Red Hook, Historic Diner families mourn passing of Harkins

Sam Harkins

by Curtis Schmidt

The families and customers of the Historic Village Diner in Red Hook are mourning the passing of diner coowner Samuel T. Harkins.

Harkins, also an avid golfer and member of the Red Hook Golf Club, passed away on Thanksgiving Day at Vassar Brothers Medical Center in Poughkeepsie of complications due to COVID-19.

He was reportedly not vaccinated. His wife, Arleen, and daughter, Blythe, were also infected with the virus, but have quarantined and since tested negative.

Harkins was a partner in the Historic Village Diner with Melissa (Missy) Wambach. She reported that she and all other Diner employees have tested negative for COVID-19 and the Diner has received a "clean bill of health" from the Dutchess County Department of Behavioral and Community Health.

Sinterklaas Festival returns with messages of unity, safety

by Rich Thomaselli

Sinterklaas is back!

One of Dutchess County's greatest towns is bringing back one of the area's most revered traditions when the Sinterklaas Festival and parade returns on Saturday, Dec. 4, in the Village of Rhinebeck.

The event was canceled last year due to the pandemic and, truth be told, putting on the celebration has been something of a challenge this year as well.

"Exceedingly challenging," said the driving force behind the event, Jeanne Fleming, Sinterklaas designer/coordinator and its artistic and production director. "There's the constant reflection on public safety. We spent a lot of time listening to the community and what the parameters should be and what we have to work with. We're sensitive to that."

Fleming also noted the core of the allvolunteer group that has put on Sinterklaas for 30+ years is aging.

"I'm 75," she said. "A lot of us are pushing 80. Some have gotten sick this past year, others have had injuries."

Ironically, for the first time in the history of Sinterklaas, Fleming hired an assistant to help with the production and she tore the meniscus ligament in her knee and could not participate.

Nonetheless, Fleming, at heart, is an artist. She and her volunteer group, which she called a "deeply human community effort," are dedicated to the mantra that the show must go on.

According to its website, Sinterklaas honors the area's heritage by recreating a celebration that the Dutch settlers brought to Rhinebeck more than 300 years ago.

the Silent Auction items at this link.

"It's going to be a combination live event with some pre-recorded video; we're doing the best we can with a virtual event," said Lynne Meloccaro, executive director of the Dutchess County SPCA (DCSPCA). "We can't wait to do our next benefit live, but we felt that given the surge happening in New York, it would have been irresponsible of us to have a live event now."

Actress Sally Struthers and musician Fred Schneider (from the B52s) are among the supporters who have provided heartfelt messages that will be played during "A Home for the Holidays."

The event will come live from the DCSPCA shelter on Violet Avenue in Hyde Park. The decision, said Meloccaro, is "to help the community understand what we do for the community, and also how dependent we are on the community's help to do what we do ... to give people a chance to participate, let them know how they can help."

The choice of emcees was a natural, as the Annie & Ryan show hosts the Pet of the Week on Thursdays.

"Lynne usually handles the dog while I do the yapping," said Penny Schouten, DCSPCA marketing, communications and community relations director.

The silent auction items range in price from $50 to about $5,000, and include jewelry, furniture, sky-diving lessons, cruises, a lottery gift basket, a two-week vacation in St. Maarten, a glamping trip and more.

There will also be videos honoring

DCSPCA volunteer of the year, Dave Stark, and special honoree John Storyk.

"[Storyk] is a legendary acoustic designer," said Meloccaro. "Out of the goodness of his heart, he redesigned our dog wing acoustically so that it's a quiet, serene space instead of a barking, anxious space." She added that the dog wing is a nice facility, but previously the acoustics amplified the barking in the corridor.

"You can see the difference in the dogs," she said. "When the dogs go back in their pods they're like ten times more calm than they were before, because they had to run the gauntlet of barking dogs."

Multi-pronged mission

The mission of the DCSPCA includes: • Sheltering animals in need and secure permanent homes for adoptable pets.

• Providing practical and educational resources to the public to advance the highest standards of animal care and help keep pets in their homes.

• Enforcing humane law throughout Dutchess County.

• Striving for a community in which all animals are treated with compassion and respect.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, the organization has had its challenges, but it has also provided opportunities.

"The biggest transformation [during the pandemic] was reconnecting ourselves to the community," said Meloccaro. "Partly in response to Covid but also [through] progressive trends in sheltering ... helping the community through community programs."

These programs are designed to help people keep their animals during difficult times, "instead of seeing [the shelter] as a warehouse where people put their animals they don't want anymore."

The programs include a safety net boarding program; for those who might be moving or having to go into the hospital, DCSPCA will offer free boarding for 30 days. There is also a medical emergency repayment program for expensive veterinary bills, offering affordable weekly payments. For dogs with behavioral issues in the home, the organization will send someone to your home to help.

DCSPCA also partners with organizations such as Grace Smith House, to arrange boarding for animal companions whose owners have had to leave their domestic situation for fear of their safety. Meloccaro noted that some of those women come to the shelter every day to visit their animals.

"Most people want to keep their animals; we want to help people keep their animals," Meloccaro said. "It's good for the people, the animals and for us, so we don't have to [put those animals into the shelter system]."

As a result, the DCSPCA has been able to help hundreds of animals and families.

"The results have been pretty spectacular," Meloccaro said, adding that DCSP-CA is one of the top-rated shelters in the nation for its release rates and standards.

"I'm pretty proud of that. It's a place where good things are happening," she said. "As always, our biggest challenge is to raise money."

And it takes a lot of money to implement and run programs and maintain high standards, not to mention the everyday care of the many dogs and cats at the shelter (Meloccaro said they have about three times as many cats as dogs). For instance, hundreds of pounds of food per week are required to feed the animals. Meloccaro said DCPCSA buys food and accepts donations through food drives.

There is also medical care, with some animals needing much more than others. For example, earlier this year the shelter received a call about a "backyard breeder" who was breeding Shih Tzus on their property and keeping the animals in squalid, unsafe conditions.

"In the height of the summer the Shih Tzus were locked in a shed with no ventilation, no water, they were starving," said Meloccaro. "Our vet said it was the worst flea infestation he'd ever seen. Some of the dogs died of the fleas."

Eleven of the dogs were rescued but were in poor health; some had to have eyes removed due to the extent of infection.

"It was the worst case I've ever seen," Meloccaro said. As they all required medical treatment, it was a very expensive rescue mission, but worthwhile.

"The good news is that they recovered and were all adopted out; they found great owners," she said. "It's incredible what they went through, but they're incredibly sweet dogs."

Meloccaro tells this story not to depress people, but to underscore the mission of the DCSPCA.

"It's not about the condition of the animals when they come in. The story is about what would happen to them if we weren't here," she said. "The work we do to turn them back into normal, happy dogs in normal homes, and cats too. That, for me, is the most important story of the DCSPCA. You can feel bad for the animals, but feel good for them, too. That's what we're here for."

children who were on their best behavior during the year, and, well, not-so-goodies to children who were a handful.

The concept of Sinterklaas still takes place in Holland.

In Rhinebeck, the indoor/outdoor daylong, colorful celebration features children's workshops, dance, theater and music all over the village. The spectacular Children's Starlight Parade at 6 p.m., featuring two-story tall animated puppets carried by hundreds of volunteers, closes the day at twilight.

The theme of this year's parade is the old tale of Froggy and Miss Mousey, who will actually get married. Rhinebeck Mayor Gary Bassett and his wife will renew their vows as the storied characters in the opening ceremony.

"What inspires us about creating the honored animals each year is that there are so many entry-points for the audience to understand their story and meaning," said Red Hook resident Alex Khan of Processional Arts Workshop Inc., who designs the puppets with artist Sophia Michahelles. "Some just love the spectacle of giant puppets coming down the street. Others resonate with the folkloric roots of Froggy's courtship of Miss Mousey, a tale which has endured and evolved for centuries in verse and song. Still others may see a contemporary ecological or social message in the work. Our role is simply to make an evocative, animated visual performance that everyone can engage in their own way.'

Fleming said Bassett was thrilled to be even more involved this year, especially after his wife had a difficult bout with COVID.

"The mayor really wanted to do this. It's the personal and the community coming together," she said. "The personal has become crucial to the community. The personal stories have become communal stories. It becomes symbolic of bringing the whole community together. They will do a hand-clasping ceremony where they are tied together, and we're going give a ribbon to the whole community and hope they tie around their wrists and by the end of the day tied together with someone."

Sinterklaas is for all ages, but especially for children. Kids are asked to carry a star that their parents can purchase ahead of time or at the event – serving as the "bringers of light" – and will join in the big country wedding of Froggy and Miss Mousey.

The stars will play a major role in the wedding ceremony, without giving too much away here. Children are transformed into Kings and Queens and honored as the bringers of the light at the darkest time of year.

Although Sinterklaas was canceled last year, Fleming and her crew made an animated video hyping this year's event that played in the window of village storefronts. It promised the children of the community that Sinterklaas would come back.

"We made a promise," Fleming said. "The kids missed it, everybody missed it. I felt a responsibility to fulfill this promise to the kids and the community."

She paused and began to tear up.

"This," she said, "this is my life work."

RHINEBECK MAYOR BASSETT, WIFE WILL RENEW VOWS TO START FESTIVAL

by Curtis Schmidt

As a result of occurrences during the COVID-19 pandemic, Rhinebeck Mayor Gary Bassett and his wife, Brenda, will be renewing their marriage vows during the opening ceremonies of this year's Sinterklaas Festival on Saturday, Dec. 4.

And yes, they will be dressed in costume as "Miss Mousey and Froggy" for the ceremony set at 12 noon.

Brenda and Gary Bassett have been married for 45 years. Brenda contracted the virus early on in March of 2020 and had three bouts with two stays at Northern Dutchess Hospital and one at Vassar Brothers Medical Center. She is a "long-hauler" and still suffers from COVID-19 symptoms 18 months later.

As part of her recovery, Brenda spent all of last winter with relatives in South Carolina. "We were apart and obviously concerned, so we decided to renew our commitment to each other," said Gary. "The only other time that I was this nervous was on our wedding day."

Renewing their vows as part of the Sinterklaas Festival came about through the Mayor's friendship with Festival Director Jeanne Fleming.

In his role as Mayor, Gary is concerned mainly with security and uniting the community during a wonderful yearly event.

"Jeanne and I were talking about how we wanted to unite the community after last year's event was canceled," said Gary. "So renewing our vows and then going out into the community seems like the perfect opportunity to do this."

Brenda and Gary will take part in a "hand-clasping ceremony" where a rope will be laid over their hands, and then as the roped is pulled, it forms a knot of unity as the hands are brought together.

Brenda's theme will be about the heart. It grows stronger and bolder as two individuals branch out during a relationship and then it comes back together to solidify the union.

Gary's theme is living together forever, regardless of what happens during the marriage.

As Mayor, Gary said he has "been extremely impressed with how so many members of the Rhinebeck community have come forward and worked together for the benefit of all during the pandemic. That is what community and unity is all about."

Joint Letter on Democratic Caucus attendance & County Legislature productivity

To the editor:

During a County Legislature Budget Meeting, Democrat Minority Leader Rebecca Edwards attempted to criticize her colleagues saying, "this Legislature is doing virtually nothing."

The Legislature is in the midst of reviewing the 2022 Proposed County Executive Budget by holding public hearings and meeting with Departments to ensure staffing and services are being maintained as well as discussing new service proposals. The Budget review process is one of the most important aspects of being a County Legislator.

Throughout the Legislature's Budget review and November meetings, the Democratic Caucus has maintained a 43 percent attendance rate average. At one meeting, 0 members of the Democratic Caucus were in attendance. Over that same span of eleven meetings, the Republican Caucus maintained a perfect, 100 percent attendance rate.

Our residents need a highly efficient and functioning County government. There are people out there that need help, want better roads & parks, and deserve to have their taxes lowered.

We are absolutely disappointed to hear Legislator Edward's remarks and suggest the Democratic Caucus starts doing their jobs and showing up.

The County Executive and Legislature Chairman point to their 2021 accomplishments:

• Purchased and authorized up to $25 million for the construction of the Youth Opportunity Union (YOU)

• Delivered $3.1 in Learn, Play, Create youth grants

• Negotiated and ratified a 25-year lease with Keystone Professional Baseball Club to bring a New York Yankees affiliate team to Dutchess Stadium

• Authorized funding for upgrades at Wilcox Park, Bowdoin Park, Lake Walton Park, and Quiet Cove Park

• Established a reserve fund for the Parks Division

• Expanded use of Crisis Intervention Team Training to municipal law enforcement entities

 Authorized a $350,000 highspeed internet/broadband project

• Adopted a local law to protect restaurants from nefarious third-party delivery services

• Authorized and approved the implementation of the County Sheriff's Police Reform and Modernization Plan

• Negotiated and ratified a Government Greenhouse Gas Inventories and Climate Action Plan between the County and municipalities

• Authorized and conducted PFOA/PFOS study for homes surrounding the Hudson Valley Regional Airport

• Authorized purchase of a Mobile RV to deliver physical, mental, and communicable disease health services to Eastern Dutchess

• Adopted a local law for Fair Housing

And, we are delivering the 8th consecutive property tax cut, the largest tax reduction in County history, and eliminating sales tax on clothing & footwear under $110.

County Executive Marc Molinaro and Legislature Chairman Gregg Pulver

Communities need education on marijuana options To the editor:

With the passing of the Marijuana Regulation and Taxation Act (MRTA), New York became the 15th state in the nation to legalize adult-use cannabis. Local governments now have the choice to allow retail dispensaries and on-site consumption locations within their districts. Prior to deciding, it's important to understand the "opt-in" and "opt-out" features.

A community might choose to "opt-in" to dispensaries, but "opt-out" of on-site consumption locations. If a community chooses to opt-in to any of the opportunities, the decision will be final as of December 31, 2021 and cannot be changed.

However, if a community chooses to opt-out of any of the options, they can later choose to opt-in after December 31, allowing more time for decision making.

We at the Northern Dutchess Community Coalition strongly encourage our communities to educate themselves about these options. For more information on the effects of legalization of recreational marijuana please visit learnaboutsam.org.

Dutchess News, said he and the "Diner Family" have been "devastated by the news" of Harkins' passing, but they are working hard to keep the Diner open. Missy's sister, Tamara, is also an employee at the Diner.

"My daughters and the staff are working valiantly to try and handle everything. It's an extremely difficult and stressful situation," said Wambach. "My family has offered to help in any way we can."

He said his daughters "have been working extra shifts for a while. It's tough, because they, like most every other business, are short-handed anyway."

The diner has been a mainstay at 7550 North Broadway in Red Hook and Arleen and Sam had been on the job for 40-plus years. In a Northern Dutchess News article, Sam said he figured they "normally serve well over 500 meals a day and are open seven days a week."

That article was from March 23, 2020 – at the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic. At that time, the Diner family was just beginning to adjust to provisions set forth by New York State and Dutchess County government. In the article, Arleen Harkins commented on the pandemic, "The village of Red Hook has really come together and adjusted. All of the customers have really been very good and understanding."

In view of the current situation, Richard Wambach said, "That kind of coming together and understanding is what we need right now, too."

The Red Hook VFW Post 7765 has extended an invitation to the Diner families for a gathering. Services are private. See obituary on page 16.

PV volunteer with New York Guard recognized for service

LATHAM, NY — Major General Raymond F. Shields, the Adjutant General for the State of New York, announces recent awards and individual recognitions for members of the New York Guard state defense force for their continuing commitment to serve community, state and nation as part of New York State's Military Forces.

Cpl. Vincent Herring from Pleasant Valley, serving with the New York Guard Headquarters, received the New York Guard Achievement Medal during recent unit training events.

The New York Guard is a force of 500 uniformed volunteers, organized as a military unit, who augment the New York National Guard during state emergencies. They provide administrative and logistics support to the National Guard. Members of the New York Guard supported flood control efforts along the Lake Ontario shoreline in 2019 and 2020 and have been part of the statewide COVID-19 pandemic response since March 2020.

Unlike members of the New York National Guard, New York Guard members do not have a federal military role and do not deploy outside the state. New York Guard members usually train in a volunteer status and are only paid when they are placed on state duty during emergencies.

The New York Guard, which is one of 23 state defense forces around the country, is authorized to recruit just over 1,000 volunteers organized into units located across New York.

CENTER

About half of the New York Guard volunteers are former members of the active duty military or National Guard who bring a wealth of experience to the force while the other half have never served in the military. Previous military membership is not a requirement for New York Guard service.

People who have served in the military can serve in the New York Guard up until age 68. Those who have never served in the military must be between age 18 and age 55 to join.

The New York National Guard (New York State Division of Military and Naval Affairs) is the state's executive agency responsible to the Governor for managing New York's Military Forces, which consists of nearly 20,000 members of the New York Army National Guard, the New York Air National Guard, the New York Naval Militia and the New York Guard.

Rising cases, new variant prompts Ulster to declare state of emergency; Dutchess to monitor, react as necessary

by Kate Goldsmith

On Sunday, Ulster County Executive Pat Ryan declared a state of emergency due to "rapidly rising" cases of COVID-19 and hospitalizations, in addition to the new threat of the Omicron variant.

"The state of emergency will be in effect for at least 30 days and will allow Ulster County to rapidly procure needed testing and vaccination supplies, bolster available public health staff resources, and redeploy County staff to support COVID operations if necessary," Ryan said in a statement on Nov. 28.

Active cases of COVID-19 have tripled in Ulster County since Halloween, bringing the count to its highest level since April 2021, Ryan noted.

Ryan continues to urge residents to get vaccinated if they have not already, and to get their booster shot if they received their last dose longer than six months ago.

"With the emergence of the Omicron variant, it's even more urgent to get vaccinated and get your booster," Ryan said. "Vaccines remain our most effective tool to stop the virus and save lives."

Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro said, "[Dutchess] has the resources and executive authority to take appropriate steps without exercising the broad authority that comes with a declared state of emergency under New York State Executive Law 2B."

Molinaro added that the pandemic has taught officials that they must always be ready for "what's next."

"As we learn about the new Omicron variant and experience the expected seasonal rise in cases, Dutchess County is well-positioned to continue responding to this public health emergency," he said. "Our health department has remained ever vigilant-working closely with hospitals, healthcare providers, school districts, colleges and more to monitor COVID-19 and adapt as necessary. Together with the Legislature who previously authorized funding, we have worked to ensure there is appropriate capacity and access to testing and vaccination."

Molinaro said the county "will continue to monitor transmission and gauge any change in severity and hospital capacity. The advent of another variant doesn't change our approach and prudence when using the powers given to the executive once a state of emergency is declared."

Continue to follow prevention guidelines Dutchess County Department of Behavioral & Community Health (DBCH) continues strongly urges all community members to follow CDC Disease Prevention Guidelines to prevent the spread of COVID-19 and other viruses including:

• Get Vaccinated and get your booster. COVID-19 vaccine is safe, effective, free and readily available. Anyone 5 years and older is eligible to be vaccinated. For information about where to get COVID-19 vaccine, visit www.DutchessNY.gov/ covidvaccine.

• Wear a mask in indoor public spaces, even if fully vaccinated.

• Wash hands regularly with soap and water; or use hand sanitizer when necessary.

• Practice physical distancing – particularly in congregate settings

• Stay home when sick. Anyone experiencing cold or COVID-19 symptoms, including coughing, sneezing, loss of taste or smell; should stay home to rest, recover, and help prevent the spread of virus and disease.

CHILDREN'S PROGRAMS

Danny Sings About Everything Thursdays, Dec. 2, 16 & 30, 9-10 a.m. This is an ongoing program taking place every other Thursday until December 30th. All programs are online and presented on Zoom. We are so lucky to have Danny Tieger! Join us for this new music series for toddlers and preschoolers and their caregivers. New live shows will premiere at the time of the program. Danny Tieger is an author, songwriter and performer who specializes in making never-beforethought-of-things come to life. This program is sponsored by the NorthEast-Millerton Library, Scoville Memorial Library and Starr Library.

Global Arts

Tuesdays, Dec. 7 & 21, 5-6 p.m.

Global Arts meets on the first and third Tuesdays of the month. It's a hands-on, arts and crafts class led by Tara Foley, Starr's Youth Programmer. We look at folk art traditions from different parts of the globe in order to better understand the world that we live in today. Parents and guardians are welcome to work together on the projects with their children. On Dec. 7, the theme will be Kalash, and on Dec. 21 the theme will be Mandala. This is a program geared toward elementary school-aged kids. Pizza is served at these meetings.

Music Therapy with Terry Watson Thursday, Dec. 9, 4:30-5:30 p.m.

This program is hosted every second Tuesday of the month. Music and music therapy provide opportunities for children to develop and learn new skills through music experiences. Music experiences address cognition, language and the social skills of the child within a safe, nurturing and fun process. We will use instruments, dance, chants, puppets and much more to provide your child with a meaningful and fun experience. This class is inclusive of children at all stages of development and functionality. This class focuses on elementary aged youth, but can also go up to middle school if requested.

Sessions facilitated by: Terry Watson, MA, CMT, LCAT, MS, Special Education.

Heroes Wanted! D&D with DM Joe Tuesday, Dec. 14, 4-6 p.m.

Once a month, every second Tuesday in the storytime room, Starr will host a 2hour D&D game for ages 10-14. (For older kids, contact Tara tfoley@starrlibrary.org for setting up another game if we get enough interest). There is a limit of 5 kids. Joe hails from Pleasant Valley and comes to us with 15 years of D&D experience with 9 years as a professional DM.

Serino names Capt. Alyssa Carrion to Veterans' Hall of Fame

This Veterans Day, Sen. Sue Serino announced that retired United States Army Capt. Alyssa Carrion has been inducted to the New York State Senate's Veterans' Hall of Fame. Carrion currently serves as the Program Manager for Mental Health America of Dutchess County's Veterans Housing, Employment, Reintegration and Outreach Program, which aims to help homeless veterans throughout Dutchess County.

"Alyssa continuously goes above and beyond to help veterans throughout Dutchess County by using her own personal experiences," said Serino. "Since meeting her, I knew she was a trailblazer in every sense of the word and have been in awe of the incredible work that she does each and every day for our veteran community. It is an honor to be able to induct her into the New York State Senate's Veterans' Hall of Fame and to recognize her for the admirable work that she does to help our local heroes. Alyssa has touched so many lives, and I cannot thank her enough for her selflessness and dedication."

Each year, state senators are given the opportunity to induct one individual from their district into the New York State Senate's Veterans' Hall of Fame to honor their dedicated service both in the military and in their community through civilian life. While inductees are typically invited to the State Capitol for an inperson ceremony in the Spring, in an abundance of caution, this year's event was held virtually.

According to a biography provided for the event, following graduation from Carmel High School, Carrion went on to attend the United States Military Academy at West Point where she earned a Bachelor's Degree in Spanish and Portuguese. Upon completing her degree in 2004, Carrion then went on to serve in the United States Army as a commissioned officer until 2009, and then completed her Army Reserve commitment in 2012. Carrion received the rank of Captain.

Carrion was deployed to Egypt in 2006 during Operation Iraqi Freedom where she served as a Platoon Leader for the 571st Military Police Company. She then went on to serve as the Operations Officer for the 80th Ordnance Battalion and the Executive Officer for the 508th MP Detachment.

While in the service, Carrion earned the Global War on Terrorism Expeditionary Medal, Army Achievement Medal, two Army Commendation Medals and a Meritorious Service Medal for her exemplary service.

Upon retirement, Carrion received a Bachelor of Science degree in Speech and Hearing Sciences from the University of Washington and a Paralegal Certificate from Boston University.

Smithfield Road culvert replacement complete

The Dutchess County Department of Public Works (DPW) has announced work to replace a culvert on Smithfield Road (CR-5) near Silver Mountain Road and Cooper Road in the Town of North East is complete and the road reopened to traffic. The project was completed ahead of schedule and under budget. Project work began in late-summer and included removal and replacement of the existing concrete structure, as well as the addition of three-foot shoulders to the roadway to improve the safety of the area for motorists. Courtesy photo

VETERANS CORNER: NEWS YOU CAN USE

'Holiday for our Heroes' set Dec. 12

Marist College, Mike Arteaga's Health & Fitness Centers, VetZero and MHA Dutchess Veteran Programs are sponsoring a "Holiday for our Heroes" event on Sunday, Dec. 12, in Poughkeepsie. The event will be completely free for all veterans and a guest, and will include:

2 p.m. Marist Men's Basketball vs. Navy at Marist College: Marist has donated free tickets for all veterans and a guest to attend the game. There will be a special halftime ceremony honoring our local veterans. Tickets can be picked up at the gate for veterans.

4 p.m. Holiday for our Heroes celebration at Mahoney's Irish Pub & Restaurant in Poughkeepsie, directly after the game. There will be a buffet and limited bar. There will be holiday gifts for veterans who attend.

This is not a fundraiser. It's just a fun way to bring some holiday cheer to our veterans, and bring the people who take care of them together.

Any organization that like to join the planning meeting on Zoom after Veterans Day is asked to send an email to vetzero@hudsonriverhousing.org.

Northern Dutchess Symphony Orchestra swings into holiday season with Dec. 4 concert

The Northern Dutchess Symphony Orchestra (NDSO) will present "Jazz Up the Holidays," featuring vocalist Teri Roiger, on Saturday, Dec. 4, at 3 p.m., at The Culinary Institute of America, Marriott Pavilion – Ecolab Auditorium, 1946 Campus Drive, Hyde Park.

This holiday concert includes "We Need A Little Christmas" Latin style; themes from "A Charlie Brown Christmas"; and timeless classics sung by Ella Fitzgerald and Mel Tormé, including "I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm," "What Are You Doing New Year's Eve?" and "The Christmas Song (Chestnuts Roasting on an Open Fire)."

Tickets for the program are $38 for adults, $30 for seniors, and $10 for students. To buy tickets and get more information about the concert, visit www.ndsorchestra.org or call (845) 635-0877.

An American jazz musician vocalist, pianist, songwriter, educator and producer, Roiger lives in New York City and also spends time in the Hudson Valley. She began playing piano at age 5, and played church organ throughout her teens. One afternoon in Minneapolis, a young Roiger sat down at a piano amid a group of seasoned musicians, and played a burning rendition of John Coltrane's "Giant Steps." An astounded nearby bass player said, "Hey, you aren't supposed to be able to do that," a remark that ignited Roiger's determination to pursue a life in jazz. Shortly after that, she made her first demo with the legendary stride pianist Butch Thompson – and her musical path was set.

Throughout the years, her music has taken many exciting twists and turns. She has performed as a duo with her husband, bassist John Menegon, throughout the U.S., Canada, Mexico and Europe; and they have been featured artists at the San Miguel Jazz Festival (Mexico), Panama Jazz Festival (Panama) and Bolzano Jazz Festival (Italy), where they presented concerts and masterclasses.

The depth of Roiger's experiences and love of jazz is apparent when she brings her talent to live performances, the recording studio, and through her moving lyrics and compositions. Her latest recording, "Shine a Bright Light," released in September, features Brazilian jazz with Roiger on vocals, Menegon on bass, Pete Levin on piano and keyboard, Jeff Siegel on drums, and Nanny Assis on percussion, guitar and vocals.

Music critic Stanley Crouch once said of Roiger, "She had all of the essence that anyone wants to hear anytime from a true

Legendary jazz drummer Jack DeJohnette said, "Teri has an intuitive laid-back sense of time reminiscent of Abbey Lincoln & Betty Carter, but with her own uniqueness."

Northern Dutchess Symphony Orchestra was formed in 2006 to bring live orchestral music to northern Dutchess County and the surrounding Hudson Valley area. Now in its sixteenth season, the orchestra offers the best possible live performances of classical music at family-affordable prices. Since the beginning, the orchestra has been conducted by Kathleen Beckmann who also serves as artistic director. Visit the website for more information.

The winner of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation's ninth annual Fall Foliage Photo Contest's $750 prize is Luke Kelly of Millbrook, who submitted his photograph taken from the Ferncliff Forest Fire Tower in Rhinebeck. Kelly will also receive a framed print of his photograph. Of the 20 finalists, Kelly's photograph received more than 1,100 votes, the most cast by Central Hudson's Facebook followers. In total, more than 8,100 votes were cast.

In addition, a second drawing will be held to award a framed print of the winning photo to one lucky voter. The winner will be announced soon.

"We congratulate Luke on his winning photograph, which beautifully showcases the fall colors and inspiring vistas we're treated to here in the Mid-Hudson Valley," said Charles A. Freni, President and CEO of Central Hudson. "We were once again appreciative of and amazed by all of the entries submitted this year, as they were truly inspiring examples of region's spectacular fall season. We offer our sincere appreciation to the talented contestants who shared their work.

"Thank you also to all who participated by voting," said Freni.

The contest opened on Oct. 4, 2021, inviting Central Hudson customers to submit photographs of the region's fall season taken within the energy company's service area by Nov. 5. A selection of finalists was posted to Central Hudson's Facebook page, and voters were asked to "like" their favorite of the finalists. The official voting ended at noon on Nov. 19.

Freni also reminded customers of the benefits of "liking" and "following" Central Hudson on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram to receive important safety messages, energy efficiency tips, announcements on new programs and services, updates on severe weather and other helpful information.

To view the images of all the finalists, go to Central Hudson's Facebook page at www.Facebook.com/CentralHudson.

Live broadcast of The Met's 'Eurydice' featured Dec. 5 at Bardavon

The Bardavon continues The Met: Live in HD 2021-22 season on Sunday, Dec. 5, at 1 p.m., with "Eurydice." The ancient Greek myth of Orpheus, who attempts to harness the power of music to rescue his beloved Eurydice from the underworld, has inspired composers since opera's earliest days. Rising American composer Matthew Aucoin now carries that tradition into the 21st century with a captivating new take on the story—a product of the Met's commissioning program.

With a libretto by MacArthur "Genius Grant" recipient Sarah Ruhl, adapted from her acclaimed 2003 play, the opera reimagines the familiar tale from Eurydice's point of view. Yannick Nézet-Séguin oversees the momentous Met premiere from the podium, leading Aucoin's evocative music and an immersive new staging by Mary Zimmerman.

Soprano Erin Morley sings the title role, opposite baritone Joshua Hopkins as Orpheus and countertenor Jakub Józef Orli?ski as his otherworldly alter-ego. Bass-baritone Nathan Berg is Eurydice's father and fellow resident of the underworld, with tenor Barry Banks as Hades himself.

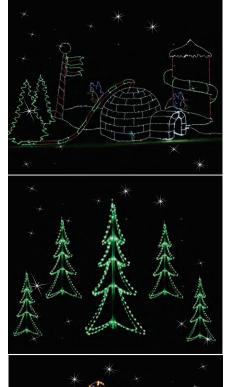

Ticket-holders are invited to enjoy an insightful pre-show talk on the day's opera 30 minutes prior to the broadcast, led by Leslie Gerber, a music teacher at Marist's Center for Lifetime Studies and author of all Hudson Valley Philharmonic playbill liner notes.

Tickets are $28 (Adults), $26 (Bardavon Member) and $21 (Children 12 and under). Call (845) 473-5288 (Bardavon box office) or (845) 339-6088 (UPAC box office), or email at boxoffice@bardavon.org to purchase.

Due to the Delta variant and the recent increase in new Covid cases, all audiences at Bardavon and UPAC must be fully vaccinated and wear masks at all times. Ticket holders must show proof of vaccination and government issued ID on show days.

Van Kleeck touchstones across five centuries

by Bill Jeffway

Arguably no local family has had a greater historical presence, one that is pervasive, persistent, and woven into the community, than the Van Kleeck family.

The Dutchess County Historical Society (DCHS) is fortunate to have been entrusted with many photographs, documents and objects from the family over generations. Van Kleeck family members remain active with DCHS today, supporting efforts like the broader sharing of the Van Kleeck photo collection that we expand on later.

The family name reminds us that Henry Hudson sailed on behalf of the Dutch in 1609, and it was the Dutch who were the first Europeans to settle along today's Hudson River, doing so under the colonial name of New Netherlands. Unlike Virginia, or the appropriately named New England, the first European settlers were not English. Even though Dutchess County did not start to see significant settlement until the mid 1700s, well into English rule, the Dutch imprint remains tangible.

The Van Kleeck House

One of the oldest items (and probably the heaviest item) in DCHS Collections is a stone lintel dated 1702 (see photo). Inscribed with the initials of husband and wife Baltus and Tryntie Van Kleeck, it is from the first significant stone house built in Poughkeepsie on what is today Mill Street near Vassar Street. The house is memorialized by the iconic 1834 sketch done by the local historian with a national reputation, Benson Lossing, just prior to its demolition.

It was on June 9, 1687 that Baltus Barents Van Kleeck signed a lease from the land patent owners Robert Sanders and Myndert Harmense. It is that date that is celebrated as the mark of the beginning of European settlement of Poughkeepsie. By 1702 he owned property and was building a substantial house.

Under that lintel passed the notable and notorious of that period. Given its scale, and security, it was the meeting place of important councils planning the Revolutionary War. But sometimes it was used as a holding cell, as is reportedly the case of the radical Shaker, Mother Ann Lee (1736 to 1784). Lee was spreading what was seen as dangerous pacifism, urging young men not to take up arms in the Revolutionary War and cause of independence from Great Britain. She was imprisoned in the home in 1780. But during her six months of captivity, she created such a public sensation that it was determined that it would be better to let her go, than to allow her to gain the public attention she did by being a prisoner.

Johannes Van Kleeck helps confirm origin of 'Poughkeepsie'

The 1692 scene of a six-year-old Johannes Van Kleeck and his friend of the same age can be seen depicted in the 1940 mural by Norman Foster in the Poughkeepsie Post Office. If you look up and to the right as you enter, you will see the depiction of two children approaching Native People at a spring near today's Poughkeepsie Rural Cemetery. The story the mural depicts is based on sworn testimony by a much older Johannes Van Kleeck later in life, when he testified in court about boundary disputes. In her 1924 landmark book, "Poughkeepsie, the Origin and Meaning of the Word," Helen Wilkinson Reynolds recounts the sworn testimony and uses it among a set of other original source material to convincingly make the case that this was the origin of Poughkeepsie as a name. Prior to that, it was commonly felt that it meant or referred to "safe harbor."

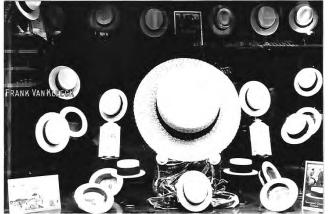

Van Kleeck presence on Main Street

The 1799 to 1960 family hat business on Main Street would in and of itself be of historic importance. But in addition to operating the store over generations, we are very fortunate that during that period, the Van Kleeck family, in particular Frank and Baltus B. Van Kleeck in the past, and Peter Van Kleeck today, were

Local historian Benson Lossing created this sketch of the 1702 Van Kleeck House on Mill Street (near Vassar Street), Poughkeepsie, in the years just prior to its demolition in 1834. The inset shows a recent photograph of the stone lintel that was over the door of what was the first stone house built locally. In addition to the date of construction, you can see the initials of the husband and wife builder/owners: Baltus Van Kleeck and Tryntie Van Kleeck. The "V" is artfully entwined with the "K" and "T." The lintel was a gift, among many photographs and documents over the years, entrusted to the Dutchess County Historical Society by the Van Kleeck family. From the DCHS Frank and Baltus B. Van Kleeck Collection

These are two images of newly created, small printed DCHS note cards that show (top) the 1924 storefront window of Frank Van Kleeck family business on Main Street, Poughkeepsie, that operated from 1799 to 1960. At bottom is the earliest known photograph of Poughkeepsie, dated 1850, showing Main Street east of Liberty Street. From the DCHS Frank and Baltus B. Van Kleeck Collection. An index to the photo collection is at dchsny.org/cfi-van-kleeck.

areful stewards of images of the trans- Poughkeepsie from New York City in the

If you walk into the Poughkeepsie Post Office today, and look up and to the right, you will see this 1940 depiction by Norman Foster of the young boy, Johannes Van Kleeck, and a friend, at the spring used by Native Peoples as a resting place. formation of Main Street from ox carts and horses, to horse-drawn trolleys, to the automobile.

DCHS has published a set of notecards with images from this collection, among which is the earliest known photograph of Poughkeepsie, dated 1850. Likely originally a daguerreotype by the renowned S.L. Walker (whose gallery sign is visible in the left of the photo). then copied to the more traditional style of a paper print mounted on cardboard, the photograph shows a group of men, some in the classic tall hats of the time, standing on the south side of Main Street, east of Liberty Street. We have to remind ourselves that when the photo was taken there had been no Civil War, and John Adams and Thomas Jefferson had died just two and a half decades earlier. The new invention, the first railroad, had only just come as far as prior 12 months.

The Van Kleeck family business owners and operators were always conscious of, and protective of, local history. Whether it is events like the 1909 Hudson/Fulton Celebration, or regular holiday sales promotions, the store window often told the story of local and family history through the photographs that now make up the DCHS Van Kleeck Collection.

DCHS is making a sample of these note cards available with paid member-ship or donation at dchsny.org/short.

'What are we eating?'

An unforgettable experience at the dinner table.

The other night I was making dinner for the kids. I was preparing one of my favorite dishes growing up, escarole with beans. The kids looked at me with that face. I looked at them and told them that there was no way they would have survived growing up in our house. The things that we had to eat, they would never have eaten.

I remember one time we were visiting my uncle's house. He had just gone bird hunting and was preparing what he had caught. I was never one to question what we were eating, everything always tasted so good. Heck, my father and uncles were chefs. But I had finally found something that there was no way I was going to eat.

My uncle comes out of the kitchen with a big platter and places it on the table. I looked on in horror as I realized what I was going to have to eat. On the table in front of me was a big plate of steaming hot roasted black birds. Yes, black birds. The beaks and the feet were still on them. The skin was roasted and charred and there was lemon and fresh mint on them. I can still smell it to this day. I must have been seven or eight years old. I just sat there at the table staring at the bird as it stared back at me.

Now I had grown accustomed to eating things that normal American kids would never have touched. Dandelion salads, rabbit, tripe, but I took one look at those black birds and there was no way I was going to even try it. I was looking all over the table for a loaf of bread, or even a spare tire to gnaw on because there was no way in hell I was going to touch those birds.

My father, seeing my trepidation, takes one of the birds off the platter and places it on my plate and tells me to dig in. I couldn't even think of eating that thing. The more I stared at it the less hungry I was getting. I was so mesmerized staring at that bird that I could have sworn it was talking to me. There they were Heckle and Jeckle looking at me like the cartoon and telling me to eat them. I could picture them in the tree throwing stuff at my uncle like in the cartoon.

My father pushed and prodded and told me to just try it. Normally, I wouldn't hesitate, I mean everything that has been put in front of me tasted good up until that point. My scope of culinary experimentation was vast for an eight year old. I had eaten weird stuff up until that point, but the black birds was my line in the sand. I just sat there getting greener and greener. Finally, my father had mercy on me and told me I could leave the table.

I didn't just leave the table, I ran out of there. I left dreaming of escarole and beans.

ESCAROLE WITH BEANS

Ingredients

- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 4 large garlic cloves, diced fine
- 2 oz. pancetta1 head escarole, coarsely chopped
- 1 lb. white beans
- 1 tablespoon oregano
- 4 green olives, diced
- 1 cup water
- 10-15 raisins
- salt (to taste)
- 1 lb. Tubetini pasta

1 oz. fresh grated Regginao Parmagiana

Method

In a large fry pan over low heat, warm the olive oil. Add the garlic and sauté until golden brown. Increase the heat to medium, add the pancetta and olives and sauté until pancetta is lightly browned. Add the escarole, one cup of water, beans, oregano, red pepper flakes, raisins, dried pasta and season with salt. Reduce the heat to low, cover and cook until pasta is tender. Cover and let rest for 10 minutes.

Served with grated Reggiano Parmagiana and of course crusty Italian bread.

Poughkeepsie's Celebration of Lights to return on Dec. 3

After a two-year wait, the 27th annual Celebration of Lights Parade and Fireworks is back on Friday, Dec. 3, at 6:30 p.m. This event kicks off the holiday season in Poughkeepsie.

The event is presented by the Bardavon, Cocoon Theatre and City of Poughkeepsie, County of Dutchess and Poughkeepsie River District Business Association, with support from Nuvance Health, Rhinebeck Bank, Dutchess Cars, GEODIS and TD Bank Foundation.

The parade will commence at 6:30 p.m. on Main Street and Garden Street and proceed to the evening's first Christmas tree lighting on Main, at Mural Square near Market Street.

The parade will then proceed down Main Street to Clover Street where it will conclude at Dongan Square Park for the second Christmas tree lighting. Then at 7:15 p.m., Poughkeepsie River District Business Association and Legion Fireworks will present the area's only winter fireworks display.

Featured in the parade: Cocoon Theatre Artistic Director Andres San Millan has created four giant float replicas of Vassar Brothers Institute, the Steamboat Mary Powell, the 1911 Pelton mansion and new this year, celebrating the power of children to motivate others, the Ruby Bridges Locomotive. Participants in festive costumes with props created with recycled materials will accompany the floats.

Local artist Suprina will unveil a new float called Mother Earth created in collaboration with Isabel Velasco Gomez and Guadalupe Rodriguez Ramirez.

The Celebration of Lights Parade is led by Mayor Rob Rolison and members of the Common Council. They will be joined by the Arm of the Sea Theatre's

John W. Helmer

HYDE PARK - John "Jack" Helmer, age 93, passed away on Thursday November 18th at Vassar Brother Hospital. Born on May 20, 1928, in Poughkeepsie, NY, Jack was the only son born to Edna A. Donnelly and William E. "Bill" Helmer. Jack was a 1946 graduate of Roosevelt High School, Hyde Park, NY, where he met his wife, the late Janice M. Goth. They were married at Our Lady of the Rosary on the grounds of Hudson River State Hospital on September 10, 1950. They celebrated their 70th year wedding anniversary on September 10th with family and friends at their family home in Hyde Park. Jack served two years in the US Navy as a Seaman First Class and received his honorable discharge in April 1948. His tour of duty was aboard the destroyer USS Waldron where Jack earned the honorable distinction as a "Tin Can Sailor." A 1952 graduate of the Hudson River State Hospital School of Nursing, Jack worked as a psychiatric nurse for 36 years, retiring in 1988. Jack was known as "the doctor" to family, friends and neighbors who came by for diagnosis of minor ailments, chronic health issues or needing stitches removed. For thirty years, six days a week, weather permitting, Jack and his wife Jan could be found walking the grounds of Vanderbilt's, where they would make many new friends. Jack is survived by his four children, Gail O'Neil and husband, Bill, of Poughkeepsie; Jacquelyn Valenta and husband, Bill, of Tucson AZ; David Helmer and wife, Alison, of Rhinebeck; and Thomas Helmer and wife, Chris, of Round Rock, TX; eight grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. He is also survived by his sister, Joan Sclafani, of Hilton Head Island, SC, and many nieces and nephews. In addition to his parents and wife, Jack is predeceased by his two sisters, Mary Podolak and Rita Donnelly. A Celebration of his Life took place on Tuesday November 30th in the Community Mausoleum Chapel at the Poughkeepsie Rural Cemetery, 342 South Ave, Poughkeepsie. To send an online condolence or view the recorded service, please visit Jack's obituary page at www.sweetsfuneral home.com.

Patricia 'Tally' Lorio

HYDE PARK - Patricia "Tally" Lorio, 86, of Hyde Park, died on Sunday, November 14, 2021, at Ferncliff Nursing Home in Rhinebeck, NY. Born on November 20,1934 in Amsterdam, NY, she was the daughter of the late Anthony and Agatha Slusarz Danowski. On May 27, 1961, in Amsterdam, she married Thomas Lorio, of New Orleans, LA. Thomas predeceased her on January 13, 2021. Patricia, nicknamed "Tally" as a child by her sister, was an avid baseball fan, from her days attending home games of the Amsterdam Rugmakers, her town's Canadian-American baseball team, with her father and her lifelong friend, Dolores Pereicich, to more recent years when she closely followed the ups and downs of her beloved NY Mets. Besides baseball, Tally was interested in supporting loved ones and others in nursing homes, earning a certificate in Gerontology and an Associate's Degree from Dutchess Community College, and furthering her education at SUNY New Paltz and Marist College. She enjoyed keeping up with current events and loved music, especially Neil Diamond and Andrea Bocelli. She visited many nursing homes, bringing seasonal decorations and CDs of festive music. Proudly Polish and devoutly Catholic, Tally often attended mass with her husband, Tom. Socially, they could be found most mornings and often later in the day, enjoying a meal or gathering with friends they met and grew close to at the Eveready Diner in Hyde Park. Tally met several of their "diner friends" when she would be overheard discussing relief pitching or other intricacies of the game, and another patron would stop by her table to ask how a woman of her generation knew so much about the sport. Tally is survived by her son and daughter-in-law, Joe and Traci Lorio, of Cortlandt Manor; her daughter and son-inlaw, Suzanne Lorio and Andrew Dykeman, of New York City; grandson Tommy Lorio, of Cortlandt Manor; several nieces and nephews; and many great-nieces and greatnephews. Along with her husband and parents she was also predeceased by her sister, Barbara Archinal, of Amsterdam. Services will be private and at the convenience of the family. A memorial mass will take place at a later date in the spring. Tally's family respectfully requests memorial donations to the Alzheimer's Association, Hudson Valley Hospice, or Catholic Charities. Arrangements are under the direction of Sweet's Funeral Home, Inc., Rte. 9, Hyde Park. To send an online condolence, please visit www.sweets funeralhome.com.

her four siblings, Mary Ellen Downey, Walter (Bud) McDonald, Anne Cutolo, and Joseph McDonald. John and Patricia were traditionalists...winters for the family included skiing weekends at local spots (Jug End, Bittersweet, Hob Nob), ice skating at the Spingarn estate, snowmobiling all over the surrounding Meili farm trails and fields, and sledding adventures at the Erskine field. Mom packed lunches, dry clothes, and equipment for all. At the day's end, there was always mom's hot chocolate and peanut butter crackers. Summers were spent in the above ground swimming pool constructed by dad and Uncle Bud and expanded for height as we grew. Mom lived for the pool! Other adventures included the annual school skip day to attend the Danbury Fair, and family picnics in the backyard. After raising her children, mom's sister Mary Ellen introduced Mom to the estate sale world. We didn't know the obsession and love Mom would have for cleaning and selling other people's contents. She literally filled our family home from others! In later years, she volunteered as the "Christmas Lady" at the annual Hotchkiss August Habitat for Humanity tag sale. By far her favorite years began in 1999, when she became a grandma to Juliana. She was born to be a grandma whether it be playing in her jewelry box or playing dress up for hours. She also excelled at running "Macura camp" for years at the Leedsville house for Juliana and her friends for the summers. She loved school sick days, summer vacations, and holidays, as she knew that she would be able to spend time with her granddaughter. She and Juliana bought fresh fruit on their daily excursions to Paley's Farm Market or try out new recipes they found on her favorite food network shows. Patricia was a baker like no other...did not believe in or tolerate cake mix...she was old school. In her last year during the Covid pandemic, she baked a Bundt cake each week, and began an obsession with building puzzles. She was all about family! Calling hours were held on Tuesday. November 23, 2021 at Hufcut Funeral Home, 3159 Route 22, Dover. A Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated on Wednesday. November 24, 2021 at the Immaculate Conception Church, Lavalle Rd., Amenia. Burial followed at Immaculate Conception Cemetery in Amenia. At Patricia's request, in lieu of flowers, please support the Amenia Rescue Squad, P. O. Box 166, Amenia, NY 12501. Margaret E. 'Peg' Sawyer

FORMRELY DUTCHESS COUNTY -Margaret E. (Peg) Sawyer, 91, a long-time resident of Hyde Park and Dutchess County, passed away on November 18, 2021 after a long illness. She was born Margaret Elizabeth Way on May 25, 1930 to Donald and Roxie Way in Curwensville, PA. On January 26, 1952 she married Kenneth L. Sawyer in Curwensville, PA. Mr. Sawyer died on January 4, 2018. Peg began her working career out of high school as a bookkeeper for Sealtest ice cream. Honing those skills would serve her well, as she would utilize them extensively in her later business career. After Ken and Peg got married, they traveled through five different states, as Ken was a climbing linesman constructing electrical towers throughout the East and Midwest. Peg insisted they settle down after several children were born, and they landed in Dutchess County. Ken then began a lifelong career as an independent businessman, with Peg by his side. Together they operated Ken's Mobile Home Service from the late 1950's to the late 1960's. Then, after selling pop-up campers out of the front yard to supplement their income, Ken and Peg proceeded to create Ken's Camper Sales from the late 1960's to the early 1980's. It became, at the time, one of the largest recreational vehicle dealerships in the Northeast. Although Ken's name was on the businesses, Peg was a very large part of their success. Utilizing those early bookkeeping skills, Peg organized, managed and accounted for all aspects of the businesses, especially Ken's Camper Sales. She managed the unit sales, service work, customer files, employee payroll and parts store inventory. All by hand ledgers, journals, and index files, no computers back then! She also did all this while taking care of three athletic children, getting them to classes, practices and games and of course doing ALL the dirty laundry! And, somehow, always had dinner on the table! Lots of twelve/fourteen-hour days. She and Ken were particularly proud of their son Kenny, who went to Syracuse University on a continued on page 17 full football scholarship and eventually played in the NFL for the Cincinnati Bengals. Being in the RV business at the time, Peg and Ken would jump in a motor home and drive all over the Northeast and Midwest to watch Kenny play. When Ken, Kenny and daughter Kelly got into land development, Peg also jumped in and helped in the success of those businesses. Their main projects were two large manufactured housing developments in Hyde Park, Hidden Brook Estates and Kensington Village, totaling nearly 200 units. Peg would put her detailed finishing touches on each double-wide mobile home that was sold, delivering an "immaculate" home to each of the new buyers. She did this without one penny of pay! Many in the family jokingly called her "Mrs. Clean." Upon her "retirement" she was a very active, loving and doting grandmother and great-grandmother. Peg is survived by her three children: Kenneth Sawyer and his wife Patti of Hyde Park, her daughter and caregiver Karen Sawyer of Port St Lucie, and daughter Kelley Hammerling and her husband Steve of Napanoch, NY. Four grandchildren: Mike Houghtaling, Kyle Kneifel, Jared Hammerling, and Allie Garcia, five great-grandchildren: Chase Houghtaling, Cody Hardinage, Hunter and Faylynn Hammerling and Alina Garcia. Cremation has taken place in Port St Lucie. Peg's and Ken's ashes will be buried together in the family plot in Curwensville at a later date.

MOUNT GULIAN ANNOUNCES NEW VIRTUAL VIDEO TOUR, DUTCHESS TOURISM AWARD

Mount Gulian Historic Site in Beacon has announced two recent important developments. The site, on both the NY State and National Registers of Historic Places for its key role as the headquarters of patriot Gen. Von Steuben during the Revolution, and for the formation of the Society of the Cincinnati at the site in 1783, is well-known for its special events, educational programming for students, and as a popular venue for weddings and meetings.

Despite the distractions of the past 20 months, Mount Gulian produced a virtual tour video, which offers a thumbnail introduction to the site's history, including a brief tour of the museum house, garden and historic Dutch barn, complete with drone photography. Funded in part by a grant from the Hudson River Valley National Heritage Area, video production was done by J6 MediaWorks, a regional corporate messaging firm in Beacon. The video is now available to the public and can be seen on Mount Gulian's website at https://mountgulian.org/virtual-tours/avirtual-visit/. Additionally, Mount Gulian recently received the prestigious Dutchess County Tourism History Award of Distinction. The award was announced at a ceremony held at Locust Grove and hosted by Dutchess Tourism President and CEO Melaine Rottkamp and County Executive Marcus Molinaro.

Personal

I believe that our country needs a new energy source, so I am going to suggest one. Stand, take a deep breath, and relax. Place your elbows by your sides, extend your arms, and let your fingers hang limply. Notice that you are still. Next, turn your head to the side and stare at the solid color red. After a few seconds most people will feel a force pushing them one yar or another.

When I do it, red pushes me away from the color as does yellow, but with less force. Green pulls me towards the color as does blue, but with less speed. Others have felt themselves going forwards or backwards. Still other people experienced nothing.

We should try to figure out how to harness this force. Maybe it would decrease our dependence on all the things that we are removing from the Planet. Once that occurs maybe our roads will stop cracking and our buildings will stop heaving.
