Rob Rolison

Julie Shiroishi

Compiled by Kristine Coulter
The candidates seeking the 39th District seat in the State Senate are Rob Rolison, the current mayor of the City of Poughkeepsie, and Julie Shiroishi, who has worked as chief of staff for Assemblyman Jonathan Jacobson. Rolison is on the Republican line. Shiroishi is on the Democratic and Working Families lines. The district covers the Dutchess County towns of Beekman, East Fishkill, Fishkill, LaGrange, Pawling, Poughkeepsie, Union Vale, Wappinger, the cities of Beacon and Poughkeepsie and the village of Pawling. The District also includes portions of Putnam and Orange counties. The two candidates were asked the same questions by Southern Dutchess News via email and their replies follow, which were answered by email.

Economy, abortion major issues for Ryan, Schmitt in District 18

Pat Ryan

Colin Schmitt

By Rich Thomaselli
Even under normal circumstances, the election of a United States congressman is an important race at the regional and state level, to say the least. For the midterm elections of 2022, however, it's a different story. The local race between Democrat Patrick Ryan and Republican Colin Schmitt for the seat representing New York's 18th Congressional District – which includes the bulk of Dutchess County except for the southern portion – has transcended the state. It now is of critical and national significance. This is a race that many observers and pundits have identified as being one that will tip the balance of power in the House of Representatives.

Imperati faces challenge from Hanlon for County Sheriff

By Rich Thomaselli

The race for Dutchess County Sheriff pits two long-time law enforcement members who share the common bonds of the uniform, but who are philosophically opposed on how to run the department. Acting Sheriff Kirk Imperati and former Deputy Sheriff Jillian Hanlon are at the opposite ends of the spectrum. This will be the first Dutchess County Sheriff's election that won't feature someone named Scoralick or Anderson in almost two generations. Fred Scoralick was the county Sheriff from 1978 until he was succeeded by his Undersheriff, Butch Anderson, in 1999. Anderson passed away in September of 2021 and his Undersheriff of 14 years, Imperati, became Acting Sheriff. That's just one trend that Hanlon is looking to buck. "That's almost 50 years, and that's too long. I had intended on retiring and building a little house in the woods and writing a memoir. When Butch died, I realized I was the best candidate," Hanlon said. "The sheriff's office has been handed down from generation to generation. It shouldn't be." Hanlon is also looking to set another kind of precedent – in 2015 she transitioned from a man to a woman and would become the first transgender sheriff in state history. Hanlon

Rolison, Shiroishi vie for 39th Senate seat

Our district's challenges are a microcosm of the state's. Albany is a mess. Out-of-touch politicians in the state capital are making us less safe with their dangerous bail laws while people and businesses flee for more welcoming environments. This unfolding disaster can only be arrested with better collaborative leadership focused on solutions and an end to one-party rule.

What are your specific goals if elected?

Reduce the high cost of living and address the quality-of-life crisis for working families and taxpayers. Confront the growing crime problem in New York. Bring honesty, integrity, and bipartisan leadership back to state government.

What in your experience will help you attain these goals?

I've served the public as mayor of the City of Poughkeepsie since 2016. Prior to that I was a member of the Dutchess County Legislature for 12 years, including its chairman six years in a row. I spent a nearly 30-year career in law enforcement protecting our community. I'm ready to take this leadership with real results to Albany starting on day one.

Will you accept the results of the election, even if you/your party does not win? What would prompt you to challenge the results?

Yes, I believe in the peaceful transfer of power as part and parcel of the American way.

JULIE SHIROISHI

What are the most important issues the district is facing? The state? Please be specific.

During the pandemic, the Hudson Valley has seen a huge influx of new residents. This has sent housing prices skyrocketing and that's on top of the record inflation we've all experienced this year. We need to make sure that residents who are living here now can afford to stay here. That means building more affordable housing, including for families and seniors.

We are also facing a crisis in teaching and healthcare, both in-home and at healthcare facilities. Both were already struggling with recruitment and the pandemic just accelerated the crisis. We need to provide incentives such as free tuition or stipends for those interested in entering these fields before it's too late. We must also enforce the state's new safe staffing laws at hospitals and nursing homes.

On a broader level, New York needs to ensure that our residents' rights and freedoms are protected whatever the Supreme Court decides. At a moment when more and more decisions are being rolled back to the states, we can't afford to take what happens in New York for granted. Choice, gun safety, marriage equality—all of things and more are on the ballot.

What are your specific goals if elected?

When President Biden was at IBM earlier this month, he announced a $20 billion investment in semi-conductor manufacturing that will revitalize this area. I want to ensure that it's members of our local workforce that are filling these jobs as well as the good-paying jobs that are already here in skilled manufacturing, the building trades, the booming film and television industry, and the growing wave of green infrastructure jobs we'll need to transition away from our dependency on fossil fuels.

For too long, we've followed a one-size-fits-all educational model where the end goal is college immediately after high school. Now, we are at a moment where we have college grads with tens of thousands of dollars or more in debt and no way to pay it off. At the same time, local employers and unions are struggling to recruit for good-paying jobs that can't be outsourced or replaced by technology. We need to make sure we are providing robust career and technical training as well as apprenticeship opportunities to keep kids engaged in school and to set them on pathways for future success.

What in your experience will help you attain these goals?

I have worked in the state legislature as chief of staff to Assemblymember Jacobson, so I already know how state government is structured and how to navigate it. Our office helped many constituents with issues relating to unemployment, Central Hudson billing, and many other issues. I've also worked on legislation and to help secure grants for organizations and local governments.

Prior to that, I worked in the private sector in publishing and as a writer and editor. That experience has taught me that clear communication is critical to success in any endeavor.

Will you accept the results of the election, even if you/your party does not win? What would prompt you to challenge the results?

Of course. I will accept the results whatever they are. I believe in American democracy and in our free and fair elections.

The race is a case study in personal similarities and political contrasts. Ryan and Schmitt both have military backgrounds. Ryan is a West Point graduate who served as an Army intelligence officer, while Schmitt is a member of the National Guard. Both have long-time experience as public servants. Ryan is the former Ulster County Executive who won a special election in August to fill the remainder of the term in the 19th Congressional District vacated when Antonio Delgado resigned to become New York's Lieutenant Governor.

Schmitt is a current New York State Assemblyman.

But not enough for the economy not to be a continued point of debate between the two men.

"We see a continuing housing crunch in the Hudson Valley. It's only been exasperated by the Biden economy. We need to get inflation under control," Schmitt said during a recent debate at Marist College.

Ryan said it's been an ongoing problem, not just an issue tied to, or to be blamed on, President Joe Biden.

Jacobson opponent-free as he seeks re-election in 104th A.D.

Compiled by Kristine Coulter

Assemblyman Jonathan Jacobson is running for re-election for the 104th Assembly District. Jacobson, who is running on the Democratic line, has no opponent. In Dutchess County, the 104th District includes the cities of Beacon and Poughkeepsie.

Questions were sent from Southern Dutchess News to Jacobson. The following are his responses.

Asked what the most important issues facing the district and state are, Jacobson replied gun violence, reproductive rights, education, workforce development and “the Central Hudson billing-fiasco.”

“As we all are aware, our nation is suffering through a plague of gun violence which, unfortunately, affects us here in the Hudson Valley,” said Jacobson. Too many illegal guns. Too many guns, both legal and illegal, in the hands of those who are mentally ill or who are likely to cause harm to themselves or others.”

Jacobson said, “This is why we strengthened the “Red Flag Laws” to get guns out of the hands of those who are likely to cause harm to themselves or others. This is a strict court process that law enforcement, school administrators and family members can bring.”

He said, “I have long advocated in closing the iron pipeline – I-95 – along which guns are funneled to New York. This is key and we must work with the other states to stop the flow of illegal guns which are not manufactured here in the Hudson Valley.” He noted he has also supported the elimination of “ghost guns” which are made on 3-D Printers and are undetectable since they are not made of metal.

Regarding reproductive right, Jacobson said, “New York must continue to protect our reproductive freedoms. A woman’s decision to have an abortion should be made by that woman. Period. I was proud to co-sponsor the Reproductive Health Act which codifying Roe v. Wade into New York law. We must also pass the Equality Amendment which would safeguard reproductive rights in our State Constitution”

The Assemblyman remarked he is “proud that the State now fund our school districts at 100% of Foundation Aid or greater. We also now fund Pre-K outside of New York City so that school districts I represent can expand or implement Pre-K for the first time. We need to end the reliance on the local property tax to fund our schools. We must also require courses in financial literacy in our high schools.”

Jacobson stated about workforce development, “Just as we can’t build a bridge to nowhere, we must make sure that we have accountability in our workforce development programs to make sure that workers are place in productive and good-paying jobs. There are thousands of machinists and other high-paying blue-collar jobs that go unfilled due to lack of training. We need to correct that.”

Regarding Central Hudson billing, Jacobson said, “I have been working hard to get Central Hudson to bill properly on a regular basis without the use of estimated billing. I have a bill to address that.”

Jacobson replied about his accomplishments while in office, “I am proud to have passed a law to require the Public Service Commission to study the feasibility of burying power and transmission lines, so we don’t have to live in fear of outages every time there is a windstorm.”

He also noted, “I also passed a bill to prevent conflicts at the Industrial Development Agency (IDA). No one who is working for the on the IDA Board or working for the IDA, can take a position with an entity applying or receiving IDA benefits.” Jacobson noted, “If a person violates this law and gets paid, the person would pay a penalty of five times the amount received. A prohibition without a penalty is not a deterrent. This bill has a strong deterrent.”

As for the future, Jacobson said, “I would like to continue the progress on voting reforms. I passed a law requiring the Board of Elections, when a polling site is moved, to place a notice on yellow paper at the old site notifying voters where the new polling place is. The notice is required to be posted before the start of early voting through Election or Primary Day.”

He said, “I want us to pass an amendment to the State constitution for no-reason absentee voting.”

“Frontline healthcare workers can't even afford to live in our community. (That) we need more housing, federal money and resources is a major priority of mine,” Ryan said.

Ryan has spent more – and raised more – than Schmitt, especially of late. According to the publication City & State, Ryan raised $2.25 million in the third quarter of this year from July through September, though his campaign spent about $1.6 million of that on the special election when he defeated Republican Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro.

Schmitt’s representatives told the media outlet that the Republican Assemblyman raised more than a half-million dollars during that same period but, without having had to spend money like Ryan in a special election, still has a war chest comparable to Ryan as we close in on the November 8 election.

“Our campaign has the funding to get Rep. Ryan’s story out to voters with Election Day five weeks away, and this fundraising haul is just one piece of evidence that the Congressman has the momentum to win in November,” Ryan Campaign Manager Chris Walsh told City & State. “The response Pat receives on the campaign trail and in the polls shows the resonance of his message and ability to take on right-wing extremism at the ballot box.”

Not so fast, says Schmitt Campaign Manager Taylor Weyeneth.

“Despite the unprecedented spending on negative advertising funded by both Pat Ryan and (House Speaker) Nancy Pelosi’s political operation, their barrage of deceitful attacks have barely moved the needle and the race is a dead heat coming down the homestretch,” Weyeneth responded. “Every day, we are experiencing growing momentum and enthusiasm, which demonstrates why Joe Biden is coming to the district to try to prop up Pat Ryan’s floundering campaign,” a reference to Biden’s visit earlier this month to the IBM plant in the Town of Poughkeepsie.

Spending money on ads is nice, of course, but it still comes down to voter issues. And one of the biggest is the ongoing national debate on abortion rights, a particular topic of contention between Ryan and Schmitt. Earlier this year, the Supreme Court overturned the landmark Roe v. Wade ruling from more than 50 years ago, returning the decision on abortions to the individual states.

During the recent debate at Marist, Schmitt said he is against late-term abortions and anyone other than doctors performing the procedure. Ryan said the SCOTUS decision is not in line with how most of the country now feels about abortions more than half-a-century after the initial decision.

At a monthly meeting of the Ulster County Chamber of Commerce in September, both men were invited to speak and went at it over abortion rights, according to the Kingston Daily Freeman. Ryan said the decision should not be taken out of the hands of women.

“I feel pretty strongly this goes squarely against who we are as a country, who we are as a nation,” Ryan said.

Schmitt countered by saying that “Eighty-one percent of Americans disagree with my opponent’s extreme position.”

Vote with gratitude for democracy

To the Editor:

As Quakers, friends and neighbors, we are deeply concerned about the increasing polarization in our country. Our faith teaches us that every person is a child of God. We value respectful, equitable, and honest treatment in all our relationships and nonviolent resolution of our differences.

We are grateful to live in a country where we can go to the polls with our neighbors and express our preferences through casting our vote. As we go vote, let us do so with gratitude for our democracy and respect for one another.

Convinced Fieldstein will bring ‘enthusiasm’ for position if elected to 105th A.D.

To the Editor:

I’m supporting Jill Fieldstein for New York State Assembly in District 105.

I’ve already witnessed Jill’s zeal and enthusiasm for the position she is sure to serve honorably. Jill has supported efforts to preserve free speech and assembly on the local level. She spends much of her time listening to voters in the district with a keen perspective on how she can be of service. With backgrounds in communications and law Jill Fieldstein is uniquely qualified to communicate the needs of her constituents to the legislature, and to incorporate solutions into effective legislation.

Jill Fieldstein knows the value of firearms, and advocates for responsible ownership. Jill knows the importance of the entrepreneurial spark and the need to kindle it. She also appreciates the value of our senior citizens and the need for quality affordable housing.

I’ve personally seen Jill in action, and I’m firmly convinced she will be a fine legislator for both you and me. I plan to vote for Jill Fieldstein this Election Day.

Former Beacon councilman supports Shiroishi for NYS Senate

To the Editor:

I am Terry Nelson, former two-term councilmember for the City of Beacon, and I’m writing to voice my support for Julie Shiroishi, candidate for the New York State Senate District 39. Julie is a dear friend of mine who has always been very active in our community especially when it comes to improving our school district and advocating growing our economy in the City of Beacon. As State Senator, she will take that kind of fierce advocacy and bring it to the 39th Senate district of New York State. Like myself, Julie is a strong advocate for protecting a woman’s right to choose as well as sensible gun reform legislation. She will bring her experience in the private sector and as a working mother to the table as well. Julie is one of us. Her determination and grit are assets that will only help our district and give us the representation in the state senate that we crave and deserve. Julie understands that now is not the time for politics as usual. We need someone in the state senate that can display empathy while fighting the good fight for us in Albany.

Julie is thoughtful, deliberative, and worthy of our trust. I urge you to vote for her.

New York needs a change - vote for Zeldin

To the Editor:

The average New Yorker is struggling with high food prices, oil prices, gas prices, over doses due to illegal drugs, a border crisis which is causing havoc on the New York state economy, increase in crime due to NY's policies and the need for parental rights.

Recently there was a shooting at Newburgh Free Academy in Orange County, another at Antonella’s Italian Restaurant in Fishkill, and on Sunday morning, October 2, at the Courtyard Marriott Hotel in the Town of Poughkeepsie, where 53-year-old Paul Kutz of Long Island was killed in crossfire.

On Oct. 14 local John Jay High School was closed because of a threat of violence.

This is credited to the insane policy of Defund the Police. We lost many great officers and more criminals out because of no cash bail. There is no regard for the victim.

The teachers union has fired 800 teachers in NY for not getting vaccinated. The majority of New Yorkers have had it and there is mounting evidence it’s ineffectual (Joe Biden vaccinated/boosted 4 times and got Covid 2x) not to mention the pandemic is over. Janine Small, Pfizer's president of international developed markets admitted that the vaccine had never been tested on its ability to prevent transmission. So how can we fire people?

Inflation up the highest in 40 years. Groceries are so high we have to make the choice between heating or eating. And we ARE in a recession.

WE need a change in New York so we can feel safe, afford food, afford heat, stop the increase of drugs, end discriminatory vax mandates, allow parents rights in education.

I am voting for Lee Zeldin. New York needs a change!

Police Conference of New York Endorses Anil Beephan for New York State Assembly

To the Editor:

I chose your distinguished newspaper to announce that I have received the Police Conference of New York (PCNY) endorsement of my candidacy for the New York State Assembly. The PCNY is the state's largest police organization, representing over 50,000 members.

I am honored to receive the PCNY endorsement and I thank the membership for their support. I look forward to strengthening our partnership in Albany, where I vow to promote legislation that gives police officers the tools they need to keep our communities safe.

As a Town Councilman, I oversee one of the largest police departments in Dutchess County, giving me the insights and knowledge needed to combat Cashless Bail Reform and advocate for public safety initiatives.

As NYS Assemblyman, I vow to:

- Vote to REPEAL Cashless Bail
- Vote to return Control Back to Judges
- Always support Law Enforcement

Together, we can ensure that our heroes in uniform have the necessary resources to serve the public better and keep our communities safe.

Reader voting Zeldin, Schmitt in November election

To the Editor:

PoliticsNY just reported that NYC politician Dan Goldman is funding NY-18 Congressional Candidate Pat Ryan’s Campaign. The other candidate that Dan Goldman funded was Manhattan District Attorney Alvin Bragg (<https://politicsny.com/2022/10/17/cd10-nominee-dan-goldman-launches-pac-to-assist-democrats-in-tight-races-3-weeks-before-primary/>). Bragg is the District Attorney who ordered his prosecutors to downgrade felony charges for drug dealings and armed robbery. Pay Ryan’s campaign is funded on the same money that elected Alvin Bragg. A soft on crime agenda is not what our community stands for (https://nypost.com/2022/07/14/wannabe-pol-daniel-goldman-preaches-tough-on-crime-backed-da-bragg/?fbclid=IwAR0lWTwqpEorPzYstoSYM1e3whzogfRd\_wrlPuyFvBjX6v\_-JTTPDmIhPms). Spectrum news just released a report that overdose deaths continue to rise in NY by 21%. The Hudson Valley does not want a NYC soft on crime funded congressman.

I am voting for Lee Zeldin for Governor because the first thing he will do is fire Manhattan DA Alvin Bragg. I am also voting for Colin Schmitt because we have a chance to stop one of Dan Goldman’s NY disasters. Schmitt is the candidate for congress that is tough on crime and is ready to tackle the scourge that is fentanyl in our community.

Shiroishi will get area ‘resources it needs’

To the Editor:

Julie Shiroishi is the state senator we need in Albany. Compassionate and hard-working, Julie has common sense ideas to develop good-paying jobs in the area for our families and to protect our rights. I have known Julie less than a year, but I have been impressed with her drive and creativity. She has already reached out to Hudson Valley employers and asked them what kind of training they would like to see happen so that they can hire locally. She has identified ways to give young people an option to train for these jobs, whether they want to go to college or not. With housing costs in our area rising rapidly, she also wants to enable investment in affordable housing and protect renters.

Julie will defend our civil rights and our safety here in New York despite what happens at the federal level. She believes in reproductive autonomy for everyone, the right to feel safe from mass shootings, and government accountability. She wants to strengthen our schools and our infrastructure and protect the environment.

I believe in Julie’s ideas, her strength, and her ability to work in Albany to get our area the resources we need. I hope everyone will join me in voting for Julie on November 8.

State grant, community donations support Putnam Hospital’s Birthing Center reopening

State grant monies and generous community donations of $1 million have breathed new life into Putnam Hospital’s Birthing Center.

Following the temporary suspension of delivery services in the Birthing Center in March, renovations to the unit recently began in preparation for a reopening sometime in the next few months.

The upgrades are being partially subsidized through three major sources totaling $1 million. These include a $500,000 state grant secured by New York State Sen. Peter Harkham, $250,000 from the Kearney Realty and Development Group and $250,000 from the Putnam Community Foundation.

The $500,000 state appropriation, funded through the Community Local Community Assistance Program (CLCAP), will help ensure continued access to maternity care for thousands of greater Putnam County residents while also offsetting roughly 25 percent of the renovation’s projected cost.

“This community hospital is one of the most important assets in Putnam County, but without a Birthing Center it cannot be viable,” said Harkham. “The newly renovated Birthing Center will allow for new revenue streams to help the hospital financially, and also create new memories for countless families.”

“Putnam Hospital is the only hospital in Putnam County, and it is so important to our community,” developer Ken Kearney said. “The renovation of the Birthing Center is a first step toward a new future for Putnam Hospital — and an impactful one. Throughout people’s lives, they will be asked, ‘Where were you born?’ and I want members of our community to be able to say they were born in Putnam County.”

In addition, the Putnam Community Foundation committed $250,000. The foundation’s chairman, Joseph DiVestea, and his family have been longtime supporters of Putnam Hospital.

“Putnam Hospital has always provided quality care for our family and that started with the birth of both of our children at the Birthing Center,” both DiVestea and his wife, Corrinne, said. “We felt with the recent temporary closing of the Birthing Center, we were happy to help bring back the care our community deserves.”

Harkham, Kearney and the DiVesteas recently joined Putnam Hospital President Dr. Mark Hirko for a tour of the Birthing Center to check out the renovations underway. Some refurbishments include dimmable LED light fixtures and new procedure lights in the Labor, Delivery and Recovery rooms, HVAC system upgrades, as well as décor and ambience improvements throughout the unit.

The 12,000-square-foot Birthing Center will feature seven patient rooms, two on-call suites, operating room, scrub room, nurse station, waiting area, well baby nursery, conference room, staff lounge and medication room. Estimated costs for the renovations are between $1 million and $2 million.

“We are so grateful for the support of our community partners in helping to bring back a vital service in Putnam County,” Dr. Hirko said. “This is an invigorating start to the future growth and success of maternal care in our region.”

VOTE IN THE 2022 ELECTION

Voters to choose between Maloney, Lawler in 17th C.D.

Compiled by Kristine Coulter
For the 17th U.S. Congressional District seat, incumbent Sean Patrick Maloney will face challenger Mike Lawler. Maloney represents the 18th Congressional District. Then redistricting took place. Voters in the towns of Beekman, East Fishkill, Pawling and the village of Pawling will choose between Maloney and Lawler, an assemblyman. The 17th Congressional District includes much of Westchester County, all of Putnam and Rockland counties, as well as parts of Dutchess County. Lawler is running on the Republican and Conservative lines. Maloney is running on the Democratic and Working Families lines.
The two candidates were asked the same questions by Southern Dutchess News via email and their replies follow, which were answered by email.

SEAN PATRICK MALONEY
What are the most important issues the district is facing? The country?
From health care and prescription drugs to housing and energy costs, the average working-class family is being forced to make tough choices because costs are rising while their incomes and wages remain the same. I am proud to have helped pass legislation to cap prescription drug costs for seniors, lower energy prices for all Americans, and invest in our economy to create more good-paying jobs that can support a family here in the Hudson Valley. But we can and must do more to bring costs down, address inflation, stop corporate price gouging, and support the small businesses and job creation that are the bedrock of our economy.
Other vital issues include: public safety and reducing gun violence, protecting reproductive rights, rebuilding our infrastructure, ensuring clean drinking water, and investing in our education system.

How do you think any national trend is going to affect what you do or don't do if elected?
I will always put the Hudson Valley's interest first. While we must adapt to changing circumstances in the world around us, from changes in the economy to natural disasters, no national trend will ever shake my focus from the needs of our communities here in NY-17. I will always fight to support lower costs and make life more affordable. I will always support small businesses and efforts to create good-paying jobs. I will always support law enforcement and provide them with the resources they need to keep our communities safe.

Recently, our nation has faced unacceptable inflation as a result of supply chain issues, Putin's war, and price gouging by greedy corporations. This is a national issue that has real effects on families locally. I have stood up for our communities by introducing legislation to hold corporations accountable for price gouging and helping pass bills to lower costs directly, including energy and prescription drug prices. As I've done throughout my time in Congress, when faced with national challenges, I will push for solutions that meet the needs of the Hudson Valley.
If elected, how will you balance the variety of needs of your district with the partisan environment in Washington D.C.?
Putting the needs of our district first means putting partisanship aside. I have a record of cutting through DC gridlock to deliver real results for the Hudson Valley, regardless of which party is in power, because I will work with anyone if it means making progress for our communities. That's how I've passed more than 40 bills into law, returned millions in taxpayer money to our district, and delivered on vital issues like banning oil barges from anchoring on the Hudson River.

Mike Lawler

In just the past two years, I was proud to work across the aisle to pass major bipartisan bills to move our nation's infrastructure and economy forward. I helped draft the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law, which delivered funding for the MTA and is creating millions of good-paying, union jobs to rebuild our nation's roads, bridges, water infrastructure, and more. Just this summer, we also passed the bipartisan CHIPS and Science Act, which is revitalizing American manufacturing, including right here in the Hudson Valley. In fact, just last week, IBM announced they are investing $20 BILLION in the Hudson Valley, which means thousands of jobs you can raise a family on are coming to our communities.
MIKE LAWLER
What are the most important issues the district is facing? The country?
One party rule in Washington, Albany, and New York City has created a mess. We are dealing with record levels of inflation, skyrocketing energy costs, and surging crime. We need to restore balance and common sense at every level of government and ensure that Hudson Valley families can continue to live here safely and affordably.

In order to get our economy back on track and reduce inflation, we must cut out-of-control spending, lower taxes, and enact regulatory reform. We must also get back on the path to energy independence, which is the only long-term solution to drive down skyrocketing energy costs. Natural gas is a bridge towards helping us achieve our goals of net-zero carbon emissions and we must increase production, as we continue to invest in renewable energy.
When it comes to crime, we need to stand with our police and ensure dangerous criminals are kept behind bars. In Albany, I've led the charge to repeal the disastrous cashless bail law my opponent once called his top priority. In Washington, I'll be a voice for our law enforcement heroes and will fight to ensure our communities are safe again.
How do you think any national trend is going to affect what you do or don't do if elected?
In Washington, my focus will not be on national trends but on fighting for the needs of Hudson Valley families. If the economic downturn continues – and all indicators suggest that it is only going to worsen – decisive action will be needed to get our economy on the right track. I'm running for Congress to fight for Hudson Valley families. I'm proud of my proven record of putting people over politics and I will not waiver in my commitment to the constituents of the 17th District.
If elected, how will you balance the variety of needs of your district with the partisan environment in Washington D.C.?
As a Republican elected to a State Assembly district that is 2-1 Democrat in party registration, I am proud of my record as one of the most bipartisan members of the state legislature, including having had more bills passed than any other Republican legislator. I will bring that same common-sense pragmatic leadership to Washington that I have brought to Albany.

has more than 37 years' experience of public safety, including as a paramedic, firefighter, corrections officer, and police officer. But she stressed that she also has what it takes for the other aspects of the job – budget- and policy-making experience.

"I have been responsible for a number of policies," Hanlon said. "Here's a great example of why people should vote for me. In December of 2019, I was assigned to identify threats to the completion of the (county jail) project and I was very interested in the trade war going on with China and it deeply affected the use of steel. I noted that the Chinese were building a lot of hospitals, and also quarantining people at the same time. I relayed my concerns to the previous sheriff's office administration and they were all about COVID-denials and I was told to stand down. When the virus hit (the U.S. in early 2020), we did not have a full complement of N-95 respiratory masks. In less than a day I was able to produce a full load of OSHA-compliant masks. That's the kind of foresight voters need to see."

As Undersheriff, Imperati has been in that decision-making position for some time. Anderson relied heavily on Imperati during his 14 years as the county's No. 2 in the department. He ran the day-to-day operations of the Sheriff's Office, oversaw and implemented the county's School Resource Officer (SRO) Program some 21 years ago, and was architect of the department's police modernization program that was approved last year. That includes the implementation of body cameras.

Imperati is well-respected in the department, in the county, and in the state for many years of behind-the-scenes work that now has put him the spotlight for the last 13 months and, he hopes, for years to come starting on November 8.

"I'm proud to say that the SRO program has become one of the best in the state," Imperati said. "Your home should be the safest place you can be and our schools should be the second-safest place for our children. It's all about public safety. You and your family's safety and security is my priority."

Though Hanlon has brought politics into question during the campaign, questioning staffing shortages at the new County Jail as well as expenses, Imperati has tried to stay above the fray of party lines when it comes to policing. There is only so much he can do due to county and state budgets, he noted, and did say that corrections officers at the jail are overworked at the moment.

But he also said there have been 38 new hires this year as he and his staff continue to work hard on recruitment, as well as keeping open dialogue with labor management and union leaders. He said he believes the staffing situation "will be vastly improved" going forward.

"To me, the position (of Dutchess County Sheriff) is not a political office," he said. "It doesn't matter to me when you call for help. Whoever you are, we're going to jump to help. We're here to protect everybody."

Imperati said he also believes he has an advantage having served as Anderson's right-hand man.

"I've watched from the sidelines and I am very prepared," he said. "It's been a seamless transition from Undersheriff to [Acting] Sheriff. I've been proactive, and not reactive. We've worked hard to share information with other local law enforcement units. Our administrative staff is amazing."

As for the hot-button issue of bail reform, Imperati said it's been difficult to conduct the business of law enforcement of late, but is keeping an open mind and working to try to help resolve issues among the political parties.

"It's difficult because we investigate, we make an arrest, we process them, and then that individual in some cases is out on the street committing the same crime," Imperati said. "We have approached our state senators, other people in government, and asked them to hard a long look into bail reform and to allow our judges to post bail at their discretion. If it's a high-risk offender, a judge should be able to set bail."

Hanlon, who agreed with Imperati on the urgency of school violence, said that the Sheriff's Office needs to take it a step further and become a national leader for reformative measures and to reduce the amount of recidivism.

"People have spoken to me about street violence, gun violence, but school violence is one of my specialties," Hanlon said. "If there's one thing that ties rampage shootings together, it's not racism, not mental illness, it's a profound sense of disconnection. Uvalde is literally like a case history on what not to do. This child had a very chaotic homelife, did not have a lot of emotional support, did not receive any attention at school, and nobody followed up on why he was truant. ... So is the SRO going to prevent a tragedy? Absolutely not. But it's not so much the physical presence of the SRO as a deterrent but rather the deep personal relationship the SRO makes with students that can provide an early intervention."

Imperati said the county SROs already do that.

Asked for his final message, Imperati again stressed that "I am not a political person; I am working in a position that needs to be elected. My bottom line is, I am everyone's Sheriff. I will help everyone."

Celebrate Halloween during numerous municipalities’ events set for this weekend

By Kristine Coulter
Halloween is a wonderful time to see a child dressed-up as a witch. Or maybe a kid dressed in a tiger costume or even a unique homemade one. The towns of Poughkeepsie, East Fishkill and Wappinger will host their annual Halloween events this weekend.

Children’s Costume Parade in Town of Poughkeepsie
The Town of Poughkeepsie Recreation Department is ready to welcome visitors for its annual Trunk or Treat event on October 29, from noon to 2 p.m. at Greenvale Park, 2260 New Hackensack Road, in Poughkeepsie.

“The Hudson Valley Ghostbusters will be there. There will be pumpkin painting, Bee Bee the Clown and Bob Martinson with music,” said Janet McHugh, the recreation director for the town.

The Children’s Costume Parade is at 1 p.m. There will be games, prizes and treats for those that attend.

“If anyone wants to volunteer to decorate their vehicle, call to register,” noted McHugh.

Assistant recreation Director C.J. Pourakis noted, “This year the Department is actually going to decorate their own vehicles.”

The Town’s water, highway and police departments will also be in attendance, he remarked.

“It’s a great event to attend to meet up with friends, neighbors, and family, and have a great time with the kids in a safe environment,” said Poughkeepsie Town Supervisor Jay Baisley.

There will be 150 pumpkins for the first 150 children in attendance.

The members of the Recreation Department wish to thank Fino Farms, Shop Rite, Vera Pizza, Adams Fairacre Farms, Stop & Shop, RGH Construction,

Tom Colgan, Mike Simon, the Town of Poughkeepsie Police Dept., and “our amazing Recreation crew.”

Mark Richards, with the department, said “kids will have room to run around” and show their costumes.

Halloween Parade set for Sunday
The Halloween Parade and Party in East Fishkill will be held at Mill Creek Catering, 17 Route 376, in East Fishkill on October 30, from 3 - 5 p.m. This event is for residents of East Fishkill only.

“We will pretty much be continuing the program we’ve done the past three years at Mill Creek. There will be an outdoors parade around the facility for 3 & under, 4-7, 8 & older and adults,” said Bill Green, the recreation director for East Fishkill.

Children 3 and younger will receive a prize. Prizes will also be given to all the best costumes. Every participant will receive a goodie bag with treats, remarked Green.

“In addition to the fun parade there will be refreshments (donuts and cider) and musical entertainment with Bob Martinson and additional prizes for dance participants in costume,” he said.

As for why it is important to host events like these for the community, Green replied it is to “give residents of all ages an opportunity to meet, get together, escape the kitchen or backyard and have fun.”

Green offered thanks to Mill Creek Catering for opening its facility and hosting this event, providing great Halloween decorations and refreshments for all in attendance. “Thanks also to the East Fishkill senior citizens for filling up 300 bags of Halloween treats and to our volunteer judges who pick the best costumes,” remarked Green.

‘Golden Pumpkins’ to be awarded in Wappinger

Wappinger Recreation will host its annual Trunk or Treat at 1 – 3 p.m. on October 29 at Schlathaus Park, 126 All Angels Road in Wappinger.

Golden Pumpkins will be awarded to kids ages 0-3, 4-6, 7-9, and 10-13 for cutest, funniest, scariest, and most original costumes. There will be an award for “Best Family” costume.

“A Trunk or Treat really brings the community together because these events are driven by community participation from both sides,” said Jessica Fulton, the recreation director for the Town of Wappinger. “We need community members to bring their vehicles to decorate and had out candy to the kids, and we need kids to come on out and join us to be our Trunk or Treaters!”

Fulton said, “The people who come on out and set up a trunk at the event are the true backbone of the event though. Without them, we wouldn’t be able to pull off the event at all. She noted, “We are always looking for more people to come out to set up a trunk. It’s a great way to get involved in your community.”

Those who are interested in registering to set up a trunk can find more information at wappingerrecreation.com.

Beacon Players to perfrom new show about Wicked Witch of the West, written by local author

By Paige McCredo
Beacon High School Sophomore

“Green With Hunger” is a 45-minute play, written by Meghan Arcuri, directed and performed by members of the Beacon Players, the theater group at Beacon High School. This comedic play features the Wicked Witch of the West before the “Wizard of Oz,” with a creative twist that you don’t want to miss! This play was written by Hudson Valley local Arcuri, who is a Bram Stoker Award-nominated author. Her work can be found in various anthologies, including Borderlands 7 and other great horror books.

“Green with Hunger” “is a dark comedy about a beloved villain: the Wicked Witch of the West. She’s been infected with a disease known as “the taste,” and she’s hungry. Hungry for people,” explained Arcuri.

One can see this show at Beacon High School, 101 Matteawan Road, in Beacon on October 28th at 7:30 p.m., 29th at 7:30 p.m., and 20th at 2 p.m. Seating is limited to 200 seats per performance. All tickets are $5 and can be purchased at beacon-players.com.

“Green with Hunger” was originally a short story, noted Arcuri, “it took me about a week or two to write. Since I hardly ever write plays, adapting it for the stage took a little longer; I had to figure out formatting, as well as how to work without a narrative.”

The play is directed by Beacon High School senior Jonah Mensch. When asked about what inspired him, he responded, “I’ve choreographed small musical numbers, small scenes, but never an entire show from beginning to end, so that challenge was very enticing to me.” He was also inspired by a book he read from the writer of “Into The Woods,” James Lapine.

As a senior at Beacon High School, Mensch had to balance both getting-ready to graduate and directing the play. His excitement about directing motivates him to get his schoolwork done. He feels that this is a great fit for the successful Beacon Players because “we’ve done a lot of shows in recent years that are well known and grandiose, this has never been done before, it’s relatively short, and it’s a surprise! We have the creative control to make it whatever we want.”

“Other than some ideas we discussed at an initial meeting with [Anthony] Scarrone (Beacon Players director) and Jonah Mensch – as well as seeing Nico McKibble’s awesome poster – I don’t know exactly what the Beacon Players are cooking up. I will be as surprised as the other audience members.

“I am especially looking forward to how the students interpret it. While writing it, I had a clear vision about what was happening on the page. But that’s the fun thing about reading: everyone comes to a story with a unique set of life experiences that color one’s interpretation. How I see it may not be how they do. And that’s fantastic. I’m also curious about how they will handle the more speculative/supernatural parts of the story. That will require some creativity, but I am sure Jonah and his team are up to the task,” Arcuri remarked.

As for why one should come to see the performances, Arcuri said, “People should come to support the students! I used to do theatre way back in the day (with Mr. Scarrone, in fact), and I remember how hard we all worked (cast and crew). I was always excited to have friends, family, faculty – anyone, really – come see the show. To see the fruit of our months-long labor. It was a rush, and I’m excited for the students to have that. Especially since it’s student-run from top to bottom.

have been working ... and maybe a new appreciation for the color green ...,’ Arcuri said.

Hyde Park resident enjoys improvising on Halloween decorations

Each year for Halloween, Bob Messerich of Hyde Park creates a sweeping landscape of goblins, ghouls and imaginative ghosties, which he builds himself. The public is invited to explore the display during designated visiting hours.

By Jim Donick

Halloween traditions at many homes likely began with a simple Jack-O'-Lantern glowing on the front porch. Often that grew over the years to two Jack-O'-Lanterns and maybe a mannequin of a witch or scarecrow. For many families that is where the decorating stops. For others, though, the project sort of continues to grow until Halloween decorating becomes a major annual event.

For Bob Messerich that has certainly become the case. In fact, it has become a bit of a passion.

Over the last many years during the Halloween season his home in Hyde Park has become an ever expanding center of goblins, ghouls and imaginative ghosties that may not have a rival anywhere in the county.

"I usually add a bit to it every year," said Messerich. He spends a great deal of each year building additional exhibition characters with glowing eyes and moving parts. "Moving the arms or getting them to jump up was a challenge," he said.

He's also a car restorer, though, so he is used to improvising. For most of the movements of the hundreds of characters, Messerich recycles windshield wiper motors from junked cars.

"I've got an agreement with the junkyard," he said. "Most cars get junked with things like that still in place, and the junkyard lets me take them out for nothing. I run then off of transformers."

The results vary from a skeleton pedaling a bicycle to a zombie girl chopping an axe into another. There are sword-fighting pirates and bodies rising out of coffins. That sort of stuff is only the beginning. A tour through his fog-shrouded Halloween world of tombstones and coffins includes switches that one can step on that activate even more action. One takes a tall threatening looking ghoul and has him jump up to a height of just over eight feet. He's the stuff Halloween imaginations are made of.

Messerich welcomes visitors during the Halloween season. The display is located at 1021 Netherwood Road in Hyde Park. He offers tours on the weekend between 1-9 p.m. and daily from 5-9 p.m. People are welcome to drive by at any time. There is no cost, but he does have a can out for contributions for those so inclined.

"I leave it up 'til just after Halloween," he said. "Then by Thanksgiving I try to have the Christmas display set up. It takes up as much space."

Lessons learned

Words of wisdom from a seasoned gardener.

Thomas Jefferson had 15 years to live when he wrote, at age 68, “Though an old man, I am but a young gardener.” What I think he meant was that you’re never too old to learn, especially when it comes to gardening. For example, this year, I learned:

• Goats eat gaura – Google says, “Gaura blooms all summer long, producing graceful wands of nectar rich flowers that butterflies love. The deer resistant plants grow two to three feet tall.” I always figured that if deer won’t eat a certain flower (unless they’re hungry, of course) then goats won’t either. So I didn’t spray the gaura in the cut flower garden. Our goat ate it right to the ground, along with a few herbs, like sage and parsley which are supposed to be deer proof.

- Gardens need water in dry weather – What a challenge this summer! Summers were much cooler in Jefferson's day. 1816 was the coldest on record, with six inches of snow in June. Our (Sue and my) gardens were almost impossible to keep wet. But if you can provide the ideal one inch of "rainfall" every week, flowers and vegetables will thrive, even in the heat, with very little leaching of nutrients and less disease. Ideally, water should be provided via soaker hose or drip irrigation. I learned that my overhead sprinklers just don't do the job.

• Grafted tomatoes are reliable – In a tough summer, my single tomato specimen of “Dixie Golden Giant” tomato, grafted onto a “Beaufort” rootstock, produced dozens of big tasty fruits, and was still going strong as of Oct. 14. On the other hand, the variety “Rutgers” was a bust. I have to apologize to the folks who bought Rutgers transplants over the years. I grew it for the first time this season, and despite its pedigree – developed at New Jersey’s Rutgers University and at one time the world’s most popular tomato – it came out small and stiff. Maybe I mislabeled it. I should try Rutgers again next year. Stay tuned.

- Soft neck garlic stores longer – By the month of March, my home grown garlic dries up, especially in a cool, dark place. The hard neck garlic variety “Music” is always recommended for the Hudson Valley, but I’ve heard that soft neck varieties, the ones you see braided together in the windows of an Italian bottega, keep longer. So this year I grew the soft neck variety “Inchelium Red.” Planted last October like the hard neck types, it overwintered just fine, even though it is supposedly less winter hardy. The cloves are smaller, with about a dozen per “head.” It tastes like garlic, although I’m not a connoisseur. Does my soft neck garlic keep longer than the hard neck kind? Ask me in March.

- The fragrance is back – For years, flower breeders were looking for color, disease resistance, hardiness, anything but fragrance. Now we're finally getting flowers that smell like a flower. And this year I discovered one of the most deliciously fragrant varieties – Nemesia Aromance from Proven Winners. Nemesia is a frost tolerant native of South Africa, recently gaining traction in the Hudson Valley. I would recommend growing Aromance in a container on the patio, where it should blossom all summer, oozing its delicious scent.

• Fig trees are easy to grow, and the fruit is delicious – I’ve heard stories about the Italian gardeners in Brooklyn who grow figs – the trees have to be bent over and buried in the ground to survive the winter. Everything about growing figs seemed complicated, until my friend Craig Demonkos – he owns the Hobby House in Poughkeepsie, where he sells model airplanes and fig trees – gifted me with a fig tree in a 16 inch wide pot. I put it inside the pool fence where the deer couldn’t reach it, threw on a little slow release fertilizer and watered it regularly. To my surprise, I was rewarded with a nice crop of tasty figs. All I need to do when the weather turns frosty is to carry the pot into the garage where it will overwinter in a semi dormant state until next May.

- Woodchucks climb up fences – But I already knew that. I just keep forgetting.

Town of Poughkeepsie Recreation

By Janet McHugh

It’s a festive fall season in the Town of Poughkeepsie starting with our Annual Halloween Trunk or Treat on Saturday, Oct. 29. Come by and enjoy a fun filled afternoon at Greenvale Park, 2260 New Hackensack Rd., from noon – 2 p.m., with a children’s costume parade starting at 1 p.m. We’ll have a DJ, pumpkin painting, balloon art, games, and prizes. You never know what creepy, creative, and fun decorations you’ll find at this year’s Trunk or Treat event. If you’d like to sign up to decorate your car, give us a call to register at 845-485-3628. You don’t need to decorate your car to join the festivities, all are invited!

The fun continues on Halloween day, Monday, Oct. 31 with Trick or Treating at the Town buildings. Triple the fun when you can visit three different locations: Town Hall, 1 Overocker Rd. and the Highway Dept., 8 Burnett Blvd. from 1– 4 p.m. and the Poughkeepsie Police Dept., 19 Tucker Dr. from 1– 5 p.m.

Break out your dancing shoes and join us for an introduction to Swing Dancing with instructor Christopher Bledsoe, Sunday, November 13, at the Community Center, 14 Abe’s Way from 3 – 5 p.m. Registration is required on our website www.PoughkeepsieTownRec.com or in the Recreation Office, 1 Overocker Rd.

Our winter office hours in Recreation will be Mon, Tues, Thurs, Fri from 8 a.m. – 1 p.m.

Our new Pickleball courts at Hagantown Park have been very popular and we are thrilled that we have hosted four sessions of beginner lessons. Future lessons will be scheduled, weather permitting, so keep an eye on our website at www.PoughkeepsieTownRec.com for more details.

Oct 28 - Have a spook-tacularly ghoulish time as we celebrate Halloween Come in clothes of any kind - costume, street, or party duds. REAL musicians, no ghostly tunes, so you can clap, toe tap, bop, and dance as you please. Dec. 13 (Tue) – “Jingle and Mingle” as we meet for our annual Senior Center Holiday Luncheon at Mill Creek Caterers on Rt 376 in Hopewell Junction. We’ll be enjoying a delicious four course lunch as we listen and dance to live music between noon and 3 p.m. The cost is $40 per person and due at registration. Sign-up has already begun so don't wait too long. Our Center will not be open this day.

Here are other November Specials you can sign up for now:

Hocus Pocus Parade, scavenger hunt, other events set for Oct. 28-30 in Beacon

By Kristine Coulter

The Beacon Chamber of Commerce is thrilled to be bringing back The Hocus Pocus Parade! The parade and a variety of special events will take place from October 28 to October 30.

“This year it will be even more eventful with an entire Halloween weekend of fun. Friday the 28th, from 3:30 to 6:30 there will be trick or treating on Main St.; Saturday the 29th at 2 p.m. is the parade with festivities following it, including School of Rock Beacon playing at The Roundhouse Patio and Studio 845 teaching a “Thriller” Dance Workshop for all to join in at the Hudson Valley Brewery,” said Charlotte Guernsey.

There is the new “Black Cat Scavenger Hunt,” which takes place Friday through Sunday.

“In each participating business, they will be hiding a black cat. You must go into the store and look hard to find it amongst all the merchandise and décor. Once you find it, present your passport and you will get it stamped. The more stamps you get, the more prizes and giveaways you receive,” explained Guernsey. The passports will be given out at participating stores along with trick or treating bags and discount cards with specials at participating stores for the weekend, she said.

“The store owners will also be judging kids costumes for all those who want to participate, so put your best foot forward!” Guernsey suggested.

Now to the parade.

“The parade is open for all who want to join! Get dressed up in a festive costume and meet at Bank Square (corner of Main St. and South Ave.) and then at 2 p.m. we’ll begin the walk down Main Street. For those who just want to watch, line up on the sidewalks and get ready for a feast for the eyes of fun. The parade will march the entire length of Main Street from Bank Square to the Dummy Light,” said Guernsey.

As for the importance of events like this for the community, Guernsey, who is a real estate broker with The Gate House Team at Compass in Beacon, said, “This has always been a great community bonding event. It’s been super fun for the kids and families to be able to get creative with costumes and just have a great time. Parents also dress up and sometimes we see families dressed together in a theme. Dogs are welcome too!”

School of Rock Beacon and Studio 845 will entertain those in attendance, along with the Beacon High School marching band, who will participate in the parade, noted Guernsey.

“We’ve had a lot of great local businesses come out to support the event for the community. Our main sponsors are the Law Office of Dennis R. Vetrano, Jr., LLC (DRV Law) and The Gate House Team at Compass, but a full list can be found on our Facebook Event Page (Hocus Pocus Halloween Facebook Page), said Guernsey. ‘Thanks’ was also offered to The Roundhouse for hosting music and treats, School of Rock, and the Hudson Valley Brewery for hosting the “Thriller” dance workshop, and Studio 845.

“I would also like to thank all of the participating stores and businesses that are joining in the fun of the Black Cat Scavenger Hunt and trick or treating. Thank you to the City of Beacon for letting us bring back this awesome event!” exclaimed Guernsey

And one more Halloween thought to keep in mind from Guernsey, “Keep an eye out for spooky specials in the stores and Halloween themed cocktails and dishes all weekend in the bars and restaurants. More details can be found on our Facebook Event Page.”
