

Town remembers
'Mr. Hyde Park'

John Golden passes
at age 99.

by Kate Goldsmith

He was known as "Mr. Hyde Park," beloved and respected by many in town and beyond.

Benefactor John Watson "Brud" Golden Jr., a lifelong resident of Hyde Park, died on June 23. He was 99 years old.

The generosity and community spirit of John and his wife, Gloria, who predeceased him in 2022, are truly legendary. Their philanthropy reached virtually every corner of Hyde Park and the wider area. See his obituary on page 16 for some highlights of his long and productive life.

John Golden's passing brought tributes from many in town.

"John and Gloria did good things for the people of Hyde Park," said Town Historian Carney Rhinevault. "For example: John owned the old firehouse, a 1905 historic building at the crossroads in Hyde Park. For over twenty years he allowed the historical society to occupy half of the first floor for our museum (rent-free)..."

Rhinevault added, "Other examples are the art gallery across Route 9 from Regina Coeli Church [the Artists' Collective of Hyde Park] and the free gift of land at the corner of Crum Elbow Road and Cardinal Road to the Town government. The Police and Court building, named for John and Gloria, now sits on that land."

Golden always downplayed his good deeds, said Rhinevault.

"He would say 'Gloria talked me into it,'" Rhinevault said.

Dot Chenevert, president of the Hyde Park Chamber of Commerce and owner of The Greener Oak Guest House, said she has "so many wonderful memories about this man. ... He (and Gloria) seemed to weave through my life here in Hyde Park, so

It was big news across the country – literally – for the Hudson Valley Renegades last week.

Hudson Valley outfielder Spencer Jones, who hails from Encinitas, CA, was selected to represent the American League in the SiriusXM All-Star Futures Game, Major League Baseball announced. The game takes place on Saturday, July 8 at 7 p.m. EDT at T-Mobile Park in Seattle.

The SiriusXM All-Star Futures Game will air exclusively on Peacock and SiriusXM.

I can only imagine what his passing is going to mean to the rest of the Town.”

Golden owned two properties where Chenevert and her late husband Paul operated The Green Oak Florist.

“He was my guardian angel more than once,” she said. “I never had to worry about anything needing fixing [on those properties].”

A favorite memory involves Golden’s visits to The Green Oak Florist, when he would ask “in that very identifiable voice, ‘So, Dot ... What’s going on in Hyde Park?’”

Another fond memory “was the hug he gave me when my husband Paul passed,” Chenevert said.

She added, “Of course, we, the Hyde Park Chamber of Commerce, will be forever grateful for the reduced rent on our office ... especially during the lean years of Covid.”

Hyde Park’s longtime Planning Board Chairman Michael Dupree said, “The Golden’s were a perfect example of American ‘citizens.’ They closely followed elections and policies at all levels of government, volunteered to serve the community and county whenever asked, and were generous in their support of many not-for-profit entities. Many of us considered John Golden as Mr. Hyde Park, because of his love for and pride in our town.”

Dupree noted that Golden’s passing “truly represents the end of an era here, where you once could easily find dozens of residents who remembered meeting Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt, and leaves a hole in the emotional core of our community.”

He added, “John also gave me the best advice when I was appointed to our planning board 17 years back: think first and last about whether a project is good for the people who live here.”

Aileen Rohr, who served five terms as Hyde Park Town Supervisor (2012-2021) said, “John was always dedicated to making Hyde Park a better community. I especially enjoyed the time spent working together to design an improvement to Hyde Park’s Town Hall and was so grateful to both he and Gloria for their $1 million donation to the Town for this purpose.”

On a more personal note, Rohr said, “John was as much loved for the man he was, as for the things he did. ... John was larger than life, a wonderful raconteur, businessman, philanthropist, and especially a gentleman extraordinaire. He showed his love for the town and the people with acts both large and small, his generous gifts so much appreciated by the present generation but also to be enjoyed long into the future.

“John will be much missed, but not forgotten,” Rohr said.

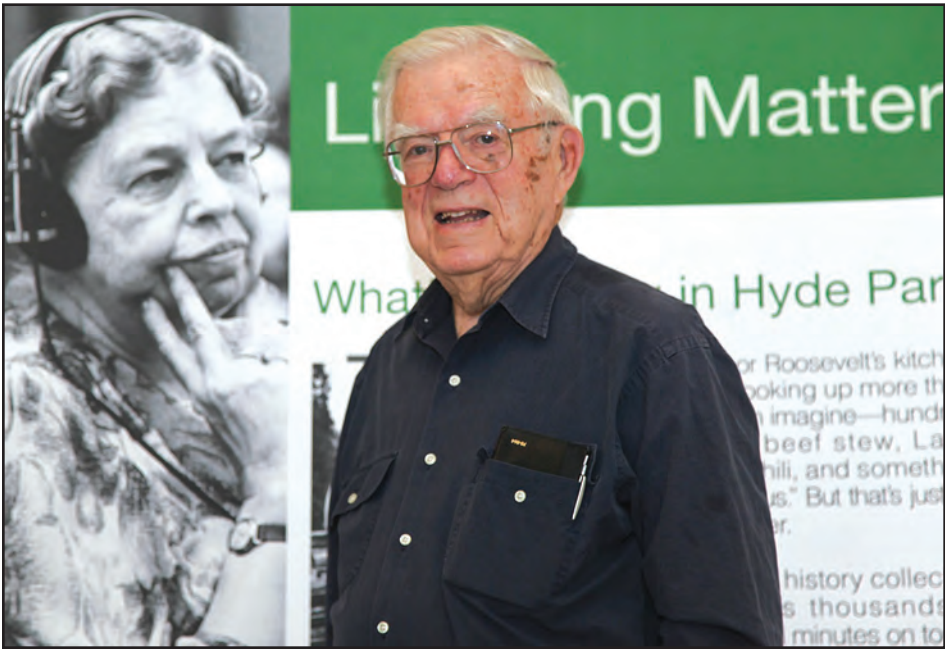

Current Hyde Park Supervisor Al Torreggiani hadn’t known Golden before taking office, but he’d heard about him.

“They don’t call him ‘Mr. Hyde Park’ for nothing,” Torreggiani said. “I’ve sat with him and had wonderful and enlightening conversations for several hours.”

Torreggiani referenced Golden’s “very generous donation to help construct a Town Hall addition,” and the two had spoken about the design process and how the project was progressing.

“John always would tell me to ‘hurry up,’” said Torreggiani. “I gave him my word it will happen. I would call out to John at Town Board meetings [which are posted on YouTube] because he said, ‘I watch you every meeting.’”

“Sadly, and ironically, [on] the day of his passing, we just agreed on the contractors and to award the Town Hall project,” Torreggiani said. “I am so appreciative of the times I sat with him, and the feel of a man with passion for this Town radiated as we spoke. He will be missed, and we are planning to have a groundbreaking in his honor before the construction will start.”

According to his obituary, Golden was a lifelong communicant of St. James’ Episcopal Church. He was a Life-Member of the Hyde Park Fire Department, member of the American Legion, and former President of the Northern Dutchess Hospital Board. He also served with the Wells Manor Board, Northern Dutchess Foundation, Winnakee Land Trust, Hudson River Housing, and the Roosevelt-Vanderbilt Association.

Posts on Facebook shared tributes to “Mr. Hyde Park.”

The Rev. Meredith Kadet Sanderson of St. James’ Episcopal Church noted Golden’s passing on the church’s Facebook page, saying “Many dear friends from St. James’ and our Hyde Park community ministered to him in his last days. Thank you.”

On the Hyde Park Fire Department’s Facebook page, a post reads, “We are sad to hear of the passing of Life Member John Golden Jr. He is remembered fondly by Hyde Park Fire Department members. Thank you for your service to Country, Community and God. Rest In Peace.”

The Roosevelt Fire District’s Facebook page stated, “Mr. Golden was a true staple in the Hyde Park Community. He was kind enough to provide Staatsburg Fire Department with the land that the present day Roosevelt Station 4 is on. The members of Roosevelt Fire District- Engine Company 4 (Staatsburg Fire Department) send their condolences to the Golden family.”

stating, “Like most in the town of Hyde Park, the National Park Service was saddened to hear of the passing of John Golden. His contributions, involvement and dedication to Hyde Park will be remembered forever. He was on the Board of the Roosevelt-Vanderbilt Historical Association, and in 2019 was a Val-Kill Medal recipient, along with his wife Gloria for their philanthropy and community building.

“Thank you, John Golden, you will be missed.”

Mike Athanas, Commander of Hyde Park American Legion Post 1303 and also the owner of Athanas Farm in Hyde Park, said “John was a dear and friendly fellow Hyde Parker, he would often visit my farm stand and buy fresh picked sweet corn (he loved the early milky stage); he could not get it anywhere else. He often spoke of the perils of the small Hyde Park farmers and our costs of doing business, shake his head and walk off.”

Athanas said he grew up in the era of Golden’s building expansion [he was in the real estate development business with his father].

“Our farm took hay off many of the fields that we were haying during the time frame, witnessing the transition to a more urban town,” he said.

While they were not close friends, Athanas said, “I knew him through church, and his quiet presence that gave the parish a proud feeling.

“He was MR. HYDE PARK.”

Luigi Coppola, Chef/Manager at Coppola’s Restaurant of Hyde Park, encapsulated the feeling of many in town when he said, “John Golden will always be a huge influence in Hyde Park. His life helped shape who we are as a town and inspired us all to be better people. He was a loyal friend to our family and will be sorely missed.”

Hinchey delivers state grant to Tivoli Fire Company for firehouse expansion, Red Cross shelter certification

Senator Michelle Hinchey has secured a $100,000 state grant to help the Tivoli Fire Company upgrade its existing firehouse and add a new addition to the property to better serve the health and safety of firefighters, the community, and ensure the firehouse fulfills all of the requirements needed to become a Certified Red Cross Shelter.

Hinchey made the announcement on Wednesday, June 28, at the Tivoli Fire Company alongside Mayor Joel Griffith, Fire Chief Marc Hildenbrand, Executive Director of the American Red Cross Hudson Valley Chapter John Vale, and members of Tivoli Fire Company.

The funding will be put toward a 4,000-square-foot extension of the existing firehouse, originally constructed in 1985, which will include a new bay for fire and EMS trucks, a LULA lift, a command center to transmit emergency communications between first responders and agencies, and code compliant showers to ensure that firefighters can properly decontaminate after returning from a fire.

The grant furnished by Hinchey will also be put toward the construction of a state-of-the-art Certified Red Cross Shelter to meet a vital regional need that will provide residents with a safe place to stay out of harm's way during extreme weather events and other emergencies. The Red Cross Shelter at Tivoli Fire Company will be delivered in partnership with the American Red Cross of the Hudson Valley and, once complete, will also allow for the firehouse to become a water distribution center in times of need as well as provide a space to conduct certified training and workshops for local residents and volunteer members, including First Aid, CPR, and childcare preparedness, among other functions.

Hinchey said, "The brave members of the Tivoli Fire Company put their lives on the line to protect their community, and I'm incredibly proud to deliver a $100,000 capital grant to help the department reach their goals of building a new, critically needed firehouse and Red Cross Shelter. These upgrades are not only essential to community safety but to attracting and retaining dedicated members now and into the future, and it is an absolute privilege to support this firehouse expansion."

Mayor Joel Griffith said, "On behalf of the Village of Tivoli, we are incredibly grateful for Senator Hinchey's commitment and investment in the Tivoli Firehouse expansion, particularly to support the Red Cross Shelter. Our Village relies on the fire, medical and mutual aid services day in and day out, and this expansion is a critical piece to serving our residents, businesses, Bard College, and significant parts of Red Hook."

Tivoli Fire Assistant Chief Hildenbrand said, "Since the Tivoli Firehouse endured a devastating fire years back, we have been dedicated to rebuilding, both in growing our volunteer department to now one of the largest in the region and expanding our training and mutual aid. The commitment that our State Senator Michelle Hinchey has made today is one more essential step forward in realizing our expansion to not only support our entire service area but to invest back in these incredible volunteers donating countless hours that our families, neighbors, and friends rely on each and every day."

The Tivoli Fire Company, one of the largest volunteer firehouses in upper Dutchess County, has more than 60 volunteer members who serve the Village of Tivoli, most of the Town of Red Hook, and Bard College while simultaneously providing mutual aid to the towns of Germantown and Clermont. As Northern Dutchess County's population continues to increase, the Tivoli Fire Company must have the continued ability to provide the essential services that communities depend on. The capital funding secured by Hinchey will support the upgrades and renovations needed to achieve that goal while helping the fire department continue to increase the ranks of its membership. The grant funding was secured through the Local Community Assistance Program administered by the Dormitory Authority of the State of New York (DASNY).

VFW honors WWII veteran Hochlowski; Ketcham HS presents honorary diploma

by Kristine Coulter

Former Prisoner of War (POW) during World War II and local Wappingers Falls resident Henry “Hank” Hochlowski, 97, was recognized by fellow veterans at the Veterans of Foreign War in Wappingers Falls on June 25.

In 2021, a mural, “Veterans Wall,” was painted on the wall of the VFW Post on School Street VFW member Hank, who was given the nickname “Hock” during his time in the service, is shown leading a team ashore from a landing craft during WWII in the mural. The mural was painted by artist Michael Scelia, who is a veteran.

Warren Hochlowski, one of Hank’s three sons with his wife, the late Dorothy DiDomizio, informed Southern Dutchess News that his father was born on September 3, 1925 in the City of Poughkeepsie. Hank’s father died when he was an infant. Hank grew up during the Great Depression, being raised by his mother and stepfather. Hank told of how when he was 57 years old, his appendix burst. Hank, who is one of 10 siblings, missed approximately a year of school as he was recovering.

When he was 18, Hank was drafted into the army, Hank explained.

In 1944, Hank and the unit he was with were captured by the Germans, he said. It was while he was in France, he became a POW. He was a POW until the end of WWII.

“One day, they just let us go,” recalled Hank.

Joe Angelo, with the VFW in Wappingers Falls, said, “He’s our oldest WWII veteran.” Angelo noted Hank will “tell you that when you wake up every morning, it’s a good day.”

Warren, who lives in Red Oaks Mill said, “He never talked about what he went through. We were young. He played sports with us, taught us values. We were just glad he was Dad.”

Warren said, “When I heard about it (his father being a POW), we had learned a whole new part of our dad. He suffered from PTSD (post-traumatic stress disorder) for years. Our mother helped him with that.”

Rebecca, one of Hank’s seven grandchildren, said, “He’s our hero. He’s the patriarch of the family. We love him.”

Kalyn, another of Hank’s granddaughters, remarked, “He is definitely the hero in our area and our family. [The recognition] is well deserved.”

VFW Senior Branch Commander Mike Rahilly said, “I’m just blessed to be a part of this.”

Richard Gerbeth Jr., VFW Commander, announced that on June 25 Hank was “Commander for the Day.”

‘Hock’ recognized by Roy C. Ketcham High School, Poughkeepsie High School with diplomas

Hank was honored with honorary high school diplomas. On June 24, Roy C. Ketcham High School, in the Wappingers Central School District, honored him with a diploma during the Class of 2023 graduation which was held on the school’s grounds.

“We are very proud to present Mr. Hochlowski with an honorary diploma from Roy C. Ketcham HS and commend him for his service and dedication to our country,” said Dr. Dwight Bonk, Superintendent of Schools for Wappingers Central School District. Hank also received an honorary diploma from the Poughkeepsie City School District.

Hank said he completed his high school education in Poughkeepsie, but he never picked up his diploma.

“It was good. A very happy time for me—all the people there,” said Hank about receiving his diplomas.

Keep bats out to prevent rabies

With summer weather here, residents are opening their windows and installing air conditioners to beat the heat. However, they may inadvertently be inviting bats, which are known to carry rabies, into their home. The Dutchess County Department of Behavioral & Community Health (DBCH) reminds residents to take steps to avoid bats in their homes.

Bats play an important role in the environment, helping control insect populations. While bats are gentle and not aggressive by nature, they are a rabies vector species and can spread the disease to humans through exposure and/or contact. For that reason, it is very important to keep bats out of the home and avoid contact with bats.

DBCH notes a marked increase in human-to-bat exposures from May through September of each year, contacts which require rabies case investigations and sometimes post exposure rabies treatment. So far in 2023, DBCH has noted 28 bat exposures, 20 in June alone. This is expected to increase as “bat season” runs from May to September.

DBCH Commissioner Dr. Livia Santiago-Rosado said, “Now that we are full swing into summer, it’s important to remain vigilant of bats in or around your home. I strongly encourage all residents to follow some simple steps to prevent bats from getting into their home to keep their families safe from rabies exposure.”

Due to their small size, bats can easily squeeze into very small gaps (1/2 inch), such as in between the upper and lower sashes of open windows. When a window is opened to install an air conditioner, it creates a gap between the upper and lower window sashes. Bats may gain entry to a house through these gaps.

DBCH recommends the following simple steps for residents to prevent bats from entering their homes:

- Seal any gaps between window sashes with cloth or other suitable material. Check that no gaps exist on the sides and bottom of the unit. Check to make sure the upper window sash stays in place. Brace it up if needed.
- Be sure open windows have tight-fitting and intact screens. Ensure entry doors have a self-closing screen door.
- When placing a fan in a window, be sure the screen remains in place.
- Keep garage doors and other doors closed when not in use.
- Make sure chimney dampers are closed. Seal all unused openings from the house into the chimney.
- Keep access points to non-habitable spaces, such as the interior attic access door, closed and properly sealed.

For more information on Rabies, including how to safely capture a bat in their home, residents can visit DutchessNY.gov/Rabies or call DBCH at (845) 486-3404.

Union Vale Republicans select candidates for general election

On Wednesday, June 14, at Tymor Park, the Union Vale Republican Caucus was held to determine who would be the Republican candidates for Town Supervisor, two Town Council seats, Town Clerk, Tax Collector and Highway Superintendent for the 2023 general election. The doors opened at 6:30 p.m. and more than 150 Union Vale Republican residents attended this event.

Before the vote started, each candidate spoke for 2 minutes and then took questions from the residents. The first office the residents voted for was Town Supervisor. All the ballots were collected and counted in a private room with a representative for each candidate to observe. Steve Frazier won the vote over incumbent Betsy Maas, 94-63.

The next vote was for Town Councilman #1. Incumbents Kevin McGivney and Kevin Durland were each nominated from the floor and votes were cast and counted in a private room again.

Kevin McGivney won this first round by 8 votes. Some Republican voters had left after the Supervisor results. Kevin Durland was subsequently nominated for Councilman #2 and was unopposed to secure the position.

The remaining candidates ran unopposed: Andrea Casey, Town Clerk; Kaye Saglibene, Tax Collector; and Ed Kading, Highway Superintendent.

The candidates who won this caucus have also received the endorsement of the Dutchess County Conservative Party in March.

RENEGADES ROUNDUP

Renegades get off to slow start in 2nd half

by Rich Thomaselli

Call it a baseball hangover. The Hudson Valley Renegades returned home for the first time since winning the first-half of the North Division of the South Atlantic League and clinching a playoff berth and dropped the series opener to the Wilmington Blue Rocks, 5-2, on Wednesday night at Heritage Financial Park.

The team did not play a traditional Tuesday night game. And this came on top of losing four of five games to the Brooklyn Cyclones the previous week. The Hudson Valley Renegades also fell to Wilmington by a score of 4-1 on Thursday night. The game was scoreless until Wilmington broke through in the sixth inning off Jack Neely. With two outs in the frame, Brady House hit a solo home run to right-center off Neely (3-2). Jeremy De La Rosa followed with a single and stole second base, and came home to score on a T.J. White single to extend the lead to 2-0.

On Wednesday, Wilmington opened up the scoring with a pair of solo home runs off Tyrone Yulie (3-5) from Lucius Fox and Will Frizzell in the third and fourth innings, respectively.

After allowing just one hit through three innings, Andry Lara worked around a bases-loaded jam in the fourth to keep the Renegades off the scoreboard. Rafael Flores, Anthony Garcia, and Alexander Vargas strung together three consecutive one-out singles to load the bases, but Lara (2-5) retired the next two hitters to end the threat and preserve their 2-0 advantage.

The Blue Rocks plated a run in three straight innings beginning in the sixth, when three of the first four batters reached safely against Yulie before Mason Vineyard entered out of the bullpen. The 24-year-old struck out both batters he faced in the frame, but a wild pitch scored Frizzell to Renegades Extra!

Yulie garners weekly pitching honor in SAL

by Rich Thomaselli

The Hudson Valley Renegades are cornering the market on these awards.

Following a clutch performance in the biggest game of the season, pitcher Tyrone Yulie has been named South Atlantic League Pitcher of the Week for the week of June 19-25. Yulie becomes the fourth Renegade to win a weekly award in 2023, and the third to win Pitcher of the Week.

Tasked with taking the mound in a potential clinching game, Yulie stepped up to the stage and threw a career-high 7.0 innings, allowing no hits and three walks and striking out seven while picking up the win on Tuesday, June 20 at the Brooklyn Cyclones. With the team's 1-0 win over Brooklyn, Hudson Valley clinched the First Half Championship in the SAL North, punching its ticket into the 2023 SAL Playoffs.

Yulie, 21, was signed by the Yankees as a non-drafted free agent on July 5, 2018 out of La Romana, Dominican Republic. In three starts during the month of June, he has hit his stride, posting a 2-1 record with a 1.53 ERA while allowing just nine hits in 17.2 innings. He has struck out 18 batters and pitched to a 0.91 WHIP. This is his first career weekly award.

He joins RHP Juan Carela and RHP Drew Thorpe, who were named SAL Pitcher of the Week for the weeks of April 17-23 and May 29-June 4, respectively, and OF Aaron Palensky who was named SAL Player of the Week for the week of May 22-28, as Renegades to garner a weekly award this season. Palensky has since been promoted to Double A.

TYSON'S TIDBITS

Playoffs, promotional planning and celebrating player honors

Each week, writer Rich Thomaselli and Hudson Valley General Manager Tyson Jeffers discuss the Renegades in particular and minor league baseball in general.

Was there an internal celebration about making the playoffs?

If you saw the celebration video we posted of the team, there is a clip of (PR Director and radio announcer) Joe Vasile getting champagne/beer poured on him, so he got the full team celebration experience! As far as the rest of the front office, our celebration will come when we pack the park with fans and create a true home-field advantage on our guaranteed home playoff game on Sept 14. We are obviously excited for the team's first-half success and we appreciate them getting it done early so we can create an amazing playoff atmosphere for them and our fans!

Besides the ticketing structure, what other promotional work have you done for the playoffs?

We are still developing the promotional pieces for the playoffs. A playoff sponsor would go a long way in us being able to do some fun stuff at the ballpark for our game(s). There is a balance that we try to find when the playoffs roll around that the focus shifts a little more toward the baseball. We still want to provide fun and entertainment for the fans throughout the game, but we do not want to be a distraction to the guys between the lines. More will develop promotionally as we get closer to September.

Does it mean anything to the franchise in terms of business and marketing to have a pitcher of the week (again) and a player selected for the Futures Game?

It is always impactful when our players find success and we can highlight that success through our various channels and platforms. One way that we highlight the player is we donate $500 to WMCHHealth's Maria Fareri Children's Hospital on behalf of the player that won a player or pitcher of the week. We do that pre-game with through a check-presentation with the player that won the award. As far as having a player in the Future's Game, it gives us another layer to the story that we already tell our fans, which is that the Renegades have and host some of the most talented baseball players in the country each and every game. Having Spencer Jones participate in the Futures Game is another example of that!

extend the Blue Rocks' lead to 3-0.

Jeremy De La Rosa singled in another run in the seventh off Vinyard, and Jordy Barley homered off Indigo Diaz in the eighth to open up Wilmington's lead to 5-0.

Hudson Valley finally broke through in the bottom of the eighth off Chance Huff.

Flores and Garcia again tallied back-to-back one-out singles to bring up Vargas, who laced a double down the left field line to score Flores and place two men in scoring position. Antonio Gomez drove in Garcia on an RBI groundout to cut the deficit to 5-2.

Carlos Romero recorded the last four outs of the game to earn his first save of the season and hand the Renegades their fifth-straight loss, their longest losing streak of the season.

In the loss, Hudson Valley pitching recorded 15 strikeouts. Yulie punched out six in 5.1 frames while Vinyard struck out a career-high five batters in 1.2 innings.

Dutchess County Chief Assistant District Attorney Matthew A. Weishaupt, announced last week that Roy A. Johnson, Jr. was sentenced for the crimes of Murder in the Second Degree, Criminal Possession of a Weapon in the Second Degree, Criminal Possession of a Weapon in the Third Degree and Reckless Endangerment in the First Degree in connection with the murder of Paul J. Kutz on Oct. 2, 2022, at the Courtyard by Marriott in Poughkeepsie.

Dutchess County Court Judge Edward T. McLoughlin sentenced Johnson to 25 years to life on the charge of Murder in the Second Degree, 15 years plus 5 years' post-release supervision on two counts of Criminal Possession of a Weapon in the Second Degree, 3 1/2 to 7 years on the charge of Criminal Possession of a Weapon in the Third Degree and 3 1/2 to 7 years on the charge of Reckless Endangerment in the First Degree, with each sentence to run consecutively, for a total of 58 1/2 years to life in prison.

Johnson was sentenced to 15 years in prison plus 5 years' post-release supervision on an additional count of Criminal Possession of a Weapon in the Second Degree, which must run concurrently under the facts of this case.

Weishaupt said, "The Kutz family has been devastated in a way that we cannot comprehend nor change, but we hope this sentence will in some small way provide the family with the ability to move forward."

He praised the cooperation and work of the law enforcement agencies involved from the outset. The Town of Poughkeepsie Police, who headed the investigation, worked seamlessly with the Troop K State Police Forensic Investigations Unit, the Dutchess County Sheriff's Office, the Safe Streets Task Force, the City of Poughkeepsie Police, the United States Attorney's Office for the Southern District of New York, other responding law enforcement agencies, and members of the District Attorney's Office both at the scene and in the months that followed.

Weishaupt further stated that “it is this collaborative team effort that led to this verdict and sentence. This effort never waned despite outside pressures. Everyone involved in this case deserves a great deal of credit for remaining focused on the task at hand; it was truly an outstanding job.”

Weishaupt praised Bureau Chiefs Kristine Whelan and Robert Knapp, Deputy Bureau Chiefs Angela LoPane and Aviv Segal, Crime Analyst Andrea Tegtmeier and the team of ADAs, investigators and support staff for their dedicated and exceptional work in preparing this case for Grand Jury and trial. The Discovery process involved in this case was unprecedented and took more than six months to fully compile and turn over as required by law.

"Due to the egregious facts of this case, as well as the immeasurable loss and trauma inflicted on the victims, my office recommended the maximum penalty allowable under the law," said Weishaupt. "We are extremely pleased that Judge McLoughlin sentenced the defendant in accordance with our recommendation."

Johnson still faces felony murder and robbery charges in the Aug. 9, 2022 murder of Darren J. Villani in the City of Poughkeepsie.

bent Legislator Donna J. Bolner with 177 votes. There were also 9 write-in votes.

Working Families voters throughout the county selected James Rogers as their candidate for Family Court Judge. The contest between Rogers and Joseph A. Egitto resulted in 75 votes for Rogers and 67 for Egitto.

In Pleasant Valley, there were 4 write-in votes for the Working Families candidate for Pleasant Valley Town Clerk. Daniel Degan received 5 votes as the Working Families Town Board candidate, with 4 write-in votes.

‘Hidden masterpiece’ of stained glass art to be unveiled at Grace Church, Millbrook

by Pamela Freeman

A long-hidden and recently restored masterpiece of American stained glass art depicting Jesus Christ and Mary Magdalene holding hands as he bids farewell before ascending to heaven (the “Resurrection Window”) will be unveiled to the public on the afternoon of July 22 at Grace Episcopal Church in Millbrook.

Newly elected Bishop-coadjutor of New York, the Right Reverend Matthew Heyd, will join the Rector of Grace Church, the Rev. Dr. Matthew Calkins, and other clergy and honored speakers in an afternoon of talks, worship and the blessing of the newly restored window.

From 3 to 4 p.m., the Revs. Elizabeth Broyles and Shane Phelan, of the order of the Companions of Mary Magdalene, and Brianne van Vorst, stained glass conservator and expert consultant on the project, will speak in the Parish Hall on the significance and uniqueness of this historic window. At 4 p.m., Bishop Heyd will preside in a service of Evensong, concluding with a Blessing of the window in the Memorial Garden. Following the service there will be a reception on the lawn in front of the Rectory.

The window by renowned stained glass artist Maitland Armstrong and his daughter Helen Armstrong has been hidden since 1968 by a pipe organ placed in the rear of the church which completely blocked any interior view of the window - except for brave souls who climbed to a narrow loft behind the organ. The view of the window from the street was also hidden for many years by a large spruce tree. This was removed in 2003 and a Memorial Garden was placed under the window, but its layered glass construction meant that the street view was still obscured.

Today, Femenella & Associates, under the expert supervision of Brianne van Vorst of Liberty Consulting, has removed, cleaned and restored the window, and has placed it back in its original location - now facing the street for all who pass by to admire. Back-lighting will allow its magnificent colors and imagery to once again be viewed by the public. This priceless local treasure will be “unveiled” in all its glory on the afternoon of July 22, the date which the church marks as the feast of Mary Magdalene.

The public is invited to attend this historic event in the life of Grace Church and the Village of Millbrook. To learn more about this long-hidden masterpiece of American stained glass art, go to gracemillbrook.org and click on the link to the Resurrection church window.

partner Helen Armstrong were contemporaries and colleagues of Louis C. Tiffany and John La Farge. Together they led an American renaissance of decorative arts in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Their work in layered opalescent glass was particularly innovative.

Several of Maitland Armstrong’s works were commissioned for Grace Church Millbrook under the patronage of John and Adelaide Wing and their children. John died in 1910 and Adelaide, his wife of 50 years, in 1911. The large four-panel Armstrong window commissioned in their memory by their children was installed in the rear of the church, in the side facing Franklin Avenue, and dedicated on Easter Sunday 1912. The local newspaper called it the Resurrection Window, as it depicts Jesus and Mary Magdalene in the garden after Christ’s Resurrection. The scene depicts a passage from the gospel of John in which Mary recognizes Jesus, they briefly touch, but then Jesus says she must let go of him, for he has not yet ascended to the Father (John 20:11-18). Traditional depictions of this scene show Mary at a distance, kneeling, while Jesus lifts his hands to indicate the need to keep at a distance. Yet in Maitland and Helen Armstrong’s interpretation of the iconographical tradition, Jesus and Mary stand side by side, holding hands, while he indicates that he must leave.

The window’s memorial inscriptions quote another verse from John: “Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you” (John 14:27). The scene as depicted in this exquisite window conveys this assurance of eternal love, peace and togetherness.

County hosts children’s book author to help spread the word on mental health

The Dutchess County Department of Behavioral & Community Health (DBCH) recently welcomed children’s book author and international speaker Dennis Gillan for an opportunity to interact with staff and distribute the first copy of his anti-bullying book “Nice Shoes” to Morse Young Child Magnet Elementary School in Poughkeepsie. DBCH will distribute copies of his book to all public elementary schools and libraries in Dutchess County as an avenue for parents, teachers, and caregivers to open dialogue with children about mental health.

Gillan spent the day reading the story aloud to Morse third-graders and answering their questions. He also sat down for discussion with members of the Dutchess County Resiliency Council for Suicide Prevention, a group of passionate individuals who meet regularly to examine data, provide trainings, community projects, and education with the intention to lower suicide and ensure a safer and more supportive community.

Gillan discussed his organization, “Half a Sorrow Foundation,” for which he is the executive director. The organization was started to help improve the mental health of individuals within organizations by promoting real conversations about mental health. Since losing family members to suicide, Gillan has made it his mission to tackle the stigma surrounding mental health by sharing his story with others. He wrote the children’s book “Nice Shoes” to introduce behavioral health to youth in a way that is understandable and may be relatable to begin the conversation at a young age.

Dutchess County offers many innovative behavioral health services, including its Stabilization Center, located at 230 North Road in Poughkeepsie, and the 988 Dutchess County Suicide and Crisis Helpline, both available 24/7 to those in need. Mental health and suicide prevention services are also available with a touch of a button using the Dutchess County Helpline App which is available in both the Apple Store and Android Marketplace.

‘The Real Gardens of Amenia’ tour set July 8

After being on hiatus for three years because of COVID-19, the Garden Club of Amenia will present its annual garden tour on Saturday, July 8 (rain or shine), from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The tour will feature six private gardens: Broccoli Hall, The Durbridge Garden, the Garden of Nancy Link, Neverest, Teeniepaw Cottage and Jade Hill.

Tickets are $20 and can be purchased on the Garden Club’s website at www.ameniagardens.org.

The club’s annual tour has been a community favorite for over 25 years. The theme for this year’s tour is “The Real Gardens of Amenia” and will feature a wide range of gardens, including many old favorites as well as one new garden.

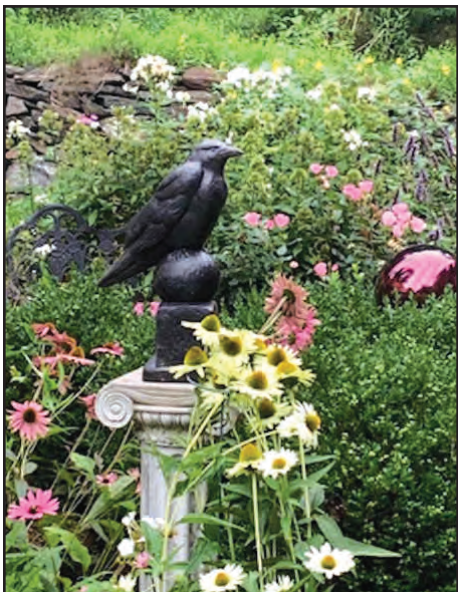

Maxine Paetro will be welcoming visitors once again to Broccoli Hall, her magical English-style cottage garden. Andy Durbridge, a longtime board member of the Amenia Garden Club, will open his garden that includes a small orchard, ornamental perennials and grasses, shrubs and trees, and seasonal container plants.

The new garden on the tour this year is in the center of Wassaic. Nancy Link has created a delightful oasis on a very difficult small plot of land sandwiched between Old Route 22 and a steep hill. Visitors will be delighted to see how beautifully Link has dealt with these challenges. Also located in Wassaic, Leo Blackman and Ken Monteiro (Amenia Garden Club President) will be opening their garden, “Neverest,” and much has changed since it was last on the Amenia Garden Tour. As supporters of Homegrown National Park, whose mission is to encourage the planting of native plants and the removal of invasives, Blackman and Monteiro have converted a portion of their lawn into two new native beds and are replacing a large swath of invasive shrubs from their east border with native viburnums, blueberries and red-stemmed dogwoods.

Emily Fuller’s Garden, “Teeniepaw Cottage,” will also be back on the tour this year. Fuller's focus on native plants includes a continuous bed of pollinator flowers that will bloom all summer attracting bees and other pollinators.

Amenia Garden Club board member Paul Arcario's wonderful Jade Hill will be open to visitors once again. Arcario and his late husband Don Walker created an impressive garden on a very steep slope with interesting specimen trees and plants, ponds with water lilies and a tea garden pagoda. Jade Hill is a favorite of the Garden Conservancy annual tour welcoming hundreds of visitors each summer.

The Garden Club of Amenia is a registered 501(c)(3) organization. In addition to its annual garden tour, the Club carries out community projects with its volunteer members such as the restoration and maintenance of Borden Park in Wassaic.

AUDITIONS FOR 'DANCE NATION' AT THE CENTER

Definitely Human Theatre announces auditions for the play "Dance Nation" by Claire Barron. The production is directed by Joey Taylor and Vanessa Baer. Auditions will be held Saturday, July 8, at 1 p.m.; and Sunday, July 9, at 7 p.m., at The Center for Performing Arts at Rhinebeck, 661 Route 308, Rhinebeck. Self-Tapes will be accepted until July 10.

Somewhere in America, an army of pre-teen competitive dancers plots to take over the world. And if their new routine is good enough, they'll claw their way to the top at Nationals in Tampa Bay. An unorthodox play about ambition, growing up, and how to find our souls in the heat of it all.

The heavy lines indicate areas, called cages, from one to five squares in size. Fill each cage with unique digits, counting up from 1. So for example a 2-square cage contains the numbers 1 and 2; and a 5-square cage contains the numbers from 1 to 5. Adjacent (touching) squares, even ones that touch diagonally, may never contain the same number.

‘Crockett’s Victory Garden’

Some advice from this classic gardening book holds up after all these years; some, not so much.

Chemicals! In the vegetable garden! Now that I have your attention, I want to talk about the seminal groundbreaking gardening book that made its debut almost 50 years ago.

I was perusing my collection of garden books, searching for a copy of the “Golden Book of Wildflowers.” I wanted to take it along on a summer wildflower walk that was happening last Friday night at the buttercup Farm Sanctuary in Standordville (I’ll report on that next time). Wedged between a copy of “Perennial All Stars” by Jeff Cox and the Ortho book “All About Bulbs,” appeared my well worn copy of “Crockett’s Victory Garden.” It got me wondering what has changed, and what has remained the same, in the world of vegetable gardening over the past half century.

Fifty years ago, in the early 1970s, everything was falling apart – long lines at gas stations, unemployment, inflation (12% in 1974). The president resigned. In response, people started vegetable gardening. The Public Broadcasting Network launched a TV show called “The Victory Garden,” hiring garden writing celebrity James Underwood Crockett as host. Crockett was the perfect guy for the job (old white men were still popular back then). With his khaki pants, denim work shirt and casual demeanor, he made vegetable gardening accessible to the masses.

The book “Crockett’s Victory Garden” was laid out month by month, as it followed Jim Crockett in his 75 X 75 foot garden throughout the year.

“There’s a simple test for soil readiness: if a handful of soil remains in a moist ball after it’s squeezed, the soil is still too wet to work, if it crumbles like chocolate cake, it’s ready.” That’s Crockett’s introduction to the month of March. And on it goes, until February, when he’s sowing seeds for the following spring’s garden. “July – By the time July arrives in the Victory Garden, the soil has been hard at work for four months and it may begin to show some signs of wear. So before I put in any additional crops to fill the vacancies left by harvests, I add nutrients.”

Perusing the book, which was my Bible growing up as a young gardener, I must admit that not much has changed in the gardening world. The world outside changed – as Lou Reed sang, “Those were different times.” People smoked cigarettes on airplanes. We watched a lot of television. If we were expecting a call, we sat home by the telephone. Nobody drank bottled water. But we still planted tomato seedlings after the last frost in May. Jim Crockett taught us how to use raised beds, turn peat moss and compost into the soil to make it richer, and how to prevent cutworms by using an old tuna fish can.

The biggest difference between then and now has to do with Crockett’s recommendations for pest control. I can’t imagine a gardening book written for homeowners nowadays recommending chemical insecticides, and I suspect that’s the reason “Crockett’s Victory Garden” is out of print, along with books by Rudyard Kipling and Dr. Seuss.

“Turnips will be devoured by root maggots unless something is done to prevent this, so after I sow the seeds at one inch intervals along a 1/2-inch deep furrow, I water the row with a mixture of water and diazinon I repeat the diazinon application at 10 day intervals throughout the growing season ... I stop the diazinon routine two weeks shy of harvest.”

Diazinon, a potent insecticide, is still sold in garden centers, but most gardeners nowadays prevent root maggots with floating row covers, which Crockett fails to mention. To be fair, he does delve into a primitive form of integrated pest management when he states, “It is a wise gardener who learns the life cycle of each major insect and disease and strikes it early, when it is most vulnerable with the least toxic material that will insure protection.”

All in all, “Crockett’s Victory Garden” is a wealth of information about vegetable, fruit and sometimes flower gardening, clearly stated and incredibly thorough. You can still buy the book, used, on Amazon, for $1.23, or $134.99 for the collector’s edition.

• Heavy rain – Last week’s downpours might have washed the fertilizer out of your containers of flowers and vegetables. Add Miracle-Gro fertilizer, or something similar, the next time you water them. Make sure all containers have proper drain holes, or they will fill up and drown the plant’s roots.

• Woodchuck update – Ever since I installed my woodchuck-proof fence top- per, which is a piece of wire fence bent outward to keep them from climbing over, I haven’t seen a woodchuck anywhere on my property. I think I created a “nuclear deterrent.” The woodchucks know I mean business, so they’re either staying away, or secretly planning a massive blitzkrieg attack. Stay tuned.

Author Talk with Suzaan Boettger

Thursday, July 13 @ 6:30 pm (at Morton)

The first biography of Robert Smithson, Inside the Spiral: The Passions of Robert Smithson, deepens understanding of his art by addressing the potent forces in his life that as a well-known sculptor and earthworker Smithson obscured from others' awareness. These include family trauma; his substantial history as a painter; his affiliation with Christianity, alchemy, astrology, and numerology; and his sexual fluidity.

Author Suzaan Boettger, an art historian and critic in New York City, will discuss those elements as displayed in his expressive paintings made in the early 1960s, the period in which his subject matter went "underground" as he did, professionally, before emerging in 1965 as a cerebral sculptor and essayist. Dr. Boettger will answer questions about how her investigative art history process led her to expanding Smithson's personal, professional, and sexual identities.

Suzaan Boettger, a widely published scholar, arts journalist, and critic based in New York City, is the author of Earthworks: Art and Landscape of the Sixties. She is professor emerita of the history of art at Bergen Community College.

Tickets are free. Registration is requested. Books will be available for purchase.

John Watson ‘Brud’ Golden Jr.

HYDE PARK--John Watson “Brud” Golden Jr., 99, a lifelong resident of Hyde Park, died in his 100th year at home on June 23, 2023, after a long and active life.
He was born at home in Hyde Park on January 10, 1924, the son of John Watson Golden and Louise Traudt Golden.
John was predeceased by his beloved wife, Gloria, after seventy-two years of marriage; his son, Jonathan; grandson, Alex; and sisters, Adeline Foley and Isabelle Saegren.
Survivors include his daughter, Elizabeth Hilton, and her husband, Gary; sister, Gwen Cookingham; and several nieces and nephews.
He always believed a miracle called the Reverend Gordon Kidd to St. James’ Episcopal Church, where he met the Pastor’s daughter, the most beautiful person he had ever seen, on Christmas Eve 1946, and they were married on August 26, 1950.

John graduated in the first class at FDR High School in 1941. While a student, he played football, baseball, and captained the basketball team.
He attended Cortland State College and left to join the Army Air Force in late 1942. He served in the 8th Air Force in England with the 491st Bomb Group during World War II. At the end of the War, he enrolled at Syracuse University, graduating in 1949. He was employed by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., later joining his father in real estate development.
John was a lifelong communicant of St. James' Episcopal Church, serving as a Vestryman and Warden for many years. He was a Life-Member of the Hyde Park Fire Department, member of the American Legion, and former President of the Northern Dutchess Hospital Board. He also served with the Wells Manor Board, Northern Dutchess Foundation, Winnakee Land Trust, Hudson River Housing, and the Roosevelt – Vanderbilt Association.
He was honored to have represented Hyde Park Scouting at the first National Boy Scout Jamboree in 1937, enjoying a visit with then President Roosevelt.
He loved telling of Hyde Park’s past and being called “Mr. Hyde Park.” He and Gloria were especially proud of the Hyde Park Police and Court Building named in their honor, and to have received the Eleanor Roosevelt Medal at Val-Kill. He also was honored by New Horizons and the Dutchess County Historical Society, named Grand Marshall of the 2008

Hyde Park 4th of July Parade, received Businessman of the Year award, inducted into the FDR High School Hall of Fame, and awarded the St. James’ Medal.
He chaired the committee to restore the old Hyde Park Town Center and the restoration of the St. James’ Chapel. Always a champion of open space, John’s land along the Hudson became the start of the Winnakee Trail System. He also gifted lands to the Town of Hyde Park, Hyde Park Central School District, and the Staatsburg Fire Department.
John’s family would like to thank his caregivers, Jeanine, Donna, and Beverly for their special care along with the friends from Hudson Valley Hospice.
There will be no calling hours. John's burial service was officiated by the Rev. Meredith Kadet Sanderson, with the Rev. Chuck Kramer as preacher, on Friday, June 30th, at St. James’ Episcopal Church, 4526 Albany Post Rd., Hyde Park.
Interment took place in the St. James’ Churchyard followed by a reception at the Parish Hall.
In lieu of flowers, the Golden family respectfully request memorial contributions to the Hyde Park Food Pantry, PO Box 171, Hyde Park, NY 12538 (www.hpfoodpantry.org), or the charity of your choice would be welcomed.
Arrangements are under the direction of Sweet’s Funeral Home, Hyde Park. To send an online condolence, or for directions, please visit John's obituary page at www.sweetsfuneralhome.com.
