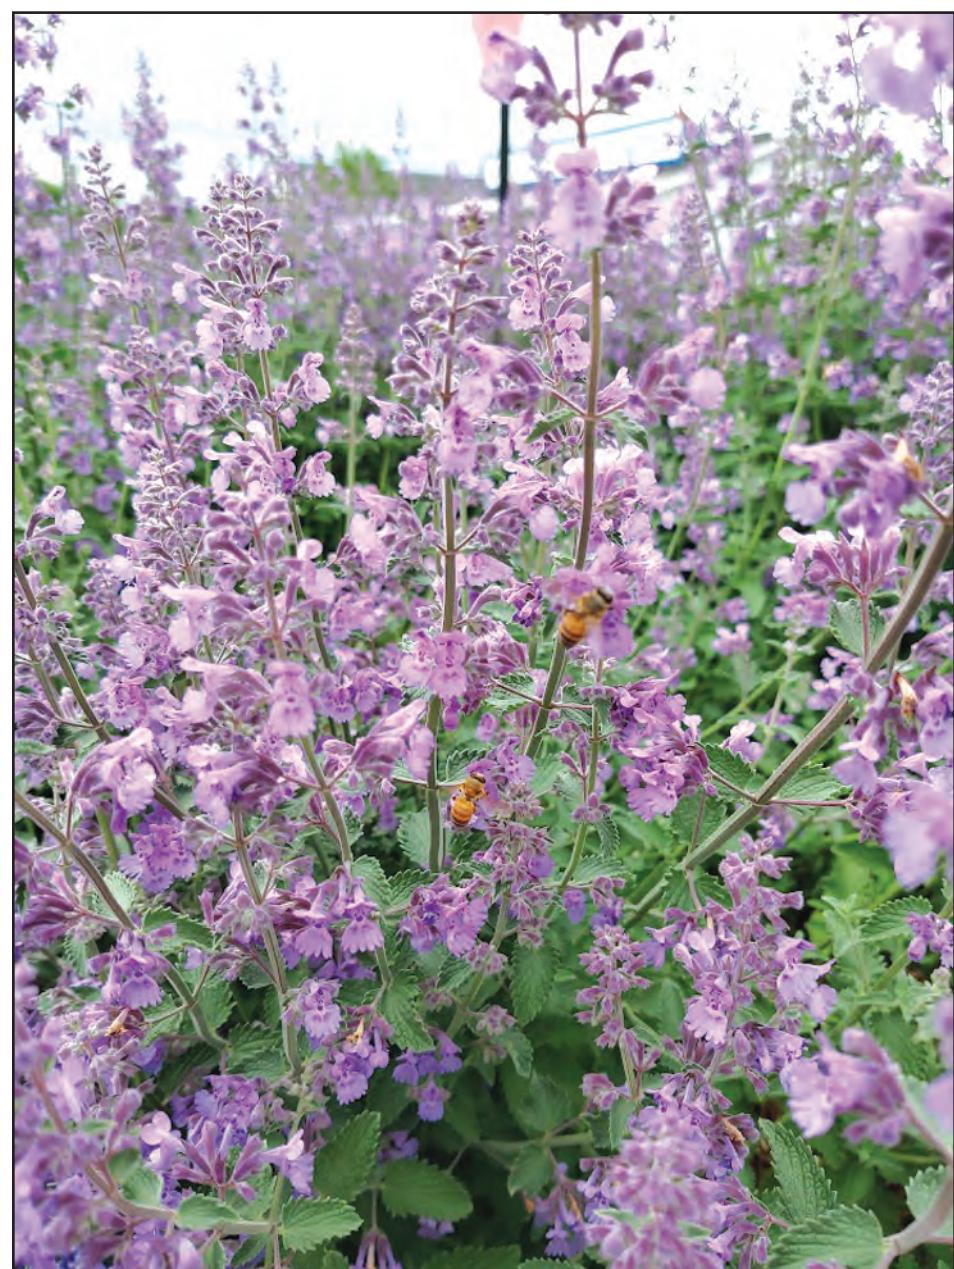

She added, “And when his end game was finally in sight, he was on a mission to find small local organizations where his donation would make a difference – and he included the Smithfield Church in his generosity. Knowing how important the church was to me, a parishioner, and the deep meaning of music to the congregation and the community, he endowed a Bang Family Concert Series that would allow local musicians to have an ongoing forum for their talent.”

Finley said Susan Bang has been “a godsend to us.”

spring blooming trees. But they were all out of bloom by mid-May. And the summer favorites like daisies, coneflowers, lavender, zinnias and sunflowers, not to mention fall blooming asters and goldenrod, were nowhere in sight. As I traipsed down the road, waving to the neighbors as I inspected their gardens – “Just looking for bees!” I struck out on the roses, irises, even the baptisia, which is supposed to be a favorite. A few azaleas were still in bloom, but I’ve heard they’re poisonous to bees.

At last I saw a few honeybees, on garden sage and catmint, two of the most incredible pollinator flowers. But how could these few plants in my neighbor’s garden support 50,000 bees? Each bee visits up to 100 flowers a day. Do the math.

Then I looked up. A towering black locust tree was looming overhead, dripping with broodnganian panicles of scrumptious blossoms. Then I looked down the street, and into the forest beyond. Dozens of black locust trees were swarming with honeybees. I hadn’t noticed because I’d been looking close to the ground. Evidently, the bees were ignoring the dandelions and clover only because they prefer the black locust blossoms.

I couldn’t wait to tell Joe. Next night at the open mic I yelled over the din of somebody playing a Def Leppard song, “Hey, Joe! Are there any black locust trees growing within two miles of your house?”

the cooler they went and we were off!

And yes, these can be a meal in themselves, especially if you really load them up with a lot of good stuff. But feel free to serve salads alongside – fruit, pasta and/or green – or whatever else your heart desires. Just remember that you have to carry everything and that includes the plates and utensils you’ll need. In a pinch, or if you just want to take it real easy but still eat well, I’d say all you really need is a sandwich, something to sip and someone to share it all with. I think that’s a perfect recipe for good eating and a good time anywhere you happen to find yourself this soon-to-be hot summer.

Enjoy!

Garden Conservancy donates $93,000 to Bard for Blithewood Garden Rehabilitation

The Garden Conservancy has announced a gift of $93,000 to Bard College for construction drawings that will be used for the rehabilitation of Blithewood Garden, an extraordinary early 20th-century formal Italianate walled garden on Bard College's main campus.

The rehabilitation of Blithewood Garden is a collaborative effort between Bard and the Garden Conservancy.

The drawings, which will be rendered by award-winning New York City-based preservation architecture firms Jan Hird Pokorny Associates (JHPA) and Integrated Conservation Resources, Inc. (ICR) represent a crucial step toward the rehabilitation of a nationally significant cultural landscape. JHPA's work includes notable projects at Olana State Historic Site, and Old Westbury Gardens. ICR's project portfolio includes the Main Fountain Garden at Longwood Gardens, Miramar in Newport, RI, and Temple of the Sky at Untermyer Gardens.

"We are delighted to be a part of the remarkable journey to restore Blithewood Garden, and this gift signifies a monumental step in reviving this awe-inspiring oasis," said James Brayton Hall, President of the Garden Conservancy. "Blithewood Garden is a hidden gem of unmatched rarity, showcasing a breathtaking landscape that simply demands to be safeguarded for future generations to enjoy. It embodies the mission of the Garden Conservancy as the sole national cultural organization dedicated to preserving, sharing and celebrating gardens across America."

Bard College President Leon Botstein expressed his gratitude for the Garden Conservancy's support. "Blithewood Garden is an important part of Bard's history," he said. "With the help of the Garden Conservancy, we will ensure that this beautiful designed landscape continues to be a cherished destination for our community and visitors from around the world."

Designed in 1903 by Francis L.V. Hoppin (a former apprentice of McKim, Mead & White), Blithewood House and Garden overlooks the Hudson River and the Catskill Mountains and is uniquely situated in the heart of two historically designated areas: the Hudson River National Historic Landmark District and the Maurice D. Hinckley Hudson River Valley National Heritage Area. It is one of the few intact Hudson River estate gardens remaining from the Gilded Age and has important connections to the evolution of American landscape design.

Today, Blithewood Garden is free to the public and welcomes over 10,000 visitors annually. As an architectural garden exposed to the elements, it has stood the test of time but needs critical repairs. The project aims to repair and enhance the garden's historic features, hard hit by the passage of time, and continue the historic use of this site as an architectural pleasure garden. The construction documents created by JHPA and ICR will serve as the blueprint for the garden's rehabilitation.

The Garden Conservancy's donation to Bard College is a testament to the organization's commitment to preserving exceptional gardens and promoting their educational value. With this gift, the Garden Conservancy and Bard College with the Friends of Blithewood Garden are taking an important step towards the rehabilitation of Blithewood Garden, ensuring its beauty and significance will be enjoyed for generations to come.

County Legislature
RESOLUTION NO.
2023069
BOND RESOLUTION DATED MAY 8, 2023.
A RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF $2,525,000 BONDS OF THE COUNTY OF DUTCHESS, NEW YORK, TO PAY part of THE COST OF the reconstruction of the fallkill dam

WHEREAS, said capital project, as proposed, has been determined to be a Type II Action pursuant to the regulations of the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation promulgated pursuant to the State Environmental Quality Review Act, which regulations state that Type II Actions will not have any significant adverse impact on the environment; and

WHEREAS, by Resolution No. 2016282, a resolution dated September 12, 2016, duly adopted on said date, the County Legislature of the County of Dutchess, New York, authorized the appropriation of $425,000 monies of said County to pay the cost of certain improvements to the Fallkill Dam, located at Fallkill Park on Creek

Legal Notices

Road in the Town of Poughkeepsie, including incidental improvements and expenses in connection therewith, in and for said County, and

WHEREAS, it is now desired to authorize the issuance of $2,525,000 bonds of said County for such specific object or purpose; NOW, THEREFORE,

BE IT RESOLVED, by the affirmative vote of not less than two-thirds of the total voting strength of the County Legislature of the County of Dutchess, New York, as follows:

Section 1.

The reconstruction of the Fallkill Dam, located at Falkill Park on Creek Road in the Town of Poughkeepsie, including incidental improvements and expenses in connection therewith, in and for said County of Dutchess, New York, is hereby authorized at a revised maximum estimated cost of $2,950,000.

Section 2.

It is hereby determined that the revised plan for the financing of said specific object or purpose at said revised maximum estimated cost is as follows:

a. by the appropriation of $425,000 monies of said County authorized to be issued pursuant to a resolution dated and duly adopted September 12, 2016 as described in the preambles hereof;

b. by the issuance of $2,525,000 serial bonds of said County hereby authorized to be issued therefor pursuant to the provisions of the Local Finance Law.

Section 3.

It is hereby determined that the period of probable usefulness of the aforesaid specific object or purpose is 30 years, pursuant to subdivision 22(a) of paragraph a of Section 11.00 of the Local Finance Law, calculated from the date of issuance of the first serial bonds/bond anticipation notes for said specific object or purpose.

Section 4.

The faith and credit of said County of Dutchess, New York, are hereby irrevocably pledged for the payment of the principal of and interest on such bonds as the same respectively become due and payable.

An annual appropriation shall be made in each year sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on such bonds becoming due and payable in such year. There shall annually be levied on all the taxable real property of said County a tax sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on such bonds as the same become due and payable.

Section 5.

Subject to the provisions of the Local Finance Law, the power to authorize the issuance of and to sell bond anticipation notes in anticipation of the issuance and sale of the serial bonds herein authorized, including renewals of such notes, is hereby delegated to the Commissioner of Finance, the chief fiscal officer. Such notes shall be of such terms, form and contents, and shall be sold in such manner, as may be prescribed by said Commissioner of Finance, consistent with the provisions of the Local Finance Law.

Section 6.

Such bonds shall be in fully registered form and shall be signed in the name of the County of Dutchess, New York, by the manual or facsimile signature of the Commissioner of Finance and a facsimile of its corporate seal shall be imprinted or impressed thereon and may be attested by the manual or facsimile signature of the County Clerk.

Section 7.

The powers and duties of advertising such bonds for sale, conducting the sale and awarding the bonds, are hereby delegated to the Commissioner of Finance, who shall advertise such bonds for sale, conduct the sale, and award the bonds in such manner as she shall deem best for the interests of the County; provided, however, that in the exercise of these delegated powers, she shall comply fully with the provisions of the Local Finance Law and any order or rule of the State Comptroller applicable to the sale of municipal bonds.

The receipt of the Commissioner of Finance shall be a full acquittance to the purchaser of such bonds, who shall not be obliged to see to the application of the purchase money.

Section 8.

All other matters, except as provided herein relating to such bonds including determining whether to issue such bonds having substantially level or declining annual debt service and all matters related thereto, prescribing whether manual or facsimile signatures shall appear on said bonds, prescribing the method for the recording of ownership of said bonds, appointing the fiscal agent or agents for said bonds, providing for the printing and delivery of said bonds (and if said bonds are to be executed in the name of the County by the facsimile signature of the Commissioner of Finance, providing for the manual countersignature of a fiscal agent or of a designated official of the County), the date, denominations, maturities and interest payment dates, place or places of payment, and also including the consolidation with other issues, shall be determined by the Commissioner of Finance. It is hereby determined that it is to the financial advantage of the County not to impose and collect from registered owners of such serial bonds any charges for mailing, shipping and insuring bonds transferred or exchanged by the fiscal agent, and, accordingly, pursuant to paragraph c of Section 70.00 of the Local Finance Law, no such charges shall be so collected by the fiscal agent. Such bonds shall contain substantially the recital of validity clause provided for in section 52.00 of the Local Finance Law and shall otherwise be in such form and contains such recitals in addition to those required by section 52.00 of the Local Finance Law, as the Commissioner of Finance shall determine.

Section 9.

This resolution shall constitute a statement of official intent for purposes of Treasury Regulations Section 1.150 - 2. Other than as specified in this resolution, no monies are, or are reasonably expected to be, reserved, allocated on a longterm basis, or otherwise set aside with respect to the permanent funding of the object or purpose described herein.

Section 10.

The validity of such bonds and bond anticipation notes may be contested only if:

1) Such obligations are authorized for an object or purpose for which said County is not authorized to expend money, or

2) The provisions of law which should be complied with at the date of publication of this resolution are not substantially complied with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the date of such publication, or

3) Such obligations are authorized in violation of the provisions of the Constitution.

Section 11.

This resolution, which takes effect immediately, shall be published in full in The Poughkeepsie Journal and the Southern Dutchess News, the official newspapers of said County, together with a notice of the Clerk of the County Legislature in substantially the form provided in Section 81.00 of the Local Finance Law.

OBITUARIES

Richard A. Hill

RHINEBECK - Richard A. Hill, 74, passed away peacefully at home on May 13, 2023. He was born in Rhinebeck to the late Floyd and Flora (Houle) Hill. Richard served in the United States Army. When he returned home to Pine Plains, he went to work for A&J Oil, and then Doyle & Coons Oil Company as a service technician. He was always doing something to keep his hands busy including butterfly houses or fixing something. In 1971, he joined the Pine Plains Hose Company & Rescue Squad. Marking the 3rd generation of Hill's to serve in the fire company. Through the years he held many offices including Assistance Chief. He quickly learned he would rather be fighting the blaze than giving orders and went back to the position of captain. He was also a driver trainer and longtime Director of the Hose Company. He also was on the committee for the annual chicken barbecue. Richard enjoyed hunting, fishing, and spending time at his family's cabin in Schroon Lake. He also enjoyed spending countless hours with his longtime friends including "Chiefy" Bob Cahill. Richard is survived by his loving wife, Marguerite (Remsburger) Hill. His devoted son and daughter in law, Michael and Christy Hill. His favorite sidekick, Griffin Hill. His brother Douglas Hill and sister Kathy Hill. In addition to several nieces, nephews and cousins. A memorial service with firematic & military honors will be held at 10:30AM on Saturday, May 27, 2023 at the Pine Plains Fire Station, 7 Lake Road, Pine Plains, NY. In lieu of flowers memorial donations are requested to The Pine Plains Fire Company, or to Hudson Valley Hospice. Louis Michael Prisco

MILLBROOK - In the early hours of May 15, 2023, Louis Michael Prisco of Millbrook, NY passed away surrounded by his family. Mickey Prisco was as unique and memorable as they come. He was known as a storyteller and was eternally interested in everyone he encountered. With all his strength, focus, and humor he loved his family, friends, and community above all else. Mickey was born to Michael and Mary Prisco at Coney Island Hospital on June 8, 1934. He grew up between Brooklyn and Kingston, NY as his father's jobs changed. He was a devoted son and brother. Enlisting in the United States Marine Corps had a significant effect on his life. He generously shared the pride and wisdom he learned and developed in the military with everyone he knew and was known to sing the Marine Corps Hymn without warning. Upon his return to New York from the Marine Corps in California, Mickey sought out a job at Western Printing where he met his bride and lifelong partner Florence Corsilia Prisco, known to all as Fussy. Then, Mickey went to work for IBM and he and Fussy began a family in 1964 with the birth of their son, George. Then in 1968 they welcomed their daughter, Amy. In April, 2023, Mickey and Fussy's children and grandchildren gathered at Charlotte's Restaurant in Millbrook to celebrate the couple's 60th wedding anniversary at the same site their wedding reception was held, then called the Silver Horn. Mickey was known to so many as a 50+ year volunteer fireman at the Millbrook Fire Department. Mickey joined the Millbrook Fire Department in December of 1966, he served as Vice President for four years and as a Director of the Board for fourteen years. In December of 1991, Mickey became a life member having served 25 years of active service. Mickey was also a Little League coach, Santa Claus at Village Christmas celebrations, an active member of St. Joseph's Church and a long-time volunteer at MidHudson Regional Hospital, formerly St. Francis Hospital. He was an avid fisherman and hunter, a beleaguered Mets Fan. He was proud to have been the Justice of the Peace in Millbrook for many years. Along with his regular court duties, it was his privilege to have officiated more than 700 weddings. With his family around him, Mickey said he "came into this world with nothing and wanted to make it a better place." He did, and for that his family, friends, and the entire community that is Millbrook will forever be grateful that they knew, loved, and were loved by Mickey Prisco. Mickey is survived by his wife of 60 years, Fussy. Also, son George and his wife Kathy, and daughter Amy and her husband Ken. He loved and doted over his grandchildren Bianca and Lydia Ring and Katie and CJ Eckelmann, and Kristie and Kevin Poncelet. He also loved his great grandson, Ivan Eckelmann. He is survived by a brother, Michael Prisco and his wife Nancy of Colorado. Among those who predeceased Mickey was his daughter-in-law, Lisa Prisco. Visitation was at Allen Funeral Home, 3270 Franklin Ave., Millbrook on Sunday, May 21. A Mass of Christian burial was offered on Monday, May 22 from St. Joseph's Church, 15 North Avenue. Interment followed in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Millbrook with military honors. In lieu of flowers, please make a donation in Mickey's name to the Millbrook Fire Department and/or The Cardinal Hayes Home for Children. FALL HOME IMPROVEMENT HEADQUARTERS

Family Services names 'Family of the Year' honorees

Each year Family Services honors two families that embody the ideals and values of Family Services' mission to bring people together to find the support they need, improving their lives and communities, and to build a stronger safer Hudson Valley. This year the organization honors Michael Fleischer & Michael Dupree with the Quality of Life Award and Alex Reese and Alison Spear with the Lifetime Achievement Award.

These families will be honored on July 13 at the Grandview in Poughkeepsie. The dinner will feature delectable farm to table food, an auction highlighting the best of the Hudson Valley and an opportunity to learn more about the impactful work being done each day by Family Services.

Michael Fleischer & Michael Dupree Quality of Life Award

Michael Fleischer and Michael Dupree purchased their home in Hyde Park in 1993 and have since devoted much of their time and energy to strengthening their community and preserving its wealth of historic resources. Prior to moving to the Hudson Valley, Michael Fleischer was president of Holby Valve, a manufacturing firm based in Manhattan, and the managing agent of other family-owned properties. Upon moving to the Hudson Valley, Fleischer continued his commitment to community service, serving on the boards of Community Foundations of the Hudson Valley, Dutchess County SPCA, MidHudson Regional Hospital, Westchester Medical Foundation and Walkway Over the Hudson. Fleischer is currently a director of the William Brown Foundation and trustee of the Arthur Brown Trust, both in Manhattan, and a board member of the MTA.

Upon relocating to the Hudson Valley, Michael Dupree served on many local boards including: two eight-year terms on the Board of the Hyde Park Visual Environment Committee and board chair at Dutchess Community College. Dupree is also now in his eighteenth year as chairman of the Hyde Park Planning Board and has just joined the MidHudson Regional Hospital Board of Visitors. Dupree was named the Hyde Park Chamber of Commerce's Volunteer of the Year in 2004 and 2011.

Alison Spear & Alex Reese Lifetime Achievement Award

Alison Spear and Alex Reese make their home in Wappingers on a farm that has been in the Reese family for over 150 years. Both Alison and Alex are devoted to preserving the architectural landscape and agricultural legacy of this property. For the past 10 years, Alex has owned and operated Obercreek Farm, an organic diversified vegetable farm, and Obercreek Brewery, while Alison is an award-winning architect licensed in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Florida.

Let's start the conversation
(845) 485-2273 • hvhospice.org

Active in the preservation and conservation of farmland, Alex serves as the Chair of Scenic Hudson Land Trust and is on the board of the Glynwood Center for Regional Food and Farming. He also has interest in history and historic preservation, serving as co-Chair of Boscobel Restoration in Garrison and Chair of the Advisory Board of the Hudson River Valley Institute at Marist College. He has been an avid contributor to Family Services since 2001, and serving as a board member in different capacities for over 10 years. Currently, he serves on the board of REAL Skills, a provider of after school programming for elementary school kids in Poughkeepsie.

In 2009, Alison achieved her LEED AP certification. Her restoration and redesign for the family's historic Hudson River Valley home was a cover story in the June 2013 issue of Architectural Digest Magazine. She is also on the Board of the Westchester & Hudson Valley Chapter of the AIA and on the Dia Council.

"Family Services is committed to having the greatest impact," said CEO Leah Feldman. "We are strengthened by the thought that families such as Michael Dupree and Michael Fleischer and Alex Reese and Alison Spear are by our side. It is only with the help of community champions that we can make our bold vision a reality. We will honor these families by continuing to help the community in the most compassionate and effective manner, creating stronger, safer communities for generations to come."
