Wappinger to host 4-day 'CarniFall'

By Kristine Coulter

The annual "CarniFall" will be held in Wappinger from Thursday, Sept. 18 to Sunday, Sept. 21 at Brexel-Schlathaus Park. There will be carnival rides, food, face painting and other activities throughout the four-day event, but there will not be a parade this year.

One of the food trucks that will be there is Cartwright Creamery.

Wappinger resident Chris Cartwright explained that he and his wife, Heather, run the day-to-day operations of the food truck. Sons, Joe, 4, and John, 2, "are our official product taste testers," remarked Cartwright.

"We are very excited to bring our truck to CarniFall this season and guest can expect a variety of soft serve options like sundaes, milkshakes and hand-scooped Italian ices to satisfy those dessert cravings!

East Fishkill Recreation Director Christine Selback and Recreation employees, community members plan on having about 100 different vendors and approximately 30 groups, floats, and numerous marchers in the parade for the annual East Fishkill Community Day, which is set for Saturday, Sept. 20.

Town of East Fishkill Supervisor Nick D'Alessandro said, "Community Day is one of the most special days of the year for our town. It's a time for neighbors to come together, celebrate what makes our community unique, and enjoy a full day of fun, food, music, and local pride."

There will also be a car show, community resources, bounce houses, games, raffles, and "fireworks to close out the night," said Selback. "But what truly makes the day unique every year isn't just the schedule, it's the people. The support

25th Annual Arlington Street Fair set for Sept. 20

By Kristine Coulter

The 25th annual Arlington Street Fair is set for Saturday, Sept. 20, from noon to 6 p.m. The event will take place from Raymond Ave. from the corner of Fulton Ave. and Collegeview Ave. to Davis Ave. in Poughkeepsie. There will be more than 100 vendors, musical guests, and activities. There is no admission to the annual event.

"This year is especially meaningful because it's the 25th Annual Arlington Street Fair. Hitting that milestone shows how strong and consistent this event has been for the community. People can count on it year after year as a fun, free tradition that brings everyone together," said Tonya Speed, executive director of the Arlington Business Improvement District.

Is there anything new for this year's event?

"While the heart of the fair stays the same, we're excited to feature some new local musicians this year, along with fresh faces among our vendors. That mix of continuity and discovery keeps the fair exciting without losing its neighborhood feel," Speed replied.

Speed noted typically there are 3,000–5,000 visitors throughout the day, which is "a perfect size—big enough to feel lively and full, but still welcoming and walkable for families."

The Fair is free to attend, which is especially important in today's economy, it was noted.

The Fair "gives families a chance to enjoy a full day of entertainment and community connection without worrying about cost. It also shines a light on our local businesses and nonprofits, keeping dollars and energy in Arlington. The consistency of the Street Fair is part of what makes it so beloved—it's a tradition people look forward to and trust will always be here."

The Arlington Street Fair is sponsored by the Arlington Business Improvement District, Vassar College and I Heart Media.

and enjoyment of our residents, together with the participation of our local businesses, are what give Community Day its special character. Their presence transforms the event into more than just a festival. It becomes a celebration of community spirit, hometown pride, and the connections that make East Fishkill 'A Great Place to Live.'

Asked if there will be anything new for this year's Community Day, Selback replied, "More fun for kids: A couple of additional bounce houses will be set up, giving children even more space to jump, play, and enjoy the day."

There will be what Selback described as "fresh local talent."

"For the first time performing at Community Day, Silly Little Things with Johnny Dell and Kristen Lee will take the stage to share their music and energy with the community," she said.

How many people are expected? "I would expect a couple of thousand people to come to East Fishkill Community Day. The firework show brings crowds from all over," replied Selback.

Suzanne DeCosta, the president of the Rotary Club of East Fishkill said, "As a Rotarian, Community Day is a special day of the year. It's a chance for us to connect with neighbors, support local causes, and see the direct impact of service in action."

"What makes it special is the spirit of togetherness—we're not just serving the community, we're part of it. Whether it's planning our table, or the giveaways, or just simply chatting with neighbors that visit our table, it's a day that truly reflects Rotary's motto - 'Service Above Self.'"

Asked why it is important for the East Fishkill Recreation Dept. to host this event every year, Selback responded, "Community Day is one of the most important traditions in East Fishkill because it brings our residents, families, not for profit and local businesses together in one place to celebrate who we are as a town. Hosting this event each year provides an opportunity for neighbors to connect, for local organizations, not for profit and businesses to showcase what they offer, and for our community to share in a day of fun, pride, and togetherness."

The parade is at 2 p.m. Vendors will be set up at noon at the East Fishkill Recreation Grounds, off of Route 376. The car show is 2-5 p.m.

All roads and plazas on Route 82 (Main Street) between Palen Road and Orchard Place, will be closed East Fishkill Police Dept. stated on social media earlier this week. No vehicles will be permitted to enter or exit the plazas or businesses starting at 1:45 p.m., it was stated. Traffic will be stopped in all directions and there will be significant delays for anyone looking to enter or exit the village. Route 376, Fishkill Road, and Palen Road will also experience delays, according to police.

Selback concluded: "For the Recreation Department, it's about more than just organizing activities. It's about creating a space where people of all ages can enjoy themselves, strengthen relationships, and feel a sense of belonging. Each year, the event grows and evolves, but the heart of it stays the same: celebrating our community spirit and making memories that last well beyond the day itself."

D'Alessandro said, "Whether you've lived here for decades or just moved in, it's a great opportunity to connect with others, support local businesses and organizations, and create lasting memories with your family and friends. I encourage everyone to come out, get involved, and be part of what makes our town such a welcoming and vibrant place to live."

'Catoberfest' to raise funds for MHAA

By Kristine Coulter

The 13th annual Catoberfest fundraiser for Mid Hudson Animal Aid (MHAA) will take place at the Hudson Valley Brewery, 7 East Main St., in Beacon, from 3-7:30 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 21. Proceeds will benefit the felines at MHAA, which is a no-kill and free-range cat sanctuary.

"The therapy cats Millie, Max, and Sox will make their return after a short absence. There will also be a few promotional items for sale during the event," said Ira Chavis, organizer of Catoberfest each year.

The Judith Tulloch Band, The Black Coffee Blues Ensemble, The Costello's, Tony DePaolo's Electric Gypsies, and the Last Minute Soulmates will provide live music during the event.

Russell St. George is a member of Last Minute Soulmates. He said they will be playing "a variety of soulful original songs" of his past released music "Take Me Away" and "Reality." They will also be playing some new unreleased music, he noted. The lineup for Catoberfest will include Russ St. George on vocals and guitar, Carla Springer on vocals, Emily Hague on keys, David Hollander on guitar, Peter McCaw on bass, and Glenn Sacchi on drums.

Attendees can also participate in raffles with prizes featuring gift certificates and merchandise from local businesses.

An online auction will be held during the week of Catoberfest, according to Chavis. Catoberfest will host kid-friendly events including a face painting booth hosted by Fun2seefaces, with proceeds of sales going to MHAA, said Chavis.

"Catoberfest is our yearly Fall Feline Festival, modeled after the German Oktoberfest, we all come together to celebrate our felines and the community. Everyone is welcome. Catoberfest is a very family-friendly event, which includes a great kids activity program," said Chavis.

Chavis noted, "The proceeds from Catoberfest go to the care of our feline residents. This includes food and medical care among other things."

"We really hope our attendees will be generous and support Mid Hudson Animal Aid. MHAA gets no public funding and relies on private donations to remain open," he added.

According to organizers, Hudson Valley Brewery and The Beacon Daily will donate for every beer or meal sold during Catoberfest event hours.

Cadets from the Town of Fishkill Cadet program were honored during the Fishkill Town Board's Sept. 3 meeting held at Fishkill Town Hall.

Det. Jason Betley, with the Town of Fishkill Police Department, has been running the program for the past 21 years. The program is designed for ages 14-21, stated Betley. The program was formed in 1972 and "just celebrated our 53rd anniversary," he noted.

Cadets meet weekly for 2 hours on Thursday nights.

The program offers "vast choices in law enforcement," Betley stated. Cadets learn about various aspects of law enforcement in the classroom and the field, stated Betley. Cadets learn a "diverse knowledge of the law enforcement field," such as ethics, communication, control procedures, report writing, crime prevention, fingerprinting, and arrest procedures.

The Cadets participate in many community events, such as the collection of non-perishable food to assist the Fishkill

Food Pantry.

"Our biggest event is going to the Cadet Police Academy in the summer," said Betley. The Academy was held in Massachusetts this year.

The academy is challenging, said Betley. Cadets are "up at 6 a.m. and are active all day until 11 p.m. when lights out."

Graduating from the Cadet Police Department was Cadet Jason Mendez.

Also graduating from the Cadet Police Department, but unable to attend the meeting, were Cadet Michael Toplanaj and Cadet Jessica Testa Graduating from the Practical Skills program was Cadet Connor Murtagh.

The Cadet of the Year Award is named in honor of former Cadet Lt. Dustin James, who was killed in an auto accident. He was a cadet in the early 2000s. James was "always with a smile, always looking out for his peers," Betley said.

"This year's Cadet of the Year is the exact definition of the award," said Betley. "We are extremely proud to announce this year's Cadet of the Year is Jason Mendez."

Battery Energy Storage Systems face opposition in Town of Poughkeepsie

To the Editor:

During the Town Hall Meeting on September 3rd, residents of the Town of Poughkeepsie voiced strong and overwhelming opposition to the proposed law allowing installation of Battery Energy Storage Systems (BESS), particularly large-scale facilities, throughout our Town.

Concerns centered around health and safety, yet the Democratic Party majority ignored these concerns, rejecting attempts to delay their proposed BESS law, voting among party lines to pass it. This law allows large-scale BESS facilities to be constructed as close as two hundred and in some cases fifty feet from residential areas. Town residents are afraid, as this law takes effect immediately.

While the Republican minority does not oppose emerging technologies, they remain apprehensive due to numerous BESS-related incidents, fires, and evacuations across the United States and worldwide, therefore voting against immediate passage of this law. In addition, the established defensive fire policy (let it burn) and the absence of a tested and coordinated area wide emergency plan is especially concerning.

On November 13, 2023, while Rebecca Edwards was an active full-time professor, Vassar College submitted an application requesting an area variance for a large-scale BESS Storage Facility, leasing their 159 Manchester Road parcel to Key Capture Energy. On February 7, 2024, Supervisor Edwards sponsored Resolution 2, setting a public hearing on March 6, 2024, beginning discussions to implement large-scale BESS facilities, stating: "The Town of Poughkeepsie may receive applications for such facilities."

Given her connection to Vassar College, Supervisor Edwards might have considered recusing herself from the September 3rd vote, but did not. Despite Key-Capture Energy's apparent recent withdrawal, Vassar College remains poised to facilitate BESS in our Town.

Supervisor Edwards and the Democratic Party majority have ignored the public's concerns, opting instead to continually implement policies and laws aimed at their primary goal of "Turning Poughkeepsie Blue," as articulated on the front page of their website, topdems.org. The Democratic Party majority have forgotten their primary

History will remember those who 'created our current predicament'

To the Editor:

The article titled "Ryan secures $15 million for Community projects in HV" from the Sept. 3 issue fails to address the funding that our community actually did lose in the new budget. The article points out that the Congressman secured $15 million of the $17 million which we were due, a net loss of $2 million. One would expect that all types of projects would be squeezed, so I was surprised to see that the law enforcement funding had actually risen from the originally promised $6 million to a staggering $8.3 million. This means that non-law-enforcement funding coming into the district decreased by over $4 million in the new budget.

At a time when our communities are being attacked by the federal government and our farmers have crops rotting in the fields, our representative is touting a bill that defunds our communities to pay for an expansion of the militarized police state as a win. History won't soon forget the names of those who created and enabled our current predicament, and I fear Mr. Patrick Ryan might be among them.

Golden Gathering to attract hundreds of Dutchess seniors

Dutchess County Executive Sue Serino, in partnership with New York State Senators Rob Rolison and Michelle Hinchey and the Dutchess County Office for the Aging (OFA), invites residents to attend the Golden Gathering on Saturday, Sept. 27, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Arlington High School, 1157 Route 55 in LaGrange.

From nutrition counseling to senior safety - and new this year, employment opportunities - this event is a one-stop event for older adults, their families, and caregivers. Thanks to the generosity of the James J. McCann Charitable Trust, this event is free of charge for all who attend, and there is no RSVP required.

Serino said, "Older adults are at the heart of our community, and supporting them has always been a top priority for me. I'm proud to once again help bring the Golden Gathering to our seniors, an event that connects them with the support and services they need to stay healthy, independent, and engaged. I'm excited to welcome many familiar faces and make even more new friends on September 27th!"

This annual event is the largest of its kind in Dutchess County, drawing hundreds of attendees each year. With more than 90 exhibitors expected, attendees can explore services and information on healthcare, financial planning, legal assistance and more. Representatives from various Dutchess County Government departments, as well as local and state government agencies that serve seniors, will also be on hand.

Serino has made senior employment a priority at the 2025 Golden Gathering, which, for the first time, will feature more than a half-dozen local businesses offering part-time job opportunities for older adults looking to re-enter the workforce and put their skills and experience to use.

Highlights of the 2025 Golden Gathering include health screenings, including diabetes, blood pressure, and dementia, on-site flu shots administered by local healthcare providers, live entertainment and interactive demonstrations and activities, the opportunity to safely discard unwanted, unnecessary, or unused medication, complimentary breakfast and water throughout the morning; and door prize giveaways for attendees.

Rolison said, "From health screenings and flu shots to live entertainment and helpful resources, the Golden Gathering truly offers something for everyone. I look forward to reconnecting with familiar faces, meeting new ones, and sharing a day that connects us with each other and with the services that support healthier, happier lives."

Hinchey said, "The Golden Gathering is a special event dedicated to celebrating our senior community, while connecting folks to over 90 vendors offering a wide range of services and support. From health screenings and flu shots to live entertainment and giveaways, it's a day designed to honor and make life a little easier for the people who have given so much to our communities. We encourage all of our seniors to join!"

Nearly 1,000 residents attended last year's Golden Gathering, with more than 200 receiving their complimentary influenza immunizations.

The Dutchess County Office for the Aging empowers older adults by helping them stay active, independent, and connected to their community. Through a variety of programs and services - from nutrition and transportation, to caregiver support and wellness initiatives - the OFA ensures seniors have the tools and resources they need to thrive, while also linking them, their families, and caregivers with information and assistance to address their evolving needs as they age. Residents can learn more about the County's OFA at dutchessny.gov/aging, its Facebook page (www.facebook.com/dutchesscountyofa), by calling 845-486-2555 or emailing ofa@dutchessny.gov.

VETERANS NEWS WITH ADAM ROCHE

County honors its veterans with special events

Even before I became the Director of the Dutchess County Office of Veterans Affairs, I was thankful that I lived in a community that truly cares about its veterans. American Legion and VFW posts are always supportive of those of us who served, and organizations like Mental Health America (MHA) of Dutchess County and others provide amazing services, such as MHA's Vet2Vet peer support program.

From a statewide perspective, though, Dutchess County is an example for other counties in New York and the nation to follow how we lift up our veterans and their families. In addition to the various services and programs our office administers every day, the County honors its veterans with special events throughout the year. We're hosting several of them in the coming weeks, and I want to make sure you have time to plan so you can join us.

We will again welcome hundreds of veterans to Dutchess County's popular "The Red, White and You!" Veterans Appreciation Picnic on Saturday, Oct. 18, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., at James Baird State Park, 14 Maintenance Lane in Pleasant Valley. In just four short years, this event has quickly become an annual tradition for the local veteran community, and one of my favorite events of the year.

The picnic is a chance for veterans to relax outdoors, share a meal and connect with other veterans and their families. On-site transportation is available when you arrive at Baird Park, and smiling volunteers greet you when you get to the picnic, offering a welcoming sense of belonging. No matter the era in which you served, you're treated with the dignity and respect you deserve.

Sure, there's amazing, complimentary food, thanks to Tavern 23; live music from the Stringmasters and iHeartRadio's Uncle Mike leading a patriotic and respectful atmosphere; but there's so much more to the "Red, White and You!" day.

What makes the picnic so special is the sense of connection. Veterans who may not know each other end up swapping stories, sharing laughs or just enjoying the day together – a return to the sense of fellowship you felt when you served. You may meet someone who served in the same branch as you, perhaps even the same unit, just years apart. You might find a sympathetic ear sitting right next to you and chat about your service or your life here at home: family, hobbies, pets or jobs.

I promise you this: You will never feel alone at Dutchess County's "Red, White and You!" Veterans Appreciation Picnic.

Just as importantly, you can connect with my office at the picnic to ensure you receive the benefits you've earned through your service. You might learn about services you didn't know are available to you – from healthcare and transportation, to employment and housing assistance.

We invite you to bring a guest and register to attend the picnic by emailing countyexec@dutchessny.gov or calling (845) 486-2000, and we'll see you there!

Our celebrations of Dutchess County's heroes continue in late October and early November, as County Executive Sue Serino and MHA will again co-host their annual Veterans Appreciation Pasta Dinners. These informal, sit-down dinners will take place at the Lions Community Pavilion, Stissing Lake Road in Pine Plains, on Sunday, Oct. 26, with one seating at 4 p.m., and at American Legion Post 1302, 55 Overlook Road in Poughkeepsie, on Sunday, Nov. 2, with seatings at 2 p.m. and 4 p.m.

These Pasta Dinners are small tokens of our gratitude for your service, and we'd be honored to share a meal with you and a guest. Whether you're reconnecting with old friends or making new ones, these dinners promise a welcoming atmosphere filled with camaraderie and community spirit.

Like our picnic, these events are about more than food; they are about community. You never know who you'll meet: It might be somebody you haven't seen in years, or maybe you'll make a new friend. Conversations often range from light-hearted to serious; but no matter who you sit with or what you discuss, you leave feeling like you belong.

Both pasta dinners are free, but seating is limited, so please register by emailing CountyExec@dutchessny.gov or calling 845-486-2000. We can't wait to welcome you and celebrate the incredible contributions you've made to our nation.

What I love about these events is how genuine they are. It's just people coming together to say "thank you" in the simplest way possible: by sharing a meal. That kind of honesty means more than any words ever could, and I'm proud we live in a county that honors its veterans in such a heartfelt way.

CCEDC training session held on invasive species identification

Officials and educators with Cornell Cooperative Extension Dutchess County (CCEDC) hosted a training session on invasive species identification for our county parks on Sept. 10 at Bowdoin Park.

The training was held with funding from the NY/NJ Trail Conference and the Lower Hudson Partnership for Regional Invasive Species Management (LHPRISM).

The training was followed by a short walk and talk session and ribbon-cutting and focused on scouting, identifying and reporting invasive species and their host plants. The presentation focused on six invasive species of particular concern: beech leaf disease, emerald ash borer, hemlock woolly adelgid, spotted lanternfly, tree of heaven, and spongy moth.

Also, as a part of this year's initiative, CCEDC provided boot brush stations, along with accompanying invasive species awareness brochures. These are the first boot brush stations installed in Dutchess County Parks, with a total of four stations, two at Bowdoin Park and two at Wilcox Park. Each station features a sign explaining its purpose and a kiosk to hold an Invasive Species Awareness brochure created by the Horticulture staff at CCEDC. The brochures will be updated each season to reflect the current stage in the invasive species life cycle, helping park patrons quickly identify and report new or currently affecting invasive species, as well as explore management options.

These stations aim to prevent the spread of invasive plants by encouraging hikers to brush off seeds, plant material, or insect eggs from their boots before and after hitting the trails. They also provide an opportunity to raise awareness about how easily invasive species can spread unknowingly and how park patrons can contribute to mitigating this issue.

Now on the National Register of Historic Places, the Northside Hub is home to Scenic Hudson staff offices and light-filled spaces for the local community and visitors to learn, grow, play, create, and celebrate.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony was held on Sept. 10 at Bowdoin Park to celebrate the installation of the first of four boot brush stations during a training session on invasive species identification. Dutchess County Executive Serino, along with County Legislators Chris Drago and Lynne Versaci were on hand for the event with officials and educators with Cornell Cooperative Extension Dutchess County.

Beephan introduces legislation to increase transparency in utility bills

Assemblyman Anil Beephan, Jr. (R,C-East Fishkill) introduced legislation to increase transparency in utility bills. The legislation would require electric companies to provide customers with a clear, itemized breakdown of their monthly bills, making it easier to see what they are being charged for. Beephan says this will not only increase transparency but also make New Yorkers aware of how much they are paying for Albany's green energy mandates.

"With many New Yorkers spending more and more on their utility bills every month, it is only fair they get to see what exactly they are being charged for. My bill will make sure ratepayers know how much of their money goes to infrastructure, the New York Power Authority and initiatives dictated by the state and the Public Service Commission. This will allow New Yorkers to see just how much Albany's out-of-touch mandates are costing them, hopefully resulting in constructive dialogue between the state and the people of New York on energy policy. This legislation will finally bring New Yorkers out of the darkness and into the light when it comes to their electric bills," said Beephan.

'Slaterpalooza' set for Saturday

By Kristine Coulter

"Slaterpalooza" will be on Saturday, Sept. 20 at the Slater Chemical Firehouse, 76 Old Glenham Road, in Fishkill. There is no pre-registration required. Admission is $15 at the door.

"I started Slaterpalooza in 2011 as a way to connect three things I love: music, our fire company and the Glenham community. With friends and family, we put together the first Slaterpalooza in just a few weeks. Now it has grown to become one of our biggest fundraisers with people coming from all over the tri-state area," Slaterpalooza Founder Kevin McGarry said via email recently. "This year we expect over 700 attendees."

Attendees can expect a full day of music.

"As a long-time musician, I have many friends in local bands, and they are always willing to share their talent to support a good cause. Slaterpalooza is a family-friendly, non-political community event. We will have 8 local music acts, food from Hidden Rose catering, desserts, T-shirts for sale and many raffles. Local businesses have really stepped up with donations for the raffles," remarked McGarry.

Band schedule:

1:30-2:30 p.m. Cadillac Brothers
2:30-3:30 p.m. Rubixx
3:30-4:30 p.m. The Lot

4:30-5:30 p.m. Black Kettle Fire
5:30-6:30 p.m. Second Shot
6:30-7:30 p.m. Boomkat
7:30-8:30 p.m. Alison Elena (from "The Voice")
8:30-9:30 p.m. Circle 65

What would organizers like the community to know about how hard all the firefighters work for the community throughout the year?

"Firefighters are ready to respond 24/7, 365 days a year. Slater Chemical averages approximately 275 calls a year and we are a 100% Volunteer Company. Even during Slaterpalooza, we are ready to respond." Jenna Mazzaccone, one of the event organizers, explained. "There are also non-emergency activities such as our Junior Firefighter week every summer, Pancake Breakfast, Fire Prevention Day and the extremely popular Santa Run on Christmas Eve. Our Auxiliary also does Trunk or Treat, Easter Egg Hunt, and Craft Fair, etc."

It was stated, "Support your First Responders! Support Live Local Music!! Come have a great time with us!"

Slaterpalooza has donated to many things involving first responders and frontline workers, it was noted. There have been donations of food to local hospitals during COVID, supported first responders during illness, injury and even

Jacobson, Hinckley back two utility reform bills

Assemblymember Jonathan Jacobson (D-104) and Senator Michelle Hinckley (D-41) passed two major utility reform bills to bring more transparency in rate hike requests and restrict estimated billing.

The first bill (A2736/S8213) requires that any capital expenses included in a utility's request for a rate increase are fully and publicly explained. This would include the purpose and cost of the capital project, as well as any benefits to ratepayers. Because utilities receive a greater rate of return on capital expenditures, it is critical that these costs be disclosed to regulators in a transparent and complete manner.

The second bill (A5969/S2182) requires utilities to bill customers based on actual monthly meter readings, rather than estimates, unless prevented by unavoidable circumstances like extreme weather. It also directs the Public Service Commission (PSC) to develop a standard estimation formula for all New York utility providers.

"Central Hudson rates are high enough. Since utilities receive a greater return on capital expenses than on other expenses, transparency is essential for the PSC to make a proper determination on a rate increase request. The public and the PSC deserve to know," said Jacobson. "Customers deserve timely and accurate billing. Our previous legislation, which is now law, eliminated late billing. Now, we want to eliminate estimated billing."

"Our legislation addresses two of the biggest questions we hear from Hudson Valley residents: Why did my bill go up, and does it actually reflect what I owe?" said Hinckley. "Utilities are a public service, and the costs they pass on to ratepayers must be transparent, reasonable, and connected to serving their customers. These bills bring commonsense oversight into capital expenditures proposed by utilities and their billing practices, and we hope the Governor will sign both into law to help us protect ratepayers."

Both bills are another step in Jacobson and Hinckley's fight against Central Hudson's never-ending rate increase requests and controversial billing practices. The disastrous rollout of a new billing and customer service system in 2021 led to a cascade of customer issues, including wildly inaccurate and missing bills, it was noted by Jacobson.

These problems didn't stop Central Hudson from making repeated requests for rate increases, including a 25% increase request in 2024. The PSC instead approved a 5% increase that went into effect in July 2024. Soon after this was approved, Central Hudson proposed another increase. In August, the PSC approved an increase of more than 10% for electricity and more than 20% for gas over a three-year period.

The bills are awaiting the Governor's signature to become law.

With two wins to start the 2025 campaign, the The John Jay High School Patriots burst on the scene at home and across the Hudson River. John Jay blew holes in Pine Bush's defense in their Hopewell home opener. A week later, they soured Suffern's homecoming with a massive 35-0 shutout performance. John Jay will host the Scarsdale Raiders, hot off a 34-8 opening night performance, on September 19.

Ketcham improved to 2-0 with a dominant performance over Ramapo. Jacob Weickel turned a 3rd down & 15 to an RCK lead with a 37-yard touchdown reception. Late in the game, with multiple lead changes and a zero quit in the eyes of the Storm, Ketcham came back on each of Ramapo's advantages. Hudson Fettlers hauled in a 53-yard run to set up the comeback. Ketcham once more raced upfield with under two minutes to spare, securing the 42-41 win in thrilling fashion. Following a bye week, the Storm will celebrate their senior night against White Plains on Sept. 26.

Beacon stayed perfect with its own statement shutout, blanking New Paltz 21-0 in the Dogs' home debut. They'll match up against Kingston for a non-league contest on Sept. 19.

DUTCHES COUNTY 9-11 MEMORIAL CEREMONY

Where we were NOT and what we must do to honor the fallen

By Curtis Schmidt

Jeffrey C. Martin, Family Court Judge/Acting Supreme Court Justice Dutchess County concentrated on several poignant points during his remarks at the county's 24th 9-11 Memorial Ceremony on Thursday, Sept. 11.

In response to the "Where were you? What were you doing?" thoughts of many, Martin offered "Where we were NOT (on Sept. 11)." To honor, and to gather and to cherish are noble gestures, but Martin said, "We can do more, we must do more." And in regard to different cultures, different races, different ideas, different opinions, or different politics that, together, represent the best of who we once were as a country, he said "We need to find that spirit again."

Where we were not

- "We were not on that plane that passed above the Hudson River, not far from here as it traveled to its doom when it collided into the tower."

- "We did not experience the terror of the passengers after they learned that their plane was hijacked."

- "We did not see the faces of the parents who were left to clutch their children for dear life as the plane sailed to annihilation."

- "We could not help the frightened passenger who sat alone in the plane with no one to comfort them, no one to talk with, no one to call, and no one to hold onto when they took their last breath."

- "We were not a passenger on Flight 93 in Pennsylvania, whose passengers fought bravely and unselfishly to prevent collateral death and damage far greater than the self-sacrifice they made when they must have known that their actions guaranteed a swifter and frightening death."

- "We were not at the Pentagon looking out the window when a plane was flying directly at them, knowing that there was nowhere to go, no place to run, and no place to hide."

- "We were not in the tallest sections of the twin towers, trapped in an area of increasing smoke, fire, heat, and despair."

- "We were not forced to determine our choice of death - by smoke, fire, or by jumping."

- "We were not wearing the heavy fire-fighters gear as they bravely raced up the stairs and into eternity."

- "We were not with the court officers who rushed into the buildings to assist without thinking for a second that their time was very limited.

- "We were not confronted with the agonizing decision to place one final call to a loved one, sensing that this would be the last time, the very last time, that any earthly communication would be possible before the inevitable end would occur."

We can do more; We must do more

- "We must use our voices to speak out against chaos, inequality, prejudice, and evil."

- "We must organize and mobilize to fight against evil."

- "We must educate to prevent ignorance."

- "We must learn to accept each other, to be nonjudgmental, to embrace our mutual desire to live happily and with longevity without fear of reprisal, judgment, or rejection."

- "We must understand that the differences between us are far outweighed by our similarities."

- "We must be worthy to carry the legacy of the lives lost on 9-11 to future generations in a manner that does not cause a repeat of this tragedy."

- "We must learn, to relearn, how to love each other. There is no greater energy than love."

- "We must learn to harness this energy to improve the greater good."

"Each precious soul who died on 9-11, or in its aftermath, and who are still dying from illnesses related to 9-11, has a story to tell. Each story is different, each story is unique, and yet, when combined, they form a mosaic of different cultures, different races, different ideas, different opinions, or different politics that, together, represent the best of who we once were as a country."

We need to find that spirit again

"To honor the memories of the fallen, may we - as a society - work with each other, instead of against each other, to help each other be the best we can be. We owe that to the victims. We owe that to their survivors and we owe that to their families."

"We owe that to each other. Choose forgiveness. Choose patience. Choose kindness. Choose love."

"Within the trials and tribulations of life, find joy, choose joy, live our lives as the victims wished they could have lived theirs."

"We owe that to them. We owe that to ourselves and we owe that to our nation."

Clockwise from top left, officers and speakers gather after the ceremony. Dutchess County Family Court Judge Tracy MacKenzie and County Executive Sue Serino address those in attendance. Flags are lowered during the ceremony. Oliver Mackson of Bugles Across America plays Taps. Desiree S. King - CASA/MHA Dutchess County sings the Stars Spangled Banner. Below, Family Court Judge Jeffrey Martin offers remarks. Rev. Dr. Edward Hunt of the Bethel Missionary Baptist Church offers a prayer for the community.

Scenic Hudson's Northside Hub opens for first look at sustainable innovation in action

After five years of transformation, Scenic Hudson officially opened the doors of its new Northside Hub in what can be a model for bringing new life to forgotten industrial sites in the cities of the Hudson Valley and across the country. With the correct vision and committed partners, contaminated and discarded properties can be restored and welcoming again.

Just steps from the popular Walkway Over the Hudson, the Northside Hub at 58 Parker Avenue in Poughkeepsie is a place to bring people together. Scenic Hudson combined a historic renovation of the abandoned Standard Gage factory - once a center of innovation and jobs in Poughkeepsie that counted President Franklin D. Roosevelt among its visitors - with a brownfield cleanup of contaminated soil and groundwater. The restored buildings and landscape produce more energy than they consume and are powered entirely by the sun.

Now on the National Register of Historic Places, the Northside Hub is home to Scenic Hudson staff offices and light-filled spaces for the local community and visitors to learn, grow, play, create, and celebrate. The factory floors that turned out precision measurement tools during World War II are once again buzzing with innovation: Every detail is grounded in sustainable design, aligned with Scenic Hudson's mission of protecting the health and beauty of the Hudson Valley for future generations. This includes:

- o A state-of-the-art fresh air system that - for the first time in the United States - uniquely integrates "trickle vents" to heat and cool the building, providing up to double the amount of fresh air than a traditional system;

- o A three-story atrium that works as an "air chimney" to help pull fresh air through the building and unifies the two main factory structures;

- o Features that keep all rainwater on site to reduce the downstream impacts of storms, including trenches with vegetation called bioswales, underground retention, and a green roof; and

- o Versatile community resources including an auditorium, an open-air pavilion, open green spaces, and exhibition space that will be available for events beginning in January 2026, as well as office space for local organizations and businesses to grow.

To provide parking for the new Northside Hub, Scenic Hudson acquired the unimproved dirt parking area that had been available parking for the majority of cars carrying visitors to the Poughkeepsie entrance of the Walkway Over the Hudson State Park. They landscaped the property, adding angled solar panel and timber canopies that provide shaded parking and, together with rooftop solar, produce more than enough energy to power the entire site. The new parking area is now limited to less than half of the capacity that had existed for daily park goers previously. Signage indicates that the parking area will be open to the public on evenings and weekends.

Scenic Hudson's Northside Hub is a collaboration between the environmental organization and dozens of dedicated partners, led by the nonprofit architectural firm MASS Design Group and Consigli

Construction Co., Inc. It was made possible by New York state agencies that provided vital funding, including New York State Energy Research and Development Authority (NYSERDA) and Empire State Development (ESD), as well as Foss & Company's investment with state and federal historic tax credit programs.

For Poughkeepsie, the Northside Hub is the latest in a series of projects to harness the potential of underused areas for the local community. Scenic Hudson was a major supporter of turning the city's out-of-service 1889 railroad bridge into the Walkway Over the Hudson, now the world's longest elevated pedestrian bridge. Just down the road, the organization protected a former rail corridor that now, as Dutchess County's Northside Line, offers a safe path to bike and walk across the city. And since 2022, the non-profit has harvested 5,000 pounds of fresh produce at the new Pershing Community Farm next to Pershing Avenue Park, which were supplied free of charge to the local community.

Running behind the Northside Hub, the Fall Kill Creek holds immense potential to connect people with nature and make the area more resilient to flooding and heat. Scenic Hudson is working with partners to increase public access to the urban waterway, including around the Hub, and has already helped make much-needed improvements to the creekside Malcolm X and Pershing Avenue parks.

Scenic Hudson President Ned Sullivan said, "When Scenic Hudson was first introduced to this property, its shattered windows and polluted grounds were the picture of neglect, but we also saw a special place with a promising future. On the factory floors where the Standard Gage Company once manufactured cutting-edge instruments during much of the 20th century, we've started a new chapter of innovation. The Northside Hub is not only a stunning, sustainable home for Scenic Hudson, but also a vibrant community resource for our home city of Poughkeepsie and its visitors. Thank you to everyone who joined us on this journey - I couldn't be more excited to see what lies ahead."

Poughkeepsie Mayor Yvonne Flowers said, "Today is not just an exciting day for Scenic Hudson, but it's also an extremely exciting day for the City of Poughkeepsie. It means so much to the local community to have this vibrant building and safe space open for anyone to gather, network, and dream up inventive ways to create that thriving city that we're all longing for. I would like to thank Scenic Hudson for their investment in the City of Poughkeepsie and for their commitment to helping us along with many other communities throughout the Hudson Valley."

Consigli Construction Co., Inc. Project Executive Scott Cruikshank said, "The Northside Hub presented a unique challenge: honoring the historical significance of the Standard Gage factory while integrating innovative, cutting-edge sustainable design. As Hudson Valley residents and neighbors who benefit daily from Scenic Hudson's important work, our team is honored to have played a key role in the historic restoration and cleanup of this site, creating a space that respects the past while building a greener, more resilient future."

Obituaries

Ann Parisi

It is with profound sadness that we announce the passing of Ann Parisi on September 12, 2025 after a valiant battle with cancer. A devoted wife, mother, grandmother, sister, teacher, and the cherished matriarch of her family, she left this world surrounded by her loved ones, leaving behind a legacy of faith, family, and compassion.

Born on February 26, 1940 in Niagara Falls, NY, she was the daughter of Philip and Mary LaRose. Ann grew up in a close-knit Italian Catholic family that instilled in her the values of service, kindness, and perseverance. She graduated from the University of Plattsburgh with a Bachelor's degree in Early Childhood Education and began her career teaching elementary school in Lockport, NY, and North Syracuse, NY.

During that time, she met and married the love of her life, her devoted husband of 58 years, John Parisi. Together they built a beautiful life, raising their family in Millbrook, NY. There she continued her passion for education as a nursery school teacher while dedicating herself to raising her four children. A woman of faith and deep community ties, Ann taught religious education at St. Joseph's Parish, was an active member of St. Joseph's Ladies Guild, served on the PTA, and was a dedicated 4-H leader. She also volunteered countless hours at Uncle Al's Thrift Shop, giving selflessly to her community.

Her love of nature blossomed in her gardens, where she was an avid gardener and proud member of the Nine Partners Garden Club. At home, she shared her love through cooking and baking—always ready with a warm meal, and forever remembered for her love of celebrating every holiday with food, family and traditions.

Above all, Ann's greatest joy was her family. She is survived by her loving husband, John Parisi, and their four children: Dr. Susan Parisi and her children Isabella, Annaeliese, and Alexander; the Hon. Anthony Parisi and his wife Sinead and their daughters Seraphina and Giuliana; Dr. Marybeth Parisi and her children Giovanna, Annabella, Marco, and Giulian; and Ann Marie Ozolins and her husband Christopher and their daughter Viviann. She is also survived by her brothers Stephen LaRose, Philip LaRose, Jr., and Anthony LaRose. She was predeceased by her parents, Philip and Mary Larose.

Ann will be remembered for her unwavering faith, her generosity, her strength, and most of all, her love for her family. Though she is gone from this earth, her spirit will live on in the lives she touched and in the hearts of all who loved her.

Family and friends were invited to celebrate Ann's life with calling hours on Tuesday, September 16, at Allen Funeral Home, 3270 Franklin Avenue, Millbrook, NY 12545. A Mass of Christian Burial will be held on Wednesday, September 17, at 10:00 a.m. at St. Joseph's Church, 15 North Avenue, Millbrook, NY 12545, followed by burial at St. Joseph's Cemetery. Please visit www.hudsonvalleyfuneral-homes.com for condolences and directions.

Go Red Luncheon has new chair

Brenda Swatek has seen a major shift in how people think about wellness in recent years – and she's leaning into that momentum.

As a member of the Executive Leadership Team of the 2024 Hudson Valley Go Red for Women Luncheon, Swatek saw firsthand how the American Heart Association, a global force for a world of longer, healthier lives, empowers local communities to live healthier lives.

This year, she's chairing the 2025 event, set for Thursday, Dec. 4, at the DoubleTree by Hilton Poughkeepsie, 40 Civic Center Plaza, from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

"One stat that really hit me was that heart disease is the No. 1 killer of women, and it claims more lives than the top eight cancers combined," Swatek said. "That's something we need to talk about more."

For Swatek, heart health is personal.

"My dad had heart disease," she said. "It doesn't just affect the individual; it affects the whole family."

What also stuck with her from last year's Luncheon? The energy. The support. The celebration. "I loved how uplifting it was," she said. "It was about celebrating life and lifting each other up. This year, I want to bring in younger voices who may not know about the Go Red for Women movement yet. I'd love to see more women-owned businesses at the Festival of Red before the luncheon, and, of course, hit our fundraising goal."

In her role as vice president of human resources at IBM, Swatek supports global teams across the employee lifecycle and champions leadership development, innovation and skill growth.

A Green Bay native and first-generation college graduate, Swatek earned both her undergraduate and graduate degrees from the University of Wisconsin. After stints in Raleigh, N.C. and Rochester, Minn., she now lives in LaGrange with her husband of 30 years, Brian, and their two children, Alex, 21, and Isabella, 17.

"It's about education and health – two things IBM cares deeply about," Swatek said. "The fact that we're a sponsor shows how much we value the Association's mission."

So, why should you attend the Luncheon?

"Why wouldn't you?" Swatek said. "It's a celebration of a powerful cause. You'll learn, connect, and walk away reminded of the incredible support system we have in this community."

Swatek has put together an Executive Leadership Team to work with her on making the Luncheon a success. They include:

Serino, Dept. of Mental Health to host Town Hall series

To strengthen outreach to residents and families impacted by intellectual and developmental disabilities, mental health and substance use challenges, and to gather their feedback on local services and programs, Dutchess County Executive Sue Serino and the Department of Mental Health (DMH) will host a series of Mental Health Town Halls across Dutchess County. Residents are invited to come and be a part of a conversation to learn about available services and resources, as well as share their feedback about needed resources or service changes. Four town halls will be held through September and October, with simultaneous Spanish interpretation offered at each event. Local community partners will also be present with information tables about available resources.

Serino said, "When it comes to mental health, every story matters. These town halls are about listening to our neighbors – hearing their struggles, their hopes, and their ideas – so we can make sure no one feels alone in trying to find help. We want to shine a light on the array of services that already exist, but just as importantly, we want to learn from you about what's missing and where we can do better. By coming together and sharing openly, we can make sure our services truly reflect the needs of our neighbors."

'Scenic Vistas: Landscape as Culture in Early New York' at Boscobel

Boscobel House and Gardens announces "Scenic Vistas: Landscape as Culture in Early New York," a sweeping new exhibition that brings together historic 19th-century decorative arts and contemporary works to demonstrate the longstanding significance of landscape depictions in the Hudson Valley. Their most expansive exhibition to date, Scenic Vistas will also mark the reopening of Boscobel's Historic House Museum for Preservation in Progress tours after a 17-month emergency restoration.

The exhibition showcases the range of landscape imagery abundant in ceramics, furniture, and other decorative arts created or known in New York before 1825, alongside contemporary works in conversation with the past.

"Our complex relationship to landscapes is at the heart of Hudson Valley life and culture," says Boscobel's Executive Director and Curator Jennifer Carlquist. "Early New Yorkers populated their homes with scenic views both real and imagined, and by the early 1800s created a thriving industry for decorative painters and artistic representations of landscapes."

A centerpiece of the exhibition is a rare set of six maple side chairs, made in New York circa 1815, each distinguished by a scenic painted tablet back. Though crushed in the April 2024 ceiling collapse, the chairs are now undergoing meticulous restoration, embodying both resilience and artistry. Representing nearly a decade of thoughtful acquisitions, these works reflect Boscobel's curatorial vision and core mission, while resonating with the evolving relationship between the house, its grounds, and the surrounding landscape.

In dialogue with these historic objects, the exhibition features contemporary works by artists living and working in the Hudson Valley, including Kat Howard, Betsy Jacks, Kieran Kinsella, and James McElhinney, alongside new site-specific commissions by Alison McNulty and Jean-Marc Sovak. Sovak's installation, Cruel Necessity/Unnecessary Cruelty, takes the form of a wallpaper print designed for Boscobel's entryhall. Drawing upon historical British and American archival prints and illustrations from 19th-century abolitionist publications, the work interlaces familiar narratives of national history with lesser-known, yet equally consequential, episodes tied to Boscobel's foundation. The resulting motif layers beauty with disquiet, prompting reflection on the intertwined legacies of landscape, labor, and cultural memory.

Another contemporary intervention is Hudson Valley Ghost Column 11, a site-specific installation by Alison McNulty, situated on the footprint of one of two Osborn Maples that framed Boscobel's Great Lawn since the site's opening as a museum in 1961. The latest in McNulty's ongoing series, this site-responsive work comprises a cylindrical form constructed of vintage bricks, sourced from brickyards once active near Boscobel's original estate in Montrose, and unprocessed Cormo sheep wool sourced from a historic Hudson Valley fiber farm. As material traces of the region's geological, industrial, and social history as well as the components of a new and unfamiliar construction, the Hudson Valley Ghost Columns allow the materials to act as agents, recalling multiple interwoven histories while becoming something other, a form evoking architecture, animal, and body simultaneously with absence.

Scenic Vistas underscores how these early expressions of landscape both predate and inform the celebrated work of the Hudson River School, reminding us that the artistic impulse to frame, idealize, and interpret the Hudson Valley has deep roots. The exhibition also coincides with the 200th anniversary of Thomas Cole's formative journey up the Hudson River, launching the movement often described as America's first painting tradition.

The playground

As the days start to shorten and the leaves on the trees start to turn golden, I am brought back to my school days at St. Peter's.

At St. Peter's School, we didn't have a playground as much as we had a gravel parking lot. There were no swings, slides, jungle gyms or monkey bars. What we did have was a big red inflated rubber ball from hell and we had... Dodgeball!

Every day, Sister Cecelia would line us up after lunch, give one of us the big red inflated rubber ball from hell, and turn us loose to our gravel parking lot/playground.

The choosing of the teams was as important as the game itself, with as many tears being shed for the pain of being chosen last as being hit with the red inflated rubber ball from hell.

Once the team-choosing ritual was completed, the games would begin. The lunch mothers would huddle together watching us as we would pound the living snot out of each other with the red inflated rubber ball from hell. To this day, I think they were laying bets on us. They would act as referee, medic, and scorekeeper.

The games were usually vicious and always ended with someone crying because they got hit the face with the red inflated rubber ball from hell.

Sister Cecelia would come to the door and ring the bell for us to come inside. As we lined up, we looked like prisoners of war. Torn pants, shirts, jackets, bloody noses, scraped knees and black eyes. The winner, or rather the last man standing, would get the honor of bringing the red inflated rubber ball from hell back inside to hand it over to Sister Cecelia. Triumphant.

When I got home, I had to explain to Mom how I had torn the knees to my school pants again and why the elbows to my coat were ripped. Mom always would bite the palm of her hand, shake her head and give me a snack.

Life was very simple back then. No cell phone, no computers, no social media. Just kids and a red inflated rubber ball from hell. Enjoy!

Rice Croquettes

Ingredients

1 cup diced pancetta
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 cups salted water
2 cups long grain white rice, uncooked
2 cups grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 cup Coppola's marinara sauce
1/4 cup dry bread crumbs
2 large eggs
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste
1 cup dry bread crumbs for coating vegetable oil for frying

Method

Bring rice and water to a boil in a saucepan over high heat. Reduce heat to medium-low, cover, and simmer until the rice is tender, and the liquid has been absorbed, 20 to 25 minutes.

Spread cooked rice onto a baking sheet to cool, about 5 minutes. Transfer rice to a large bowl.

Mix in pancetta, grated Parmesan cheese, Coppola's marinara sauce, 1/4 cup bread crumbs, eggs, parsley, salt, and ground pepper. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate for 1 hour.

Remove rice mixture from refrigerator and form 2-inch, football shaped croquettes. Roll croquettes in bread crumbs and place on a baking sheet.

Heat oil in a large skillet over medium-high heat; cook breaded croquettes until browned on all sides, about 10 minutes. Transfer to a plate lined with paper towels to absorb excess oil.

Serve with Coppola's Marinara Sauce for dipping.

Luigi Coppola is one of five brothers born to Francesca and Antonio Coppola. The Coppola family came to America from Naples, Italy in 1954. Antonio and his brothers opened their first restaurant in Poughkeepsie in 1961. Luigi and his brothers Nick, John, Antonio and Vincent have carried on the family tradition in the way their parents taught them, using classic recipes taught to them at their apron strings. Early Railroading in Dutchess County, the story of the William T. Hart Railroad Ferry

Following its completion in 1889, the Poughkeepsie Railway Bridge was a crucial link between New England and the United States' elaborate railroad network. It continued for over eighty years until its fiery demise in 1974, but prior to trains traveling by rail, a vastly different method of transportation was used to cross the Hudson River.

Join author and historian Alex Prizgintas with the Beacon Historical Society as he explores the early history of the Erie and West Shore railroads in Newburgh, Orange County as well as the service of the William T. Hart—a steam-powered barge that transported railroad cars from the late nineteenth century until the turn of the twentieth century from Newburgh to Fishkill Landing en route to New England.

The lecture will take place on Wednesday, Sept. 24 at 6 p.m. in the LaGrange Association Library in LaGrange.

The rise of railroad traffic between the Hudson River and Boston gave way to an intricate railroad network that connected almost every municipality in Dutchess County, with lines such as the Dutchess & Columbia, Boston, Hartford & Erie, and the Newburgh, Dutchess & Connecticut.

Weigela grows tons of tiny trumpets

If a cylinder and a bell got married, they would make a trumpet.

Found most often in bands and musical ensembles, trumpets have a powerful sound. Their music is often used to honor important events or individuals. They have a historical association with royalty and ceremony.

The shape of the trumpet contributes to its bright, piercing tone. The inside diameter of its tube is relatively consistent for most of its length. That distinguishes it from instruments like the cornet, which has a more conical bore (gradually widening tube) and a mellower sound.

In essence, the trumpet's shape can be described as a long pipe, with a mouthpiece at one end, a flared curve at the other, and a set of valves in the middle to manipulate the airflow and produce a variety of notes. To me, it's like a baby produced from the pairing of a cylinder and a bell.

Trumpets in unexpected places

In nature, the trumpet shape can be found in some unusual places. Chanterelles are flared-funnel-shaped mushrooms often used in savory dishes. The stentor, a protist, commonly found in freshwater throughout the world, has a characteristic trumpet shape that is particularly important in capturing its food. The Giant Triton and Queen Conch are marine snails which grow very large shells that have been used as horns due to their ability to resonate sound in their spiral shapes. Our outer ears act like the bell of a trumpet, gathering sound waves from the environment; Our ear canal acts as the lead pipe, further channeling and modifying the sound waves as they travel to the eardrum.

Flowers

Trumpet-shaped flowers abound because they have evolved to attract pollinators with long beaks or proboscises (tongues). Small Carpenter Bees and Bumblebees are both long-tongued pollinators that forage from flowers with deep floral tubes, such as the Wild Morning Glory (Calystegia), a climbing plant with white or pink trumpet-shaped flowers. Likewise, Hummingbirds are major pollinators of Trumpet Creeper (Campsis radicans), an aptly named vine with vibrant flowers of red, orange, or yellow.

The flowers of Calystegia are about 3 inches in length and width. Typically, one flower blooms at the points where leaves connect to the stem. The flowers of Campsis radicans are longer than those of the Wild Morning Glory, but the mouth of their trumpet is narrower. Trumpet Vines flower in clusters of two to eight per stem. Both grow along Rombout Road in LaGrange, as well as many other places in Dutchess County.

Vines vs Shrubs

Morning glories and trumpet creepers both grow on supporting structures. Sporadic pinkish-white blooms appear in a thicket of greenery when Calystegia takes over. Contrast that to the bevy of bright, beautiful flowers which are produced by Campsis radicans. But, keep your distance, because the trumpet vine is known to cause skin irritation.

Neither of those vines produce as many trumpet-like blossoms as the genus Weigela. Some species of the deciduous shrubs bloom more than once during a season. Flowers that appear are plentiful in white, pink, and red.

You can't choose your family

The Weigela genus is a member of the Honeysuckle Family. Like Calystegia and Campsis radicans, Asian Honeysuckles are invasive in Dutchess County. But, flowers on both native and non-domestic honeysuckles have tubular, albeit smaller trumpet-like blooms. So, it's not surprising that Weigela shares some DNA with them.

Say Wy-JEE-la or Vy-JEE-la

Some may even say WAY-guh-luh when referring to the Weigela Genus. The eponym was bestowed to commemorate the German scientist Christian Ehrenfried Weigel, who made contributions to the field of botany. So, when pronouncing the name for the genus, its acceptable to emphasize the first or second syllable, use a hard or soft "g," and start with a phonetic /w/ or /v/. But, do not end with the 'ia' sound. The plant is not called a Weigelia.

Amenia Historical Society to present program on 'Plight of a Loyalist'

The Amenia Historical Society invites the public to its first "Rev250" program, to hear author and historian Jay A. Campbell present "The Plight of a Loyalist," as revealed in The Journal of Cadwallader Colden, Jr., 1777-1779.

This event will be held on Saturday, Sept. 27 at 2 p.m. at the Smithfield Presbyterian Church, 656 Smithfield Valley Road, Amenia in the downstairs church hall.

Campbell, formerly from Orange County, where the Colden family resided 250 years ago, became intrigued by Colden's Journal and decided to transcribe it and research the saga therein. Campbell subsequently published an annotated copy of the Journal.

He will share his findings regarding the difficulties Colden faced as a prisoner of the transitional government of New York and why he was sent to Charlotte and Amenia Precincts of Dutchess County to appeal his case in 1777.

This Rev250 event is funded by a Dutchess County Government grant and is free to the public, with refreshments provided by the Amenia Historical Society.

The Hudson Valley Gospel Festival committee is pleased to announce the 6th Annual Hudson Valley Gospel Festival, set for Saturday, Sept. 27, at 2 p.m. at the Family Partnership Center, 29 North Hamilton Street, Poughkeepsie. Banksy ‘sly documentary’ to open 20th season of Movies with Spirit

The sly documentary “Exit Through the Gift Shop,” by mysterious street artist Banksy, screens at 7 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 20, at Unison Arts, 9 Paradies Lane in New Paltz. The showing kicks off the 20th annual season of the Movies With Spirit community film series.

Premiering at the Sundance Film Festival, the Banksy film became the first street art documentary ever nominated for an Academy Award, sweeping critics’ awards nationwide.

The brutal and revealing account of what happens when fame, money and vandalism collide tells the story of Thierry Guetta, an eccentric French immigrant in Los Angeles who obsessively films street artists with his camcorder. Among them is Banksy and his notorious 2006 Disneyland stunt, in which he placed a lifesize inflatable Guantanamo Bay detainee — hooded and dressed in orange prison coveralls — inside the Big Thunder Mountain Railroad area.

The inflatable detainee remained in place for 90 minutes before Disneyland security removed it.

Guetta was arrested but destroyed evidence that could reveal Banksy’s identity.

Banksy used the material to create a documentary about his stunt and turned the camcorder back on its owner to show

Guetta’s transformation into a street artist himself, going by the name “Mr. Brainwash.”

Narrated with dry wit, with Banksy’s face obscured and voice altered, the film offers an engrossing look at underground art — and a sharp reflection on artistic rebellion, myth-making and the spectacle of fame.

The 2010 film runs 87 minutes and is rated R. The screening will be followed by a discussion. Refreshments will be served. Attendees over age 12 are asked to contribute $10 a person.

The monthly film series, organized by Gerry Harrington of Kingston, seeks to stimulate joy and wonder, inspire love and compassion, and help people understand their connection with others and with life itself. It supports all cultures, faiths and beliefs while transcending them.

Screenings take place in diverse places of worship and culture in Ulster County at 7 p.m. on the third Saturday of every month. Movies With Spirit has no religious affiliation.

Eagle Scout candidate unveils restored Albany Post Road Mile Marker in Wappinger

Town of Wappinger officials joined Eagle Scout candidate Evan DiMatta of Troop 145 in unveiling a beautifully restored Colonial Albany Post Road Mile Marker — a key step toward earning his Eagle Scout rank. Evan worked alongside Town of Wappinger Supervisor Joseph Cavaccini, his fellow scouts, and community volunteers to return this 18th-century landmark to its former glory.

Senior Councilman William H. Beale, representing the First Ward where this marker stands, and Fourth Ward Councilman Al Casella also joined neighbors to celebrate this moment of preservation.

Once inscribed with "72 Miles to N. York," this mile marker is part of a chain installed along the original Post Road under the direction of Benjamin Franklin in colonial America. These markers served as vital reference points for mail carriers and travelers, guiding them between New York City and Albany — long before Route 9 became the modern thoroughfare we know today. The marker stands in front of Southside Plaza on Route 9.
