

Town of LaGrange gathering promises lots of fun for all

by Jim Donick

The annual LaGrange Community Day in Freedom Park returns to its springtime date this year after a short pause due to COVID-19. Scheduled for Saturday, June 11, it promises a true celebration of the community.

“This is our first year where it feels like we may be coming back to a sort of ‘normal,’” said Town Supervisor Alan Bell. “We have to begin planning for this in February to make it work. Last year with COVID was uncertain enough for June that we went with a larger event at our annual fall gathering. We’ve committed to making this one better than ever.”

This year’s party promises “Food, Fun and Fireworks!” and on a grand scale. There are over 50 sponsors and nearly 75 vendors and exhibitors on hand, all of whom will be turning this into a celebration of the entire community.

There will be something for everyone. The community and business vendors will be under a pavilion and available to discuss programs and services or to talk about the next project one wants to do with the house, or maybe make an appointment for a manicure. The Historical Society will be there to share perspective on the people and events that created the LaGrange of today.

A number of food vendors will be cooking up a wide range of delicacies from the simple to the sublime.

There will be music throughout the day. DJ Chris Wimmers will be providing a variety of recorded tunes. Live music will be interspersed throughout the day, including selections performed by the Arlington High School Orchestra.

“That part of the day, the Arlington High School Orchestra, is always hugely popular,” said Bell.

Salt Point Fire Co. celebrates 75 years of serving community

For the Salt Point Fire Company, it all started with a fatal house fire and members of the community who worked together to form a solution to a serious problem. That solution is alive and well today and the company will celebrate its 75th anniversary with a multitude of events on Friday and Saturday, June 10-11.

In 1946, a house fire on Hibernia Road in the hamlet of Salt Point claimed the life of Vincent Van Buskirk. The Pleasant Valley Fire Department responded, however, due to the distance, lack of speed of the fire apparatus and advance the fire had before the alarm, the house was destroyed.

A number of residents led by Harold Roe and Frank Bock felt that if there was a fire station in the Hamlet of Salt Point, which would provide primary fire protection to the Salt Point residents and also assist the Pleasant Valley Fire Company, this would greatly reduce the loss of life and property in the community as a whole.

The Salt Point Fire Company was formed in June of 1947. The fire company started out in the abandoned station of the P&E Railroad. The present building is on that same site at 30 Cottage Street.

“It started out as neighbors helping neighbors. It was a tight-knit family organization and it has remained that way over the years,” said Matt Cady, chairperson of the 75th Anniversary Committee.

Frustration mounts for Whaley Lake residents over damaged bridge from Ida

On September 2, 2021, the huge volume of water from the remnants of Hurricane Ida completely washed out the Lakeview Drive Bridge and road at Whaley Lake in the Town of Pawling, Holmes. Despite desperate efforts for help for nine months since, there is still no bridge or road at this site. Courtesy photo

by Rich Thomaselli

Frustration has set in for a group of homeowners who live near the damaged Whaley Lake Bridge in Holmes, as time – and options – to repair the structure is running out.

The bridge, road and access on Lakeview Drive leading to the lake were all damaged last September when the remnants of Hurricane Ida reached the area and caused havoc.

But more than nine months later, the non-profit Shore Haven Civic Association – a group spun off from the 103-member Homeowner’s Association in Whaley Lake – has run into roadblock after roadblock from the federal level to the state to the county trying to secure help for repairs.

That includes the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and the Small Business Association (SBA).

“They’re using us like a chip at a poker table,” said Aaron Cioppa, acting president of the Homeowners Association. “It’s been the most frustrating thing in the world.”

Now it appears the only avenue for the Association is to raise the $50,000-plus on its own through a GoFundMe page. So far, the group has received $8,400 in donations. Visit <https://gofund.me/3fca1867>.

“Dealing with the government has been a nightmare,” said another resident, Marilyn Bontempo.

Runoff water from the heavy storms dumped by Ida not only caused massive property flooding, but wiped out the bridge. The Association says that everything from delivery trucks to ambulances, fire and police responders are forced to turn away or try to navigate a tenuous situation caused by the damage.

Indeed, a timeline provided by Bontempo lays out in black and white just how frustrating the process has been.

- Met with Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro, Town of Pawling Supervisor James Schmitt and New York State Senator Sue Serino at the Whaley Lake Bridge site on Sept. 2, 2021, just days after the damage. The County could not help.

- “That bridge is actually privately owned, so the County’s ability to assist is very limited,” a spokesperson for the County Executive’s office said in a statement provided last week to the Northern and Southern Dutchess News. “Our Department of Emergency Response did very actively advocate for FEMA assistance (either public assistance or individual assistance) and brought the FEMA review teams to the site on multiple occasions. It was determined it would not be eligible for FEMA public assistance and FEMA was working with the Homeowner’s Association about the possibility of Individual Assistance.”

- Per Schmitt’s suggestion, 24 residents filed for FEMA help on Nov. 23, 2021. It would be the first of two times the federal agency denied the Association’s application, despite letters from the local U.S. Postal Service, police, fire and first responders regarding the danger that the damaged bridge presented. FEMA said homeowners could still

The absence of the bridge on Lakeview Drive near Whaley Lake has presented major obstacles for traffic and walkers for nine months, necessitating many large vehicles to turn around or to back down the road. For emergency responders, this leaves the entire community at risk in the event of failing to reach destinations on time. Courtesy photo access their homes without the bridge.

- “Yes, there are two access points. Depending on which side of the bridge you live, you can access your home and that’s why FEMA will not pay attention to us,” Bontempo said. “We put signs up saying that the bridge is out, but people still come down the road and have to back out. Even Royal Carting (garbage removal) has to now back down the road. It’s a dangerous situation.”

- Schmitt, who did tell the Association he would waive permit fees if the group was able to find the funds to fix the bridge, did not return a request for comment.

- Then-HOA president Wendel Weber applied for an SBA loan also on Nov. 23. It was denied because the applicants did not show an ability to pay the loan back.

- In late December, the main water line was insulated by adding an additional outer pipe, insulation and covered with Item 4 to prevent freezing as a stop-gap measure.

- In February of this year, an application to Engineers without Borders was not selected. The Association also explored local College Civil Engineering Programs for Community Outreach, but was told that their focus is on nonprofit parks and arts organizations.

- In May of this year, the Shore Haven Beach Path leading to the lake received in-kind services of five truckloads of fill and labor/equipment from one contractor as a start to improving safety.

- The group has appealed to Dutchess County Legislator Edward Hauser, who pledged help in an email to Bontempo and Weber.

- The Association also asked Schmitt to help with a grant, but the April email appeared to be too late for the May deadline.

- “We have been working as hard as possible to assist in the grant for your bridge over the last 2 weeks. This grant is extremely involved and requires a lot of very involved, high-level work and expertise. As such, we reached out to our grant company for assistance and unfortunately they are unable to complete it in this short time frame. They also reached out to subcontractors they work with and who are unable to assist as well. We cannot complete the grant ourselves due to the rigorous work involved - we don’t have the time or staff to get it done before the May 4th deadline.” Schmitt replied to Bontempo’s husband, Richard Wilson. “As you know, we’ve reached out and advocated on your behalf to FEMA, the SBA, Dutchess County and Homeland Security (DHSES) many times and have tried everything to assist in fixing the bridge, and they again confirmed that this project is not an ideal candidate for funding through this grant. At this point, unfortunately, we’ve reached another dead end. We will continue to keep an eye out for any possible means of funding the bridge construction and apologize that this process has been so disappointing.”

It now appears the Homeowners Association is getting closer to the end game.

“We’re already there,” said Giovanna Cioppa, Aaron’s wife, who is on the Association’s Bridge Committee. “It’s frustrating and disappointing, especially when all of us are taxpayers and you would think that taxpayers would get a reasonable amount of help in return.”

Putting out fires is part of the job

And if you’re Ibis, a certified interior firefighter, sometimes that can mean real fires. Ibis grew up here, and although he left for a while, he returned because he missed living in a community where people care about each other. He likes that this is the type of place where you can work with the local elementary school, in this case Seymour Smith, set up a student savings program, teach the kids good habits, and then find them pointing you out to their parents on the street, proud they know you.

Helping people makes Ibis happy. Having Ibis run our Stanfordville branch makes us, and our customers, happy too. After all, the occasional fire does have to be put out, whether it’s the building down the street, or the money burning a hole in your kid’s pocket.

The programs for kids (of ALL ages) will range from the “Bubble Bus,” and Bee Bee the Clown, to a Hula Hoop contest, Limbo dancing competition and other dance contests. There might even be face painting.

The day wraps up with an exciting fireworks display just past sunset.

“I love this event,” said Bell. “It’s a real coming together of the community. I hope everyone will join us for a wonderful family day in the park, full of old-fashioned family fun.”

See the Town website for additional information: lagrangeny.gov/Government/community-day.htm.

“We obviously have been there all along with updated equipment to fight fires and aid in accidents, but we also work hard with many activities all designed to bring the community together. That’s what it’s all about.”

That theme is reflected in the 75th Anniversary celebration activities.

- It all starts with a Car and Motorcycle Show, sponsored by Ruge’s Automotive, at Helen Aldrich Park (1950 Salt Point Turnpike behind the Fireside Cafe) from 5-10 p.m. Friday. Antique and hot-rod cars all types are welcome, along with motorcycles. Trophies will be awarded for first, second and third place plus a People’s Choice award.

The band “Jumpstart” begins playing at 6:30 p.m. with plenty of kids and family events and food vendors.

- Saturday’s events will begin with a Community Yard Sale at the Fire House from 9 a.m. – 1 p.m. Call 845-857-3040 to reserve a space.

All other events run from 3-11 p.m. with the highlight being the Annual Convention Dress Parade of the Dutchess County Volunteer Fire Association (DCVFA) at 5 p.m. running through the Hamlet on Salt Point Turnpike. This is also the 75th anniversary year of the DCVFA.

Parade Grand Marshals will be Martin (Marty) Mills and Don Cady, the two oldest members of the Salt Point Fire Company. Over 20 area fire departments and seven bands will be represented.

Judging of fire department vehicles will be by the Westchester County Fire Department Judges Association.

Cady said parking will be provided at

Helen Aldrich Park and plenty of space will be available for individuals to sit and view the parade along the parade route.

The Jordan Stoner Band will begin playing at 6:30 p.m. at Helen Aldrich Park, which will also be the site of several other activities, including kids games, plus booths for the Dutchess County Firefighters Association Museum, Red Knights Motorcycle Club, Dutchess County Sheriff’s Department, Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC), plus Touch-A-Truck vehicles from Peckham (Dutchess) Quarry. The Pleasant Valley Rotary Club will also have a Beer Tent.

Cady said, “We want to give a big ‘Thank You’ to all of our sponsors and all members of the 75th Anniversary Committee for their help in putting this event together.”

A complete history of the Salt Point Fire Company can be found at pvfdny.org/content/station2. It is a division of the Pleasant Valley Fire Department.

An excerpt from the history provides a fitting preparation for the upcoming events:

“The building, equipment, turnout gear may have changed since the ‘humble beginnings’ back in 1947. The one thing that hasn’t changed is the dedication and pride of the Salt Point Fire Company. Following in the footsteps of the original 24 members, the Salt Point Fire Company stands ready to protect and serve when needed.”

County to offer free rabies clinic June 25

The Dutchess County Department of Behavioral & Community Health (DBCH) is partnering with the Dutchess County SPCA (DCSPCA) to host a free rabies vaccine clinic for pets on Saturday, June 25, at the Fishkill Town Hall, at 807 Route 52, in Fishkill. The clinic will run from 8 a.m. to noon with free parking available. Registration is required; walk-ins will not be accommodated. Registration can be done by visiting dutchesscountyspca.as.me/RabiesClinic. Advance registration can also be made by calling the DCSPCA at (845) 452-7722, ext. 425.

This clinic will offer Dutchess County residents the opportunity to obtain rabies shots free of charge for their dogs, cats, and domestic ferrets 3 months of age and older. Proof of residency is required. Non-residents will be charged a fee of $10 per pet vaccinated. All dogs must be on leash, and cats and domestic ferrets must be in carriers. Vaccinations will be good for three years for pets with proper proof of a prior immunization. For those without proof, the vaccination will be good for one year.

In New York State, rabies shots are required for all cats, dogs, and domestic ferrets by the age of four months.

Animals must always remain up to date on rabies shots. Revaccination is required on a regular schedule to keep the animal properly immunized against the rabies virus. Owners can be fined up to $200 if they fail to get their pets vaccinated and keep them up to date.

If a pet is not up-to-date on its rabies vaccination and fights with a rabid or suspect-rabid animal, the pet must be promptly destroyed or placed in quarantine for six months to protect other animals and people in case the pet develops rabies. These mandates do not apply to a vaccinated pet in the same situation. In such cases, only a booster dose of rabies vaccine would be given within five days to treat the pet.

DBCH is available 24/7 to assist with questions or concerns regarding potential rabies exposure to people or domestic animals. Pet owners should report to DCBH any incident in which their pet has been bitten by or has an open wound exposed to the saliva or nervous tissue of a domestic or wild animal. If a person has been bitten, or a domestic pet is bitten or is in contact with any animal, contact DBCH immediately at (845) 486-3404 Monday through Friday 9 a.m.-5 p.m., or (845) 431-6465 on nights and weekends.

Solutions to mass shootings

To the editor:
There seem only three uses for guns that rapidly fire multiple shots: insurrections, criminal gangs, or mass shootings. Anyone imagining fighting with their guns to liberate America from a future (or present) despotism should consider the recent Armenia / Azerbaijan fighting. Azerbaijan's Turkish drones easily defeated Armenia's better trained and armed soldiers. So future rebels might want to get friendly with Turkish President Erdogan rather than worrying about rapid-firing guns. The roots of our mass shootings run much deeper. Clearly something is different from the past.

The person voted most likely to succeed in our high school had succeeded, but so had almost everyone else, sometimes on the second or third try. It was possible then because we had a complete, balanced economy – many kinds of jobs and skills. Having sent many of those jobs overseas (e. g., machine tools, autos, steel, TVs), it is harder these days for young people to find their place, and much tougher to support a family or buy a house. In the '60s, one breadwinner could support a family, buy a house and educate children.

A second problem is acknowledged by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC): One of every six children has some type of developmental problem. The resources to address that disaster are a tiny fraction of COVID-19 funds. Little progress has been made understanding causes, even less on healing or prevention.

Address our unbalanced, unequal economy, and the tragedy of developmental problems, and we may find many benefits besides reduced mass shootings.

Molinaro calls for PSC to hold Central Hudson to more accountability, transparency

Editor's note: County Executive Marc Molinaro sent the following letter to New York State Public Service Commission Chairman and CEO Rory Christian requesting the Commission to seek greater accountability and transparency from Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation (CH) and New York State Electric & Gas Corporation (NYSEG).

Chairman Christian:
Pursuant to complaints related to new billing systems implemented by Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation (CH) and New York State Electric & Gas Corporation (NYSEG), and in furtherance of consumer financial protections, I respectfully invoke your intervention on behalf of the two utility's more than 2.5 million customers to ensure full transparency and accountability during the investigations. To these ends, I implore the Public Service Commission (PSC) to:

1. suspend any current rate case and defer any future utility filings including any pending rate increases

during the investigation period, and until all outstanding related customer disputes have been satisfied; and
2. suspend any current rate case and defer any future utility filings including any pending rate increases until a management and operations audit has been completed.

As you may know, a perfect storm has been brewing for two decades fueled by questionable federal and state policy decisions, some targeting our region, and the untimely and hastily closure of Indian Point—the result has been a deliberate incremental increase in electric and gas costs to the residents of our region conflated by legislated supply side constrictions of electric and natural gas. This in and of itself has produced undue hardship on our residents, but the failure of the PSC to provide proper guidance and oversight as it relates to mandates such as the Community Distributed Generation Program and the implementation of the utilities' billing systems have placed thousands of residents in financial jeopardy. Instead of creating a reliable and sustainable system resilient to external factors, the system has been regulated for failure.

Nevertheless, the utilities cannot escape the responsibility for a flawed rollout of a new billing system and failure to effectively communicate with affected customers, but neither should those that regulate them.

Consequently, our residents, still vulnerable from a global pandemic, have lost faith in our gas and electric utilities on which they rely on more than ever, and lost faith in the institutions responsible for their oversight. Our residents find themselves reduced to having to make choices between energy and nutrition.

While the investigations and resolutions are paramount, in short order I call on the PSC to seek greater accountability and transparency from the utilities they regulate, but also look inward at the Department of Public Service (DPS) and New York State (NYS) for the same accountability and transparency.

My colleagues have called for greater transparency of the market prices and formulas the utilities use to determine consumer rates, and I support that effort, but I demand the same accountability and transparency apply to the cost of programs and policies mandated by the state which are embedded in the supply, delivery and miscellaneous charges. Utility bills prescribed by DPS and the NYS are difficult at best for customers to understand, and customers have the right to know a true cost breakdown of their energy as well as the efficacy and benefit of any mandated program or policy.

I appreciate your time and attention to this correspondence and stand ready to work with you and the state to ensure our residents and businesses receive the affordable, reliable and sustainable energy they need with full, not selective, accountability and transparency.

Sincerely,

Marcus J. Molinaro
County Executive

Renegades' catcher makes up for mistake

by Rich Thomaselli

Hudson Valley Renegades catcher Anthony Seigler had an embarrassing moment last week during a game – a moment that quickly went viral through social media channels before the youngster made up for it less than 24 hours later.

Seigler ended a game last week with something of a blooper, although it likely would not have made a difference in the final outcome. With the Renegades trailing the IronBirds 6-2 in the bottom of the 10th inning and two outs, Seigler crushed a pitch that had home run written all over it.

At least, he thought so.

Seigler flipped the bat in a bit of bravado and went into a home run trot.

But it wasn't a home run.

It stayed in the park at Dutchess Stadium and when Seigler realized the gaffe, he turned on the jets. It wasn't enough and he was thrown out at second base easily for the game's final out.

But the mark of a good player with a great temperament is to bounce back, and Seigler did that the very next night.

His two-run home run was not only the literal difference in a 2-1 victory over the Braves, but with Rome threatening with the trying and go-ahead runs on base in the top of the ninth inning, Seigler picked off the runner at first base to end the game.

RENEGADES ROUNDUP

Renegades take 4 of 6 from league-leading IronBirds

by Rich Thomaselli

The Hudson Valley Renegades sent 12 batters to the plate in an eight-run seventh inning on Sunday, fueling an 11-5 come-from-behind road victory over the Aberdeen IronBirds.

With the win, the Renegades took four of six from the South Atlantic League North Division-leading IronBirds, who nonetheless still lead Hudson Valley by 9.5 games in the standings.

HV is now 24-26 overall in the first half of the season, which ends in less than three weeks.

Anthony Seigler sparked the rally and finished 2-for-3 with three walks, two RBIs and two runs scored in the series finale – the latter two coming within two separate seventh inning at-bats.

Hudson Valley jumped ahead in the top of the first against Aberdeen starter Connor Gillispie. Trey Sweeney reached on a fielder's choice, advanced to second on a wild pitch, stole third and came around to score on Connor Pavalony's wild throw to make it 1-0 Renegades.

The IronBirds answered back in the bottom of the first against Renegades starter T.J. Sikkema. TT BOWENS reached on an error by James Nelson, allowing Terrin Vavra to score from third to level the score at one.

In the top of the fourth, Hudson Valley mounted a two-out rally against Jake Prizina. Nelson singled, stole second, Aldenis Sanchez and Aaron Palensky both walked, and Eduardo Torrealba banged a two-run single to give the Renegades a 3-1 lead.

Aberdeen rallied to take the lead against Nelson Alvarez. Donta' Williams lined an RBI single, and with two outs and runners at second and third, Alvarez (2-1) committed a throwing error allowing two runs to score and the IronBirds in front 4-3.

In the top of the seventh, the Renegades stormed back and put up an eight spot to take control. Anthony Seigler led off the inning with a solo homer to left off Carson Carter (0-1) to tie the game at four. Later in the frame, Nelson drew a bases-loaded walk, scoring Sweeney from third with the go-ahead run.

Aberdeen called upon Xavier Moore and Hudson Valley greeted him with four consecutive two-out RBI singles to break it open. Palensky nailed a two-run single, Torrealba followed with his second RBI hit of the day, a Seigler line drive found outfield turf for his second RBI of the inning and Sweeney drove in one with a laser to center, growing the lead to 11-4.

Jhonatan Muñoz fired three strong innings of relief, allowing one run on four hits, striking out three and walking one, Carlos Gomez tossed two innings of one-run ball, striking out two and walking none, and Nelvin Correa tossed a perfect ninth inning to secure the win.

Hudson Valley was set to begin a six-game series with the Jersey Shore BlueClaws on Tuesday, June 7, at Dutchess Stadium.

Renegades to participate in HOPE Week with WMCHHealth

The Hudson Valley Renegades have announced their participation in HOPE Week. Renegades players and staff will participate in community service events throughout the Hudson Valley from Tuesday, June 7 through Sunday, June 12.

The Renegades participation in HOPE Week is in partnership with Westchester Medical Center Health Network (WMCHHealth), the Official Hospital Partner of the Hudson Valley Renegades.

The Yankees' wildly popular and successful HOPE Week initiative (Helping Others Persevere & Excel) was introduced in 2009, and is rooted in the fundamental belief that acts of goodwill provide hope and encouragement to more than just the recipient of the gesture.

"Being able to participate in HOPE Week is one of the most special parts of being affiliated with the New York Yankees," said Steve Gliner, President and General Manager of the Renegades. "Being able to touch people's lives and make a difference through our and the Yankees' commitment to community engagement is what we are all about as an organization."

The Renegades 2022 HOPE Week program is as follows:

Thursday, June 9th – The Community at Brookmeade - Opened in 1977, The Community at Brookmeade offers apartment residences and a combination of lifestyle, services, and amenities designed with the need of active older adults in mind. Located in the village of Rhinebeck, Brookmeade presently serves as a 120-bed facility for seniors aged 62 and above. The Community is committed to providing all residents with a lifestyle focus on quality, centered in wellness, and facilitated by competent and caring staff. Renegades players and staff will visit and engage with residents and participate in activity stations.

Friday, June 10th – Liberty Station - Hudson River Housing believes that those who served our country deserve the highest level of care, including quality, affordable housing. Hudson River Housing aims to meet the needs for the veteran community through specialized housing, transportation, advocacy, and care management. Operated by Hudson River Housing, Liberty Station was the first of three housing services available for veterans. Veterans from Liberty Station, Garden Street Housing, and Poughkeepsie Commons will gather at Liberty Station to meet and engage with Renegades players and staff.

Saturday, June 11th – Disability, Dream & Do (D3)/ThinkDIFFERENTLY Camp - D3 and ThinkDIFFERENTLY collaborate to host camp in partnership with Hudson Valley Renegades. Disability, Dream & Do (D3) is a pro style practice with professional players at stadiums across the country. D3 participants have an opportunity to hit, throw, catch and run the bases with instruction from the best regardless of anyone's limitations. "Think DIFFERENTLY" is a call to action, a genuine challenge to determine if we have it within ourselves to look past our differences and treat others the way we would hope to be treated. Too often, too many with special needs are overlooked and their unique abilities ignored. Instead, we seek to lift each other up and embrace all residents of all abilities.

Sunday, June 12th – Fishkill Food Pantry - The Fishkill Food Pantry was established as a mission program in 1985 to assist individuals and families in the Southern Dutchess area who are coping with financial emergencies and supply basic food needs. The people served are often referred to the Pantry by social service agencies, churches, schools, and family advocates. The Pantry is the largest food pantry in Dutchess County, serving families in Beacon, Beekman, Chelsea, Cold Spring, Fishkill, Glenham, Hopewell Junction, Hughsonville, Stormville, and Wappingers Falls. The Renegades will provide donations in the morning to the food pantry and host a food drive during Sunday's game.

'Proven leaders,' more veterans should run for local offices

I hope you enjoyed a wonderful Memorial Day weekend, with plenty of quality time devoted to your friends and family. I was definitely busy myself, walking in parades and attending some very powerful services which remind us of the sacrifices our service men and women have made to safeguard our freedoms. For me, it was especially comforting to see so many young folks attending these Memorial Day events, because it's very important for future generations to remember the sacrifices of our heroes.

We all know Memorial Day marks the unofficial beginning of summer. But it also has become the starting point of a season of a completely different nature – of course, I'm talking about election season. Yes, like it or not, we will soon see bright patches of campaign signs popping up all over, asking us to consider this candidate or that candidate. And that season feels like it's coming even sooner this year, with the redistricting going on in New York State. As you know, I'm not a political person, although I do like to keep on top of the issues and I certainly do vote.

Here's an idea I've been mulling over lately: I wish more veterans -- particularly our younger veterans back from Iraq and Afghanistan -- would consider running for local office. Veterans are proven leaders, and their service has given them many vital qualities, including teamwork, loyalty, a nonstop work ethic, and a devotion to serving others, just to name a few.

And, staying calm under pressure? It's in every veteran's DNA, I think.

I meet younger veterans in the Hudson Valley all the time, and I am always so impressed with all they've accomplished. They are already leaders in their communities! If you have made it through the rigors of military service, then you have undoubtedly learned the secret of leadership: leadership is not simply telling others what to do. No, true leadership is helping others find their own potential. True leadership is about teamwork. Harry Truman once said, "We could accomplish so much, if no one cares who gets the credit." I think that's very true, especially today when it seems everyone is competing for a headline or a soundbite.

The last American president who was a veteran was George H. W. Bush back in 1991. He was a war hero in WWII as a pilot. Before him, it seemed like almost every Commander-in-Chief was a veteran, from Truman (a WWI vet) to Eisenhower and Kennedy to Jimmy Carter, who served on nuclear submarines. Personally, I would love to see more veterans run for higher office, but that journey starts right here at home. There are plenty of positions at the town and county level that could desperately use the tempered experience of our veterans.

I don't know about you, but if I learn a candidate is a combat veteran, then I immediately know they have experience another candidate will never have. And I know he or she will perform well under pressure, regardless of their political party or what the issues are. I just wish we could coax more of our younger veterans to put their hat in the ring and serve their communities in public office. If you have a young veteran in your life who is already a leader in their community, why not ask them to consider running for local office? It could be the start of something great.

Thanks for listening! See you next time!

A Navy veteran, Tom Zurhellen has been Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) in Poughkeepsie for the past three years. In the summer of 2019, he walked across America from Portland, Oregon, to Poughkeepsie to raise awareness on veteran suicide and veteran homelessness in our country. He continues to work with local veterans in need through the VetZero Project, in partnership with Hudson River Housing.

STARR program offers creative opportunities

4-H offers many programs at state and national level, and here in Dutchess County we provide approximately $5,000 in scholarships annually to make sure our youth can take advantage of these leadership opportunities.

One such student who recently returned from one such event tells us about her experience.

By Julia Raskopf
Flock of Feathers Club

Recently, I was able to attend State Teen Action Representatives Retreat (STARR).

STARR is a program for 4-H youth, ages 13 and older. It allows these youth to go away for a couple days and be with others their age and learn new things.

There were two sessions on the Saturday we were there, an hour-long session and an hour-and-a-half session. There were many workshops to choose from such as pasta making, photography, theatre arts and more.

I personally chose the photography workshop in hopes of improving my photos for my exhibit hall entries at the Dutchess County Fair this year. I learned many valuable tips and tricks for photo taking.

We spent about two days at Camp Shankitunk. We got there around 5 p.m. on Friday and left at noon on Sunday. We spent our nights in cabins, which were screened in on the front wall, so at night when it dipped below 40 degrees, it got pretty cold. We all survived with all our fingers and toes though. Both nights I had gotten woken up by a porcupine scratching at the pool house across from my cabin, which was a little scary to say the least.

Each day we had multiple roundtables, where we would get together with the same group of people and talk about different things. My group mainly focused on current events and issues such as racism, sexism, and more. I learned a lot from the roundtables and made a couple friends who were in the group who I still talk to even after the program is over.

STARR happens every year, so if you are a 4-H'er looking for a fun retreat where you can learn new things and make friends, I'd suggest keeping this in the back of your mind and signing up next year!

All-Species Clinic is a learning experience

The first Dutchess County all-species 4-H showmanship clinic was held in 2021.

Kids of all ages practiced showing their project species and had the opportunity to learn about showing other species. Just some examples are beef kids showing rabbits, goat kids showing dogs and sheep kids showing horses.

By popular demand, this event will take place again on June 20th courtesy of the Dutchess County Fairgrounds. Not only is it a fabulous learning opportunity, but also a chance for 4-H'ers from different backgrounds to come together to make friends and celebrate the things they love.

Livestock Sale

By Haley McCord

The Dutchess County Youth Livestock Sale proudly represents both 4-H and FFA members as they strive to continue to build strength within their livestock projects.

To qualify for this livestock sale, youth members must be in good standing with their club or chapter. They must also attend mandatory meetings, which allow them to understand all the yearly rules and regulations as well as some reminders about the upcoming sale.

This year on August 27 at 4 p.m., the sale will be in full swing at the Dutchess County Fair. Registration for the sale will begin at 1:30 p.m. on the day of the sale and will be found at the Livestock Pavilion. This Livestock sale helps to promote agriculture within the county in many ways including; making great long-term connections and relationships with the people of Dutchess County, teaching the public about the importance of growing livestock for better production in Agriculture, and so much more.

None of this would be possible without the endless support from our local sponsors. As youth members of Dutchess County, we believe that it is our duty to share our Agricultural experiences with the people of our amazing county and for that, I would like to thank everyone who has helped to shape the lives of these 4-H and FFA members for the better.

If you are interested in learning more about our 4-H Livestock Program, please visit our Dutchess County 4-H website for more information. We sincerely thank you for your endless contributions to making the Dutchess County Livestock Sale one that inspires young lives such as myself to continue to seek success within the agricultural field.

Salvia

These often overlooked members of the sage family have a lot going for them.

Why don't more gardeners plant salvia? The annual red flowered salvia – Vista, Sentry, Red Hot Sally – there are dozens of varieties of the species Salvia Splendens, ranging in height from six inches to two feet tall, blooming all summer long and DEER DON'T EAT THEM! Perfect for large containers, beds or the back of a flower border.

Red salvia (there is also a purple variety of salvia splendens) is one of about 900 species of salvia known to gardeners. They're all in the sage family, with square stems and an unusual semi-tubular flower that is built to prevent self pollination. I'm not aware of any salvias that are native to New York, but don't let anyone tell you pollinators pass them by. Bees, especially bumblebees, and butterflies love salvia. Some of the long tubular flowered varieties like the hybrid "Wendy's Wish" are hummingbird magnets. Our native ruby throated hummingbirds seem to have learned that since bees can't probe all the way to the end of the blossom, Wendy's Wish has lots of nectar to spare.

Here are a few more of the most popular salvias for your garden:

• Blue Salvia (salvia farinacea) – an annual that survives into late October with spires of blue blossoms; some varieties, like "evolution," are deep blue or purple, while the standard "Victoria" is a pleasing cornflower blue. Deer won't go near it, and neither will woodchucks, rabbits or most humans. The leaves smell like cat urine.

• Indigo Spires – In 1979, a hybrid cross between two species of salvia was discovered at California's Huntington Gardens. One of the parents was the blue salvia farinacea and the other a salvia shrub native to Mexico. Over the last several years, varieties of indigo spires have been developed, including Mystic Spires Blue and Rockin' the Blues from Proven Winners.

• Perennial Salvias – Noted area horticulturalist Rebecca Curtis pointed out some of the more popular perennial salvias. Meadow Sage is the common name of the species Salvia Pratensis, which is a hardy perennial in the Hudson Valley. Closely related are the varieties of the species Salvia Nemerosa, which includes May Night, Caradonna, the dwarf "Marcus," and Proven Winner's Violet Riot. Rebecca swears that these perennials will bloom all season if they are trimmed or dead-headed after the first flush of blossoms fade in late June. Some varieties, especially May Night, can flop over in hot humid weather so may need to be staked. Perennial salvias prefer full sun and can tolerate drought and poor soil.

• Garden Sage – Rub your grilled chicken with sage, top off your summer cocktail with a sprig of pineapple sage, all members of the salvia/sage family. Pineapple sage grows huge in the garden, eventually throwing out enormous crimson blossoms swarmed by hummingbirds.

• Russian Sage – For some reason, botanists decided in 2017 to reclassify Russian Sage as a salvia, removing it from the genus perovskia and calling it salvia yangi. This is an extremely hardy perennial shrub with long panicles of sky blue blossoms. Lives forever in poor soils and is almost impossible to kill. Landscape designers love it. And you can happily plant Russian Sage along a south wall or in the back of a garden, because it's not native to Russia!

Powerhouse Theater at Vassar College announces programming lineup

Vassar College in Poughkeepsie recently announced the return of the Powerhouse Theater Season. The annual summer season brings together some of today's most influential theatrical voices and welcomes the next generation of theater artists as members of the renowned Powerhouse Theater Training Program.

Powerhouse welcomes back its longtime collaborator, New York Stage and Film (NYSAF), who will be in residence at the Powerhouse Theater to present three workshops in July. In addition to NYSAF, Powerhouse is pleased to welcome back Christa Kimlicko Jones—actor, director and educator (and director of Powerhouse's "Hello! My Baby" in 2011)—as she takes on the titular role in "anna," an original stage adaptation of "Anna Karenina" by Matt Minnicino.

New to Powerhouse is Truth Future Bachman, who will present a workshop presentation of their epic musical short "Luna and the Starbodies." Powerhouse welcomes the Leah Ryan Fund's "Leah Award" winners for a weekend of free play readings. Rounding out the Powerhouse season will be the Hudson Valley Performing Arts Lab presenting musical workshops of two of Shakespeare's plays by composer and music director (and Powerhouse alum) Scotty Arnold, featuring a cast of Hudson Valley artists.

Vassar will also welcome to campus a new cohort of young actors, directors, and writers as members of the Powerhouse Theater Training Company. These emerging artists will present a slate of free theater throughout the season including Shakespeare's The Tempest, adapted and directed by Shaun Patrick Tubbs, and The Trojan Women, adapted by Ellen McLaughlin and directed by Ellenor Riley-Condit. Both will be performed outside at the Vassar Farm and Ecological Preserve. Max Reuben returns to direct the company in the innovative use of Soundpainting, a gestural language, in a completely devised project at the Frances Lehman Loeb Art Center. And Cusi Cram (Novenas for a Lost Hospital) will helm an ensemble piece with actors playing multiple characters titled NYC: 1975.

Additional projects and casting information will be announced in the coming weeks. For updates and more information about the Powerhouse schedule, visit www.vassar.edu/powerhouse/season.

THE 36th POWERHOUSE SEASON MUSICAL WORKSHOPS

All Musical Workshop tickets are $25 and go on sale June 1.

"Luna and the Starbodies" (July 8-9)

Composed and Written by Truth Bachman; In the Powerhouse Theater Music, Words and Story by Truth Future Bachman

Earth is no longer safe for Luna, a transient starlet on the cusp of womanhood. Hitchhiking the night sky, she conceives three young rock stars, The Starbodies, who ignite the mother within her and illuminate her cosmic destiny. A transcendent new concept album that combines the suspense of Watchmen with the camp of Glee, Luna and the Starbodies is an epic musical short about a life in transition.

"Shakespeare: Unplugged" (July 29-31); Composed and Music Direction by Scotty Arnold; Produced by Brittany Proia & Hannah Karp

In the Vogelstein Center for Drama and Film's Martel Theater

Part of the Hudson Valley Performing Arts Lab Residency

Scotty Arnold has created musical adaptations of Shakespeare's "All's Well That Ends Well" and "Twelfth Night." In "All's Well That Ends Well," low-born Helena pursues the love of high-born Bertram. But even if she can overcome her station, can she get Bertram to love her back? A fun mirror to "Taming of the Shrew," "All's Well" asks: How far is Helen willing to go to get what she wants? "Twelfth Night" tells the story of Viola and Sebastian, twins who are separated in a shipwreck. How will these two survive on their own in a strange land—will they find their way back to each other, and might they discover love of another kind along the way? Find out in this adventurous romantic comedy.

PLAY WORKSHOPS

All Play Workshop tickets are $25 and go on sale June 1.

"The World Is Not Silent" (July 15-17);

Written by Don Nguyen Directed by Marya Mazor; Part of the New York Stage and Film Residency

Don, an astrophotographer, returns home to reconnect with his estranged Vietnamese father only to discover that the communication gap between them has grown even wider in the wake of his father's recent deafness. Hoping that sign language will provide a bridge to overcome that distance, Don begins taking lessons. But the closer he gets to being able to communicate with his father, the further he seems to get from actually understanding the man—leaving Don to realize that mastering a language means very little if you're not willing to speak from the heart. Performed in English, Vietnamese, and Sign Language, "The World is Not Silent" is a multilingual play that explores how language simultaneously divides and unites us.

"Sweet Chariot" (July 22-24)

Written by Eric Lockley Developed with the Movement Theatre Company; Part of the New York Stage and Film Residency

When the prospect of a far-off place called Home seems more appealing than the terrors of Earth, Marcus, a down-and-out teacher, launches himself on a journey across planets and centuries. Marcus risks everything, and a dysfunctional space crew will stop at nothing to discover Home. But as they encounter mysterious alien figures,

Afro-Bots, and a very uncertain future, Home may not be all that they expected. "Sweet Chariot" is an Afrofuturistic exploration of the sorted line between escape and resilience, posing the question: Is true liberation only possible for Black people beyond Earth?

"Tell Them I'm Still Young" (July 28-July 30);

Written by Julia Doolittle Directed by May Adrales; Part of the New York Stage and Film Residency

Allen and Kay are approaching 65 when their only daughter is killed in a car crash. Now parents without children, the two struggle to renegotiate their identities and their marriage, as the entrance of two young people revives a painful longing for what's been lost: their family and their futures.

READINGS

All readings are free. Tickets can be reserved beginning on June 17.

"anna" (June 26)

From the novel "Anna Karenina" by Leo Tolstoy; Adapted by Matt Minnicino; Featuring Christa Kimlicko Jones as "Anna"; In the Powerhouse Theater

"All happy families are alike...each unhappy family is...wait...no."

(An epic, intimate, queer refraction of Tolstoy's classic about falling in the wrong kind of love and the story the world tells about you when you fall.)

"Final Boarding Call" (July 2)

Written by Stefani Kuo In the Powerhouse Theater

Part of the Leah Ryan Fund Residency

"Final Boarding Call" tells the stories of the most recent Hong Kong protests. The play revolves around the interconnected stories of seven characters whose backgrounds and perspectives run the spectrum—a protesting brother and flight attendant sister struggling to keep her job; a Mainland Chinese mother and her estranged Hong Kong daughter; a non-Cantonese-speaking reporter and her Indian partner; and an American expat CEO and Hong Kong lover living in the shadows. The play begins and ends with a flight, an entrance into the Hong Kong protests, and how the politics we see on the news every day affects the citizens of Hong Kong in their day-to-day lives. It gives the audience a window into China's grip on global capitalism. How far will they go to fight for family, freedom, and the right to be heard?

THE TRAINING COMPANY

All Training Company performances are free and open to the public. No ticket required.

"The Tempest" (July 15-17)

Written by William Shakespeare Adapted and Directed by Shaun Patrick Tubbs; At the Environmental Cooperative at the Vassar Barns

Straddling the line between comedy and tragedy, "The Tempest" focuses on Prospero, the former Duke of Milan, who was ousted from his position and found refuge on a mysterious island inhabited only by himself, his daughter Miranda, and the grotesque fish-man Caliban. Prospero may be stranded, but he's far from helpless—he makes use of his magic staff and command of the spirit Ariel to summon a storm that wrecks on his island a ship carrying the most important people from his former life. Once the castaways have washed ashore, Prospero gets to work to avenge the wrong that's been done to him.

"The Trojan Women" (July 22-24)

Adapted by Ellen McLaughlin; Directed by Ellenor Riley-Condit; At the Environmental Cooperative at the Vassar Barns

On a beach below the ruined city of Troy, a group of women await their fate at the hands of the conquering Greeks. Former queen Hecuba and those who remain of her retinue hold tightly to each other as they mourn their city and search for what comes next. Once the war is over for the armies, where does that leave us?

"Things To Do When No One Can See You" (July 7, 14, 21, 28);

Conceived by members of the Training Company; Composed and Directed by Max Reuben

At the Frances Lehman Loeb Art Center Maybe, after all this time isolating, you've run out of things to do when you're all by yourself. Don't fret. We're here to help. "Things to Do When No One Can See You" utilizes the gestural composing language of Soundpainting to create a spontaneous, ensemble-based improvised performance.

"NYC: 1975" (July 24-25)

Conceived, Written, and Directed by Cusi Cram; At the Susan Stein Shiva Theater

New York City, in the 1970s: the decade of the serial killer Son of Sam and of a nightmarish 1977 power blackout. These were "the Bronx is burning" years. City workers — garbage collectors, hospital doctors, police officers — all went on strike, systemic police corruption abounded: Think, "Serpico." Cusi Cram leads an ensemble of actors "like a caffeinated New Yorker, who is late to work." Moving between board rooms and school board meetings, the play traverses the geography of the city from the Upper West Side to the Bronx where characters broker deals with bankers and drug addicts alike, exploring the power elite and the powerless in equal measure.

Rhinebeck High School students participate in safe driving events

In an effort to remind students of the importance of buckling up and avoiding distracted driving, students at Rhinebeck High School participated in the Annual Battle of the Belts challenge supervised by Rhinebeck Village Police Officer Ken Scattergood during May.

According to "We Save Lives Highway Safety" advocates, the days between Memorial Day and Labor Day are considered the 100 Deadliest Days for teen driver fatalities.

LJs Towing in Rhinebeck donated the car used for the competition, which involved students participating in a relay style race of getting into the car, putting on seatbelts, then changing seating to buckle up again.

Students were also introduced to the rollover vehicle by New York State Trooper Community Outreach Coordinator Ray Renzo, who was assisted by additional troopers from the Troop K Barracks. The rollover vehicle was used to demonstrate a realistic visual of the consequences of not buckling up.

Rhinebeck High student earns Eagle Scout honor

Visitors at Starr Park in Rhinebeck are the beneficiaries of an Eagle Scout Service Project completed by Rhinebeck High School Junior Emanuel (Manny) Allen, which included the creation, construction, and installation of new posts and signage for the Blue Trail that meanders through the park. Manny's work from start to finish included seeking out and collecting donations of locust posts and lumber for the signs, designing, constructing, and painting signposts, as well as the organization of fellow scout volunteers to assist him with digging post holes and placing the signs along the trail. In the photos, Allen is recognized for his Eagle Scout achievement by Troop Center Chairman Mark Fleischhauer. The second photo shows one of the trail markers constructed and installed by Allen. Courtesy photos

Nominations accepted for 'Serino Superstars' Award

HYDE PARK – Sen. Sue Serino is once again looking to recognize local middle school students who demonstrate extraordinary kindness toward their peers and are leaders both inside and outside of the classroom. Senator Serino is encouraging community members to nominate exceptional students who contribute to a positive learning environment in their school community.

"Since launching this initiative, I have been blown away by the leadership that local students are demonstrating in their classrooms," said Senator Sue Serino. "With approximately 20% of students ages 12-18 reporting they experienced bullying in their school, we should never underestimate the power of kindness and the difference it can make in someone's life. I invite our local educators and community to nominate a local middle school student and share how they stand out due to their positive actions, and I look forward to learning more about all that these 'superstars' are doing to foster a more encouraging learning environment."

To nominate a local middle school student, please click here or visit serino.nysenate.gov. Completed nomination forms are due back by Monday, June 13.

The following school districts are a part of the 41st Senate District represented by Serino: Arlington, Beacon, Carmel, Dover, Garrison, Haldane, Hyde Park, Millbrook, North East, Pine Plains, Poughkeepsie, Putnam Valley, Red Hook, Rhinebeck, Spackenkill, Wappingers.

To learn more, or for additional information, call Senator Serino's Hyde Park Office at (845) 229-0106 or email serino@nysenate.gov.

County sales tax cut on gas in effect

Effective June 1, Dutchess County cut and capped sales tax collection on gasoline with a change to its sales tax calculation for retail motor fuel and diesel motor fuel purchases, providing the maximum benefit for consumers allowed under state law.

The amount of county sales tax collected on each gallon of retail motor fuel is capped at 8 cents. Under the current sales tax methodology, consumers pay 3.75 percent county sales tax on their total motor fuel purchase, in addition to a myriad of other state and federally imposed taxes and fees.

Dutchess County Executive Marc

Molinaro, together with Legislature Chairman Gregg Pulver, first proposed this cut and cap in March and the County Legislature adopted it in April; numerous other counties followed Dutchess County's lead in this effort to provide some relief to consumers. The earliest date it could go into effective under NYS law was June 1.

The New York State Department of Taxation and Finance sent out notice to retailers alerting them of the upcoming cut and cap with the notice found here: <https://content.govdelivery.com/accounts/NYTAX/bulletins/3199a75>.
