Time capsule buried during East Fishkill Flag Day dedication

The dedication of the flagpole at Unity Park, off Route 82, took place on June 14, Flag Day, in East Fishkill. There was the burying of a time capsule as well.

By Kristine Coulter

A dedication ceremony was held at the flagpole at Unity Park presented by the East Fishkill Rotary Club in East Fishkill. The park is located off Route 82, near the Acme and Chase Bank. The location is in the center of Hopewell Junction. The highlight of this Flag Day ceremony was the American flag flying at top of the more than 80-foot-flagpole. There was also the burial of a time capsule.

It is "a nice little park we have," said Town of East Fishkill Supervisor Nick D'Alessandro.

There was a previous ceremony held for the groundbreaking for the flagpole in November 2024. The support of the local and business community "is amazing," remarked the supervisor.

Dan Oberhauser, a member of the American Legion Post 1758, said, "being ex-military, the flag is very special when you're thousands of miles across the world and when you see the flag, it is most reassuring."

Oberhauser served in the U.S. Navy for three years and almost eight months. Among some of the locations he was deployed were the East Coast of Africa, the Middle East, and the Caribbean.

Pictured are the East Fishkill Rotary bench, ceremonial programs and the time capsule, which was buried at Unity Park in East Fishkill.

For the younger generations, Oberhauser said, "I hope they can appreciate much of what the veterans' [sacrificed]. People don't understand what the flag means to the veterans and this country."

East Fishkill Rotary President Nicole Magro said, "I'm very happy that everyone worked so hard to plan for this and it has come to fruition."

"We want this flag to be a symbol of unity for our little corner of the world," Magro remarked.

Inside the time capsule will be pictures, an old Rotary banner, and other historical items regarding Hopewell Junction, explained Magro.

Summer Kick-off Party at Martz Field on June 25

Ready to celebrate summer? The Town of Wappinger will host a Summer Kick-off Party on Wednesday, June 25, from 5-7 p.m. The festivities will take place at Martz Field, 109 Pye Lane. The event is free.

"Last year, I had this crazy idea we should really be celebrating the end of the school year and getting these kids and families out to the parks," remarked Town of Wappinger Supervisor Joseph Cavaccini. "Last year we did it. It was a great success."

There will be food trucks. One can make crafts. There will be a bounce house for the kids and more.

During the event, children enrolled in the Town's summer camp program can also meet some of the camp's counselors. If one is not signed up for the summer camp program, they can still attend the kick-off party.

This is a way "to get people out in the parks and use them," said Cavaccini.

This year the camp program will be at two sites. The first site is at Martz Field and the second will be at Castle Point Park, 312 River Road, noted Cavaccini. There will be a brand-new playground at Castle Point Park. The current playground at that park is almost four decades old, according to the supervisor.

"We're turning recreation around in this town," said the supervisor.

The Beacon City School District represents 40 percent of the town of Wappinger, said Cavaccini. "We're doing something on this side of town," he said. There will be a new parking area.

The parks are "becoming the centers of the community," said Cavaccini.

Residents see improvements in the parks and "their tax dollars working for them, while offering a tax decrease for them this year," said Cavaccini.

RCK honor students appreciative of high school days

By Kristine Coulter

The Roy C. Ketcham High School administration has announced that Emily Zhang and Sophie Zhang are Valedictorian and Salutatorian respectively (they are not related).

Emily Zhang - Valedictorian

Finding out she was valedictorian, Emily recalled, "It was out of the blue, so I was a bit shocked—but also really happy and relieved. It is incredibly gratifying to see this recognition as a culmination of my high school academic journey."

What will Emily miss about high school?

Emily said about high school, "I'll really miss being able to interact with my classmates and teachers. Our school community is especially diverse, and I've learned so much simply by engaging in conversation with the people around me and their distinct perspectives."

As for her future college endeavors, Emily said, "I'll be attending Princeton University, currently undecided. I'm considering SPIA and chemistry, as I hope to make a positive impact in the fields of innovation and policy."

She suggests for incoming high school students, "Find what you're passionate about—whether it's a subject, a club, or a cause—and don't hesitate in pursuing it. Take full advantage of the opportunities you're given, and if you find them lacking, create new opportunities—not just for yourself, but for others as well."

Sophie Zhang – Salutatorian

"I'll miss the teachers who didn't just grade my ideas but challenged and extended them. The ones who answered questions well and asked them even better. I'll miss how much growing is hidden in plain sight. In the hallways. In the cafeteria. In the bathroom mirror. I'll miss being around those who are slowly but surely finding their way. Who don't have all the answers yet and aren't pretending that they do. I'll even miss the awkward silences during group projects because they're reminders that learning is messy rather than neat. And lastly, as I close this chapter and begin my next one, I will miss the firsts I experienced back in 2021, and embrace the firsts I will experience this fall," said Sophie about her high school days.

Sophie will be attending Columbia University this coming school year and majoring in financial economics.

Sophie Zhang

"I wish I could say I felt fireworks. Or confetti. But the reality is, I experienced a kind of peace, like being in the eye of a storm I didn't realize I had been caught up in for the last four years," recalled Sophie. "So no, it wasn't fireworks. It was the wave of relief that washed over me. It was thinking about my seven-year-old self, trying to reach the sky on the swings at recess, imagining her future achievements. It was thinking of the people who saw my worth before the certificates or medals did, the ones who helped carry me here. It was a sense of pride that didn't scream or celebrate, but recognized my efforts and diligence."

As for students who will be starting high school in September, Sophie said, "Be curious. Be ambitious. Be passionate. Don't chase perfection, and don't waste your four years trying to be seen. Instead, you should be the one who tries to see. See the way a friend lights up when talking about her day. See the patterns in your teachers' lessons (they're often teaching more than you realize). See yourself fail, and work to address that failure."

Sophie added: "The best parts of high school won't be the GPA or the accolades or the amount of clubs you join. It'll be the half-finished conversations in hallways that made you think differently, the unplanned laughter that made your knees weak, and the teacher who saw something in you before you did. When the world tells you to be realistic, remind it that every major success story begins with someone who wasn't. So start now by leaning into the discomfort of growth. Find wonder. And never forget to be yourself because those who mind don't matter and those who matter don't mind."

JJHS valedictorian: 'Focus on what truly matters'

By Kristine Coulter

The Valedictorian for John Jay High School Class of 2025 is Charlotte Wang. Salutatorian for this year's class at John Jay High School is Emma Mazzotta.

Valedictorian Charlotte Wang

"I think Emma and I had known our ranks for years, and were pretty sure we'd stay there. When the two of us got called down from AP Bio (Advanced Placement Biology) class, we kind of gave each other that knowing look. Still, it was super exciting to hear that the rankings were finally locked in, and I was so glad that it was Emma there with me! The two of us have worked hard for years, and it was great to hear that we would be honored at graduation to represent our class," said Charlotte. "Honestly, when I first found out I was ranked first in the class in freshman or sophomore year, I was really stressed that I wouldn't be able to keep it until senior year. It made me care too much about my grades, in a way that I really wish I hadn't. However, I guess it made receiving the honor of being named valedictorian even more rewarding!"

Charlotte said via email she is attending Duke University in North Carolina. She will be majoring in Biomedical Engineering.

"I will miss many things about high school, as college is such a big change. Most of all, I will miss all the connections I've made. High school can be annoying, but it also gives a reason for me to see my friends multiple days a week. I've been very emotional about the thought of going from seeing people almost every day to only once every few months. It feels like I won't even know how to navigate my future without my best friend Emily, who I do almost everything with, by my side," said Charlotte. "Even though I know I will remain friends with many of my current friends for the rest of my life, we'll likely never be as close as we are now, and that is such a sad feeling. I'm definitely trying to make the most of my final days with them."

Is there some piece of advice Charlotte would offer to students who will be starting their high school days in Sept.?

"Make the most of your time here. At some points, it may feel like everything moves so slowly and high school will never end, but it is crazy to look back from senior year and feel like these four years went by so fast. At other times, it may feel like everything matters so much and things you do carry so much weight, but that's usually not the case. Don't care too much and don't waste your energy on things that don't matter. Focus on what truly matters: your happiness and health," replied Charlotte.

Salutatorian Emma Mazzotta

Emma said via email, "Being recognized as salutatorian of the JJHS class of 2025 is a tremendous honor. Maintaining a high class rank means being accustomed to busy schedules, overwhelming amounts of work, and most of all, a constant itch to do and experience more. Contrary to what most may think, hearing that I had officially earned the title of salutatorian didn't stop the incessant hustle and bustle of my life, it only heightened it. Yes, I was ecstatic at achieving one of the loftiest goals I had ever set for myself, but what of the next?"

What will Emma miss about high school?

Emma responded, "High school is every student's first taste of freedom that allows them to dive deeper into what they're passionate about and discover who they want to be. During my time at John Jay, I founded an Amnesty International chapter to advocate for human rights, conducted research to remediate water pollution, and enrolled in challenging science courses to further explore my academic interests. Above all, I will miss the incredible teachers who supported me in my efforts to make a meaningful impact on my community and embrace my interests wholeheartedly."

Emma has chosen to attend Williams College in Massachusetts. She will be majoring in chemistry and environmental studies.

What advice does Emma have for future high schoolers?

"The biggest piece of advice I would give to incoming John Jay students is to never be afraid to do things that people haven't done before. High school is the best place to experiment and give life to the seemingly inconsequential ideas floating around your head. As scary as it may seem, trying or creating something new has the potential to steer your life in an exciting direction and bring you into contact with people who will fundamentally change your way of thinking about the world. Never limit yourself to what's right in front of you - you never know what you might find," suggested Emma.

Zheng, Scavino top Orchard View class

By Kristine Coulter

The Orchard View High School administration has announced that Raymond Zheng and Ethan Scavino are at the top of this year's graduating class.

2025 Valedictorian Raymond Zheng

Raymond said, when asked about being told he was valedictorian, "Honestly, I was surprised. I knew I worked hard, but I didn't expect to be named valedictorian. It felt good to know the effort paid off, and I'm thankful for the people who supported me along the way, especially the teachers who never gave up on me."

As with any ending, there will be things that will be missed from that time in one's life.

"I'll miss the way of life. Having a set schedule every day where I didn't have to stress about figuring things out. I'll miss the staff that actually cared and the small moments with friends that made high school feel like home," remarked Raymond via email.

As for his future plans, Raymond explained, "After I finish basic combat training with the military, I'll be attending the University at Buffalo. I've enlisted in the New York Army National Guard with Sergeant Manfredy Rafael. I plan to major in mechanical engineering and business administration."

What advice would he offer to incoming high school students?

"Start thinking early about what you want to do after high school meaning your career, college, or military. Make smart financial choices and have a plan. High school goes by fast, so take it seriously, but enjoy the moments too," remarked Raymond.

2025 Salutatorian Ethan Scavino

"I was shocked and happy to hear that I was Salutatorian. I have been working so hard throughout high school and have overcome many obstacles, so I am proud to have earned this achievement," Ethan said in an email from Orchard View.

What will Ethan miss about high school?

"I will miss my peers and the relationships that I have made with teachers during my time at Orchard View. My favorite memory of high school is going on an all-school field trip to the New York Mets game and seeing Juan Soto's first home run in Citi Field alongside my friends and teachers," replied Ethan.

Ethan will be attending Siena College, in Loudonville, to major in business with a concentration in sports management.

"My dream is to one day work in the front office of an NFL team," remarked Ethan.

As for some piece of advice he would offer to students who will be starting their high school days in Sept.?

Ethan suggested, "Don't take the time for granted! Time goes so fast, and every moment counts and matters. Make sure you stay on top of your work so it doesn't pile up."

Democratic caucus urges action on EMS issues in County

Editor's note: The following is a letter to Dutchess County Executive Sue Serino from Democratic caucus members urging action on EMS issues in Dutchess County.

To County Executive Sue Serino:

We are writing as members of the Democratic Caucus of the Dutchess County Legislature to express both our appreciation and concern regarding the County's current approach to addressing our emergency medical services (EMS) system.

We recognize the administration's efforts in launching the supplemental EMS program and taking steps to address critical service gaps. However, we believe the current approach remains a temporary solution—and one that still falls short of delivering equitable results across the entire county. The recently released Q1 data shows that response times in many rural towns remain well above acceptable targets. This is not just a data point; it is a serious public safety issue affecting thousands of Dutchess County residents.

Dutchess County needs a more ambitious, long-term strategy—one that moves beyond stopgap measures and builds a comprehensive, countywide EMS infrastructure that meets the needs of every municipality, regardless of size or location. Other counties, including Ulster and Saratoga, are making significant progress toward regionalized EMS models, with dedicated funding and centralized oversight. Dutchess should be doing the same.

To that end, we respectfully urge your office to:

1. Accelerate development of a comprehensive, regionalized EMS plan, informed by legislators, municipal leaders, county officials, and EMS providers across the county. Identify the resources needed to implement this plan within Q4 2025 and ahead of FY26 budgeting.
2. Expand transparency and accountability in the supplemental program, including clear reporting on performance metrics and a commitment to equitable deployment of resources in underserved rural areas. Include County Legislators in the quarterly regional meetings that align to their districts.
3. Revamp the EMS public education campaign to meet its stated goals of reducing the volume of non-emergency calls to EMS and promoting EMS careers. The current public education campaign not only falls short of achieving its objectives, but could actually inflate non-emergency calls to 911. The taxpayer-funded billboards currently displayed throughout our county do nothing to address or reflect our EMS crisis, and instead simply promote EMS and the County Executive. Our goal is to save lives, not face.
4. Implement immediate adjustments to improve current EMS coverage—including shifting deployment patterns, enhancing dispatch coordination, and providing interim financial support to struggling local agencies. The time for further study has passed. We have sufficient data, successful models to look to, and a responsibility to act quickly to address the crisis. County Executive Serino, you like to regularly point out that EMS is not a mandated essential service by the state, but that's not an excuse for failing to fix our EMS crisis. Dutchess County should recognize EMS as an essential service. The County has a role to play beyond stopgap supplemental service, encouraging more mutual aid, and questionable public relations campaigns.

We remain ready to work in partnership with your office to ensure that every resident of Dutchess County—regardless of geography—can depend on timely, high-quality EMS care. We welcome the opportunity to meet and discuss how to move forward together on this critical issue.

Atonna for Poughkeepsie Common Council

To the Editor:

I'm writing to urge Democrats in Poughkeepsie Ward 8 to vote for Daniel Atonna for Common Council on June 24th. Daniel is an incredibly talented, dedicated, passionate advocate for everyday people who grew up in Ward 8 and has been integral in winning important victories for the people of Poughkeepsie. Working alongside him in Mid-Hudson Valley DSA (Democratic Socialists of America), I've seen Daniel show up for his community in ways that no other candidate in this race has.

In addition to attending and speaking at nearly every council meeting for the past few years, Daniel's organizing was instrumental in securing millions of dollars from the state for lead pipe replacement, restricting unposted "vacation" rentals to preserve our housing stock for residents, and passing Good Cause Eviction tenant protections to keep families in their homes. Daniel also traveled to Albany to help pass the Build Public Renewables Act and an increase to the state's minimum wage, because he knows that the problems facing Poughkeepsie residents require bold solutions.

He got into community organizing because he believes that politics can change people's lives for the better, but only if we have real working class champions in office. That's why he has worked hard to elect other advocates to deliver for our communities, and why we must work now to elect him. Daniel is a true movement candidate who is not running for Common Council out of political ambition, but because he cares deeply for his neighbors.

There's no one better for Poughkeepsie than Daniel Atonna.

Matthew Carroll
Poughkeepsie

Deichler 'proud to endorse' Atonna for Poughkeepsie council

To the Editor:

As the former Poughkeepsie Ward 8 Councilmember, I understand the challenges the city is facing and what it takes to meet them. That's why I'm proud to endorse Daniel Atonna for Common Council in Ward 8.

Daniel is a tireless advocate for working class people in Poughkeepsie. He grew up in Ward 8 and understands the community's needs. He's spent years organizing alongside residents—fighting for and winning Good Cause Eviction tenant protections, a lead water pipe replacement plan, and a cap on unhosted "vacation" rentals. He listens, learns, and acts with persistence and purpose. He has experience working with state and local elected officials and knows how to move forward bold policies that make life better for his neighbors.

Daniel also understands that there's more to the job than just going to Council meetings and passing laws. He attends community and labor events all across the city. He helped lead chants at the huge anti-Trump, anti-fascist march on the Walkway. He rallied with federal workers to save our Poughkeepsie Social Security office and Post Office. He shows up. That's why he's been endorsed by For the Many, Mid-Hudson Valley DSA (Democratic Socialists of America), NY WFP (Working Families Party), CWA (Communication Workers of America) 1120, and the Dutchess County Central Labor Council.

Ward 8 deserves a Councilmember who not only shares our values, but who's already been doing the work. Daniel has proven he'll be ready to lead on day one.

I encourage Ward 8 Democrats to vote for Daniel Atonna on June 24. He'll always put Poughkeepsie over profit.

Megan Deichler
Former City of Poughkeepsie 8th Ward Council Member

In need of a third party

To the Editor:

As a citizen of the United States, I believe we are at a key point in our nation's history. We are at a time when the Republicans and the Democrats are so far apart from each other that they will not come together. They both focus on what is best for their party rather than what is best for the country. I believe that America has never been more ready and in need of a third party. I am sure that many other Americans feel the same.

Maybe there are plans already in place to begin to bring a third party to the ballot. If this is the case, the momentum needs to start building now. I would be ready to provide financial support for this movement. My personal belief would be a Presidential ticket with Nikki Haley and/or Liz Cheney as running mates.

Please continue to stand for the values our nation was built on -- myself and many Americans are behind you.

Correction

In our article of June 11, on the Naturalization Ceremony at the Dutchess County Fairgrounds, the following quote was attributed to Honorable Judge Tracy MacKenzie. The statement was actually from Dutchess County Clerk Brad Kendall.

"I can safely say that today is a day that you will remember for the rest of your lives. Not because of what is said here by the distinguished speakers but by what you say when you take the Oath of Allegiance."

"Politicians will come and go. Stocks will rise and fall and rise again. As surely as day follows night, fall will follow summer to be followed by winter and spring again. But the decisions that have brought you to this moment will change your lives ... the lives of your daughters and sons and grandsons and granddaughters forever."

"In 1787, the Congress of the United States adopted a new Constitution. This new Constitution, in Article 1, enumerated the powers of the Congress. The fourth clause of Article one grants to Congress the power 'To establish a uniform Rule of Naturalization.' 'That the power of naturalization is enumerated ahead of the power to coin money, to declare war and to raise an Army and a Navy is proof that the founders knew what we know: that only by providing a means for this nation to welcome new citizens with their talents and abilities could this nation grow and prosper.'

"For 296 years, the oath of allegiance has been administered in Dutchess County. Today it is my pleasure to continue that long practice."

Connecting the dots across collections

Among the things we can learn about G.W. Beckwith from his portrait by the renowned itinerant local artist Ami Phillips, is that he was fond of his dog. Phillips would often have a child hold his own dog for effect, but this seems to be the only portrait that includes the portrait subject's dog. While we can learn a lot by looking at the portrait, the real "decoding" comes through locating, reading and interpreting sometimes dozens of written documents and ledgers.

-Beckwith Collection, DCHS Collections and Archives.

By Aidan Chisamore

Although digital collections are ever increasing public access to historical material for researchers and history enthusiasts alike, it can be all too easy to forget that each item constitutes only a small part of a larger collection. These collections, held at archival institutions across the county, often represent interrelated material that, when viewed as a whole, grants us a deeper understanding of their subjects.

At the Dutchess County Historical Society, our collections are largely organized by donor, and thus, relate to a particular family, area, or interest. While thematically distinct, they all serve as the basis for conducting historical research. At DCHS, we are guided by a commitment to the ethical and responsible archival stewardship of tangible objects. This objective motivates us, as it does many other institutions, to maintain the "context" of items within a collection. More simply put, this means preserving both how items arrived and ensuring all collections are kept intact. It is only through this careful stewardship that we as historians can begin to interpret and present history.

Sometimes the singular dimension in a collection is the collector who gathers historically significant material related to personal interests. This is true, for example, for our Mangold Collection. Harold Mangold and his father did not focus so much on their family as they did local history. So the collection of rare photos, documents, and ephemera reflect their two generations of collecting interest (and in this case, great skill!). It has been important for us to leave scrapbooks, and displays they created just as they created them – we are in fact preserving more than just the objects, we are preserving how they viewed what was of interest in local history.

One such display is the Mangold collection pin boards (fig. 1). Initially, this subcollection, comprising nearly 150 pin-back buttons, might appear random. On closer inspection, however, the related subject of the buttons reveals intentionality on the part of the collector. Specifically, the subcollection emphasizes the material history of popular civic movements in the first few decades of the 20th century. Viewed together, historically significant narratives such as the battle for public health and childhood education begin to emerge.

Other examples of collections can be organized around a single family or place, the result of generations of accumulated material. Our single biggest family collection is the Hart Hubbard Collection which tells the story of the family that continues to live in the farm house their ancestors built in 1838 in LaGrange. Unlike the Mangold Collection, it is not the arrangement of a specific subcollections that gives the Hubbard Collection contextual significance. Instead, its great value comes from its continuity and breadth. Through this the collection can tell many stories: the transformation of a self-sufficient farm into a successful international apple business by the turn of the last century. The multi-generational household produced accomplished artists like Caroline Clowes in the 19th century, and Edith Hubbard in the 20th century.

Collections can also tread the line between familial and antiquarian. The Beckwith collection provides one such example. Recently secured at auction, this

NYS Police: Alleged trespasser at former Downstate facility to take pictures, calls for assistance after getting trapped in a cell

New York State Police from the Wappinger barracks responded to a report of a trespass at the former Downstate Correctional Facility, at 121 Red Schoolhouse Road in the Town of Fishkill at approximately 12:04 a.m. on June 14.

Upon arrival, Troopers discovered the caller, identified by state police as Cody M. Mallon, 19, of Argyle, Washington County, locked inside one of the facility's cells. State police stated in a release that the investigation revealed that Mallon

"had unlawfully entered the unused facility by crawling through a hole in the perimeter fence. He reportedly entered the premises to take photographs and became trapped in a cell."

Troopers, along with Glenham Fire Department, assisted Mallon out of the cell and subsequently placed him under arrest. According to law enforcement, he was charged with third-degree criminal trespass, a Class B misdemeanor. Mallon was issued an appearance ticket returnable to the Town of Fishkill Court at a later date.

acquisition includes a dozen ledger and account books; a box of Dutchess County ephemera, photographs, and legal documents; and a large portrait of George Washington Beckwith (1848-1881) by Ammi Phillips (1788-1865) (fig. 2). While the contents largely relate to the Beckwith Family during the 19th century, the collection also shows how later generations collected items of personal interest. This allows us both to access a deeper historical understanding of a subject like in the Hubbard Collection, and to understand the intent of the collector as in the Mangold Collection.

Items directly related to the Beckwiths construct an intimate view of the family and their farm over several generations. Most prominently, the portrait depicting George Washington Beckwith serves as an important visual record, literally giving a face to the collection. If our engagement stopped there, however, we would miss the other side of the rich history revealed in the rest of the collection. Ledger and account books, for example, speak to important aspects of daily life on the farm, detailing the produce grown and its value, conditions of harvest, practical remedies for livestock, relationships between family members and friends, and the expenses needed to keep the farm running. Additional material in the collection, not directly connected to the family, reveals an interest in civic engagement and agriculture by later generations that expands on the familial material further bringing its subjects to life. The Beckwith collection is an important example of how a wide range of sources and source types are used in conversation to deepen our understanding of local history and the residents of the county. Had any of the collection not been kept together, the narrative is lessened, and the information it contained, lost.

Through maintaining the context of a collection, whether personally or at an institution like DCHS, we seek to preserve the history of its subjects. It is for this reason that holdings such as the Beckwith, Hubbard, and Mangold Collections are so invaluable. While individual items might have historical significance, collections demonstrate the age-old adage that "the whole is greater than the sum of its parts." Through preserving collections together in context we begin to scratch the surface of understanding the people, families, and localities in a way that would be impossible through individual items.

RENEGADES ROUNDUP

Three one-run wins send Renegades past Greenville

By Morgan E. Maier

In the Renegades' only homestand of the month, Hudson Valley proved victorious over southern rivals in the Greenville Drive. As the parent clubs in Boston and New York battled at Fenway, the Renegades split a series, with five games decided by two runs or fewer. There was little power hitting, but masterful pitching prevailed. Over the weekend, the Renegades took the field as the Cider Donuts and the new-look Retrievers, but through classic bullpen performances, Hudson Valley triumphed over its southern league rivals.

Strikes and swipes

In a bullpen-only affair on June 12, five Renegades pitchers combined for 12 strikeouts. Geoff Gilbert was a highlight, fanning 5 batters over 2.2 innings. Tyrone Yulie, starter Hayden Merda, and Matt Keating had two punchouts each, and Bryce Warrecker added one in the 3-2 Renegades loss. With two outs in the second and third innings, Josh Moylan (4) and Jackson Castillo (11) swiped second base as the Renegades clung to an early 1-0 lead. Both of their scoring efforts were in vain, but each trotted back to the dugout with another stolen base under the belt. Props to manager-slash-first base coach James Cooper for promoting aggressive baserunning on a nightly basis and getting his guys in scoring position. After this week, the team is on the cusp of 100 stolen bags on the year.

Starting strong

To go along with a couple of fantastic bullpen outings, Renegades starters combined for just three earned runs in six games. Josh Grosz allowed one earned run over 6.1 innings, striking out six in a 6-4 Greenville win on June 11. Kyle Carr allowed two over two starts, going 1-1 with nine strikeouts. Overall, the Renegades scored 14 runs but allowed 18 in the series split.

One-run fun

The Renegades were victorious by a lone run in three games this series. Winning 1-0 on a bullpen beauty in the June 13 contest, Hudson Valley hung on to a 2-2 series split approaching the final two games. But in the series opener, Hudson Valley held on to a 3-2 lead to secure Kyle Carr's first win of the season! Longevity is his game of late, as Carr has revved into 6+ innings in three of his last four starts. In conssecutive games, the Renegades won 1-0, with a sacrifice fly by Tomas Frick ultimately proving to be the game winner on June 13. The following night, Jose Colmenares' patience won the game for Hudson Valley in the first inning. Eight innings of shutout baseball followed Colmenares' bases-loaded walk to give Hudson Valley its third one-run decision of the week.

The Renegades (37-25) will be on the road for the rest of the month, making stops in Jersey Shore and Wilmington to close out the week. Eight games ahead of the Blue Rocks for third place in the South Atlantic League (SAL), the Renegades trail the co-leading Brooklyn Cyclones and Greensboro Grasshoppers. Once again, the Renegades hold third place in the North division and the top run differential in the SAL.

Minor leaguers recall performances in College World Series, playoffs

Renegades pitcher Josh Grosz has an interesting story about getting ejected from a playoff game in his college days.

By Morgan E. Maier

As the College Baseball World Series gets underway in Omaha, surely some of the Hudson Valley Renegades are taking trips down memory lane. The 2025 Renegades have competed at various collegiate baseball levels, from junior college through Division I.

Even pitching coach Demetre Kokoris was instrumental in Texas Rangers' practices en route to their 2023 World Series win. Though the current 30-man roster features just one national champion, plenty Renegades have notable postseason clips.

Greenville, SC native Tomas Frick faced his boyhood team in the Hudson Valley this week, but he first starred north of his native border in 2023 at the University of North Carolina. To clinch the Heels' automatic bid to the NCAA tournament, Frick hit a monstrous .571 and led the tournament in runs batted in. Oh, and he hit two home runs, earning him a fast track to the All-Tournament team.

Though they didn't rep the Carolina Blue together, Frick and Parks Harber were a part of back-to-back Tar Heel dream teams. In a possible foreboding, Harber went 3-6 in the first game of the 2022 Chapel Hill Regional, hitting a triple, a home run, and four RBI against Hofstra as a member of the Georgia Bulldogs. Two years later, Harber and the Tar Heels headed to Omaha for the team's first College World Series appearance since 2018.

The Renegades Roc Riggio couldn't stop in Stillwater. Oklahoma State University hosted the 2022 regional, and Riggio dazzled in his NCAA tournament debut. A freshman back then, Riggio hit .555, mashing four home runs and notching 17 RBIs in five games at the Cowboys' home regional.

With East Carolina University vying for an automatic tournament bid, Josh Grosz' teammate Jacob Starling hit a massive home run during the conference tournament to cut the University of South Florida's lead to one. Grosz, ever-conscious of the "hangry" teammate, figured such a clutch knock would call up an appetite. He handed Starling a hot dog as he returned to the dugout, to the horror of the American Athletic Conference (AAC). No matter how well intentioned such a gesture could be, it was considered a celebration prop, a no-no even amongst the most growling stomachs. Grosz was promptly ejected from the game, and banned from his following start in the AAC tournament.

NCAA Division I champion Griffin Herring has impressed Hudson Valley fans since his June 1 debut. Southerners repping the "Geaux Tigers" mantra picked their jaws off the concourse years ago. In a performance that arguably rivaled that of eventual first overall pick Paul Skenes, Herring held a must-win game for LSU in the 2023 edition of the College World Series, striking out the biggest of Wake Forest's hitting threats. The Tiger win brought Skenes to the mound the following day, clinching the College World Series title. It marked Herring's second title in as many years, as the Texas native won the 2022 Class 6A state championship at Southlake Carroll High School.

Duncan Pastore and the 40-win Louisiana-Lafayette squad were all the rage in the 2024 College Station Regional. In the regular season, Pastore's first and only as a Ragin' Cajun, the graduate transfer finished with the second highest batting average on the team (.321) which was ranked 22nd in the nation. In Game 1 of the Regional round, Pastore finished 3-3 with a RBI single in a 10-2 rout of Texas to stave off elimination. He notched another RBI in the following game, but the hosting Aggies of Texas A&M mellowed the Cajuns' hopes of reaching the Super Regional.

Renegades' community initiatives put focus on health and wellness

By Morgan E. Maier

The Hudson Valley Renegades have announced the team's latest initiative to create a lasting impact on wellness in the community. As part of the Hudson Valley Renegades Community Program, the team will be donating gently-used weight training equipment from the New York Yankees to a deserving school or youth center in the Hudson Valley.

Executive board members of schools and youth organizations are encouraged to apply for this donation through the month of June. Applicants will be evaluated based on need, projected use, and overall fit for the equipment. The 2025 Hudson Valley Renegades Equipment Donation application can be found on the Hudson Valley Renegades website. All documents must be postmarked by June 30th to be considered. After review and recipient selection in July, the donation will be made in August.

The WMC Club Lounge in left field has facilities fitted with new equipment for both the Renegades and visiting teams, and no use for the Yankees' weight training equipment. Through the donation program, the gently used equipment may positively impact the health of youth in local organizations, rather than collecting dust at Heritage Financial Park. The commitment to friends, fans, and families in the Renegades' community doesn't end at the final out. It stays a priority long after Renegades' personnel clock out for the night. Schools and youth organizations across the Hudson Valley are eligible for the weight equipment donation, from Ulster to Sullivan to Dutchess counties - and in between!

Jessica Levinson, manager of community relations and ticket operations, said community initiatives like this are only half the fun of an organization like Hudson Valley. "To have something that's specifically focused on the health and wellness of the local youth, I think that's what makes this initiative stick out."

This campaign is just the most recent sports-centered program announced for the summer. On June 17, the Renegades participated in the Field Betterment initiative, renovating a field for Pine Bush Little League in Crawford, the first recipient of the grant based in Orange County. The weight donation project follows a similar structure to the Field Betterment program, according to Levinson.

The Renegades' involvement in the community is built around genuine connection and communication. The team is dedicated to enhancing the well-being of youth in the Hudson Valley region, and it begins with physical fitness and wellness. Above all, physical and mental well-being at the forefront of all Renegades' youth initiatives.

Inspiring all kids to succeed, both on and off the field, is key to raising a healthy community.

Summer Nights & Smooth Jazz: Bernie Williams returns to Millbrook Vineyards & Winery for 4th Annual Summer Jazz Concert

Celebrating music, wine and the Dutchess County community, Millbrook Vineyards & Winery (Millbrook Winery) will host former New York Yankee centerfielder and jazz musician, Bernie Williams and his Band of Friends, for its fourth annual summer jazz concert overlooking the vineyard on Saturday, June 28 at 6 p.m. with the lawn and food trucks opening at 4 p.m.

As part of a shared commitment to music education and supporting future musicians, Williams and Millbrook Winery will donate $10 from every concert ticket sold, as well as a portion of wine sales that evening, to the music programs at Dutchess Community College (DCC). DCC's music program offerings are as diverse as they are dynamic, providing a strong academic foundation for students preparing to transfer into four-year programs in performance, education, studio production, music therapy, business, and more. With instruction spanning styles from classical to jazz, the College prepares aspiring musicians, educators, and industry professionals for success. Beyond the classroom, DCC fosters a vibrant musical community through ensemble opportunities, private lessons, and non-credit classes open to learners of all ages and backgrounds. By making high-quality instruction accessible to both degree-seeking students and passionate community members, DCC reflects Williams' lifelong advocacy for the arts and the winery's affinity to supporting its local community.

"Returning to Millbrook Winery and being a part of something that blends music, wine and community is always one of the highlights of my summer," said Williams, on the partnership. "Sharing the stage with the next generation of musicians and supporting music education makes it all the more meaningful to me."

"The Performing Arts program is thrilled for the chance to have members of the DCC Jazz Ensemble open for the Bernie Williams annual concert at Millbrook Winery on June 28," said John Howell, assistant professor of music and supervisor of the performing and fine arts music program. "The Jazz Ensemble consists of a wide range of musicians: DCC students and alumni, students from local Dutchess County high schools, and musicians from the community at large, and they welcome new members every semester. We are grateful to both Millbrook Winery and Bernie Williams for giving our students an opportunity to perform."

Coupled with the concert and philanthropic partner, the 2022 vintage of "Bernie's Blend," a red wine blend of Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot and Cabernet Franc, aged to perfection, along with a newly created 2023 Chardonnay and the 2021 Pinot Noir varietals blended by Williams himself and Millbrook's Head Winemaker, Ian Bearup, will debut at the evening of the concert. tradition, the wine blends will be adorned by a custom label created by Williams' daughter, Beatriz Williams, a Brooklyn-New York-based artist. The label artwork features a symbolic guitar held by two sets of hands — one older, one younger — representing the passing of musical knowledge from one generation to the next. This visual pays tribute to Williams' own journey, inspired by his father, who first taught him to play guitar.

"Working with Bernie on each year's wine blend is a true reflection of the passion and artistry that winemaking and music share," said Bearup. "Each vintage of 'Bernie's Blend' is crafted with care and it's an honor to see our work come together each year, especially as we celebrate our 40 year anniversary this year."

Since retiring from the New York Yankees in 2006, Williams embarked on a successful second act as a jazz musician, earning a Bachelor of Music in jazz performance from the Manhattan School of Music. In 2021, a visit to Millbrook Winery sparked an unexpected connection. Captivated by the vineyards and the winemaking process, Williams struck up a conversation with David Bova, the winery's vice president and general manager. Their shared appreciation for baseball, music and the artistry behind winemaking led to a unique and fruitful partnership. Each year since, Williams has collaborated closely with the winery, taste-testing barrels and carefully crafting each vintage with precision and creativity.

The 2025 concert will kick off at 6 p.m., featuring a special opening act by DCC Music Program students, who will join Williams and his Band of Friends during the second act. Led by director and saxophonist Joe North, the DCC ensemble includes standout performers, including DCC alum Ben Basile (upright bass) and current students Jevvaughn Brown (keyboard), Teo Fairbanks (drums), Pedro Velez de Assis (bass), and Brianna Vivace (vocals). Tickets are on sale now on the Millbrook Winery website and offered in three tiers – VIP Deck or VIP Lawn ($250 each), which includes a meet and greet with Williams and an open wine bar, and General Admission ($70 each) where guests are welcome to bring their own lawn chairs. "Bernie's Blend" red blend, Pinor Noir and Chardonnay will all be for sale the evening of the performance.

The Bernie Williams concert is one of many in Millbrook Winery's summer jazz concert series, happening every Saturday evening, beginning June 21. A full concert schedule can be found on their website.

Suzanne DeCosta, who will be the new president of the East Fishkill Rotary Club, said this park was "a collaboration with the Town and with the Rotary members that helped us with this (park)."

DeCosta said that unity is "not only desired but is necessary."

Pastor Taylor Holbrook, lead pastor of Hopewell Reformed Church, offered a prayer.

Flag Committee Chairperson Pat Manning thanked those who donated and offered support for this project. He thanked town board members, Assistant to the Supervisor Gina Grippo and Highway Superintendent Ken Williams and his crew for their efforts.

Manning said the flagpole goes 8 feet in the ground and is 80 feet above the ground.

There is a sign at Unity Park with the names of businesses and community members who contributed and donated to the project.

"May this new flag fly over East Fishkill forever," said Jim Reynolds, commander of the American Legion Post in East Fishkill.

D'Alessandro said he hopes "the flagpole is still here" and that "they'll see what we were doing [by] the few mementos" when the time capsule is open decades from now.

JUNE IS DAIRY MONTH

NY grant helps Uplands Farm to upgrade dairy production

By Jim Donick

Stephen Van Tassell, a charming and articulate representative of his field, is a local leader of the area dairy community with an encyclopedic understanding of his vocation, a commitment to the community, and a genuine passion for his work. He is a fourth-generation dairy farmer carrying on a timeless tradition of family farming at Uplands Farm in Verbank.

Van Tassell has spent his life growing and improving his farm. It's never easy, but now the State of New York has provided some additional support for him and for the state's dairy industry.

On June 2, Gov. Kathy Hochul announced nearly $21.6 million has been awarded to 103 farms across the state through the Dairy Modernization Grant Program to support New York's dairy industry. The funding, first announced in the Governor's 2024 State of the State address, will help New York's dairy farmers and dairy cooperatives invest in new equipment, expand storage capacity, and strengthen their operations, particularly as they face extreme weather events, providing a critical boost to New York's dairy industry.

The announcement comes as the State officially kicked off the celebration of Dairy Month this June.

"New York's dairy industry is the backbone of our agricultural economy, supporting thousands of jobs across our rural communities," Hochul said. "With this $26 million investment through the Dairy Modernization Grant Program, we're giving hardworking dairy farmers and cooperatives the tools they need to grow, innovate and lead in a changing market. This is how we honor our agricultural legacy - by making sure it has a strong and sustainable future."

As a part of this program, Van Tassell receives a grant of just over $140,000 that will assist the operation and provide for a major expansion of his storage capacity.

Operating a modern dairy farm today is a very complex process. Several generations ago, Van Tassell's father and grandfather milked their herd, all 30 of them, by hand into buckets. The first milking barn they used is still standing at the bottom of the hill that houses much of the farm. On top of the hill is the current milking barn, built in 2000 and 2001, where more than 130 cows are milked, and where their food and water are carefully monitored to maximize their health and their production. The cows are no longer milked by hand, of course, but by the latest equipment and most modern technology. The difference in the architecture of the two barns is striking; but the differences in how the herd is managed and milked is breath-taking.

Cleanliness is critical

Sanitary facilities are the primary concern in the Uplands Farm operation. The machines are sanitized as are the cows themselves. The modern milking machines are busy much of the day. Once the milk is harvested, it needs to be cooled, just like it does in a family refrigerator. The milk is piped immediately to a holding tank and cooled along the way by what is called a cooling plate. As the herd has expanded, the need for a larger tank and a cooling plate with higher capacity has grown. Over the years, Van Tassell has had a number of tanks installed, each one larger than its predecessor and each a bit more expensive. Initially he used a 500-gallon tank. He moved then to a 1,000-gallon tank, then on to the current tank with a capacity of 2,000 gallons. That last tank cost just over $3,000. Prices have risen greatly since then, and the new 3,000-gallon tank and cooling plate that is coming will cost roughly $140,000.

Van Tassell's grant from the New York State Dairy Modernization Grant Program will allow this expansion to happen.

"New York State is very supportive of our industry," he notes. "This grant allows an expansion that we otherwise might not have afforded. Milk prices have been fairly flat but costs have not been."

Value of modern science in dairy farming

The value of scientific methods of herd management are easily illustrated. Today, one of Van Tassell's cows will produce, on average, 10 gallons of high-quality milk per day. That's nearly twice what the production was just 20 years ago.

The cows' health is monitored daily. Food is carefully mixed to specific formulae depending on the current needs identified in monitoring the cows. There are four basic components. On any given day they include protein, soy oil, silage and chopped corn. Each cow is monitored for exactly how much food they consume and exactly how much milk is produced.

These management techniques, along with extensive focus on cleanliness, also help maintain the herd in exceptional health and exceptional productivity.

Staff

An operation like Uplands Farm doesn't run itself, but requires a team. Van Tassell employs a staff of full-time and part-time individuals. He takes satisfaction in encouraging his staff in their development. He speaks with pride of how one of his people, Amanda Bergin, has left the farm to take on the role of Dutchess County Ag Navigator. On April 10 at the annual Ag Breakfast announced the new appointment. The Agricultural Navigator serves as the primary point of contact for agricultural inquiries within Dutchess County government and collaborates closely with the agricultural community to develop solutions to needs and concerns. In that role, Bergin will have a great influence on agriculture throughout the county.

Bergin brings to that county-wide job a great combination of education, including two degrees from SUNY Cobleskill, and practical farming experience as a Dairy Herd Manager for the past nearly eight years. She is a perfect example of the Van Tassell commitment to sharing his knowledge and passion with the entire community and with the wide influence his operation maintains.

Van Tassell is a leader in the industry worldwide. He bred a cow some years ago that was exceptional in all aspects.

"Cows aren't bred to be smart, though," he notes with a smile, "but this one, aside from everything else about her, was a lot smarter than most." Her name was Erin and her DNA is in every cow in Van Tassell's herd. Her DNA is now even present in some herds in Germany. The working life of a dairy cow these days is about five years. Erin may have been retired from work, but she lived to be 23 years old.

"She was a great cow," he muses.

As further evidence of Van Tassell's commitment to his industry and to the community, he is chairman of the Dutchess County Dairy Committee. The not-for-profit committee operates a popular milkshake booth at the Dutchess County Fair, located among the 4-H buildings. These milkshakes, made with Hudson Valley Fresh milk and ice cream, are a country fair tradition. The proceeds of the effort benefit the committee's scholarship program for local students studying agriculture and biology. This is simply another means of showcasing the Dairy Industry in the county and helping ensure that the needed skills to continue will be passed to coming generations.

New 4-H team leads Dutchess County youth

Cornell Cooperative Extension Dutchess County (CCEDC) now sports a new 4-H team to develop and deliver quality youth development programming. Dutchess County currently provides to almost 400 youth enrolled in the 4-H program; providing essential tools, training, and life skills to further the national 4-H motto, "To Make the Best Better."

Heading up the new team is Carolyn McGraw. Carolyn is the 4-H Youth Leadership & Workforce Development Program Leader for Dutchess County and brings over a decade of diverse 4-H experience as a member and as a professional to the table. When asked what she is looking forward to in Dutchess County, Carolyn quoted, "...connecting with our 4-H families and community partners to strengthen and expand our Dutchess County 4-H program."

Following Carolyn is Jim Barey, 4-H Program Manager. Jim quoted himself as a "returning transplant" to New York 4-H, as he previously lived and traveled throughout New England and Eastern New York, networking agriculture industry professionals and youth in 4-H and FFA. Jim brings a wealth of knowledge and experience from several different state 4-H associations, most notably Maryland and Delaware. Jim will join the rest of the Dutchess County Extension team full-time in July.

Rounding out this team of professionals is Brooke Tibbetts, a Dutchess County 4-H alum. Brooke gained her start in 4-H as a member of the Got Goat Milk 4-H Club when she was 8 years old. Brooke will provide an insider perspective for the Dutchess County 4-H Team and is looking forward to working with the amazing 4-H youth and volunteers for her home county. Brooke will fulfill the role of Dutchess County 4-H Program Coordinator.

Dutchess County 4-H is a collection of programs that provide youth, ages 5-19, with the mentoring and support to grow and thrive regardless of their background, interests and abilities.

Positive Youth Development strategies, such as engaging young people in topics that interest them, empowering them to make their own decisions, and providing challenging opportunities, result in youth who have: Confidence, Competence, Caring, Character, and Connection.

These Life and Leadership Skills are the foundations which enable 4-H youth to: succeed as individuals, support their families, strengthen their communities, and make a difference to our world.

people across the US with the skills to lead for a lifetime. Learning through 4-H is fun and effective; children learn life and technical skills through hands-on learning in topics of their choice. The Dutchess County 4-H Club Program has evolved from its rural agricultural roots. While we are proud of our strong agricultural programs, we are excited to provide other outlets for youth to explore and grow in, such as arts, crafts and technology. Embracing differences and welcoming diversity, 4-H offers a place for all Dutchess County youth to grow and thrive.

DC Comptroller: $3 million shortfall in 2024 sales tax revenues

The Dutchess County Comptroller's Office has completed its review of the County's 2024 sales tax revenues. Sales tax, which comprises 42% of the total income received by Dutchess County, is the largest and most vital revenue source. Sales tax collections in Dutchess County totaled $263.7 million in 2024, up 4% from 2023, but 1.1% or $3 million lower than what was budgeted for the year.

The 2024 budget assumed an increase in sales tax revenue after, in 2023, the Dutchess County Legislature passed a sales tax rate increase from 3.75% to 4%. The County's requested sales tax rate also needed to be voted on in Albany.

"The County's request for the tax rate increase was not supported by the State Legislature, resulting in a tax revenue shortfall in 2024," said the Comptroller. "Had it been approved, this increase would have raised an additional $9.9 million."

To balance the budget following the lower-than-expected sales tax revenues, the $3 million shortfall would have to be covered by other sources, such as property taxes or state and federal grants. In 2024, American Rescue Plan (ARP) funds and increased state revenue contributed to the County ending the year in a net positive position.

The Office of the Comptroller is tracking sales tax disbursements monthly in 2025, which has been projected to increase by 1.6%, to $268 million, according to the 2025 adopted budget.

As part of an ongoing effort to increase how much information the Office of the Comptroller shares and to make that information more accessible, the annual Sales Tax Report has been expanded.

"Recognizing the importance of sales tax revenues to maintaining the County's economic health, our Office has made what we believe are some helpful and important additions to the annual Sales Tax Update Report," said Comptroller Aymar-Blair, "including a description of how sales tax is collected and distributed, insight into the industries with the most taxable sales and purchases, and more."

Edible postcard

A meal enjoyed on a past vacation, re-created

It's the time of year that, even if I'm not going anywhere, I want to eat like I'm on vacation. For me that usually means smaller portions (think tapas), appetizers as a meal and lots of fresh flavor, nicely presented. I certainly don't eat that way all summer long, but when I can it's a treat. Some of my favorite recipes came about as a result of dishes I experienced while on vacation, and it's always fun to try to re-create them once I'm back home. That way I can relive the memory and be transported back to when and where I first had it, which is, for me at least, much better than a photograph posted on social media and more like an edible postcard.

I think most of us eat a little differently when on vacation. We tend to treat ourselves, give in to decadence and sample unique regional specialties, all of which is lovely and certainly a fun part of the travel experience. And while it's nice to keep great meals as fond memories, it also wonderful to be able to revisit those experiences when you're back home. I have a few such recipes that I've collected over the years that are fun to pull out when I need a little mini vacation or just want a treat.

Lately I've been craving just such a treat, so I looked through my recipes and found one I hadn't made in years. On a summer trip to Nantucket many, many years ago I went to a quaint restaurant. I wish I remembered the name of it, and I often wonder if it's still there. The salt air had given me quite an appetite, and a look at the menu was a bit overwhelming because everything looked appealing. Not able to decide on an entrée, I ordered an appetizer to savor while I made a decision. Turns out it was so good I didn't order anything else and knew I had to make my own version, which I did. I hadn't thought about it for years but when I came across it, it served as dinner and was just as good as I remembered; so I wanted to share it with you.

It's the kind of dish I love – easy to put together with fresh ingredients, rustic and elegant and filling enough to be a meal. It combines flavors and textures that work beautifully together, the result seeming decadent and special. It's a take on bruschetta with toppings served over toasted bread; and when I tasted it again after so many years it took me right back to that lovely restaurant in Nantucket.

'BELLA BRUSCHETTA'

This can be an appetizer or a meal in itself. It's rich and earthy with a peppery nuance offset by the tangy creaminess of the feta without being too heavy. You can substitute cremini or button mushrooms for the Portabellas, or use some of the more exotic varieties available now. Served in shallow bowls with toasted bread, it's perfect for enjoying al fresco with a glass of wine.

INGREDIENTS

- Olive oil
- 2 medium shallots (or 1/2 an onion), finely chopped
- 2-3 cloves garlic, chopped
- 4 Portabella mushrooms (or 1lb other mushrooms), stems removed, sliced
- 6 large basil leaves, chopped or chiffonade
- 2 tablespoons fresh parsley or oregano, chopped
- Salt and freshly ground pepper, to taste
- Red wine to deglaze pan
- 3 medium (preferably heirloom) tomatoes, diced (or 1 small can diced tomatoes, juice and all)
- 1-2 bunches arugula, well cleaned (or 3 cups baby arugula)
- ~6 oz feta cheese, crumbled
- Baguette

METHOD

In a large skillet, sauté shallots and garlic in olive oil until just translucent. Add mushrooms, basil, parsley, salt and pepper. Cook over medium heat until mushrooms soften. Add a little wine and stir to deglaze the pan, scraping up any browned bits.

Stir in tomatoes. Add arugula and cook until it wilts. Add feta and stir through.

Cut baguette into 6-8-inch pieces. Slice each piece in half lengthwise, brush with olive oil and broil just until toasty and golden brown, 2-3 minutes (watch closely so it doesn't burn).

Place toasted bread in serving bowls and generously spoon mushroom mixture on top. Sprinkle with more fresh, chopped herbs and serve immediately.

Serves 2-4.

The food we eat, whether on vacation

'Bella Bruschetta's name derives from the star ingredient: Portabella mushrooms.'

or at home, should fill us with joy. It should be an experience that goes beyond mere sustenance, each bite savored to its fullest. Perfect dishes that combine fresh flavors can make memories that last a lifetime and, when we're lucky, can even transport us to another place and time. Here's to many more such memories!

Enjoy!

Vicki Frank Day's background includes over two decades in various aspects of the food service industry. get growing!

by mark adams

The Big Garden

It's time to do some serious planting.

It would not stop raining. This weather reminds me of the time Sue and I were hiking in "La Mosquitia" in Honduras, and I started complaining that I was getting wet.

"We're in a rainforest!" Sue shouted through the steady downpour, mixed with tears.

Last Tuesday (June 10) the rain finally let up enough so we could plant the "big garden." That's a 70 X 30-foot garden of annual flowers that we start fresh every year. The garden, filled with almost a thousand individual transplants, serves as a nursery for the new varieties Sue is trialing, and as a collection of cut flowers to compete in the Dutchess County Fair (Becky won a thousand dollars the year before they changed the rules, reducing the number of ribbons given out). Plus, we get gorgeous cut flowers to make arrangements for our tables all summer long.

And the garden is alive with pollinators. Monarch butterflies especially love the zinnias, to fill up before they head south for the winter. (We have an adjacent wildflower meadow with lots of milkweed for Monarch caterpillars). And, of course, it just looks beautiful.

Here's how we do it:

• Select the flowers – Sue chooses about 40 varieties of annual flowers to grow from seed or from unrooted cuttings sent to her from breeders like Ball, Proven Winners, Benary or Syngenta. We sow the seed in cell packs in late April to grow in the greenhouse. Zinnias are a staple, because they're deer proof.

• Topdressing – A few days before the starting date, winter rye that was sowed last fall is mowed down with a lawn mower. Then about a hundred cubic feet of compost or peat moss is spread out, along with 40 pounds of 10-10-10 granular fertilizer, to make up for the nutrients and soil that were removed when last year's garden was put to bed.

• Tilling – My friend Rick brings his big tiller (my Mantis tiller wouldn't handle this) down from his farm in Wurtsboro and spends an afternoon working the soil to a nice fluffy consistency.

• Laying the plastic – It takes three people four hours to lay down eight rows of three-foot-wide black plastic mulch, each row 70 feet long. The edges of the plastic are covered by hand, leaving about eight inches of space between the rows.

• Planting the garden – Nine people show up to spend two hours planting 1,000 transplants into plastic, covering each hole with a trowel full of compost.

Planting the Big Garden.

Ideally, this happens before it rains, or we'll be wallowing in mud. Sue supervises, trying to keep the taller zinnias, including the new "mazurka" from Harris Seeds, in the back row. Seven other new varieties are scattered around, including celosia "shimmer" from Johnny's Selected Seeds, along with tried-and-true varieties to enter in the fair.

• Water and deer – We might need an inch of water per week, measured by putting a couple of containers around before we turn on a sprinkler. I haven't seen as many deer this year, not like a few years ago when a 6-point buck stood watching us plant. We kept him at bay with "liquid fence," my favorite deer repellent. If we get a lot of rain in July, we might need to toss on a bit more fertilizer, but the initial dose before tilling is usually enough.

• Weed control – Weeds come up between the rows of plastic like a green carpet. Two weeks after planting, when the weeds are a quarter-inch tall and before the flowers have grown over the sides of the plastic, I put on my backpack sprayer and apply a contact herbicide between the rows. Just one time.

• Enjoy – Now for the fun part – harvesting the flowers.

After we clean up the garden and sequester the plastic, we rake in 10 pounds of winter rye seed to hold the soil in place until next year. And we hope for nice weather in June.

COMPLAINT
YOU ARE IN DANGER OF LOSING YOUR HOME. IF YOU FAIL TO RESPOND TO THE SUMMONS AND COMPLAINT IN THIS FORECLOSURE ACTION, YOU MAY LOSE YOUR HOME. PLEASE READ THE SUMMONS AND COMPLAINT CAREFULLY. YOU SHOULD IMMEDIATELY CONTACT AN ATTORNEY OR YOUR LOCAL LEGAL AID OFFICE TO OBTAIN ADVICE ON HOW TO PROTECT YOURSELF.

SOURCES OF INFORMATION AND ASSISTANCE.
The State encourages you to become informed about your options in foreclosure. In addition to seeking assistance from an attorney or legal aid office, there are government agencies and non-profit organizations that you may contact for information about possible options, including trying to work with your lender during this process.

To locate an entity near you, you may call the toll-free helpline maintained by the New York State Banking Department of Financial Services at 1-800-342-3736 or visit the Department's website at www.dfs.ny.gov.

FORECLOSURE RESCUE SCAMS
Be careful of people who approach you with offers to "save" your home. There are individuals who watch for notices of foreclosure actions in order to unfairly profit from a homeowner's distress. You should be extremely careful about any such promises and any suggestions that you pay them a fee or sign over your deed. State law requires anyone offering such services for profit to enter into a contract which fully describes the services they will perform and fees they will charge, and which prohibits them from taking any money from you until they have completed all such promised services.

The heavy lines indicate areas, called cages, from one to five squares in size. Fill each cage with unique digits, counting up from 1. So for example a 2-square cage contains the numbers 1 and 2; and a 5-square cage contains the numbers from 1 to 5. Adjacent (touching) squares, even ones that touch diagonally, may never contain the same number.

VETERANS NEWS WITH ADAM ROCHE

Why join your local American Legion and VFW?

These organizations offer much to the community

When I returned home from active duty in 2004, I was 22 years old. I didn't know many veterans my age and certainly didn't know how to turn the skills I learned as Sergeant of the Guard for the American Embassy in Kabul and Infantry Squad Leader fighting in both Iraq and Afghanistan into viable employment.

So, for almost 15 years, I found various jobs in the security and restaurant business and as a bouncer in several establishments throughout the Hudson Valley.

Numerous times during those years of feeling alone and often misunderstood, family members and friends who weren't even military veterans would attend various functions at local chapters of the American Legion (TAL) and (Veterans of Foreign Wars) VFW. They would encourage me to join them and suggest I get involved, but I always resisted. I found I had accepted the cliché that these groups were filled with older men who gathered at the bar on weekends to tell war stories, watch football games and maybe offer an occasional spaghetti dinner.

In fact, it wasn't until 2016 – when I was blessed to get hired at Mental Health America (MHA) Dutchess County's Vet2Vet program and began visiting local American Legion and VFW chapters and meeting fellow veterans who belonged to those groups – that I realize I had missed nearly 15 years of opportunity to serve both the veterans and the communities of Dutchess County.

I found these men and women offered me a social connection, regardless of their age; understood the obstacles of returning to community life; understood the trauma of battle and the isolation I was experiencing; and many were leaders in the community forming a large network of contacts in various areas of public life.

According to a 2024 Sun Newspaper article, the VFW and its auxiliary members totaled about 1.4 million, with 5,667 posts around the world. The American Legion has approximately 2 million members in more than 12,000 posts around the country. Those numbers makes both organizations fierce advocates for improved healthcare and benefit access, enhanced women's healthcare and veteran-focused legislative changes at all levels of government.

Locally, both organizations are active participants in community events and offer volunteer opportunities for veterans through youth outreach and scholarship programs for both veterans and non-veteran families. Their commitment to organizing holiday ceremonies and parades that honor our fallen comrades and those who have served, keeping that service at the forefront of public consciousness, is unquestioned.

Despite all this, however, there is evidence that the younger generation of military vets have shied away from becoming involved in their local chapters of TAL and the VFW. Groups like the Wounded Warriors Project, Student Veterans of America and non-veteran groups that focus on activities such as one-on-one mentoring of disadvantaged youth, delivering food to the needy and personal health related pursuits have given returning veterans a wide range of activities to choose from, rather than what some see as traditional and outdated social gatherings.

A 2019 New York Times article stated, "The newer organizations reflect cultural shifts in a smaller community of younger and increasingly diverse veterans who are replacing the older, predominantly male veterans."

Add to that busy lifestyle, raising families, involvement in kids sports and social events, church commitments and a perception that the experiences of serving in more recent conflicts like the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan are not adequately represented, understood or acknowledged by members of the older veterans' organizations, makes recruiting new members into the American Legion and VFW challenging.

However, there is some good news. In July 2019, during President Trump's first term, he signed the "LEGION Act" (Let Everyone Get Involved in Opportunities for National Service) into law. This law honored close to 1,600 U.S. military personnel who were killed or wounded in action during previously undeclared times of war and allowed nearly 6 million additional veterans access to American Legion programs and benefits for which they previously had not been eligible.

Along with opening the door to more veterans, there is a recent trend among American Legion and VFW leaders to not quietly sit back and accept declining participation. They instead are working to appeal to newer generations by simplifying eligibility requirements; pushing the government to speed up electronic health records to help post 9/11 veterans in transition; offering mental health treatment programs; and organizing job fairs with local Chambers of Commerce.

In the case of the American Legion, there is also a move taking place to go back to the founders' original, post-World War I era mission: That is, to give back to communities and foster programs that are inclusive and geared toward family outings and events.

Derrick Grimes, an Army veteran and a member of the post in Fuquay-Varina, NC, related in an interview with military.com that about 10 years ago, his post had roughly 250 members and now it's North Carolina's largest post, with more than 920 members. "We made it about family," Grimes said. "Reinvigorating family time – cookouts, fairs and a little something for everyone was the catalyst it needed because if I can't take my family to Legion stuff, I'm not going."

Leaders of both groups say two things they hear over and over from vets are, "No one has ever asked me to join" and "What is in it for me?"

Dutchess County American Legion Adjutant Kevin Hathorn hears a similar refrain. He says local Legion and VFW posts are collaborating to address the issue by creating a hub of communication at all levels of the organization that fosters community unity and awareness – awareness that will allow members to come to the aid of those in real need of assistance by getting to know the community through blood drives, cook-outs, giveaways and offering construction assistance to them. There is also an effort to better broadcast programs that younger veterans' children can benefit from, such as Legion Baseball, Oratorical Contests and the Boys State Program, a summer program that immerses high-school students with hands-on experience in the practical operation of local government by running a mock government. Hathorn says it's all about keeping the American Legion and VFW strong for future military personnel and their families, and he says that clearly rests on younger vets getting involved.

There is much both the American Legion and VFW offer the entire family and community; and I encourage any veteran, young or old, to take the step of contacting their local chapter. I've found you don't have to commit to attending every weekly meeting. Just getting involved once a month and participating in some select events often serves as a catalyst for becoming engaged and brings new ideas and talents to the group.

If this article has piqued your interest, please call your local American Legion or VFW; or if you are not sure how to proceed, feel free to contact me at the Dutchess County Office of Veterans Affairs at 845-486-2060; or email us at veterans@dutchess-county.gov. We will gladly help you get started.
