Hudson Link to offer higher education program at Green Haven

By Kristine Coulter

Hudson Link for Higher Education has announced that Green Haven Correctional Facility will be the sixth site for its Higher Education in Prison program, a college-in-prison program that will start in the Spring 2022 semester. The new program will offer the 1,300 incarcerated people in the maximum-security prison a chance to earn an Associate Degree in Individual Studies. The program is a partnership between Hudson Link for Higher Education, Columbia-Greene Community College (C-GCC) and the New York State Department of Corrections and Community Supervision. Students will be enrolled as C-GCC students and take classes at Green Haven four days a week during the evenings.

“The original request for the expansion of programming came from the Department of Corrections, who wanted to partner to expand opportunities for people inside Green Haven Correctional Facility,” explained Sara Alpert, Director of Strategic Initiatives for Hudson Link.

Alpert said Program Director Joel Jimenez was thrilled about the opportunity to start a new program at Green Haven.

Jimenez stated, “Green Haven holds an important place in my heart. I spent eight years there, and it is where my life began to change for the better.” Jimenez added, “I want to afford that to other people behind the wall. I want them to know that life does not end behind these walls and bars and that Hudson Link can help to prepare them every step of the way to return home as contributing members to their community.”

According to a press release from Hudson Link, Jimenez spent twenty-two and half years incarcerated. He graduated as the 2010 valedictorian for Hudson

Link’s program with Mercy College at Sing Sing.

There have been more than 120 applications for the program at Green Haven, according to Alpert. The new session will begin with a group of 35 for the first semester who will be taking introductory college classes such as English, Mathematics, and History, said Alpert. The remaining students will be placed on a waitlist and start in future semesters.

One of the professors scheduled to work at Green Haven in the spring is Jillian McRae. McRae is a full-time English teacher at Ossining High School in Westchester County and is a Columbia-Greene Community College adjunct professor.

COVID-19 update

Mitigation steps extended, positivity rate retired as indicator

By Kate Goldsmith

With COVID-19 case rates decreasing over the past week or so, the state is taking proactive measures to help ensure the trend continues. On Friday, Gov. Kathy Hochul announced that the “mask-or-vax” mandate will continue through at least Feb. 1.

In addition, SUNY and CUNY students and faculty will be required to receive a booster vaccination when eligible. Those who received a Pfizer or Moderna vaccination are eligible for a booster at least five months after completing their primary COVID-19 vaccination series. Those who received Johnson & Johnson’s Janssen vaccination are eligible for a booster at least two months after receiving their J&J/Janssen COVID-19 vaccination.

Hochul also reiterated her goal of keeping children in school by continuing “test to stay” practices to minimize absenteeism and learning loss which can occur during traditional quarantine at home. Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro has promoted the program locally, and recently wrote a letter to Hochul requesting its state-wide implementation.

For the week ending Jan. 14, the CDC reported cases in Dutchess County decreased by nearly 3 percent. The total deaths, however, numbered 14 in that time frame, an increase of more than 50 percent. Hospitalizations and deaths are lagging indicators, because of the time frame between infection and the point at which an individual might need to be hospitalized or die. The testing rate was up by more than 45 percent over that seven-day period.

A new statistic replaces positivity rate

Last week, the Dutchess County COVID-19 Community Impact Dashboard stopped reporting the positivity rate, which had ceased to be an accurate indicator of transmission; with the expansion of at-home testing, no negative results from those tests are being reported, so the data became skewed and showed artificially high percentages of positive cases. (Recall that the positivity rate is calculated by dividing the number of positive tests by the number of total tests on any given day.)

Dr. Livia Santiago-Rosado, the county’s health commissioner, introduced the new metric in a video last

Continental Commons owner files suits vs. Town of Fishkill

By Rich Thomaselli

A longtime Town of Fishkill property owner has filed suit against the town and its board, alleging his civil rights have been violated in a years-long dispute to create a commercial development near the intersection of Route 9 and Interstate 84.

Domenic Broccoli filed three suits against the Town of Fishkill on December 30, 2021, including a federal lawsuit that alleges his civil rights were violated when the town blocked an approved Colonial-themed village of restaurants, shops, inn, and museum on commercial land he owns known as Continental Commons.

At issue is whether the property across from the Dutchess Mall is a Revolutionary War burial site, as claimed by a group opposed to the project. The dispute has been going on since at least 2007 when the proposal was first discussed, Broccoli told the Southern Dutchess News in an interview.

Above is an architectural rendering of the proposed Continental Commons development near the intersection of Route 9 and Interstate 84. The development is the subject of a lawsuit filed against the Town of Fishkill by Continental Commons owner Domenic Broccoli.

Lawsuits filed by Fishkill property owner

“I’m not going away,” a defiant Broccoli said.

The Continental Commons project successfully completed a four-year New York State Environmental Review, as well as reviews by Dutchess County Planning and the Fishkill Planning Board in 2019. But Broccoli alleges the Town of Fishkill denied him sewer and water permits and enacted a new historic zoning regulation, and refused to provide public information pertaining to his property.

Broccoli filed Article 78 challenges to the historic zoning regulation and the denial of a Freedom of Information Law request. Broccoli believes that these and other actions by the Town have violated his guaranteed rights to equal protection and due process under the United States Constitution.

One of his lawsuits named current Town of Fishkill Supervisor Ozzy Albra and members of a previous board.

A terse Albra, responding to an inquiry from the Southern Dutchess News, said:

“There was no need for this. Mr. Broccoli knows he needs Board of Health approval (for the project). If he receives that approval, he can bring the project before the (Town of Fishkill) Board again to be voted on for approval. That’s all I have to say about it.”

Broccoli believes he has been targeted by Albra and the Friends of the Fishkill Supply Depot, a group of people that claim the proposed site of Continental Commons is sacred burial ground from the Revolutionary War era.

The Fishkill Supply Depot was a phrase coined by historians decades ago to describe a historic depot used during the Revolution. Both sides claim to have support from archeologists who dug up the site – the Friends group says the entire property covering some 70 acres is a Revolutionary War burial site, while Broccoli claims a report issued by the group was “doctored” and his own archeological investigation showed that only a portion of the parcel contains relics from more than 240 years ago.

“Ozzy Albra told us he wasn’t against the project,” Broccoli said. “Then he filed a temporary restraining order (in 2019 before Albra was supervisor).” The court ruled in Albra’s favor.

In a previous press release, Broccoli said that “As a property owner and taxpayer in Fishkill since 1986, I will not tolerate anything less than a land use review process based on the facts and the law, and not on insidious partisan conspiracies. My family and I have been deprived of our civil rights and have been denied access to public documents.”

Broccoli, who told the Southern Dutchess News the whole situation was “a scam,” also said he made a conciliatory offer to the Town and the Friends of the Fishkill Supply Depot, offering to have the group keep the cemetery and a two-acre parcel.

“I told them we could work together,” he said, “and we’ll teach kids about the Revolution, and this can be a wonderful agreement.”

He said his efforts were rebuffed, however.

week: new daily positive cases per 100,000 county residents, as reported to the New York State Department of Health, which provides a more accurate picture of positive cases in the community.

As of Jan. 14, Dutchess had 4,348 active cases (down from 5,683 on Jan. 7), 176 hospitalizations (up from 155 on Jan. 7) and a total of 565 deaths (up from 547 on Jan. 7). The community transmission rate remains high - 216.87 per 100,000 residents.

Reminder: Testing, vaccination expanded at county site

Last week, Molinaro has announced expanded opportunities for residents to get tested for COVID-19, with both PCR testing options, as well as get vaccinated against the virus at its site at the former JCPenney store at the Poughkeepsie Galleria.

Testing will be offered at the site Tuesday through Friday, 1 to 7 p.m.; and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Testing results turnaround time for PCR testing is up to 48 hours from receipt of testing, though the time frame can vary based on demand. There is no out-of-pocket cost to residents for either of these testing options.

COVID-19 vaccinations, including booster shots, are now available on the lower level of the JCPenney site on Tuesdays from 1 to 4 p.m., in addition to the previously scheduled days, expanding access to vaccine on the following days and times:

- Tuesday, 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.
- Thursday, 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.
- Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon

Dr. Santiago-Rosado said, “Since COVID-19 vaccines were first available a year ago, we’ve seen the impact they’ve made – lessening the severity of cases and reducing hospitalizations and deaths. With omicron now the dominant variant across the nation, we urge residents more than ever to get fully vaccinated and receive their booster, when eligible. We are expanding access to these life-saving vaccines, knowing the importance they make on our community, and we are hopeful even more residents will choose to get vaccinated.”

New York State Department of Health is supporting the expansion of testing and vaccination opportunities, providing additional vaccinators and test administrators to support the county’s JCPenney site.

Molinaro said, “We are grateful to the NYS DOH for these additional resources and encourage residents to take advantage of our testing and vaccination opportunities to protect themselves and their families.”

Local superintendents comment on Hochul’s plan for bus driver shortages

By Kristine Coulter

A plan to address the shortage of bus drivers and truck drivers was announced by Gov. Kathy Hochul last week. The proposed plan would expand the availability of road tests for Commercial Driver License (CDOL) applicants.

A public hearing, which will be held by the NYS Department of Motor Vehicles, has been set for Wednesday, Jan. 26. The hearing will take place from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. via WebEx. Members of the public can make comments or submit written comments from Jan. 18 to Feb. 4 at CDLThirdPartyTesting@dmv.ny.gov.

“It continues to be a daily challenge to cover all of our 390 bus routes. The proposal by Governor Hochul is a step in the right direction to begin to address this issue,” said Wappingers Central School District (W.C.S.D.) Superintendent Dr. Dwight Bonk. Bus drivers, he said, “have a very challenging job, as they are responsible for the health, welfare, and safety of our students to and from school.”

The W.C.S.D. have and will continue “to advertise for Bus Driver positions as well as instituting a driver training program for our candidates which has been helpful in recruitment,” said the superintendent.

“We are pleased that the CDL process can now be expedited,” commented Aviva Kafka, Superintendent of the Hyde Park Central School District.

“Governor Hochul’s quick and decisive action will increase the number of school bus driver testing sites across the state and help to alleviate New York’s school bus driver shortage problem,” said New York Association for Pupil Transportation executive director David Christophe in a statement.

“As we continue to fight this pandemic,

A plan to help alleviate the shortage of school bus drivers has been released by Gov. Kathy Hochul. -Archive photo

we remain committed to expanding opportunities for New Yorkers, supporting our schools, and doing all we can to address the supply-chain issues that have affected many businesses throughout our state and country,” Hochul said. “By enabling third parties to give the road test for truck and bus drivers, we will create new avenues for New Yorkers to begin exciting careers, for our children to get to school, and to ensure that vital goods get where they need to be.”

“This seems like a good plan to start, however new drivers still need time to be trained. In addition, we do not have a pool of candidates. There needs to be a focus on recruitment,” stated Janet Warden, Superintendent Red Hook Central School District.

The proposal can be heard during the public hearing. According to the Governor’s Office, the “proposal that calls for a phased roll out of this initiative that would initially allow other state agencies and authorities that have large fleets of commercial vehicles to begin conducting CDL road tests. The second phase would include qualified private entities. The DMV will establish a rigorous monitoring system to ensure that qualified CDL trainers safely administer the road tests in compliance with state and federal regulations. The DMV will use the feedback gathered during the public hearing to evaluate and develop an implementation plan.”

As part of the effort to assist with the school bus driver shortages, it is proposed that the DMV expedite the process for obtaining a CDL by removing the 14-day waiting period between the permit test and the road tests. The state also increased capacity to administer road tests and, through cooperation with county-operated DMV offices, to increase testing capacity for written exams, according to the Governor’s Office.

DMV Commissioner Mark J.F. Schroeder said in a press release, “We at DMV know how important it is to have qualified truck and bus drivers on the road, and we are committed to doing what we can to address the need. We look forward to gathering public input at this hearing and then acting to enable qualified third parties to offer CDL road tests to give New Yorkers greater opportunity to take the test and to get good jobs driving these essential vehicles.”

Those interested in obtaining a Commercial Driver License can find more information at <https://dmv.ny.gov/commercial-drivers>.

New educational program at Green Haven

I have been in the high school classroom, but I have always loved adult education (whether that was working with pre-service teachers, or with my colleagues as an instructional coach). I think now, I am shifting more toward adult education. Teaching high school students has always had its challenges, but adults typically want to be there. There is an earnestness of engagement and interest. I’m looking forward to a setting of few(er) distractions and a community who has a willingness and desire to learn,” commented McRae, via email.

McRae will be teaching SL 110 (Cultural Diversity). “I am excited about this course in light of our current socio-, political, and economic context. There is crisis and trauma all around us, and the course will aim to uncover and analyze the systemic and systematic underpinnings of injustice, marginalization, power, privilege, and vulnerability that is ingrained in our society,” said McRae.

Rachel Boehr will be employed by Hudson Link as a full-time Academic Coordinator at the facility. Boehr will be supporting students through their academic journey and facilitating the logistics of running a college program inside a prison.

Boehr said in the release, “Everybody from the college to the correctional staff has been supportive, and the students are motivated to succeed. We’re just happy to be facilitating that.”

One prospective student shared in the release, “given the opportunity to obtain higher education through this program would be a dream come true and allow me to enhance the skills I have been learning while participating in [other] programs.”

Another prospective student remarked, “I have been in Green Haven for a little over ten years and have taken great strides in self-improvement, responsibility, community development, personal development, and most importantly, the resurgence of my character inside and outside of the prison system. I will be honored to enroll in Hudson Link’s prison degree program to have the chance to educate the younger generation, especially at-risk youth.”

McRae noted, “I hope students can frame themselves not only as scholars but as people who can bring about change (and/or shifts in thinking) in their own spheres of influence. There are so many ways to view the world and the issues within. I hope to create an environment where perspectives can be shared, challenged, acknowledged, and supported.”

Since 1998, Hudson has partnered with nine colleges to award more than 750 degrees across program sites. As the program develops, Hudson Link plans to establish a bachelor’s degree pathway at the facility, according to the release.

NY Public school retiree pensions set new record

Albany, NY — Average pension benefits for newly retired public educators outside New York City reached a record high of $73,552 last year, according to data posted last week at SeeThroughNY.net.

The figures are from the New York State Teachers' Retirement System (NYSTRS), which covers school professionals across most of the state.

The 2,685 members of NYSTRS who retired during the 2020-21 school year with at least 30 years of credited service time are eligible for a maximum pension benefit averaging $73,552, up from $71,074 for the 2019-20 retiree cohort.

More than ten percent of these new retirees (289) are eligible for six-figure pensions, the highest being the $271,275 maximum benefit earned by former Locust Valley School District Superintendent, Dr. Anna Hunderfund.

Reflecting regional salary differences, average pensions among the new retirees are highest among those retiring from New York City suburban districts. The Long Island region had the highest average pension at $94,108, as shown in the table below. The top five individual pensions also belong to retirees from schools in either Nassau or Westchester counties.

Average Eligible Benefit for 2020-21 NYSTRS Retirees with Over 30 Years of Experience

Region	Number	Avg. Benefit
Capital	271	$63,592
Central New York	224	$56,670
Finger Lakes	263	$61,754
Long Island	713	$94,108
Mid-Hudson	520	$83,668
Mohawk Valley	118	$57,785
North Country	108	$54,946
Southern Tier	196	$55,148
Western New York	272	$63,060
Total	2,685	$73,553

The average maximum pension for the entire cohort of 5,461 newly retired NYSTRS members is $55,017. That broader average includes both part- and full-time public school teachers, many of whom attained only a minimum five-year vesting requirement before leaving the system.

Among all NYSTRS members earning benefits in 2020-21 (both new retirees and earlier ones), 4,061 are eligible for six-figure pension benefits. Other six-figure pensioners included 50 retirees eligible for benefits of $200,000 to $300,000, and four eligible for pensions exceeding $300,000.

These data are made public thanks to the Empire Center's successful court challenges against efforts by public agencies to conceal information from taxpayers. The Center remains involved in litigation to protect and expand the public's ability to examine public pensions and spending.

Forty-two organizations to receive $7 million in Funding for Workforce Development Awards

Governor Kathy Hochul announced that 42 organizations across the state have been awarded $7 million as part of the Workforce Development Initiative. This series of awards is the first group made under the second round of funding, which began in August, and makes $48 million available to support strategic regional efforts that help New Yorkers prepare for and find quality, well-paying jobs, meet businesses' short-term workforce needs, improve regional talent pipelines, expand apprenticeships, and address the long-term needs of growing industries. Applications continue to be accepted through the rolling Consolidated Funding Application Process.

Funding and incentives provided in this round of awards by Department of Labor, SUNY and CUNY will support critical job training and employment opportunities in high-demand industries for more than 2,550 New Yorkers across the State.

"We need to deal with the harsh reality that the pandemic left too many New Yorkers suddenly out of work and searching for new skills to reinvent themselves and relaunch their careers," Governor Hochul said. "These workforce awards will provide critical skills training, connect New Yorkers with the high-demand and good-paying jobs of the future, and create harmony between education, business, and public investment that will accelerate our state's economic recovery. To the New Yorkers who were driven out of work by the pandemic or deciding on their next career steps during these uncertain times, we are building a new New York worthy of your talents and ambitions."

New York's Regional Economic Development Councils have a key role in recommending applications for funding, based on regional economic needs and opportunities. Businesses and organizations receiving Workforce Development awards include:

- Mid-Hudson: Nicholas Center, Williams Lumber, ShopRite, Dutchess Community College

The Workforce Development Initiative began in 2019 with a mission to invest $175 million throughout New York State for innovative, creative, and regionally customized workforce development projects. Awards under this Consolidated Funding Application support strategic regional efforts that meet businesses' short-term workforce needs, address long-term industry needs, improve regional talent pipelines, enhance flexibility and adaptability of local workforce entities, and expand workplace learning opportunities.

In the first round of WDI funding, over $70 million was awarded to 225 organizations to support regionally significant industries in emerging fields with growing demands for jobs -- including clean energy, life sciences, computer science, and advanced technologies -- as well as efforts to improve the economic security of women, young workers, and other populations that face significant barriers to career advancement. Funding supports critical job training and employment opportunities in high-demand industries for over 51,000 New Yorkers across the State.

In this second call for applications, the Workforce Development Initiative is bringing together the resources, plans, and perspectives of multiple state agencies and authorities, the Regional Economic Development Councils, nonprofit training providers and private sector employers during the COVID-19 pandemic.

More information about the Workforce Development Initiative and the awards announced to date can be found at workforcedevelopment.ny.gov.

Wappinger holds reorg meeting, board installed

The Wappinger Town Board held its Reorganization meeting at the Wappinger Town Hall last week. Wappinger Supervisor Richard Thurston, Senior Councilman William Beale, Councilman Christopher Phillips, and Councilman Al Casella took their oaths of office from Town Clerk Joseph Paoloni.

Thurston congratulated his colleagues in government. “Thanks to our strong financial position, we will continue to improve our parks and recreation facilities, expand programs for seniors and veterans, add additional recreation programming, and continue our support of our youth sports organizations,” he said.

During the meeting, board members unanimously appointed Beale as deputy town supervisor.

“It is an honor to be re-elected to serve a seventh full term as Councilman in this great town. I consider it a privilege to be appointed as Deputy Town Supervisor and serve alongside Supervisor Thurston and his administration,” Beale remarked. Beale, councilman for Ward 1, held the deputy supervisor position from 2008 - 2012 and then again for a year, from 2016-17.

“As a team, we will continue our work to maintain the fiscal stability and health and safety of the Town of Wappinger,” said Beale.

During the meeting, Thurston outlined some of his administration’s key goals and objectives of his administration for the next two years. One of those goals is long-range capital planning initiatives which, he said, would increase investment in water and sewer infrastructure and improvements to roads and drainage.

“It is our hope that these investments will allow us to diversify our tax base, especially along the Route 9 and Route 376 corridors, while increasing protection against Mother Nature's unpredictable personality,” said the supervisor.

Thurston thanked former Deputy Supervisor Kevin Hathorn for his years of service and dedication the Wappinger residents.

Casella thanked Hathorn for his service, especially to veterans that live in the Town. He also congratulated Beale on his appointment, and stated, Beale “brings an important health and safety perspective to the administration and the Town now more than ever.”

Wappinger receives one of 17 state grants for wastewater collection system improvement

Gov. Kathy Hochul has announced $23 million in grants to help improve water quality across New York State while mitigating the effects of climate change. Through the New York State Environmental Facilities Corporation's Green Innovation Grant Program, $20.8 million is being awarded to 17 projects that incorporate green storm water infrastructure, as well as implement energy and water efficiency measures. An additional $2.5 million in Engineering Planning Grants will help jumpstart planning for 56 water infrastructure projects. The funding is part of the $750 million announced for Round XI of the Governor's Regional Economic Development Council initiative. Of the 17 Green Innovation Grant Program projects, 13 projects worth $17.9 million will impact Environmental Justice Communities.

Among the projects awarded a grant:

- Town of Wappinger - $100,000 to identify sources of inflow and infiltration in the Mid-Point Park Sewer District, evaluate alternatives, and recommend improvements to the wastewater collection system.

The Green Innovation Grant Program (GIGP) supports projects across the state that utilize unique EPA-designated green stormwater infrastructure design and create cutting-edge green technologies. Competitive grants are awarded annually to projects that improve water quality and mitigate the effects of climate change through the implementation of green practices, including green stormwater infrastructure, energy efficiency and water efficiency.

Engineering Planning Grants (EPG) help eligible communities afford and start the critical planning process so they can be better prepared to seek financing to help them complete their water infrastructure projects. Grants of up to $100,000 are available to develop an engineering report that identifies problems and potential solutions. These grants have helped municipalities across the state to complete 350 engineering reports since the program's inception in 2012.

HV Alzheimer’s Association chapter offers helpline, Alzheimer’s warning signs

The Alzheimer’s Association Hudson Valley chapter has a variety of programs and services available for the general public and for families living with dementia. Due to health concerns related to COVID-19, most of these are currently being provided virtually or by phone.

The Association’s 24/7 Helpline at 800.272.3900 is always available to answer any questions and concerns. Typically, during and after the holidays, the number of calls increase when people who recently visited friends and family that they haven’t seen in a while notice changes in their loved ones. The Helpline is an ideal place to find answers and resources for additional assistance.

“Helpline calls often lead to local referrals to our chapter for additional resources, such as free education programs and personalized family care consultations,” said Meg Boyce, Vice President of Programs and Services for the Hudson Valley Chapter.

“As our loved ones age, we often attribute memory loss to a normal aging, although some behaviors or signs of cognitive decline may result from something more severe. Boyce noted it can be tempting to remain in denial about such changes in a loved one’s behavior, but that putting off a diagnosis can add to difficulties down the road.

“Alzheimer’s is not a normal part of aging. It is a progressive disease, in which the symptoms gradually worsen over time,” she said. “Ignoring signs of cognitive impairment out of fear or denial can lead to greater heartache and the possible worsening of the situation.”

The Alzheimer’s Association Hudson Valley Chapter encourages families to keep the 10 Warning Signs of Alzheimer’s in mind:

- Memory changes that disrupts daily life, such as forgetting important events
- Challenges in planning or solving problems, such as keeping track of monthly bills

- Difficulty completing familiar tasks, such as driving to routine places
- Confusion with time or place
- Trouble understanding visual images and spatial relationships
- New problems with words in speaking or writing
- Misplacing things and being unable to retrace steps, such as putting keys in the freezer
- Decreased or poor judgment, such as giving large sums of money to telemarketers
- Withdrawal from work or social activities, and forgetting how to work on a favorite hobby
- Changes in mood and personality, such as becoming angry or fearful for seemingly no reason

“If you notice someone struggling with a familiar task, it’s important to reach out to their healthcare providers,” Boyce said. “Early diagnosis is crucial, as it gives the person living with the disease and their family more time to plan for the future, as well as the opportunity take advantage of some drugs that can help manage symptoms in the early stage.”

The association offers free educational programs for the general public with advice on recognizing warning signs, how to live a healthy lifestyle to reduce the risk of developing dementia, information on legal and financial planning and more. Educational programs for those directly affected include advice on managing care throughout the disease, common dementia-related behaviors and how communication changes as the disease progresses. Live programs via Zoom or phone can be found by searching by zip code at alz.org/crf. Pre-recorded educational programs are available anytime at: alz.org/help-support/resources/care-training-resources.

Appointments available during National Blood Donor Month

This National Blood Donor Month, New York Blood Center (NYBC) continues to call for more donors as the blood shortage extends into the new year. The region's blood supply continues to be threatened by low donor turnout and blood drive cancellations due to surging levels of Omicron cases. Schools that had begun to reinstate student blood drives are once again canceling, perpetuating the dramatic decline in youth and first-time donors. Prior to the pandemic, 50,000 annual blood donations were made at high schools, but the threat of a return to remote learning is making it nearly impossible for them to commit to hosting blood drives.

This is always a challenging time of year for the blood supply, as holiday plans and travel make donating blood less of a priority and winter weather can lead to blood drive cancellations. This year, those seasonal challenges are coinciding with a new wave of the pandemic. Blood centers across the country are and have been suffering from shortages since the start of the pandemic in March of 2020.

“A strong blood supply is essential and can be threatened at any time with emergencies such as inclement weather, which we are currently seeing with the snowstorm to our south, and the surge of Omicron cases that we are seeing nationwide,” said Andrea Cefarelli, Senior Executive Director at New York Blood Center (NYBC). “National Blood Donor Month is a great time to sign up to donate blood and start the year by giving back, especially now as we continue to experience this blood shortage.”

Donating blood is safe and only takes one hour. We are taking extra precautions to help prevent the person-to-person spread of COVID-19. All NYBC staff are vaccinated. As always, people are not eligible to donate if they're experiencing a cold, sore throat, respiratory infection or flu-like symptoms. People can donate blood regardless of vaccination status. Additional information on donor eligibility and COVID-19 precautions is available.

Donors can schedule appointments by calling 1-800-933-2566 or visiting www.nybc.org.

Bread pudding

Savory or sweet, it's pure comfort on a cold day

Happy New Year! Let's get cookin'! And what are we making? Only the best thing since sliced bread! When I first started writing these articles, I shared my recipe for savory bread pudding, but since it's one of my favorite things I decided to share another version. And for those of you craving a sweet indulgence I've added one of those, too. With a delectable caramel cream sauce, no less! You're sure welcome!

Before we dive in, though, a few words about the joys and importance of comfort food. Bread pudding sits high on the top of my list, be it sweet or savory. It combines some of my favorite things, is a great excuse to use up leftovers and never fails to satisfy, heart and soul! And who couldn't use that on a chilly winter's day?

- SAVORY BREAD PUDDING

Making this the day (or night) before is ideal, not only because it's easier on you, but also because it gives the bread time to really soak up the egg and cream, giving you deliciously puffed up results. Bread pudding is also a great way to use up any leftover bread. This makes for a luscious breakfast or brunch but is also pretty perfect for dinner on a cozy night in.

INGREDIENTS

 - Baguette, Italian or other firm bread, cut into 1" cubes (about 3 cups)
 - 2 cups grated Gruyere, cheddar and/or Swiss cheese
 - 1.5 cups sliced mushrooms
 - 6 eggs
 - 1.5 cups heavy cream
- Fresh chopped thyme, rosemary and/or oregano

Salt and pepper to taste

METHOD

Place bread cubes and cheese in an oven-proof baking dish or bowl; toss and set aside.

In a large skillet, saute mushrooms until soft and slightly brown, about 10 minutes. Set aside.

In a separate bowl, whisk together eggs, cream and seasonings. Pour over bread and cheese, stir to combine, then cover and chill for 2 hours or overnight.

When ready to serve, uncover and bake in a preheated 400 degree oven for about 30 minutes. Cover with foil and return to oven to bake until liquid is set and edges start to brown.

PLEASE NOTE: Baking times depend on the size and depth of your baking dish and so are approximate. Check after 30 minutes for doneness by seeing if eggs are set and most of the liquid is gone. Continue to cook as needed, checking frequently.

About 4 servings.

ALSO NOTE: You can add whatever you like: sauteed onions, peppers, spinach, broccoli, ham bacon ... It's a delicious way to use up odds and ends!

BREAD PUDDING with CAMEL SAUCE

If you're feeling particularly indulgent, you could serve this for breakfast or brunch. Otherwise, think of it as a rich, custardy dessert. I've added boozy raisins to the mix, but this is just as good without them.

- Especially with that sauce! Oh my!
- INGREDIENTS FOR PUDDING
- Butter or cooking spray to grease pan
 - 1/2 cup raisins
 - 1/4 cup Irish whiskey
 - 1 loaf (unseeded) French or Italian bread (preferably day-old)
 - 4 eggs
 - 1 cup heavy cream
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
 - 1/4 teaspoon each nutmeg and cinnamon
- METHOD FOR PUDDING
- Grease a 9x13-inch baking dish and set aside.
- Soak raisins in whiskey for at least 30 minutes.
- Cut bread into 1 inch cubes and set aside.
- In a large bowl, whisk eggs, then add cream, milk, sugar, vanilla and spices. Stir in raisins (undrained) into egg mixture, then add bread, stirring to coat very well. Let soak for at least 30 minutes.
- Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Spread bread mixture evenly into prepared baking dish (it will pretty much be in one layer, just covering the bottom). Bake until set, about 35 minutes. Serve with warm caramel sauce.
- INGREDIENTS FOR CAMEL SAUCE
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
 - 2/3 cup water
 - 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
 - 2 ounces (about 1/4 cup) cream cheese
 - 1/4 cup cream or milk
- METHOD FOR SAUCE
- Combine sugar and water in a small, heavy saucepan and cook over medium-high heat until sugar dissolves, stirring constantly. Continue to cook without stirring until golden (about 15 minutes). Remove from heat and carefully add butter and cream cheese, stirring constantly with a whisk. It will be very hot and will bubble vigorously. Cool slightly before stirring in cream (or milk). Drizzle over warm bread pudding and serve.
- Serves about 6.
- I know we're supposed to start the new year off healthier and that many of us have committed to eating better, but if you're able to, please make some bread pudding! A little indulgence once in a while can't be all that bad, can it? Especially if it brings you comfort on a cold day, makes you happy, tastes really good and helps clean out the fridge. Who's with me? If you are, then enjoy!

The Biobay

Vacation ends on a glowing note

Staggering along a four-mile stretch of Avenida Isla Verde in San Juan, Puerto Rico, I was on a mission to find a bottle of real champagne for our New Year's Eve celebration. Liquor is sold in every store in Puerto Rico – gas stations, souvenir shops, drug stores. But the closest they come to champagne is sparkling wine, Cold Duck or Persecco. Where was the Veuve Clicquot, the Tattengier and the Mumm Cordon Rouge? It was beginning to feel like "The Lost Weekend." Then I was given a tip to try to the giant Publix supermarket. After a circuitous detour, there it was – a chilled liter of Moet & Chandon Brut Imperial!

Next morning, recovering from a less than memorable New Year's Eve celebration in the lobby of the Holiday Inn, I began to realize that I would need some kind of activity to make this trip memorable. More than a bike ride or a walk in the national park. In the hot tub back at the Hotel El Convento, some tourists had been raving about the "biobay," supposedly one of the seven wonders of the natural world.

So, after renting a car, Sue and I were off on our latest adventure.

Bioluminescence is the production and emission of light by a living organism (think fireflies). Dinoflagellates, single-celled algae, are responsible for a blue glow in the Mosquito Bay on the Island of Viques, Puerto Rico. Mosquito Bay, a national natural landmark, is considered to be the best example of bioluminescence in the Caribbean, if not in the world.

I signed up for a biobay kayak tour with an outfit called Malayas Tours. Now we had to get to Viques, an island off the east coast of mainland Puerto Rico. Not as easy as it sounds. The 1 p.m. ferry was sold out, so after parking the rental car in the desolate town of Ceiba, we sat on metal folding chairs at the terminal waiting for the 5:30 ferry, then hired a taxi to rush to Lazy Jack's Bar and Grill, where we met our guide. As usual in Puerto Rico, our COVID vaccine certificates were scrutinized before we could buy a Diet Coke (Sue) or a Budweiser (me).

We were in luck. By 7 p.m., the night was pitch black, thanks to the new moon, after a brilliant sunny day – perfect conditions for a bioluminescent show. A short van ride took our group of six tourists down a muddy track to the edge of the bay, where loads of glass bottomed kayaks were filling up with adventurers from various tour groups. Sue and I hopped into our tandem kayak and shoved off into the bay.

Tiny blue stars speckled the underside of our craft, and every stroke of the paddle turned up hundreds of thousands of bright blue dinoflagellates. Run a hand through the water and you catch hundreds in your palm. Our guide pointed out the constellations in the pitch black sky above.

Two hours later we were back at Lazy Jack's for our only meal of the day. By the time we finished, no taxis were running, so we got a ride from "Moses," one of the hopefully not too drunk bar patrons, to a hotel near the ferry terminal.

A couple of days later, friends we were visiting in Rock Ledge, Florida, suggested we take the two hour "ecotour" of the Indian River Lagoon Estuary System. We boarded a little pontoon boat with Capt. CJ Enneking and his wife Jane, cruising along the shores of the 177,000-acre Merritt Island Wildlife Refuge. The former NASA Kennedy Space Center was sited on the wildlife refuge (how was that allowed?), abandoned and then revitalized as a launch site by Jeff Bezos, Elon Musk and Richard Branson, all competing to put a man on Mars.

We saw lots of Lagoon Bottlenose Dolphins, a subspecies only six feet long. A flock of 500 roseate spoonbills winged overhead. White pelicans roosted on the shore, twice the size of the common brown pelican. Bald eagles, herons, ospreys and of course alligators abounded. But manatees are scarce, and getting scarcer, as their only food, aquatic sawgrass, disappears from the bay, for various reasons.

All in all, the lagoon is home to 42,000 species of plants and animals, including 400 different fish. We even saw bioluminescent jellyfish, but they weren't glowing in the daylight.

Now it's back to our greatest adventure of all – growing flowers!

East Fishkill Recreation

By Bill Green

After many requests we have scheduled a casino bus trip to Catskills Resort Casino on Sunday, Feb. 20.

We'll be leaving at 8:45 and spending 6 hours (10 a.m. to 4 p.m.) at the Casino. Everyone will receive a $15 food voucher and $25 free slot play. You may sign up any day at Lime Kiln. The fee is $35. If you don't gamble you will come out $5 ahead. At this time "masks" will be required in the Casino.

Don't forget if you wish to work this summer in an East Fishkill Recreation position (counselor, lifeguard, director, etc.) you must hand in an Application Form for 2022 by Monday, Feb. 14 at Lime Kiln. All current employees must reapply each year.

Our Recreation Guides for 2022 are at the printers. A complete schedule of activities, facilities, special events, league contacts, etc. will be available in the Guides.

April 2 will be our Town Clean-up Day and April 9 will be our annual Easter Egg Hunt and Opening Day for Baseball, softball and soccer (weather permitting)!

Our next East Fishkill Recreation Advisory Board meeting is Monday, Feb. 7 at 7 p.m. in Town Hall.

Ice skating (at your own risk) is available at Emmadine Pond or the pond by the gazebo at Hopewell Rec. Check the "ice" to make sure it's "nice!"

Check East Fishkill Recreation online or go to recreation1@eastfishkillny.gov or give us a call at 845-226-8395 for more information.

The pianist Roman Rabinovich has been highly lauded by The New York Times, BBC Music Magazine, the San Francisco Classical Voice and others. He has performed throughout Europe and the United States, in many major concert halls as both a soloist and a featured artist with world-renowned symphony orchestras. Born in Tashkent, Uzbekistan, Rabinovich immigrated to Israel with his family in 1994, beginning his piano studies there; he went on to graduate from the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, and earned his master's degree at the Juilliard School in New York City.

A true polymath, Rabinovich is an accomplished composer, as well as a visual artist. During the pandemic he and violinist Diana Cohen have played free weekly concerts in their front yard.

Rabinovich will play an eclectic program at the Howland Cultural Center: 6 selections from 18th-century composer Jean-Philippe Rameau's Suite in g-minor; 3 Impromptus by 19th-century composer Franz Schubert; a Sonata by the 20th-century's George Walker; and 12 Etudes by the 19th-century's Frederic Chopin.
