scheduled August 31By Craig Marshall
Clinton Town Historian*

Horse-drawn carriage rides, Bee Bee the Clown, a large parade, bands, food trucks, children's games! These and much more will be featured at the annual Clinton Community Day family event being held this Saturday, August 31, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. to provide fun, education, and social interaction.

"Honoring our Past & Building our Future" is the theme driving this celebration of those past and present who have made Clinton the close community it is today and preparing it for our future families and residents. Over 40 civic organizations and vendors will participate, including Clinton Community Library, Clinton Historical Society, East Clinton and West Clinton Fire Departments, Republican and Democratic Clubs, Town Board, and youth organizations.

Clinton Community Day began in October 1917, and is one of the oldest community days in Dutchess County. It was hosted by the Upton Lake Grange and held, as today, at the present site of the Clinton Historical Society's 1777 stone Creek Meeting House. The event was meant to give some respite to the many farm families in the area and a chance to socialize, compete for flower and vegetable ribbons, build and feature elaborate horse-drawn floats in a parade, and more. It was so successful, that it continued in following years with horse shows, bicycle races, BBQ chicken dinners,

Special presentation to Firefighting Museumby Curtis Schmidt*

Lutz Jaffé, journalist and member of the Hamburg, Germany Fire Department, presented a copper plate and congratulatory plaque to members of the Firefighting Museum of Dutchess County on Wednesday, Aug. 21 at the Dutchess County Fair. Jaffe and his wife, Wiebke, were in Salt Point visiting relatives Renate and Dieter Friedrichsen, who also volunteer at the Fair.

"That's how I heard about the new Firefighters Museum of Dutchess County and contacted the press office of the Hamburg Fire Department. They were immediately enthusiastic about the idea of a special presentation," said Jaffé. "I bring warm congratulations to the new Firefighting Museum of Dutchess County."

"Fire department personnel are one big family – worldwide," he said, noting that Hamburg is a city of approximately 2 million people with 19 professional fire departments, rescue and fire stations and about 90 volunteer fire stations. There is a special fire department for the harbor and fireboats, divers and high-altitude rescuers.

New program helps teachers to build ecological knowledge in classrooms

By Olivia Fried

When Rebecca Van Tassell was interviewing to become part of the Cary Institute of Ecosystem Studies team, a new request from the National Science Foundation (NSF) came up.

"A seed was planted," she said.

The NSF's Directorate for Biological Sciences was looking for proposals for a new program: the Research Experiences for Teacher Sites in Biological Science (BIORETS). Aiming to enhance teachers' capacity to build ecological knowledge in their classrooms, the BIORETS program funds active research for teachers through institutions of higher learning or non-profit organizations.

Having been a classroom teacher for 10 years, Van Tassell is passionate about working with teachers and wanted to expand opportunities for local educators through her position at the Cary Institute, a non-profit environmental institution in Millbrook.

After receiving the NSF grant, the Cary Institute designed a program through which nine high school teachers, coming from a variety of backgrounds and fields, underwent collaborative research and professional development over a six-week period this summer.

Split into groups of teachers and a number of Cary Institute scientists, the groups created three final research projects on the topics of mosquito oviposition, forest productivity and the functional capacity of different soils.

Van Tassell highlights teacher collaboration as one of the best parts about the program.

"We really wanted to focus on collaborative science because that's what it looks like in ecology for our actual scientists. Nobody's working on a project alone — they're working in collaboration with others and they're working in collaboration across disciplines," she said.

To support this collaborative approach, the Cary Institute focused on cultivating a well-rounded cohort of teachers from different educational backgrounds and classroom types.

The team purposefully selected teachers from a variety of STEM fields including biology, earth science, anatomy and physiology. They also prioritized teachers who worked with historically-marginalized and underrepresented students, such as Noa Jaffe who works at the Liberty School for Newcomers serving English language learners and Kristie Wikane of the Brookwood Secure Center for Youth.

Through working with incarcerated youth, Wikane looks to provide hope and inspiration to the kids she teaches through her instructional plan. For the first half of the school year Wikane plans to teach her students about different ways that humans negatively-impact the environment, introduced through a series of articles into ways that other youth are already advocating for environmental change.

"They're bright and they're funny, and I think that when they see other kids their age already doing this work, they might be inspired to join in," she said.

Richmond City Public Schools, was a part of the third team researching the functional capacity of soils in ecosystems in Baltimore. The team — which also included Wikane, Caitlyn Corigliano-Maceli of Arlington High School, and Peter Groffman and Lisa Martel from the Cary Institute — researched the ability of urban soils to support the growth of plants needed for multiple ecosystem functions and services.

As an educator in an urban area, Rogers shared that she was looking forward to continuing this type of scientific research in a city she's familiar with.

"That's why I'm excited for my instructional plan — because I know Richmond," she said.

Throughout the school year, the cohort of teachers will meet back at the Cary Institute to discuss how the implementation of these instructional plans is going. Later on, in June, they will come together once again to write about their experiences for publication to become a resource for other teachers.

"There aren't a lot of opportunities for teachers to have that kind of rich learning experience where their own knowledge is privileged and leveraged for other teachers' learning," Van Tassell said.

When writing their paper for publication, the guidelines are intentionally open-ended, Van Tassell said. By choosing the forum they think fits them for the publication they have the opportunity to delve into writing styles that are often overlooked in STEM fields. Van Tassell adds that personal narratives can be very important, often allowing other teachers to see themselves in those stories.

"I hope that by the end of June they'll think of themselves as writers and scientists and teachers. And that they're going back to their classrooms energized and affirmed and excited to try something new," Van Tassell said.

Town of Clinton Community Day honors past, looks to future and dances at neighboring Wing's Dance Hall.

A large volunteer Clinton Community Day committee headed by Event Director Todd Martin (Clinton Highway Dept. Superintendent) and his secretary Melissa Karchmer are planning this popular event. Among the features the committee has included are a horse-drawn wagon ride with the Town Historian giving the history of our Town of Clinton, car show and awards, beer and food tent, parade trophy awards, free drawing for a truckload of firewood, 50/50 raffle, Touch a Truck, and Birds of Prey. Attendees will be greeted at the new Welcome Booth built and donated by Bayhorse Gazebos & Barns. Three bands will provide live music throughout the day.

The popular parade will begin at 4 p.m. and will be led by Grand Marshal and Town Historian and community volunteer Craig Marshall and will include several fire companies, a horse riding academy, businesses, civic organizations such Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, and an antique horse-drawn ambulance. The Clinton Historical Society will open its colorful free summer exhibit of 24 antique quilts dating to the 1850s inside their Creek Meeting House. Here also will be tours of the 1777 National Register structure, plus a flower show by the Friendship Garden Club. From their extensive archive, the Society will feature a mini-display of vintage Clinton Community Day artifacts and images from 1923 and later.

As Martin commented, "Since the days of our farming heritage, our town has continued to be a close-knit community with a strong resident and volunteer base that gives us a promising future, and Clinton Community Day honors this."

Authors Don Estes and David "Tiger" Bean will have a booth on the lawn outside the Creek Meeting House from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Signed copies of their books will be available.

Fireman Don Estes is the author of "Willy and Friends: Traveling through the Seasons." Bean is the author of "When You're A Jet: The Story of a Dancer's Extraordinary, Ordinary Life."

The Clinton Community Day Committee is grateful for the generous financial support from town and area residents, businesses, and organizations that are making this special day possible. All are invited to attend this free family oriented event at 2433 Salt Point Turnpike in Clinton Corners. Free parking will be located nearby at the Clinton Corners Evangelical Free Church. All dogs must be leashed for everyone's safety. For information, please call Melissa Karchmer at (845) 266-5853, ext. 110.

988 SUICIDE & CRISIS LIFELINE IS LIVE

The first nationwide three-digit mental health crisis hotline is up and running. It is designed to be as easy to remember as 911, but when you dial 988, a dispatcher will connect callers with trained mental health counselors.

Dialing 988:

- Is a direct connection to compassionate, accessible support for anyone experiencing mental health related distress.
- Provides support: People may dial 988 if they are worried about a loved one who may need crisis support.
- Help for VETERANS: Veterans can press "1" after dialing 988 and be connected directly to the Veterans Crisis Lifeline.

Dutchess to participate in STOP-DWI enforcement Labor Day weekend

Various police agencies throughout Dutchess County will participate in a special enforcement effort to crack down on impaired driving to coincide with Labor Day weekend. The statewide STOP-DWI High Visibility Engagement Campaign effort, currently in effect, will conclude at the end of Labor Day on Monday, Sept. 2. Municipal law enforcement agencies will collaborate across the state and will be out in force in this coordinated effort to reduce the number of alcohol-related injuries and deaths during this period.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), there were 490 crash fatalities nationwide during the 2022 Labor Day holiday; of those fatalities, 39 percent involved a drunk driver, and 25 percent involved drivers who were driving with a blood-alcohol content (BAC) almost twice the legal limit. Among drivers between the ages of 18 and 34 who were killed in crashes over the 2022 Labor Day holiday, 47 percent were drunk with BACs of .08 or higher, according to the NHTSA. Statewide, New York State Police arrested 154 people for driving while intoxicated during the 2023 Labor Day weekend enforcement period.

The Labor Day Weekend Engagement Campaign is one of many statewide enforcement initiatives promoted by the New York State STOP-DWI Association with additional funding from the STOP-DWI Foundation with a grant from the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee. In addition to this crackdown, statewide STOP-DWI engagement campaigns also target Super Bowl Sunday, St. Patrick's Day, Memorial Day Weekend, July 4th Weekend, Halloween, Thanksgiving and the December holiday season.

While STOP-DWI efforts across New York have led to significant reductions in the numbers of alcohol and drug related fatalities, still too many lives are being lost because of crashes caused by drunk or impaired drivers. Highly visible, highly publicized efforts like the STOP-DWI High Visibility Community Engagement Campaign aim to further reduce the incidence of drunk and impaired driving.

Drivers can help to make a difference by having a sober plan! Motorists can download the mobile app, "Have a Plan," and be able to find a safe ride home www.stopdwi.org/mobileapp.

RENEGADES ROUNDUP

Rocking Renegades add to lead in bid for second-half crown

By Rich Thomaselli

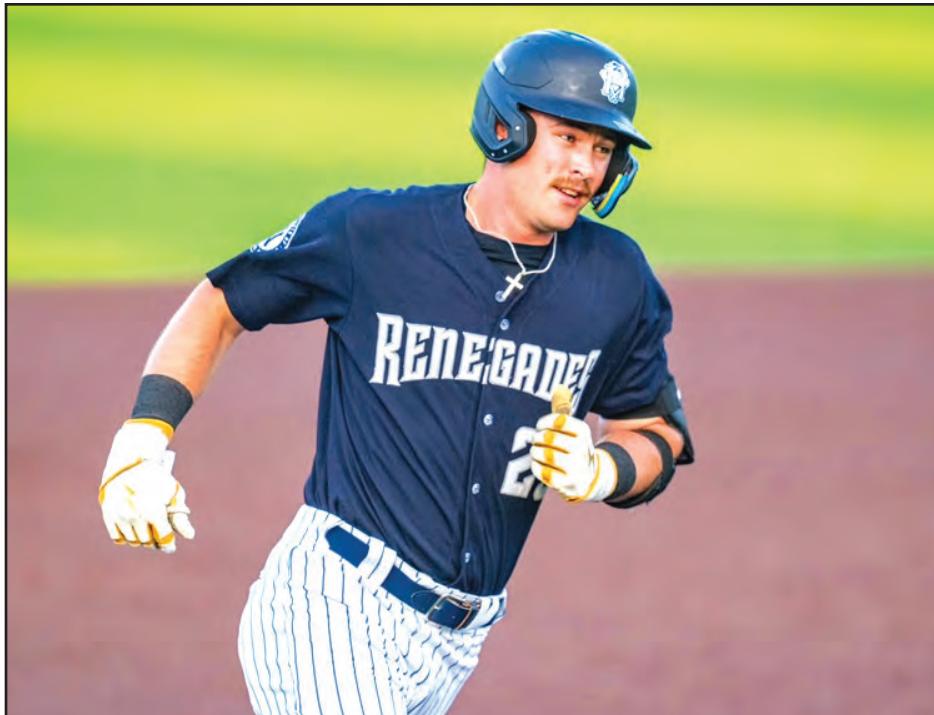

You can't ask for much better than this. The Hudson Valley Renegades strengthened their hold on first place in the North Division of the South Atlantic League with a couple of milestones last week. Hudson Valley recorded its first seven-game sweep in franchise history, including a sweep of a doubleheader on Thursday and threw in a no-hitter in the back end of the games.

This all came in a series at their home field – Heritage Financial Park in Wappingers Falls.

The Renegades hold a three-game lead over Jersey Shore and Aberdeen and are playing a crucial six-game series at Jersey Shore this week. They have a 32-22 record in the second half of the season. Greensboro won the first half and the winners of each half will meet in the post-season playoffs.

The Renegades threw their second no-hitter of the season to clinch a doubleheader sweep of the Wilmington Blue Rocks on Thursday at Heritage Financial Park, holding on for a 7-6 win in game one before making history with a 6-0 win in game two. The nightcap no-no was the fourth no-hitter in franchise history, as Trent Sellers, Mason Vinyard, and Thomas Balboni combined for a 6-0 victory.

After two no-hitters in the first 29 seasons of Renegades baseball, they have thrown two in the last five weeks. It also helped the Renegades execute their first doubleheader sweep since April 27, 2022. In game one, T.J. White put the Blue Rocks ahead 1-0 with a solo home run off Sebastian Keane in the top of the second. A lead-off double by Marcus Brown and a single by Joe Naranjo put runners at first and third in the third.

Brown later scored on a fielder's choice ground-out by Jared McKenzie, and Naranjo scored on a wild pitch to make it 3-0.

The Renegades struck in the bottom of the third after pair of singles by George Lombard and Josh Moylan was followed by a three-run homer by Garrett Martin to tie the game. Later in the frame Coby Morales reached on an error by Naranjo and later scored on an Edison Vivas RBI single to give the Renegades a 4-3 lead.

Martin had a tremendous day at the plate, launching three home runs and driving in seven runs between the two games of the doubleheader. In the fifth Martin walked and Morales singled to put runners at first and second. Dylan Jasso knocked in Martin with an RBI single. Vivas then notched a two-run single to bring in Morales and Jasso and extend the Renegades lead to 7-3. In his High-A debut, Vivas was 2-for-3 with three RBI. In game two Sellers tossed 4.2 hitless innings. Since June 25, Sellers has been charged with just two earned runs across 39.2 innings (0.45 ERA).

In the series opener last Tuesday, Hudson Valley set the tone with a 10-0 victory. The Renegades took a no-hitter into the eighth inning before Thomas legged out a bunt single with one out against Harrison Cohen. The pitching staff did not allow another hit the rest of the way, throwing their fourth one-hitter of the season. Baron Stuart put together arguably his best performance of the season. The right-hander did not allow a hit in six innings, inducing seven groundball outs and allowing just three baserunners to reach safely. He retired 13 of the last 14 batters he faced.

A night later, it was a 5-3 victory for Hudson Valley. Josh Grosz continued his nearly flawless pitching of late. The right-hander allowed just three hits and one run across 6.1 innings, while striking out eight and issuing just one walk. In three starts with the Renegades since being promoted on August 6, Grosz has a 0.51 ERA. In the bottom of the first Garrett Martin walked, stole second, and scored on a Coby Morales RBI single to put the Renegades on the board 1-0. Hudson Valley added to its lead in the fifth, bringing across three runs. Moylan led off the inning with a solo home run, his eighth of the season and fourth against the Blue Rocks. Martin walked and Brendan Jones singled to put runners at first and second. Morales then singled home Martin to extend the Renegades lead to 3-0. A sacrifice fly by Gomez later in the inning scored Jones and made it 4-0 Renegades.

On Friday night, the team needed extra innings but came away with a 2-1 victory in 10 innings. Jackson Castillo lined an RBI single to right off Chance Huff to score George Lombard, Jr. to give the Renegades their ninth walk-off win of the season.

On Saturday, it was a 7-3 win. The Renegades bullpen was outstanding in the victory. After opener Indigo Diaz allowed three runs in 0.2 innings, five Renegades relievers combined for 8.1 scoreless innings to close out the win.

On Sunday, Baron Stuart was the star, tossing six scoreless innings as the Renegades won, 6-3.

Editor's note: The Hudson Valley Renegades have a first-year general manager in Zach Betkowski. He sits down with reporter Rich Thomaselli every week to share his thoughts on the Renegades and minor league baseball.

In your mind, what constitutes a successful season?

Well, I think there's a lot of factors. First and foremost is the fan experience. We want to make sure that people who are coming to our games are having a good time. Certainly, as a business, we want to make sure we are being efficient with revenues. We look at it as a long-term play; we want people to have a good time and to come back multiple times.

Seemingly every day there's an update on roster moves. Is it that time of year?

It is that time of year, but there's also a lot involved with it, especially for the pitchers. You want to make sure they are right at their pitch count. And for some, that means coming here for the better competition and for some it means going to Tampa to get the extra work in.

There's so much competition for the entertainment dollar. So how do you stand out and differentiate yourself?

I'm biased, of course, but I think we offer the best family entertainment in the area. Of course, the baseball is a part of it, but we want everyone to have a great time. Like we always say, we want to treat it like it's their first game. All it takes is one bad experience for one fan to ruin it and you don't want that. You know, I recently had a fan come up to me and tell me that everybody she dealt with was very nice and did so with a smile on their face. That says a lot about our staff and meant the world to me.

Northern Dutchess Hospital earns highest rating from federal healthcare agency

RHINEBECK – Northern Dutchess Hospital, part of Nuvance Health, has earned a five-star rating by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), scoring the highest level of recognition for quality of patient care.

CMS ratings offer the community an overview of healthcare facility performance. Their evaluation measures safety of care, mortality, patient experience, readmission rates and timely and effective care. CMS collaborates with the entire healthcare community to achieve better outcomes in the healthcare system.

"This remarkable achievement would not have been possible without the dedication and compassion of our physicians and staff, as well as the trust and support of our community," said Denise George, president of Northern Dutchess Hospital. "Every member of our team pours their heart into their work, always striving to provide exceptional care. Our unique culture, rooted in teamwork and quality, is at the core of everything we do. Earning a five-star rating highlights our commitment to ensuring every patient feels valued and well cared for."

By Curtis Schmidt

To Riley Mahaffey, Beau is “the most handsome boy ever!”

Beau is the Grand Champion Market Steer of the 2024 Dutchess County Fair and the first steer in the history of the Youth Livestock Sale to also be a national champion. He was the 2024 Reserve Champion national bred and owned Simmental steer at the Simmental National Show in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Riley, breeder and owner, just turned 16 and is heading into her junior year at Housatonic Valley Regional High School. She raised Beau, a 1/2 Simmental steer that was born and bred on the Mahaffey Farm in Amenia.

Riley said Beau is “out of a cow we bought from Bramlet Cattle Company in Illinois. We call her Belle. She has been the mother to numerous champions, including a heifer we called Aurora, who is the heifer with the most ever wins on the East Coast.”

Riley is involved in the Future Farmers of America (FFA) program and is the current vice president of her chapter. She has been part of many career development and leadership development programs and teams.

She is also the current president of the Dutchess County 4-H “Here Comes The Beef” club where she has been an active member for five years. 2024 is her first time having a steer in the sale class at the Fair.

She added, “I’m very excited to be able to sell the first steer in the Youth Livestock Sale.” The buyers at the sale were Victoria and Doug LaPerche.

Junior Fair Board takes on key roles with DC Ag Society

The Junior Fair Board is made up of a group of young people from 14-25 years old. They have been selected to represent the Dutchess County Agricultural Society, Inc. and the Dutchess County Fair. They take on volunteer positions Fair week in Building E, teaching the fair-goers about farm-to-table harvesting through the AgriVenture hands-on activity and the virtual reality tractor. You also see them in the Farmer’s Tent on Livestock Hill, giving talks to the fair-goers in their respective areas of expertise in the agricultural world. They are also working on creating a school-based agricultural project that will hopefully role out this fall. Their advisor, Jenny Lang, is proud to have such a motivated and enthusiastic group of young people to work with and is looking forward to seeing all the great things they will accomplish. The scholarship was started by Ben Prentice in 2022 and is designed to help area youth in the name of Mike Leary. Additional committee members are Jon Prezzano and Matt Leary.

Studio tours to showcase artistic process Aug. 31-Sept. 1

Art enthusiasts and cultural explorers are invited to immerse themselves in a weekend of creativity during Art Studio Views (ASV) this Labor Day weekend. From Aug. 31 to Sept. 1, 30 artists will open their doors to the public, offering a unique opportunity to witness firsthand the craftsmanship and vision behind some of the region's most acclaimed artworks. Many studios will also be open on Monday, Labor Day.

Located in five Hudson Valley communities – Hyde Park, Germantown, Red Hook, Rhinebeck and Tivoli – Art Studio Views has been a cornerstone of the local art scene for 17 years, renowned for its promotion of local talents and brings people together to appreciate their work.

"We are thrilled to welcome visitors to Art Studios Views over Labor Day weekend," said Joanna Hess, director of ASV. "This event is not only a celebration of art but also a chance for our community to come together and experience the power of creativity. This event promises to be a highlight of the holiday weekend, blending cultural enrichment with the joy of artistic discovery."

Hess continued, "Whatever your interest, the tour has something for you—painters working in oils, acrylics, watercolors and inks; collage & mixed media makers working with found objects; printmakers; photographers; and ceramic artists whose work ranges from functional with a bit of funk thrown in for good measure. It's all here for you to discover."

Throughout the weekend, guests can anticipate intimate guided tours led by the artists, and some demonstrations, providing insights into their creative processes and inspirations.

Since mid-August, the Betsy Jacaruso Gallery in Rhinebeck has hosted the ASV "Sampler Exhibit," which is a perfect opportunity to preview the artwork of the 30 participating artists.

Follow the bright yellow Art Studio Views signs along the route to find these private studios.

Attendees are urged to plan ahead for their personal tour by visiting the ASV website (artstudiovviews.com), Facebook, and Instagram pages where more information on each artist and sponsor can be found. Maps are available at ASV Headquarters: The Artists' Collective of Hyde Park (artistscollectiveofhydepark.com); Art Gallery 71 (artgallery71.com); the Betsy Jacaruso Studio & Gallery (bestsyjacaruso.com); Equis Art Gallery (equisart.com); and Tivoli Artist Gallery (tivoliartistsgallery.com).

Whether you're a seasoned art aficionado or simply curious about the local creative scene, Art Studios invites you to join us this Labor Day weekend for an unforgettable experience. Admission is free, but please leave your pets at home.

How not to kill turtles

Mark and Sue visit the Hudson Valley Farm Hub.

I have a dermatologist, a rheumatologist, an oncologist and an ophthalmologist. A friend of mine is an entomologist. But I had never met a herpetologist until last week, at the Hudson Valley Farm Hub.

The Hudson Valley Farm Hub is a non-profit center for resilient agriculture based on 1,600 acres of prime farmland in Hurley, Ulster County, N.Y. The vision is for a collaborative regional food system that meets the economic and social needs of our communities while working in partnerships with natural systems. The Farm Hub is a subsidiary of the NoVo foundation, which has a net worth of around $100 billion, led in part by Warren Buffett's son Peter and daughter-in-law Jennifer.

My daughter Becky works at the Farm Hub, so she invited me and Sue to the annual Farmscape Ecology Field Day. This is a showcase for Ecology Related research projects sponsored by the Farm Hub, open to the general public, about 40 people on this occasion.

Farmscape Ecology program manager Anne Bloomfield led our group through several research projects set up by staff, interns and visiting students. I would say that the research is geared toward investigating the interface between production agriculture and the natural environment:

• Grassland Birds – Zischi Wu is studying migratory grassland birds, specifically Bobolinks and Savannah Sparrows, by attaching geolocators to see when they are present in local hay fields. To protect the birds' nests, she recommends harvesting hay before the June nesting season and again (for the second cutting) after the nestlings have fledged. This might not be practical, but it is something to be considered.

• Native Meadow Trials – In 2017, three half-acre plots were plowed and planted – one with wildflower seed, one with native grasses, and one left to grow on its own (the "control"). Since then, the native grass plot has remained grassy, with switch grass and big blue stem slowly taking over. After eight years, the wildflower plot still has some rudbeckia, but goldenrod is becoming more common. The control plot is growing up to cottonwood trees. An annual early spring mowing would maintain the plots as meadow, but if left completely alone, all three might eventually grow up to forest.

• Native Meadow Insects – One group of researchers documented the insects found in each of the three plots. No surprise that bees and butterflies were more common in the wildflower plot. The grass plot had fewer insects overall. The control, which after eight years was basically weeds and young trees, had lots of aphids, flea beetles and weevils, and a big diversity of parasitic wasps that feed on the other insects.

• Water Quality in the Esopus Creek – New Paltz college professor Shaiful Chowdhury (a Hydrologist!) and his students have been studying the Esopus Creek, which runs alongside the farm, for years, dating back to when it was John Gill's sweet corn farm. It's no big secret that a fine balance exists between applying enough fertilizer to grow a healthy crop and applying too much, which washes into the rivers and streams. Since the Farm Hub is organic, they use chicken manure as a fertilizer. Several plots have been laid out in order to fine-tune the dosage.

• Wood Turtles – At last I met a professional Herpetologist – Jason Tesauro, who works with reptiles and amphibians, advising local government, the Department of Environmental Conservation, and on occasion developers, about threatened and endangered species. Jason has a soft spot for wood turtles, which are considered endangered. At the Farm Hub, native wood turtles have been fitted with radio transmitters to track their movement. The researchers found out that, like most turtles, wood turtles stick close to the water except during nesting season, when the females travel up to a half mile, in search of a suitable place to lay their eggs. Wood turtles love farm fields, and this is where it gets interesting. In order to cut down on carbon admissions, organic farmers practice no-till planting. Instead of plowing up an entire field, they leave the cover crop and plant a single furrow, without disturbing the surrounding soil. The cover crop needs to be killed by "rolling and crimping," using a heavy machine. This happens in June, when the turtles are on the move. They could get squashed. The farm Hub is exploring a way around this, maybe by growing a turtle-friendly crop. Walnuts, anyone?

A sweet classic

Toll House cookies, a home-baked favorite, were a 'happy accident.'

Every now and then I like to get back to the classics. OK, that would be most of the time because, let's face it, they're classic for a reason. Sure, I like to play with my food and come up with my own recipes or tweak others to suit my tastes, but some things are perfect as they are, so there's simply no need to change them.

When it comes to the sweeter side of life, few things are as classic as Toll House cookies, arguably America's favorite cookie. We generally just call them chocolate chip cookies, but the original came about as a happy accident (although its creator would later say it was a deliberate experiment). Ruth Wakefield, a dietitian and food lecturer, and her husband purchased a 1709 toll house in Whittman, Massachusetts near Boston in 1930. Their dream was to turn it into an inn, and The Toll House Inn was born.

Ruth loved experimenting in the kitchen – a woman after my own heart – and was inspired one day to break up a bar of Nestle semi-sweet chocolate to add to her butter cookie batter just to see what would happen. To her surprise, the chocolate didn't melt while baking, adding a crunchy texture that delighted her so much she shared her recipe in her cookbook Ruth Wakefield's Toll House Tried and True Recipes in 1936. It made its way to a Boston newspaper as Toll House Chocolate Crunch Cookies, boasting sales of Nestle chocolate bars and making the world a happier place. Nestle not only began printing the recipe on their wrappers (with Ruth's permission), but eventually started selling chocolate bits, which they called morsels. The rest, as they say, is history.

Ruth's Toll House Cookie recipe was one of the first things I ever made, having found it in my mother's vintage Betty Crocker Cookbook. (The folks at Betty Crocker perfected it over the years and gave Mrs. Wakefield full credit.) I learned at an early age that baking, and food in general, is the perfect way to say I love you and have made them for friends and family ever since.

TOLL HOUSE COOKIES

(Betty Crocker's version of Ruth Wakefield's original)

A true classic in every sense of the word, these have a chewy center with crisp edges. Buttery, chocolatey and perfect. No store-bought version even comes close.

INGREDIENTS

2 1/4 cups flour, sifted
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup (8oz or 2 sticks) butter, softened
3/4 cup sugar
3/4 cup brown sugar
1 egg

1 teaspoon vanilla
1 12oz package semisweet chocolate chips
1 cup chopped nuts (optional)

METHOD

Preheat oven to 375 degrees.

In a medium bowl, whisk together flour, baking soda and salt. Set aside.

In a large bowl, beat butter and sugars together until fluffy. Add egg and vanilla and beat until smooth.

Stir in flour mixture, half at a time, and mix just until blended. (Batter will be stiff). Mix in chocolate chips and nuts, if using.

Drop rounded teaspoonsfuls of batter 2 inches apart on ungreased or parchment-lined baking sheets. Bake until golden brown, 8-10 minutes (centers will be soft). Cool 2 minutes and transfer to cooling racks. Store in an airtight container.

Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

I love the classics; but what I love just as much, if not more, is learning their history. Somehow hearing the stories of how things came to be warms my heart and makes me feel like I'm carrying on their stories and legacy with every recipe I share. I can picture them in their kitchens as I chop and stir, measure and bake. I like to think that in sharing Ruth Wakefield's Toll House cookie story and her famous recipe makes her happy, wherever she may be. She certainly deserves that since she continues to bring so much joy to so many. Enjoy!

County to host grant workshops on Sept. 10 for 2025 Youth Team Sports Program funding proposals

Participating in sports teaches children valuable life skills, such as teamwork, discipline and perseverance, while also promoting physical health, building confidence and fostering a sense of camaraderie and sportsmanship. The Dutchess County Department of Community and Family Services' Youth Services Division is requesting proposals for youth team sports programming from local community-based organizations and nonprofits for program year Jan. 1, 2025, to Sept. 30, 2025.

Youth team sports funding is grounded in the principles of positive youth development and is intended to provide support to local team sports programs in communities where programs may be scarce or under-resourced. Youth development through team sports aligns with Dutchess County's "Path to Promise" domains: Learning, Material Basics, Safety, Family/Relationships, Mental Health and Physical Health.

Local youth-serving organizations that provide team sports opportunities to youth under age 18 are encouraged to apply for grant awards ranging from $5,000 to $25,000. A total of $121,198 is available through the New York State Children and Families Services Youth Teams Sports Reimbursable Grant*. This funding opportunity defines a "team sport" as an organized physical activity in which groups of two or more individuals compete with two or more opposing individuals.

Eligible applicants should be either a 501(c)(3) nonprofit or other community-based organization with a federal identification number, operating in Dutchess County with the ability to meet the County's insurance requirements. Eligible programs must provide free, direct services to all youth. Organizations awarded grants for 2024-2025 Youth Development Programming (YDP) or the 2024-2025 Youth Sports and Education Opportunity Funding (YSEF) are not eligible for 2025-26 funding. Funding may provide general operating support to give agencies the flexibility to efficiently allocate resources for quality programming. This may include educational instruction necessary to prepare youth to participate in team sports.

The Division of Youth Services has scheduled grant workshops, expected to run approximately two hours, at the Dutchess County Emergency Response Center, 392 Creek Road in Poughkeepsie. Agencies are highly encouraged to attend one of the following grant workshops specific to this YTS funding opportunity:

- Tuesday, Sept. 10 at 9:30 a.m.
- Tuesday, Sept. 10 at 1:30 p.m.

Contact Juliana Corbett at 845-486-3354 or Juliana.Corbett@dfa.state.ny.us to register for a workshop. The department will review the requirements to apply, the step-by-step process of applying online and address any concerns or questions.

The application period for the YTS grant is open from Tuesday, Sept. 10 to Wednesday, Oct. 2. All grants are due to the Division of Youth Services through the online grant portal on or before Wednesday, Oct. 2, by 5 p.m. Comprehensive information regarding this program, including application instructions, are available online on the NYS Office of Children and Family Services Grant Funding page on the County's website.

* Total funding amount subject to change based on final allocation from New York State Children and Family Services.

HOW TO RAISE YOUR ODDS FOR DEMENTIA

Who'd want to do that?

Nobody, clearly. But we all have habits, choices and circumstances that can reduce or increase our odds of developing dementia. "Social determinants of health" is how the concept is sometimes described.

The medical journal The Lancet recently updated the findings of its standing commission on dementia and added two more dementia risk factors to its previous list. The two new additions are high cholesterol and vision loss, joining the existing list of 12:

- Less education
- Head injury
- Physical inactivity
- Smoking
- Excessive alcohol consumption
- High blood pressure
- Obesity
- Diabetes
- Hearing loss
- Depression
- Infrequent social contact
- Air pollution

Looking at those 14 risk factors, we see many that are largely within our control. The Lancet reports that eliminating these risk factors could cut dementia risk in half. Education, for instance, involves continued learning beyond high school and college, outside the classroom. Head injuries can be prevented with strong fall prevention observance – speaking of which, there are still spaces available in OFA's "A Matter of Balance" classes, beginning in September. For information on possible classes near you, call OFA during business hours at 845-486-2555 or email ofa@dutchessny.gov.

Many of the other risk factors can be reduced through a combination of good nutrition; improvements in physical and mental activity; disease management; eliminating smoking and excessive alcohol consumption; and protection of hearing and vision.

Which brings us to the last two on the Lancet list: infrequent social contact and air pollution.

While air pollution is often beyond an individual's control, great strides in air quality have been made in the last 50 years. Still, new challenges have arisen in the form of pollutants associated with wildfires throughout North America.

That leaves the issue of infrequent social contact. It's where OFA can make a difference for the better for vulnerable older adults, through our "Friendly Calls" program. Can you help? Become a volunteer caller by reaching out to OFA at 845-486-2555, or email "Friendly Calls" coordinator Linda Edgar at ledgar@dutchessny.gov. After screening and orientation, we can connect you with a Dutchess County older adult who's interested in becoming more socially engaged.

If you're fluent in languages beyond English, we hope you can become a Friendly Calls caller. Thousands of our older adults are immigrants. They may have lived here long enough to pick up English, but it's their mother tongue in which they feel most comfortable communicating. If you've got an "abuelito" or a "nonna" in your family, you know what we're getting at. It might have been ages since they've been able to have a full conversation in that language, and in so doing they learn an important truth: they're not alone.

REGISTRATION NOW OPEN FOR 'SOUNDS OF THE RAT PACK' (Tue 9/24)

Registration is now open (but seats are going REALLY fast!) for "The Sounds of the Rat Pack" with the Tony T Orchestra, our annual free end-of-summer concert at the Grandview (176 Rinaldi Blvd., Poughkeepsie), on Tuesday, September 24th at 1:30 p.m. Guests will hear the hits and stage banter of Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin - and Sammy Davis, Jr., new to the show this year.

Registration is required for the event, which is open to all Dutchess County residents over the age of 60. Reserve your seat by calling the Office for the Aging during business hours at 845-486-2555.

We cannot accept reservations requested by voice mail, email or text message. You'll have to ring-a-ding-ding us, as Frank might have said.

OFA/PARKS BRING BACK INTRODUCTORY PICKLEBALL

(September 12, 19, 26 – must commit to all three)

Dutchess County Parks and the Office for the Aging are offering another free, three-day "Learn to Play Pickleball" lesson series at Quiet Cove Park in Poughkeepsie (1 Clearwater Drive), on three consecutive Thursdays: September 12, 19 and 26.

Classes are open to Dutchess County residents over age 60.

The first class will cover an introduction to the game; the second class focuses on beginner skills; and there'll be trial games in the third class.

Space is extremely limited and reservations are required. Registration opens on Monday, August 26th at 9:00 am.

Call 845-486-2555 during business hours to make reservations. Players must commit to all three lessons. We expect to offer more introductory pickleball sessions in the spring of 2025.

Equipment will be provided.

For more information on local pickleball courts, visit playtimescheduler.com.

'A MATTER OF BALANCE' CLASSES START SOON

There's still time (but not much) to apply for a space in one of OFA's Fall 2024 "A Matter of Balance" falls prevention classes. Each class is held for two hours, once a week, for eight weeks.

Class venues and times are made available when an individual's registration for the class is confirmed.

We're planning for one eight-week class in the City of Poughkeepsie starting on Monday, September 16th. Schedules are being drawn up for another class in the Town of Wappinger, and one more in the Town of Rhinebeck. We expect these classes will also start in September.

To find out more about "A Matter of Balance," call OFA during business hours or email ofa@dutchessny.gov.
