Pine Plains veteran Blackmar recalls time in World War II

by Curtis Schmidt

U.S. Army veteran Allan Blackmar of Pine Plains is quick to tell you that he "never fired a shot" during his service in World War II. However, he most certainly walked in the footsteps of many soldiers — some of whom never returned home.

As Memorial Day nears, he is thinking about his days during the war.

Blackmar, at 96, has an extremely sharp memory of his time in the military service from late 1944 through 1946. He served in France, Germany and Belgium. Most of that time was spent backing up fellow troops as the Germans were retreating. He got to the battle zones very late in the war, though there was still much to be done as the Germans fell back onto their homeland and the allied troops advanced.

Blackmar recalls traveling through the areas that saw the Battle of Hürtgen Forest and the Battle of the Bulge roughly three months after those battles.

His service started in 1943.

"I was drafted in my senior year of trade school. I was studying to be a toolmaker," said Blackmar. He served in the 273rd Infantry Regiment, a part of the 69th Division.

His basic training was at Ft. Devens, Massachusetts. Further training came at Ft. McClellan, Alabama and Ft. Meade, Maryland. He recalls that his division was supposed to board ships for England in late 1944, but the ships were unavailable. He found out later that many of those ships were involved in the D-day operation.

His division did eventually land in England in December of 1944 and then at the Port of Le Havre in France near the end of January, 1945. From there, they traveled north to the border of Belgium and Germany.

The Battle of Hürtgen Forest was a series of fierce battles fought from September 19 to December 16, 1944. Though many separate battles, it was technically the longest battle on German ground during World War II and is the longest single battle the U.S. Army has ever fought. (See story on page one of the Memorial Day supplement to this issue.)

The Battle of the Bulge, also known as the Ardennes Offensive, was the last major German offensive campaign during World War II. It took place from December 16, 1944 to about mid-January of 1945. It was an unexpected attack launched through the densely forested Ardennes region between Belgium and Luxembourg about a month after the worst part of the Hürtgen Forest battles.

Blackmar said his division arrived at the area of the Battle of the Bulge on Feb. 12, 1945, relieving the 99th Division.

deep," said Blackmar. "The Germans were firing back as us as from pill boxes as they were retreating." ("Pill Boxes" were fixed concrete defensive structures holding six to 12 soldiers. They were equipped with "loopholes" or a thin slit just large enough to allow the defenders to fire weapons with little chance that return fire would get through the openings.)

Blackmar recalls he and his fellow soldiers "laying low on the frozen ground – it was hard as granite" and climbing into old foxholes from the Battle of the Bulge to escape enemy fire.

"Why did I never get hit by shrapnel? I don't know. I guess the guy upstairs was protecting me," he said.

Blackmar said he did lose a friend.

"He was hit by a sniper. I saw him go down," he said. "I think his Mom was a single mother. He was the only son she had."

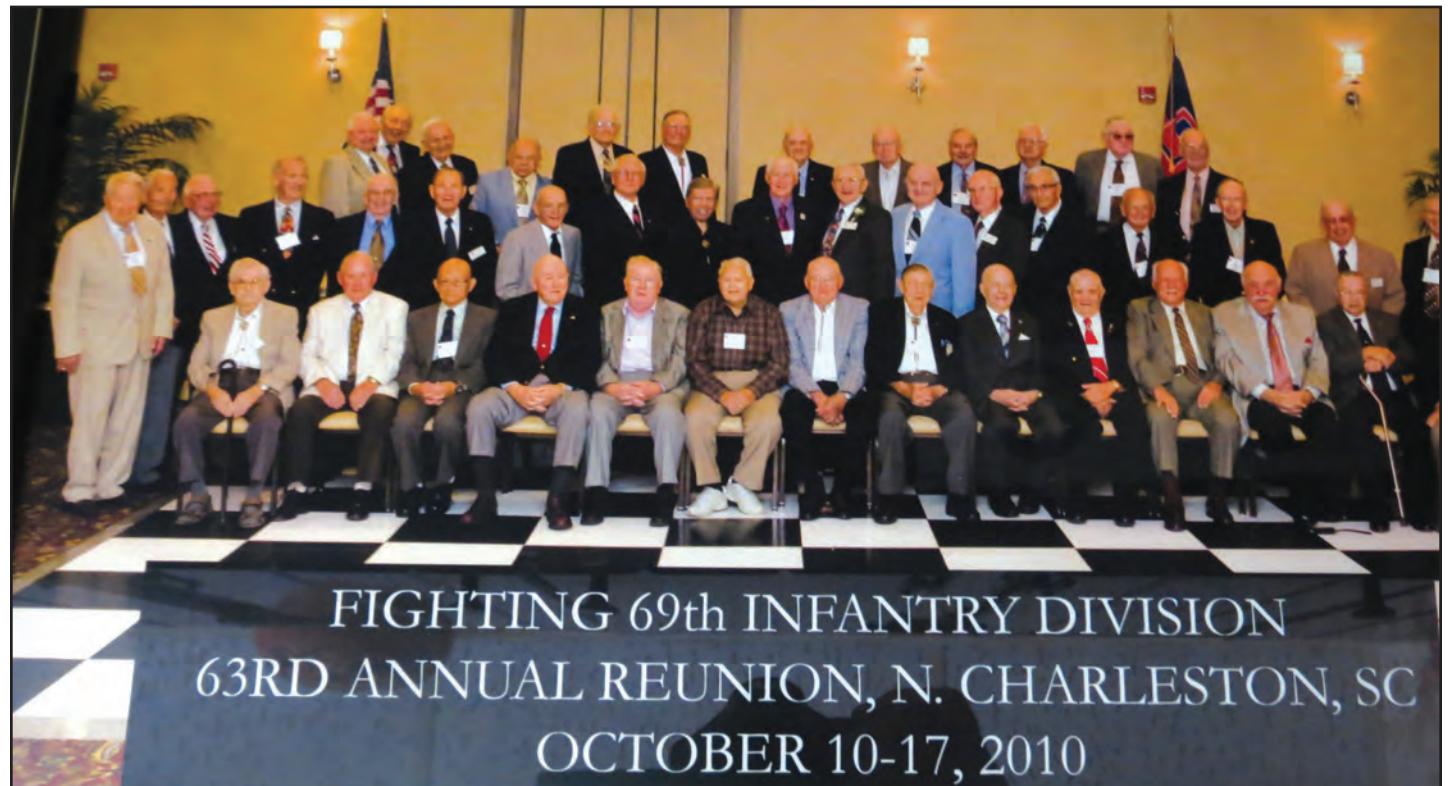

Blackmar says he never thought about "survivor's guilt."

"When you're 18-19 years old and in a war situation, you don't worry about things like that," he said. "You're just happy to survive."

After the Germans surrendered, Blackmar said the thinking in his division was that they would be sent to fight in the Pacific; however, the dropping of the Atomic Bombs on Japan ended those thoughts. He finished his time in the service staying another year with an "ordinance outfit" and drove a four-ton wrecker to pickup and recycle vehicles and get his points for two years in the service.

After the war, he stayed in contact with the soldiers of his division and attended over 20 reunions.

"We became like a great big family," said Blackmar.

He has also been a member of American Legion Post #426 in Pine Plains since 1960 and was involved for many years in placing flags on the graves of soldiers for Memorial Day and Veterans Day.

At 96, Blackmar says he is "doing fine. I stopped driving when I was 94. I've outlasted all of my brothers."

Historical marker to be unveiled in Rhinebeck on May 28

On Saturday, May 28, at 10 a.m., the Town of Rhinebeck will celebrate the installation of an historical marker at Quitman House. The location is 7015 Route 9 in Rhinebeck, about a quarter-mile north of the intersection of Routes 9 and 9G. The marker is the result of a grant from the William G. Pomeroy Foundation to the Rhinebeck Historical Society.

The marker will be installed at the site of the building that had served as the Parsonage for the minister serving St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church, better known as the Stone Church, located next door. The parsonage is known today as Quitman House and was built in 1798 to house the minister, Reverend Frederick H. Quitman, D. D. He had come to Rhinebeck to serve congregations here and in neighboring communities in the Hudson Valley, and earlier in the Schoharie Valley. It was no less a figure than George Washington who had encouraged him to move to the United States from his earlier posting in the West Indies. An indication of Rev Quitman's prominence is his election by fellow ministers to head the New York Ministerium, the organization overseeing all Lutheran churches in the New York region.

The marker replaces one removed two years ago, at the urging of local citizens and the Rhinebeck Historical Society, with the approval by the Rhinebeck Town Board and consent of the NY State Education Department. The earlier marker, dating to 1932, did recognize someone born at the site, John A. Quitman, son of the minister to be honored in the new marker. The earlier marker accurately recognized the site as the son's birthplace and his role as a hero of the Mexican War and as Governor of Mississippi. What the earlier marker failed to mention was the son's role as one of the largest slaveholders in Mississippi and as one of the most strident and effective advocates for secession from the United States in the years before the Civil War.

Quitman House today houses not only the Quitman Resource Center for Preservation but also the Museum of Rhinebeck History and the offices of Hudson River Heritage. The preservation and promotion of information about local history is a focus of all three organizations.

Quitman board member Carole DeSaram will open the ceremony; Rhinebeck Historical Society board member Michael Frazier will briefly discuss the important role Reverend Quitman played in the lives of citizens of the Hudson and Schoharie Valleys; Rhinebeck Town Supervisor Elizabeth Spinzia will conduct the unveiling of the new marker; Dutchess County Historian Will Tatum will share some remarks; to close the ceremony, Ms. DeSaram will invite visitors to visit inside Quitman House itself.

Everyone is welcome. Parking is available on the north side of Quitman House. We urge caution in turning in off Route 9, since the posted speed limit on Route 9 is 55 mph.

Questions about the event should be directed to Rhinebeck Historical Society board member Michael Frazier via cell/text to (845) 464-2015 or to michael.frazier@earthlink.net.

Bravo to HV Philharmonic Orchestra

To the editor:

On May 14th at the Bardavon 1869 Opera House, guest conductor Andre Raphel led the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra through the most fantastic, intricate, spiritual, rhythmic and other worldly program that I have ever heard!

The night began with Erich Wolfgang Korngold's "Theme and Variations," opus 42, which explores the anti-semitism that caused him to leave Nazi Germany and the life he created in 1950s America.

Then the "Adagietto for String Orchestra" by Richard Danielpour, reminded us of slavery in our country.

True to the night's theme, Avner Dorman's "Nigunim" (Violin Concerto No.2), was magnificently performed by violinist Lara St. John, and truly expressing the Nigun as a universal musical language. Conductor Raphel and Violinist St. John developed the Jewish, Klezmer, Arabic and Macedonian sounds as they "played" to one another, with the Orchestra supporting every note! It was so exciting, and physical!

The last piece was Felix Mendelssohn's "Symphony No.4" in A Major, Op.90, and the audience stood and clapped with appreciation at the end!

This concert was the last of the season, but hopefully not of the year! This Orchestra began with four men and an idea, 90 years ago. It is a Hudson Valley treasure with histories that include the end of WW II, Eleanor Roosevelt, Pete Seeger and human rights involvement. Please support its continuance!

Brookmeade Community honors graduates

The staff of the Brookmeade Community in Rhinebeck, along with local elected officials, honored three employees who are also graduating in their respective fields.

The event took place in the Pavilion at Brookmeade on May 19.

Graduates included Naim Fanek, who has completed his administrator in training curriculum and obtained his nursing home administrator license through the NYS Department of Health. Chelsea Moore graduated with her Associates Degree from Columbia Greene and is now a registered nurse. Katherine Seckler has completed her Master's Degree in Social Work from Sacred Heart University.

Brookmeade Administrator and CEO Karen Zobel honored each graduate with the following comments in regard to the code of ethics of each field:

Naim Fanek – "An Administrator is ethically responsible for the preservation of the highest standards of integrity and ethical principles. It is expected that they shall hold paramount the welfare of persons for whom care is provided and shall strive to provide to all those entrusted to their care the highest quality of appropriate services possible."

Chelsea Moore – "A registered nurse makes a promise to care for the sick with all the skills and understanding they possess without discrimination. They will respect at all times the dignity and religious belief of the patients under their care and will keep their professional knowledge and skills at the highest level."

Katherine Seckler – "A social worker's primary mission is to enhance human well-being and help meet the basic human needs of all people, with particular attention to the needs and empowerment of people who are vulnerable, oppressed, and living in poverty. A social worker must adhere to the mission rooted in a set of core values that include service, social justice, integrity and competence."

Zobel added, "Graduation is a landmark event. This ceremony will be a key part of the graduate's timeline of life, a symbol of change, of progressions and moving onto new adventures."

Also honoring the graduates were New York State Senator Sue Serino, Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro and Rhinebeck Mayor Gary Bassett.

Northern Dutchess Hospital gets 'A' from Leapfrog Hospital Safety Grades

Five As in a row! Northern Dutchess Hospital is among a small group of hospitals to earn an A safety grade from The Leapfrog Group, a national nonprofit focused on improving healthcare quality, safety and transparency.

Based in Washington, D.C., Leapfrog provides Hospital Safety Grades for more than 2,500 general hospitals, with the goal to help consumers make smarter choices in their personal healthcare. The new grades were released last week.

With scorecards published in the spring and fall, Leapfrog assesses hospitals for steps to avoid harm, medication safety, preventable infections, surgical volumes, maternity outcomes and more.

Since 2019, Northern Dutchess Hospital has been assigned the top-level A grade based on its ability to prevent errors, injuries, infections and other harm to patients.

"One A grade is a proud achievement," said Denise George, hospital president. "When you consistently receive the highest score five consecutive times, we have clearly and thoroughly demonstrated that safety is hardwired in this hospital's delivery of care."

Some examples of hospital practices to prevent errors include:

- Regularly surveying physicians, nurses and other staff on the culture of safety to measure how well staff works together to keep patients safe.
- Patient communication initiatives to ensure patients understand the purpose of any new medication they are given, how to take the medication and the risk of any possible side effects.
- Training and policies to make sure all hospital staff sanitize their hands before touching a patient.
- Utilizing effective bar coding technology for all orders to avoid medication errors.

Leapfrog's methodology is peer-reviewed and fully transparent, and the results are free to the public at hospital safetygrade.org.

PLAYER PROFILE

Matt Sauer is the Yankees' second-round pick from 2017. After logging 111.1 innings in 2021, Sauer appears poised for a jump forward in the system at age 23. Sauer uses a strong mid-90s fastball and slider combination. There are scouts who have envisioned him as a righty reliever for years, but the improvement in his command and strike-throwing will be something to watch moving forward.

Renegades drop series-ending doubleheader

by Rich Thomaselli

The Hudson Valley Renegades were swept by the Brooklyn Cyclones in a Sunday afternoon doubleheader at Maimonides Park, losing the opener 5-4 and the nightcap 3-1.

The Renegades are now 17-21 overall.

Brooklyn blasted a pair of solo homers against Hudson Valley starter T.J. Sikkema to jump in front in Game 1. Shervyen Newton went deep in the first and Jose Peroza left the park in the second to make it 2-0 Cyclones.

Sikkema (0-1) lasted 2.2 innings, allowing two runs on two hits, striking out three and walking one.

In the bottom of the third, Jose Mena slammed a two-run single off Alex Mauricio to extend the Brooklyn lead to 4-0. The following frame, Jaylen Palmer launched a solo homer to left and plunged the lead to 5-0.

The Renegades responded in the bottom of the fifth against Cyclones starter Junior Santos (1-4). With two outs and two on, Pat DeMarco found the right-center field gap for a two-run double to trim the deficit to 5-2.

In the top of the sixth, Hudson Valley loaded the bases against Justin Courtney. Aldenis Sanchez stepped to the plate with two outs and laced a two-run single off Grant Hartwig to pull the Renegades within one at 5-4.

Hartwig bounced back and earned his first save, recording the final four outs, including two strikeouts in the seventh, to close out Game 1 for Brooklyn.

In Game 2, Renegades starter Blas Castaño and Cyclones starter Nolan Clemeney traded nine-up, nine-down starts before Hudson Valley jumped in front in the fourth.

Everson Pereira tripled and came home on a Cooper Bowman groundout to give the Renegades a 1-0 lead.

Brooklyn responded in the bottom of the fourth on a Newton solo homer down the right field line to level the score at one.

The Cyclones broke ahead in the bottom of the fifth on Palmer's third home run of the series, a towering two-run shot to left to make it 3-1 Brooklyn.

Castaño (0-4) fired six innings in a complete-game loss, allowing three runs on four hits, striking out eight and walking none. It was the first complete game thrown by the Renegades this season.

Clemeney (2-2) tossed five innings, allowing one run on one hit, striking out eight and walking none. Hunter Parsons earned a six-out save and shut the door for Brooklyn.

Hudson Valley was set to welcome the Rome Braves for a six-game series this week.

Everson Pereira tripled and came home on a Cooper Bowman groundout to give the Renegades a 1-0 lead in the second game of a doubleheader on Sunday.

GLINER'S KORNER

An inside look at the variety of staff duties

Every week, Hudson Valley Renegades President Steve Gliner sits down with reporter Rich Thomaselli to discuss the team in particular, and minor league baseball in general.

Steve, are there any issues that you find yourself and the staff needing to address – from a team perspective or even minor league baseball as a whole – when the team goes on the road?

That's a great question. Let's put it this way – even on days when we don't have a home game, from the time I get in until the time I leave, there are some days I don't even go for lunch. To narrow it down, when the team goes on the road it's a lot of catch-up on things that just don't get attended to on game days.

For instance, we have surveys from Major League Baseball that they hit us with that we have to fill out and get back to them. There are a lot of emails, a lot of ticket requests. We have to get information out to the visiting team and the umpiring crew who are coming in for the next homestand. We're looking at marketing strategies and how we can improve and how we can promote the team. For instance, we're starting a big billboard campaign this week. An off-day at the Stadium is when I'm home before 7 o'clock. If we don't have a game at night and I'm home for dinner, that's a triumph (laughs). There's just a lot of moving parts.

So I'm guessing that makes Michelle (Steve's wife) a saint then.

(Laughs) Oh gosh. And you know the interesting things is, she's a teacher, so our schedules are really opposite. She's off during the summer and I work nights. But she loves to be around people so she actually comes to Dutchess Stadium and works the beer garden on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. Plus the kids are grown now and adults, so it's a little easier from that standpoint as well. She's been incredibly supportive over the years of my career. It's not easy when you work the large number of hours that we do. When I did spring training in Fort Myers (with the Minnesota Twins) and then a full season of minor league baseball right after that, we did that for 13 years when the kids were younger. I'm very lucky that my family has been so supportive of my career.

Especially during the week when the team is on the road, does the staff still meet on a regular basis to discuss what went right and what needs to be addressed?

Oh yeah, we actually circle back quite often. We do production meetings every Tuesday and Friday for homestands. We use that as an opportunity to say we need to pay more attention to this or that. It's not criticism, because our staff is amazing. It's more of a reminder than anything of here's what's important to stay ahead of. We also do nightly production meetings with video staff, with game-day staff. There's a lot of gears spinning and it's important to know what's coming. It's important to communicate. I think most people would be incredibly surprised at how many moving parts there are with our operation. Some people think we show up a month before the season and just open the gates. You have to be prepared for what's ahead because it comes at you fast.

And you have the people in place for that, I assume?

Oh, we increased our front office staff from eight last year to 19 this year. Honestly, I'm not sure how we made it through last year with just eight. We are really staffed up to where we should be now. From a game-day perspective, food and beverage alone is 100 employees. Not all 100 are on duty every single game but there's 100 on the roster to work. Then you have ushers, ticket takers, parking attendants, and there's about 60 on that roster. We're pushing close to 200 employees combined between fulltime and part-time. There are a lot of different departments that have to be covered and covered properly.

Veteran biker events coming up in June

The weather is certainly turning warmer, and it feels like summer is right around the corner, doesn't it? That means we will see a lot more motorcycles on the roads, especially on the weekends. I'm a biker myself, and I know the unique pleasure of getting out on the open road for the first time in a season.

Did you know motorcycle culture in the United States was actually started by veterans? It's true. After World War II ended, thousands of surplus military bikes were shipped back home from Europe. Veterans returning from war took these surplus bikes – some complete, some needing parts – and started their own motorcycle clubs across America, creating custom bikes from all the surplus spare parts available. These clubs came up with colorful names that mimicked the names of different fighter squadrons that became infamous during the war; for example, in 1948, a veteran named Otto Friedli started a club in Fontana, California called the Hell's Angels, whom you may have heard of.

These clubs started out as a way for war veterans to stay connected and share their experiences with other veterans. Of course, since those early days, motorcycle clubs have sometimes been given a nasty reputation, thanks to movies and TV. But thankfully, there are many veteran motorcycle outfits that serve as positive forces in their communities, including right here in the Hudson Valley. Local veteran motorcycle clubs like the Buffalo Soldiers MC, Peacekeepers MC, American Cruisers MC and others do so much for our communities, even though we might not see it.

Here's a couple of upcoming veteran biker events right here in Dutchess County you might want to check out.

On Saturday, June 4, my friend Commander Maddie and her crew at the Dover Plains VFW is sponsoring a poker run, with all proceeds benefiting the Post. Kickstands go up at 10am! It's only $20 per bike and that includes a BBQ dinner, live music, and raffles after the run. The Dover Plains VFW is located right on Route 22. For more information, call the Post at (845) 877-6300 or check out their Facebook page.

And on the following Saturday, June 11, the Red Hook VFW along with Peacekeepers MC and American Cruisers MC are sponsoring their Run For A Vet Battling Cancer, which will start at the Red Hook VFW on 30 Elizabeth Street in Red Hook at 10:30am. There's a $20 per biker and $10 per passenger suggested donation, and afterwards around 1pm there will be a BBQ dinner with live music back at the Post. It's a great time for a great cause. For more information, you can call my friend Commander Brian at the Red Hook VFW at (845) 758-6212.

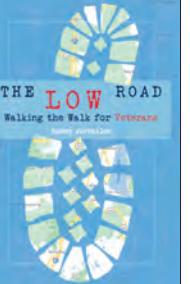

If you are a biker, you will definitely want to check out these upcoming events. But even if you are not, you might want to support one of these events anyway and enjoy some great barbecue and music and get to know these veterans who, like those World War II veterans back in the day, stay connected with their fellow vets through motorcycle clubs. It's an American tradition, for sure.

Well, it's a beautiful day outside as I type this latest Dispatch, so it's probably time for me to find my helmet and get out on the open road myself. Let's take special care this summer to look out for all bikers while we are driving, because often they are hidden when we check our mirrors.

Thank you for listening! We'll see you next time!

A Navy veteran, Tom Zurhellen has been Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) in Poughkeepsie for the past three years. In the summer of 2019, he walked across America from Portland, Oregon, to Poughkeepsie to raise awareness on veteran suicide and veteran homelessness in our country. He continues to work with local veterans in need through the VetZero Project, in partnership with Hudson River Housing.

TAKE THE HIGH ROAD AND BUY 'THE LOW ROAD'!

Tom Zurhellen chronicles his 2019 VetZero Walk Across America in his new book, "The Low Road: Walking the Walk for Veterans." The Walk raised awareness of the plight of many veterans in our country, and called attention to the fact that, every day, 22 veterans take their own lives. Proceeds from "The Low Road" will go directly to help local veterans in need through the VetZero Project at Hudson River Housing. The book costs $22 and can only be purchased at www.hudsonriverhousing.org.

In addition to free camping, the weekend will include a fireside chat on Friday, June 3 at 8 p.m. for attendees to discuss concerns of many veterans, such as suicide, homelessness and mental health challenges, and a free recognition picnic at noon in Pavilion A on Saturday, June 4. Veterans and their families do not have to camp to take part in either the fireside chat or recognition picnic.

Reservations are required for this event and are available on a first-come, first-served basis. Veterans and active military members can reserve campsites and RSVP for the fireside chat and picnic by calling Dutchess County Parks at (845) 298-4600.

Campers should note Wilcox Park RV sites are restricted to RVs and trailers only and include electric and water hook-ups, as well as a dump station. Tent sites

Increased turnout fuels budget approvals

by Kate Goldsmith

Most of the districts in the Northern Dutchess News readership area saw increased voter turnout as all their budgets were approved, most of them strongly so.

"From a point of comparison, in our last school vote we had a total of 478 voters. This year we had 1,235," said Rhinebeck School District Superintendent Albert Cousins. "This high increase of voters and interest in this civic process is remarkable!"

The tax levy increases listed for each district represent an average. The actual tax impact will vary from town to town, based on assessed values, STAR values and equalization rates that will be finalized in August. In addition, residents should know that there is no direct correlation between the tax levy increase and the amount of the increase in their individual tax bills.

ARLINGTON

The proposed budget of $240,591,000 passed by a count of 3,474 to 2,048. The budget carries a 3% increase over the current year.

The budget comes with a 1.95% increase in the tax levy, which is below the cap of 2.99%.

Two additional propositions also passed:

- The purchase of school buses, not to exceed the estimated total cost of $1,952,000, was approved by a count of 3,573 to 1,949.

- A capital project passed by a count of 3,415 to 2,082. The $21.6 million project will encompass the following:

- Arlington High School re-roofing and reconstruction of sidewalks;

- Union Vale Middle School re-roofing and reconstruction of sidewalks;

- Vail Farm Elementary re-roofing and reconstruction of sidewalks.

The three incumbent Board of Education trustees whose terms were up were all re-elected: Marion Quinn, Kelly Cahill Chenski and Mark Tornatore.

DOVER

Dover's proposed budget of $37,289,271 was approved by voters, 311 to 80. The budget has a 3.33% increase over the current year, but due to an increase in Foundation Aid from New York State, the district was able to increase staffing and programming opportunities while also decreasing the tax levy by 1.07%.

Voters elected Patricia Hammond, Tami Burns, Suzanne Calligan-Courtin and Russell Infantino to the Board of Education.

HYDE PARK

The proposed budget of $105,773,963, which carries a 1.23% increase over the current year, passed by a count of 1,509 to 640. The 2.86% increase in the tax levy is within the district's tax cap.

Two other propositions also passed:

- School bus replacements, not to exceed $601,434, was approved 1,544 to 595.

- The establishment and funding of a Capital Reserve Fund up to $10 million over 10 years passed by a vote of 1,534 to 604. This fund will be used for capital project improvements and renovations including but not limited to items listed in the Building Condition Survey or to purchase school buses. Because the expenses from this reserve would be classified as Capital Project expenses, NYS Education Department would consider them to be "aidable" at the current aid ratio.

Incumbent Board of Education members whose terms were up have been re-elected: Denise Biery (1,432), Edward Spence (1,357) and Michael Zagorski (1,381). Other candidates were Michael J. Green (765) and Christine Pemberton (745). Casey Simon received 316 write-in votes.

MILLBROOK

The proposed budget of $32,656,404 was passed by a count of 227 to 63. The tax levy increase is 1.83%, complying with the district's tax cap.

Three candidates ran to fill three terms, running from July 1, 2022 to June 30, 2025. They are incumbents Perry Hartwick and Jennifer Carnecchia, and Dena Ghobashy.

PINE PLAINS

The proposed budget of $35,253,160 was approved by a count of 668 to 226. The budget carries an increase of 3.15% over the current year and has a tax levy increase of 3.06%, at the district's mandated cap.

Voters approved these other propositions:

- The purchase two 71-passenger school buses, including cameras and necessary equipment, each at a maximum estimated cost of $117,000 each, for an aggregate maximum estimated cost of $234,000, passed 665-224.

- The establishment of a Bus Reserve Fund to a max of $2 million over 10 years was approved 645-244.

- Voters approved establishing a non-voting student Board of Education member by a count of 732 to 155.

Board of Education incumbents won another term: Amie Fredericks with 699 votes and Fred Couse, Jr. with 693 votes. Candidate R. Scott Cavey received 244 votes.

RED HOOK

Voters in the community overwhelmingly approved the district's $57.76 million budget by a vote of 1,130-373. The budget carries a 2.39% increase over the current year and a 1.93 increase in the tax levy, below the tax cap.

The community also approved the purchase of three 65-passenger buses and one maintenance vehicle totaling not more than $450,000 by a vote of 1,121-381.

Vote tallies were similar for the Red Hook Library budget totaling $196,400 (1,129 Yes to 378 No) and the Tivoli Library budget totaling $87,300 (1,148 Yes to 356 No).

In the Board of Education election, Kelly Borrelle and Kevin Storrs were elected to the board effective July 1, 2022. Borelle received 1,266 votes and Storrs, 1060. They will replace two retiring board members, Johanna Moore and Maggie Rothwell. Fernando Dongo received 437 votes and there were 13 votes for a number of write-in candidates.

RHINEBECK

The proposed budget of $37,241,300 received strong support with 1,010 voting Yes and 225 voting No. The budget carries a 5.26% increase over the current year, with a 1.65% tax levy increase that is below the district's mandated cap.

Voters also approved the creation of funding a repair reserve by a count of 1,032 to 193.

Four candidates ran to fill three seats, each with a three-year term commencing July 1, 2022 and expiring June 30, 2025. The winning candidates are incumbent Steve Jenkins (1,090), Mary-Kay Lombino (1,043) and Juliet Gorman (1038). Candidate Dov Frankel received 251 votes.

WEBUTUCK

The proposed budget of $25,039,114, carrying a 1% increase over the current year, was approved by a count of 170 to 63. The tax levy increase of 4.75% is less than the allowable tax cap of 4.90%.

An additional proposition to purchase transportation vehicles not to exceed $170,000 passed 174-59.

Two candidates, Nichole Reyes and Anthony Robustelli, ran to fill vacant seats of Board of Education incumbents Christopher Mayville and John Merwin. These are three-year terms commencing on July 1, 2022 and ending on June 30, 2025. Reyes received 174 votes and Robustelli received 193 votes.

Spring Concert at Smithfield Church to offer a mix of classical, pop and jazz

by Kate Goldsmith

The Smithfield Church in Amenia will present its Spring Concert this Sunday, May 29, at 4 p.m. The Smithfield Chamber Orchestra, under the direction of Matt Finley, will perform excerpts from a mix of classical, pop and jazz compositions.

"I joke with the audience. I tell them, 'If you don't like what you hear, just wait a couple of minutes,'" said Finley. "I think they appreciate that; they hear a wide variety of pieces."

The concert has an international theme, featuring music with origins in Ireland, England, France, Spain, Brazil, Cuba and the USA including Puerto Rico. Planned selections include "Molly on the Shore" (Percy Grainger), "Goldfinger" Theme (John Barry), "West Side Story" Medley (Leonard Bernstein), Pavane (Faure), "Washington Post" (John Phillip Sousa), "The Island" (Ivan Lins), "Holiday for Strings" (David Rose) and originals by local composers Finley of Pine Plains ("Julia") and Larry Ham of Millbrook ("The Ring").

The orchestra is comprised of regional professionals, all soloists in their own right. The mix of instruments is something of an "odd duck," Finley said.

"We have four string players, but not the regular instrumentation of a string quartet," he said. "We have two flutes and two clarinets, and I play whatever is left over on a variety of instruments. Since there is no music such a group can purchase, I do all the arranging and orchestration. I finally have a use for studying with the Director of the Albany Symphony over 50 years ago!"

Larry Ham, a local jazz pianist with an international reputation, will sit in with the orchestra on a few of the tunes, Finley said.

"Larry is so versatile," he added. "I was helping him with the jazz ensemble at Dutchess Community College. Larry is terrific to work with."

Finley got involved with the Smithfield Church concerts through his wife, Denise Jordan Finley, the church's music director and a well-known singer-songwriter.

"Our first concert as a group was exactly one year ago but [we have] been forming for about 10-12 years," Matt Finley said. "Almost all of them are people who have performed [as soloists] at the church at various times."

The performance is part of the Bang Family Concert Series, which was created "to encourage area residents to hear an eclectic lineup of top regional and international artists and discover a warm community of music lovers in the church's beautiful Greek Revival building," according to the church's website. The series is made possible through a generous endowment from lifelong musician Bill Bang, whose daughter, Susan, is a parishioner of Smithfield Church.

"My late father ... was a self-described 'child prodigy who never got any better,' whose public debut at the age of 12 was playing tuba for a local traveling circus," Susan said. "He only received $1 for hours of nonstop playing, but it meant the world to him because it officially made him a professional musician."

Bill finished his career in publishing, Susan said, but he and her late mother Mary Ann were philanthropists and major supporters of the arts in their Ventura, California community.

"They were founders of the New West Symphony, which continues to this day," said Susan. "Bill was very passionate about musicians having a local performance venue and getting paid for their craft."

When Bill was diagnosed with Stage 4 cancer, Susan said "he faced it with uncommon dignity and grace."

She added, "And when his end game was finally in sight, he was on a mission to find small local organizations where his donation would make a difference – and he included the Smithfield Church in his generosity. Knowing how important the church was to me, a parishioner, and the deep meaning of music to the congregation and the community, he endowed a Bang Family Concert Series that would allow local musicians to have an ongoing forum for their talent."

Finley said Susan Bang has been "a godsend to us."

Susan said her father "would have been very grateful, as we are today, to have Matt Finley as our talent wrangler, arranger and performer – truly a one-man band who's literally been instrumental in drawing together local artists for the success of this concert series."

Suggested donation to attend the concert is $20. The church is at 656 Smithfield Valley Road. Visit <https://www.thesmithfieldchurch.org/concerts> for more information.

Sandwich solutions

Bring these on a picnic or hike for a satisfying meal on the go.

It feels like forever since I last wrote due, in part, to a bout with COVID, but that's all behind me now and I'm just fine. Originally I had a mind to write about food in the time of pandemic, but since I've moved on from that I'll just let it rest and write about getting back to normal and the fine art of living.

By the time you read this I will have returned from an annual mother/daughters trip to Brimfield, Massachusetts, a tradition that began ten years ago. It's always an adventure and a lot of fun, but that has less to do with the town-wide flea market that is Brimfield and everything to do with quality time spent with my mother and sister, something we don't get to nearly enough.

Stealing away with my two favorite women is a special treat. We leave early in the morning, stopping for coffee and breakfast and arriving at our final destination before 10am, plenty of time to enjoy browsing the many vendors of collectibles and vintage wares before checking in to our hotel.

Also part of the tradition is a nosh of cheese to accompany martinis before we go to a nice dinner. We've been doing this long enough that we've had a lot of culinary adventures, some great and some not so good, but all have been fun. It's all in how you see it and we're just so glad to be together that we can make the most of anything. Perspective + quality time = a good time had by all!

Lunch breaks while in the throes of our shopping has often been a stop at one of the very crowded food vendors, but we've found a way around that, and that's what this is really about. Last year we went back to the car and made a lunch of the cheese and charcuterie usually reserved for our pre-dinner tradition. It turned out to be the perfect thing to do. We got to rest in the shade, change shoes, rehydrate and avoid the crowds for a while. It was pretty much bliss, especially since we had an early dinner out of town, and so not filling up beforehand worked out beautifully.

So this year I made sandwiches to fill that particular need. I wanted to share them with you because they are perfect for all the outdoor living you're sure to do this time of year. From picnics to hikes, these fit the bill. Made ahead of time and without anything overly perishable, they pack well and are better if made the day before. They're also pretty healthy and will satisfy without leaving you so stuffed that you need a nap. You'll get flavor and the energy you need to fuel adventures of your own. They are, quite possibly, the perfect take-along meal.

PERFECT PICNIC SANDWICHES

These are infinitely customizable. You can make them vegetarian if that's what you prefer and add whatever you like. I also love omitting the salami and replacing the arugula with sauteed broccoli rabe. Pesto is great on these, too. This is my favorite combination and well-suited to an active day of treasure hunting. They're best made a day ahead, which gives the flavors a chance to marry, and the limited dressing - in this case good quality olive oil and thick, sweet, rich

Trout fishing in America

Local creeks offer plentiful sport.

"They're jumping right out of the water!"

I was just about to get on the lawn mower (finally) when Jesse called.

"Get down here with your pole, a couple of gold phoebes and a big plastic bag!"

"Where are you?" I asked. Of course I can't tell you where he was, but five minutes later I was clambering down a rocky bank overlooking a roaring waterfall plunging into a deep hole.

Jesse wasn't kidding. On every cast he yanked a glistening trout up onto the bank.

Trout fishing is a big deal in the Hudson Valley. Of the 3,100 miles of streams and 300 lakes that the N.Y. State Department of Environmental Conservation stocks each year with 2.3 million catchable-size trout, eight stocked streams run through Dutchess County – Wappingers Creek, Sprout Creek, Roelof Jansen Kill, Webatuck Creek, Swamp River, Crum Elbow Creek, Fishkill Creek and Whaley Lake Brook. The D.E.C. Dumped 13,000 brown, brook and rainbow trout into Wappingers Creek alone this spring. Overlook Park Pond was stocked with 400 fish in preparation for the annual Family Fishing Day, which took place on May 1st this year.

More than a million New Yorkers hold fishing licenses. Anyone 16 years and older needs a license except on the free fishing weekend June 25-26.

Of all the different species of fish in our lakes and ponds – sunfish, perch, bass, bullheads – the trout is my favorite. Of the three common species, brook trout is supposedly the tastiest, followed closely by rainbow and then brown trout. But they're all delicious, sauteed or pan fried with butter, thyme and lemon.

I fish with lures or bait. I just go out to the stream after work, when I need something for dinner.

Late summer is the best season for trout fishing, when the water is low and the fish congregate in deep holes, waiting for me to sneak up, poke my rod through the bushes, and slowly drop a hook baited with a half a night crawler. Before a trailer load of gasoline overturned on its banks, Sprout creek was my go to stream after work. There were so many trout in there, that I once stopped my car on the bridge next to the LaGrange Town hall, rolled down the window, and caught a trout without getting out of the car.

Just to see if it could be done. Sprout Creek is recovering from its environmental disaster of a few years ago, and the water is running clear once again.

"Real" fishermen don't use worms. They do something called "fly fishing," and believe it or not, they sometimes release all their fish back into the water. I've heard that on the Beaverkill Creek near Roscoe, N.Y., (the self-proclaimed trout capital of the world) you are required to release your fish.

I visited Orvis Sandanona Shooting Grounds in Millbrook to check out the fly fishing angle. They have a nice pro shop open to the public, and a cafe, open 11 am – 3 pm. Private fly casting instruction and fishing schools are available. Fly fishing has to do with using a tiny artificial lure that mimics the bugs the trout are feeding on. Part of the line is weighted so you can cast the flies a few dozen feet into the stream. Sounds like fun, but a little too aristocratic for me.

After a few minutes at our secret spot, Jesse and I had caught our limit (five each), keeping the nice rainbows and releasing anything under ten inches. Then my 16-year-old granddaughter Ambika showed up.

"I saw your car parked along the creek," she said. "Can I try a cast?"

By that time we had used up our gold phoebes, caught on rocks or high up in branches. Ambika tossed a white rooster tail into the current and immediately landed a gorgeous 20-inch rainbow trout.

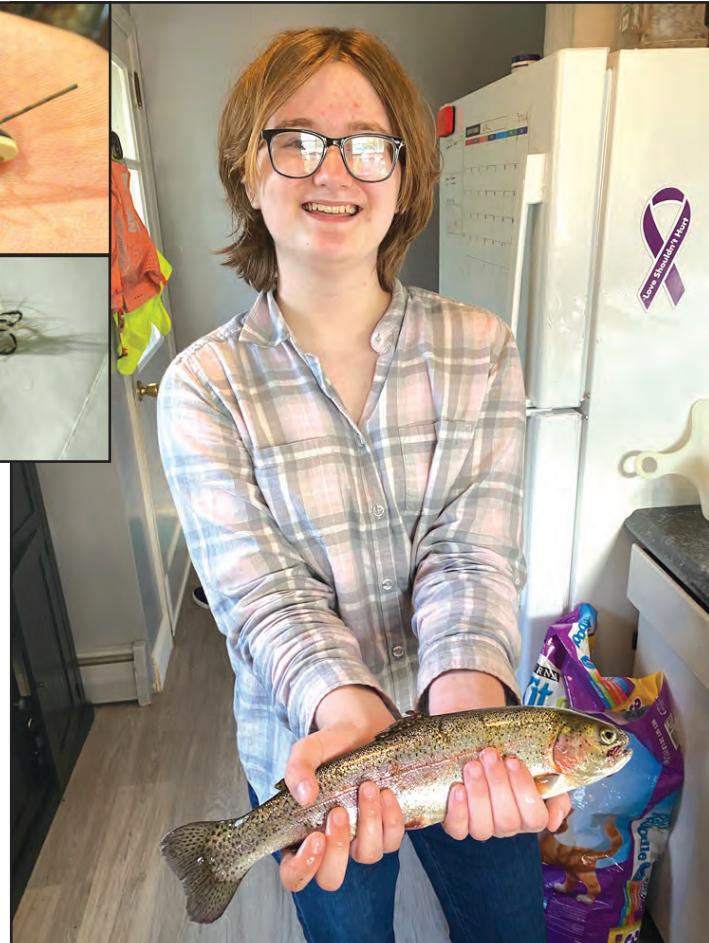

That's what it's all about.

balsamic glaze - time to soak into the bread without making for a soggy handful.

INGREDIENTS

1 baguette
Olive oil
Red peppers
Fresh mozzarella, sliced
Portobello mushrooms, sliced
Fresh basil leaves
Salami (I use pre-sliced)
Baby arugula
Balsamic glaze
Salt and freshly ground pepper

METHOD

The next two steps can be done 1 day ahead.

ROAST THE PEPPERS:

With the oven rack in the highest position, preheat the broiler. Line a baking sheet with foil.

Place red peppers (I used 4) upright on a cutting board. Cut each one from the top down around the stem. Most peppers will yield 4 pieces and you'll avoid the seeds this way. Cut away any white membrane inside each piece and place, inside-down, on the baking sheet. Broil until skins blacken, turning the baking sheet for even roasting. When blackened, remove from oven and place pieces in a plastic bag. The steam will loosen the skin so that, when cool enough to handle, they'll come off easily with your fingers.

SAUTE THE MUSHROOMS:

Preheat a (preferably cast iron) skillet. Place sliced mushrooms in the hot pan and cook over medium-high heat until they start to release liquid. Flip and continue cooking until soft and slightly brown. Set aside.

ASSEMBLE THE SANDWICHES

Cut the ends off the baguette, then cut the loaf into 3-4 equal pieces. Slice each piece in half and drizzle with olive oil.

Lay roasted red pepper pieces on bread. Add a layer of mozzarella, then basil, mushrooms, salami, and arugula. Sprinkle generously with salt and pepper.

WRAP 'EM UP:

This part is key. Lay a piece of foil on the counter. Add a piece of parchment and place one sandwich on top. Wrap sandwich very tightly in parchment. (If you want to be extra fancy, tie with a piece of twine.) Then wrap tightly in foil, crimping the ends to tightly seal. Refrigerate.

When you're ready to hit the road, place wrapp4d sandwiches in a cooler and let your adventure begin!

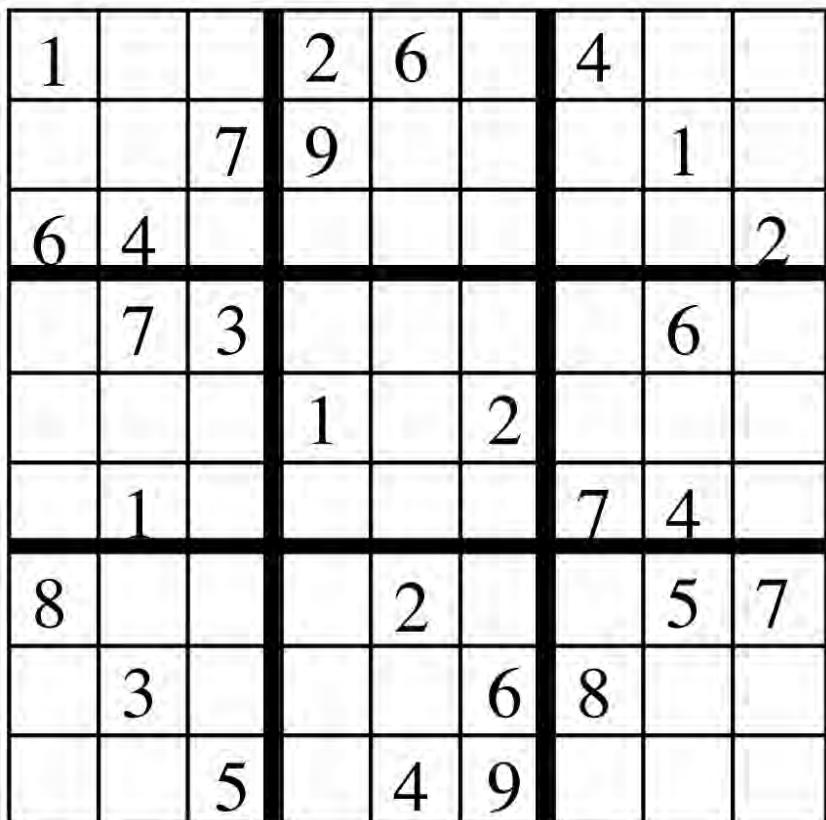

For your next outing, give this a try. I think you'll find, as we did, that it's your new go-to for picnics, a day at the beach or for any time you want something easy, delicious and truly satisfying. You're going to have plenty of fun outdoors so make sure you're well fueled for whatever you do with those you love best. Now get out there and start living! Enjoy!

SUDOKU

Sudoku requires no arithmetic skills. The object of the game is to fill all the blank squares with the correct numbers. Each row of 9 numbers must include all digits 1 through 9 in any order. Each column of 9 numbers must include all digits 1 through 9 in any order. Each 3 by 3 subsection of the 9 by 9 square must include all digits 1 through 9.

Suguru

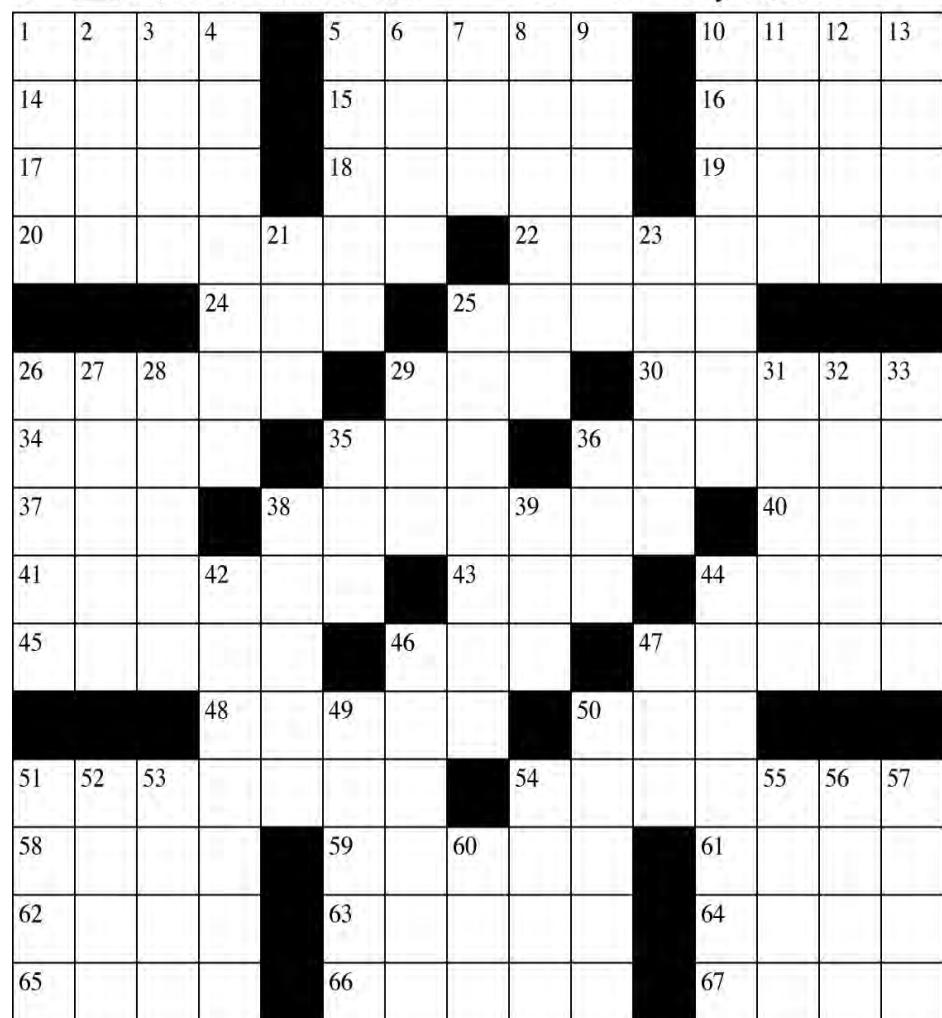

The heavy lines indicate areas, called cages, from one to five squares in size. Fill each cage with unique digits, counting up from 1. So for example a 2-square cage contains the numbers 1 and 2; and a 5-square cage contains the numbers from 1 to 5. Adjacent (touching) squares, even ones that touch diagonally, may never contain the same number.

HP Chamber honors DCSPCA, awards scholarships at dinner

The Dutchess County SPCA represented was honored by the Hyde Park Chamber of Commerce at its annual dinner on Thursday, May 19 at Coppola's Italian American Bistro.

The Chamber also presented two scholarships at the event.

Cathy Lane, Board president represented the Dutchess County SPCA. She was joined by Dr. Karen Blonder, Board member and Jean Epting, Volunteer coordinator.

Lane expressed gratitude to the businesses and the individuals at the dinner for their support because without their support through donations and volunteering, the DCSPCA could not offer the safety net programs and other services to the community.

Chamber president Dot Chenevert also presented scholarships to Lorenzo Wilkins, who will be attending SUNY Cortland and Patrick Dolan who will be attending U.S. Military Academy at West Point. They both will be studying toward working in the business sector in the future.

Chenevert also thanked sponsors - Anderson Center for Autism, DS Electric, Rhinebeck Bank and Ulster Savings Bank.

Individuals and business who donated

Ulster Savings Bank installs electronic vehicle solar charging station

Ulster Savings Bank recently installed an electronic vehicle solar charging station at its main headquarters in Kingston. This initiative is part of the bank's commitment to lessening their impact on the environment by incorporating sustainable and green business practices.

Recently, the bank held a ribbon-cutting to celebrate the launch of the charging station along with the Ulster County Regional Chamber of Commerce. Kingston Mayor Steve Nobel and other community members attended, along with bank team members.

Bill Calderara, President and CEO of Ulster Savings Bank, was on hand for the ceremony. "Community is a big part of Ulster Savings for 171 years and improving our environment is an extension of that. The EV solar charging station is just part of our overall commitment to improving our environment to benefit our stakeholders who are our customers, community, and our colleagues."

The charging station can accommodate six cars and has a 20' x 70' solar carport to protect vehicles. It's lit with LED lights that are powered by 50 solar panels on its canopy. The solar canopy produces 20,000 KWH and has its own electric meter. An app alerts users when their car is fully charged. The bank will be offering one hour free charge to the public.

The project was designed and manufactured by Tom Kacandes of Inside Track Solar. The company, from Highland, NY specializes in solar panels that are pre-assembled off-site. It was installed by Jaffer Electric, Inc. of Kingston.

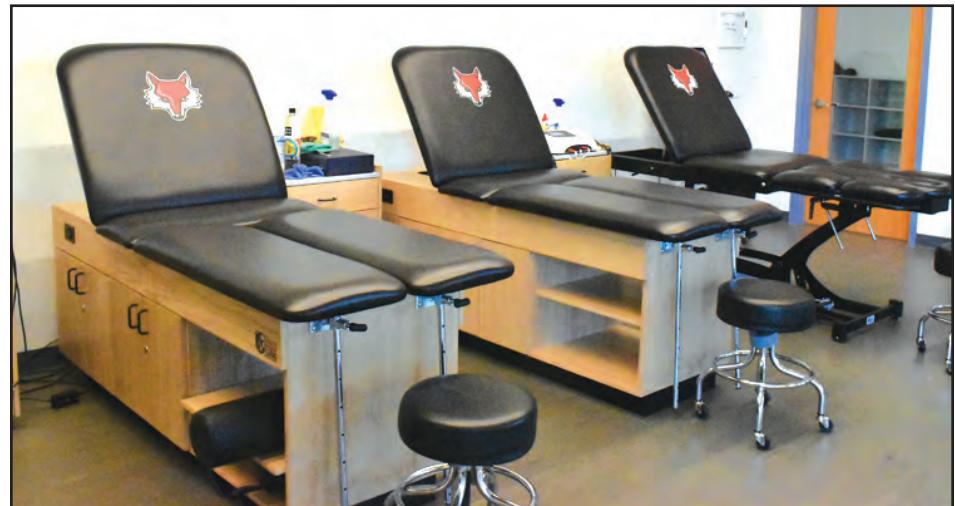

Other green projects in the works is an additional EV solar charging station for employees at the main headquarters in Kingston and one for their New Paltz location. Last year, the bank installed solar panels at its Red Hook and New Paltz branches and this year will be installing solar panels at their locations in Gardiner and Stone Ridge. To see more green initiatives that the bank is doing, go to the website at UlsterSavings.com.

There is over 5,000 square feet of space for running analysis, throwing techniques and jumping in the new Center for Physical Therapy sports injury facility at Marist College. Adjustable tables and a private room for examinations and treatment are also available. Photos by Katherine Keeney Marist College, in conjunction with the Center for Physical Therapy, will open its doors this summer to all local athletes who have sustained injuries.

The newly designed facility has equipment including squat racks, cardio machines and every tool needed for a safe and effective recovery. The McCann Center at Marist houses a track, basketball gym and sport specific machinery. There is over 5,000 square feet of space for running analysis, throwing techniques and jumping. Adjustable tables and a private room for examinations and treatment are also available.

Each athlete will receive an initial one-hour initial evaluation when therapy will begin, and a detailed plan will be instituted for the length of one's rehabilitation.

Common injuries include, but are not limited to

- Sprains and strains.

- Knee injuries.
- Swollen muscles.
- Achilles tendon injuries.
- Low back injuries
- Rotator cuff injuries.
- Fractures (broken bones)
- Dislocations.

Doctors of Physical Therapy will assess the injuries and provide various techniques to help the athlete recover in a safe and effective manner. Over 30 years of experience and an involvement with all the local high schools and colleges makes this inaugural summer season a spectacular experience if you are an athlete in the Hudson Valley.

If you have any questions or would like to schedule an appointment, please call (845) 297-4789 to inquire about Center for Physical Therapy's Marist College Program.
