Interfaith Summit addresses innovative steps to prevent crimes

By Alexander Tsahalis

We live in turbulent times. Active threats and crimes of hate are on the rise, and houses of worship, in which many seek solace, are becoming targets. In Dutchess County, Sheriff Kirk Imperati, District Attorney Anthony Parisi, and members of local police departments held an Interfaith Summit on Oct. 28 at the MJN Convention Center in Poughkeepsie with a program entitled “Learn F.A.I.T.H.: Facing Active Incident Threats in Houses of Worship.”

“If you read our Declaration of Independence, and you read the Constitution of the United States, our founding fathers were so forward thinking, they could stand the test of time. Our country was based upon debate, our country was based upon freedom of religion, our country was based on freedom of speech, on free enterprise,” said Sheriff Imperati, who led the organization of the event. “Who would’ve thought we would need to be here today to have this summit?” Sadly, attacks on houses of worship have become increasingly frequent. According to the Faith-Based Information and Analysis Organization, 841 attacks on houses of worship were reported in 2024 on the national level. According to the data, New York had the second-highest number of attacks, with 64.

Attacks on houses of worship aren’t new, though. They’ve occurred for decades. We’ve even had them in Dutchess County. “On Pentecost Sunday in May of 2008, our church was burned to the ground,” said

Rev. Dr. Edward L. Hunt of Bethel Missionary Baptist Church in Wappingers Falls. “We never found out who did it. What we do know is that safety is everyone’s business. When something happens in one place, it’s an indication it can happen somewhere else.”

Attacks have indeed occurred elsewhere, and they indirectly led to this summit. In May 2022, an individual opened fire at a grocery store in Buffalo. In response, Gov. Kathy Hochul mandated that every county in N.Y. have a safety plan in place by Dec. 2022.

The Dutchess County Threat Assessment Group, or DTAG, headlines the safety plan in Dutchess County. DTAG focuses on early intervention without requiring action by law enforcement. They seek to help people who are on the path to committing a crime. DTAG is made aware of individuals of concern through a nomination process. Once the individual is selected for further assistance, DTAG assesses their current level in the six steps of the pathway to violence. The six steps are: grievance – the belief that the individual has been wronged or treated unfairly. Ideation – The individual falls into a belief system that glamorizes violence or moral outrage. Serino outlines proposals in 2026 Executive Budget

Dutchess County Executive Sue Serino gives her 2026 Executive Budget proposal in the Dutchess County Legislature Chambers on Oct 29.

Dutchess County Executive Sue Serino outlined her 2026 Executive Budget proposal last week to County legislators, elected officials and community stakeholders at the County Legislature Chambers in Poughkeepsie. Her proposed plan for 2026 emphasizes strategic investments in public safety, housing, youth initiatives, and services for seniors, veterans and families while staying below the New York State property tax cap.

Serino said, “This budget is all about protecting people with purpose – recognizing that every decision we make, every dollar we spend must be done in a way that protects our taxpayers while also protecting the programs and services our neighbors depend on. We’ve worked hard to make sure every dollar is spent wisely, with investments in public safety, mental health, seniors, and youth, while making sure we are prepared for future uncertainty.”

The proposed 2026 Executive Budget totals $651.4 million with 1.8% increase in total spending compared to the modified 2025 budget, with no reduction in services and no employee layoffs. State and federal mandates continue to dominate the annual spending plan, consuming more than 70% of the budget and adding $6.7 million in new spending for the year.

Under the plan, the 2026 property tax levy will be $106 million, below the New York State property tax cap, and the property tax rate will drop 3% from $2.17 to $2.10 per $1,000 of assessed value. If approved, this will be the 11th consecutive year property owners will see a reduction in the County tax rate.

Dedication of U.S. flag retirement receptacle set for Veterans Day in Fishkill

By Kristine Coulter

There will be a special dedication of a U.S. flag retirement receptacle. The dedication ceremony will be held on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, at noon. The box is sponsored by McHoul Funeral Home in Fishkill and sponsored by the Rotary Club of Fishkill. The ceremony will take place at McHoul Funeral Home, 1089 Main St. in the village, at noon.

Rotarians Eddie Colon and Melinda Potter recently spoke about the project.

“Eddie went to drop flags off at another location and found the flags not being honored. He was very upset and expressed his discontent,” recalled Potter. Potter said Colon, whose son served in the military, has been talking about doing this project for a while.

Local business owner Carmine Istvan, who is also the Town of Fishkill Highway Superintendent, will use his company to lay the foundation for the project. Julie Spann, who is the executive director of Blodgett Memorial Library, is also assisting with the ceremony, where the National Anthem and “Taps” will be played.

The flag retirement receptacle will be placed outside McHoul Funeral Home, Main St. in the Village of Fishkill.

One will then be able to place destroyed or ripped flags in a place of honor. According to organizers, the flag box is being dedicated to all our heroes, of past, present, and future.

Doug McHoul, who is in the Dutchess County Legislature, owns McHoul Funeral Home with his extended family. They also have an East Fishkill location.

“It’s an honor for us to help the Rotary Club by facilitating this project. Our location on Main Street is the perfect site for the flag retirement receptacle, so I hope that it will quickly catch the attention of local residents. Those individuals who use the receptacle will have the opportunity to dedicate their flag in memory or honor of someone,” McHoul said in an email to Southern Dutchess News.

McHoul explained, “Our plan for now is to store the received flags at the funeral home until Flag Day, when the Rotary Club plans on hosting a flag disposition ceremony. That event is currently a work in progress, but details will be made available to the public as we get closer to June.”

“The whole things about it, why in this community should I go to another village or town to drop off my flags?” asked Colon. Colon added, “The veterans do not get the credit that they deserve. Every day, when they drive by and see the box, they will say ‘They still care.’”

Potter remarked, “I have always been a huge supporter of the flag. Knowing that our flag is going to be honored, for the veterans, and what their service means to us, knowing we created this for our veterans and our nation...the flag means so much.”

Colon said their “job” and responsibility” then will be to maintain the box and flags. Anyone who drops a flag off can also take a card to dedicate the flag to honor someone in their life, noted Potter.

“I’d like to ask the veterans [and the community] please come and join us. At the end of the day, it’s not for me, it’s not for the Rotary, it’s for them,” said Colon.

Sales tax revenues are projected at $273.8 million, funding 42% of the 2026 Budget. The County’s sales tax rate will remain at 3.75%, one of only six counties with a sales tax rate below 4% in New York State. The budget will see elimination of the local sales tax exemption on clothing and footwear items under $110 effective March 1st, generating an additional $5.4 million in revenue to support critical programs and services. Local municipalities will also benefit from the additional revenue as the County shares its sales tax with cities, towns and villages.

The Community Benefit Fund, established by County Executive Serino last year, will fund $3.2 million in critical initiatives, offsetting taxes.

The 2026 Executive Budget uses $23.5 million from the County’s general fund balance to minimize impact on taxpayers, while maintaining a reliable fund balance reserve for any future uncertainty.

Dutchess County’s longstanding commitment to conservative fiscal management is evidenced by its AA+ credit rating from Standard & Poor’s. The County’s fiscal stability was also confirmed recently with a perfect score of “0” on the New York State Comptroller’s Fiscal Stress Report, the best rating achievable.

Legislator Stephen Caswell, Chair of the Budget, Finance and Personnel Committee said, “I appreciate County Executive Serino’s overview today of the 2026 Executive Budget and her focus on maintaining our County’s fiscal stability while serving the needs of the community. Together with my legislative colleagues, I look forward to reviewing the plan, as well as delving into it deeper in the coming weeks with the support of the Budget Office, to adopt a final budget that serves our residents in the most cost-efficient way possible”

Full budget documents are available to view on the County’s website, dutchess-ny.gov/2026budget.

Democratic response to budget presentation: Families can’t afford Serino’s tax increase

County Executive Sue Serino announced a tax increase on clothing and footwear as part of her budget presentation on Oct. 29. Clothing and footwear are currently exempt from the county’s 4% sales tax. Serino’s budget includes a plan to eliminate this exemption in the first quarter of next year.

“The Republican-led county government’s mismanagement of funds - including a luxury clubhouse at the baseball stadium, mind-boggling pay raises, and failed litigation against New York State - has necessitated this tax increase,” said Minority Leader, Yvette Valdés Smith. “This rash decision will disproportionately hurt working families in Dutchess County, and Democratic legislators will challenge it.”

Valdes-Smith added that the budget also fails to properly address the EMS crisis, where large portions of the county continue to endure slow ambulance response times, endangering lives. It also contains no meaningful funds for our efforts to deal with the housing crisis.

WKZE launches ‘Voices of Valor’ to honor Veterans

In celebration of Veterans Day and in recognition of those who have served, Hudson Valley radio station WKZE has launched “Voices of Valor” — a new interview series sharing the stories of local military veterans throughout the month of November.

The project is a collaboration between WKZE, Red Hook VFW Post 7765, and a ninth-grade student at Red Hook High School, who is helping to capture and produce the interviews.

“We’ve been working hard to find new ways to highlight meaningful programs and organizations in our community,” said WKZE co-owner Andy Gladding. “Our veterans are absolutely deserving of recognition, and we’re proud to share their stories of service and sacrifice.”

The idea for “Voices of Valor” began several months ago with support from Mikki and Troy Haley, both active members of the Red Hook VFW Post. Their daughter, Olive, a freshman at Red Hook High School, is serving as the project’s student producer and has conducted all of the veteran interviews and will be editing the segments for air.

Guiding the effort is Alyssa Sciarrone, a 2025 graduate of SUNY New Paltz and member of the college’s radio station, WFNP. Sciarrone, now part of the WKZE team, is mentoring Olive, teaching her interviewing and audio editing skills.

So far, the team has recorded interviews with 14 local veterans, with a goal of reaching 20 by the end of the project. Each three-minute radio segment will spotlight themes of leadership, camaraderie, and memorable moments from the veterans’ time in service.

WKZE has opened its studio to conduct and edit the interviews. “It’s been inspiring to watch this partnership come to life — a student learning from veterans, veterans sharing their stories, and our whole community gaining something from it,” Gladding said. “This is only the beginning. We want to continue building projects like this that bring people together.”

Listeners can tune in to “Voices of Valor” on WKZE throughout November or visit WKZE’s website (wkze.com) or social channels for more details and updates.

Aymar-Blair releases ‘People’s’ Annual Financial Report for 2024

The Comptroller’s Office has released its third PAFR in the County’s history for year ended 2024. Previously known as the Popular Annual Financial Report, the People’s Annual Financial Report provides a summary of the year ended 2024 audited financial statements for the County, as well as key demographic data. The report continues to provide readers with digestible information unique to Dutchess County in the hopes of keeping residents both engaged and informed.

“This report does more than share details of Dutchess County’s financial performance in 2024,” said Comptroller Aymar-Blair. “It’s a broader profile of the County: Who we are, where we live and work, our history, economy and government.”

As to why the name of the report has been revised, the Comptroller continued, “We are renaming this annual report to reflect that this information belongs to the people. All of the information that the Comptroller’s Office touches is a public good, meaning it belongs to you.”

The 2024 People’s Annual Financial Report can be found on the Comptroller’s website.

Keep Fishkill at fiscal stability

To the Editor:

Concerning the proposed 2026 budget on the Town of Fishkill website: many Fishkill residents who have lived here for a long time may remember from fiscal mismanagement many years ago the Town had a deficit of ten million dollars. This was because for years the taxes had been kept artificially low. The Town was close to bankruptcy, and the Town credit rating was drastically lowered as a result. This resulted in elevated taxes for years, because those funds had to be restored. It took a few years, but Fishkill eventually was brought back to financial stability.

Which brings me to the context of this letter. Last year in 2025, those reserve funds were tapped to the tune of 2.5 million dollars. Supervisor Albra purchased six new trucks for the Town which he could not afford under the budget. The Town had to take out a bond to borrow money to pay for the trucks, instead of purchasing them over a period of years as the budget allowed.

The 2026 proposed budget includes taking 2.175 million dollars from the reserve funds to subsidize the budget. So, between 2025 and 2026, Mr. Albra is using a staggering amount of almost five million dollars from the reserve funds to balance the budget!

In fairness, the reserve fund balances are healthy. They took many years with elevated taxes to get that way. To compensate for overspending and keeping taxes artificially low for political optics by the Supervisor who has resorted to the gimmick to balance the budget of using reserve funds consecutive years in a row. However, the intention of the funds was never meant to be used as a Town piggybank.

There's two ways of making a balanced budget; the first is responsible spending within the Town's means; the second is continuing to raid the reserve funds each year. It's simply not a sustainable strategy. To conclude, Fishkill has been down the road before, and it didn't end well.

November is Elks Veterans Remembrance Month

To the Editor:

In an enduring tribute to America’s heroes, the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks has once again proclaimed November as Elks Veterans Remembrance Month. Elks National President Bryan Klatt encourages every Lodge and community to honor those who have worn our nation’s uniform – living out this year’s theme: “Be the Difference.”

“The highest appreciation is not to utter words but to live by them,” President and Elk member John F. Kennedy.

For more than 157 years, the Elks upheld a simple yet powerful promise, “So long as there are veterans, the Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks will never forget them.” Through the Elks National Veterans Service Commission, 1,837 Lodges across the country provide vital support to veteran in need – delivering meals and clothing, funding housing for homeless veterans, hosting holiday celebrations, and offering fellowship to those who served. In the past year alone, Elks volunteers dedicated over 800,000 hours and contributed more than $56 million in aid and services to veterans. From delivering food and hygiene kits to VA hospitals, to furnishing “Welcome Home” apartments for formerly homeless veterans. Elks remain a steadfast ally to America’s defenders.

Every November – and every month of the year – Elks Lodges stand united in gratitude and service. Americans are encouraged to participate in local Lodge activities, volunteer in veterans’ programs or explore membership in this all American organization. To find one’s nearest lodge or learn more about the Elks’ mission, visit, www.Elks.org.

With nearly 800,000 members nationwide, the Elks is one of America’s largest and most active fraternal organizations – dedicated to charity, justice, brotherly love, and fidelity. Through service and companionship, the Elks continue to Be the Difference in communities.

NYS Office for the Aging reminds older adults free Medicare counseling available

The New York State Office for the Aging (NYSOFA) reminds older New Yorkers that free and objective counseling is available to help Medicare beneficiaries navigate their options during the Medicare open enrollment period from Oct. 15 through Dec. 7.

Open enrollment is the time when Medicare beneficiaries can make changes in their health plan or prescription drug coverage and other options. Any changes take effect Jan. 1.

The NYSOFA-administered Health Insurance Information, Counseling and Assistance Program (HIICAP) helps 220,000 New Yorkers annually to understand Medicare decisions. It also helps beneficiaries apply for programs that save older adults out-of-pocket costs such as co-payments, premiums and deductibles. This free and objective assistance is provided locally by trained counselors. For assistance, call the helpline at 1-800-701-0501. More information about HIICAP is on NYSOFA’s website, aging.ny.gov.

For income-eligible older adults, the Medicare Savings Program (MSP) helps pay Medicare Part B premiums and automatically enrolls beneficiaries in Extra Help. This financial assistance can be a lifeline for enrollees, allowing them to maintain their Medicare coverage, access needed care, and afford other necessities. Eligible individuals who enroll can save up to an estimated $8,400 annually. Learn more about this program, and how to enroll, on NYSOFA’s MSP information page here, including a video tutorial about the application process.

- Choose between original Medicare and Medicare Advantage plans.
- Understand Medicare rules and your medical bills.
- Report possible Medicare fraud or abuse.
- Provide information on how to appeal a decision by Medicare, your managed care provider, or other health insurance company.
- Discover ways to fill in Medicare’s gaps.
- Learn how to file a Medicare or Medigap complaint.
- Learn about Medicare-covered prevention and screenings.

Protecting yourself

Medicare experts report a higher risk of potential fraud during the open-enrollment period as well as potentially misleading marketing. Medicare has rules about how plans can and cannot communicate with you to market their insurance products. The Medicare Rights Center offers the following warnings:

- Plans are allowed to send you mail. However, unless you are currently enrolled in the company’s plan, they are not allowed to call, email, visit your home, or approach you in public to market their plan without your permission.
- Beware of people who pressure you about making plan changes, claim to be representing Medicare, or attempt to alarm you about losing benefits unless you enroll in a particular plan.
- Beneficiaries who believe they are a victim of fraud or identity theft should contact Medicare. More information is available at medicare.gov.

NYSOFA and Medicare also remind older adults to treat their Medicare number as they do their Social Security number and credit card information. People with Medicare should never give their personal information to anyone arriving at their home uninvited or making unsolicited phone calls selling Medicare-related products or services. If someone calls and asks for a recipient’s Medicare number or other personal information, hang up and call 1-800-MEDICARE (1-800-633-4227).

HIICAP in detail

During open enrollment, or at any time of the year, HIICAP can help you:

- Understand the Medicare prescription drug benefit (Medicare Part D) and how to select the best plan.
- Understand low-income subsidy programs, including Extra Help and Medicare Savings Programs.
- Find ways to pay for your medications or medical equipment.
- Understand and apply for the Elderly Pharmaceutical Insurance Coverage (EPIC) program.

VETERANS DAY 2025

Celebration for U.S. Marine Corps’ 250th birthday set for Nov. 15 in Fishkill

By Kristine Coulter

The 250th birthday of the U.S. Marine Corps will be celebrated on Saturday, Nov. 15 at the Hyatt House, 100 Westage Business Center, in Fishkill. There will be cocktails and appetizers at 5 p.m. then the dinner and the program, which lasts until 10 p.m. Tickets are $100. One does not need to be a Marine to attend, but it is a formal event (jacket and tie or equivalent). The celebratory event is sponsored by the Marine Corps League (Carmen A. Ramputi Detachment) in Beacon.

“Every Marine has two birthdays: the day they were born and Nov. 10th,” said Tony Pulliam, who is a U.S. Marine veteran.

Pulliam said, “We take it very serious (the birthday celebration) and we’re very reverent.” The Marine Corps was founded on November 10, 1775, in Philadelphia.

If one attends, one will experience “camaraderie” and “a good meal,” he remarked.

Pulliam joined the Marine Corps in April 1967. “I was already entered when I graduated high school in June of ’67,” he explained. Pulliam served in Vietnam during the war for seven months.

“I joined because, at the time, I thought they (Marines) were the toughest, most elite of all the military – the best of the best,” said Pulliam.

His time in the Marine Corps. Pulliam said has affected his “entire life.” He said he approaches life with the attitude of improvise, overcome and adapt.

During the program there will be a special cake-cutting ceremony. For the ceremony, the oldest and youngest Marine in attendance will cut the birthday cake with a sword.

“Two hundred and fifty years ago, before our Nation declared its independence, a small group of men gathered in Philadelphia and formed a Corps of Marines. From that moment, our story has been bound to the story of America itself. A quarter of a millennium later, Marines remain at the center of our Nation’s defense. Ready to fight, ready to win, and ready to uphold the trust placed in us since 1775,” wrote General Eric M. Smith, Commandant of the Marine Corps, in a message on the Marine Corps website.

He stated, “Across centuries, Marines have fought on distant shores and in desperate battles, earning a reputation for discipline, toughness, and valor. From the Revolution to the World Wars, from Chapultepec to today’s operations across the globe, every generation has proven worthy of the title Marine. They secured liberty, defended allies, and carried forward the promise of a free Nation, and a free world. We are the heirs of that legacy, and we are its stewards.”

What would Pulliam tell someone who wants to join the Marines now?

Pulliam responded, “Nowadays – join. It will have a very positive impact on your entire life. Personally, I encourage it.”

Smith noted in his message, “This anniversary reminds us that our standards are the foundation of our Corps. Honor, Courage, and Commitment are not abstractions, but the code that binds us to one another and to all who went before. Every Marine, in every clime and place, must hold true to these values. The conflicts ahead will demand nothing less.”

He concluded the message by stating: “...I could not be prouder of the Marines I see serving today. At home, at sea, and across the globe, you carry forward our proud traditions with skill and ferocity. It is your discipline, initiative, and fighting spirit that anchor our Corps. The battles of the next 250 years will challenge us in new ways, but I have no doubt we will prevail. Happy Birthday Marines!”

DCHS Auction ends with live event Nov. 9

The sale of 86 unique and special items ends Sunday, Nov. 9. AAR Auctions allows DCHS the use of the auction platform and donates any buyers’ premiums to DCHS helping to make this the single largest fundraising event of the year. Enjoy an item and support the DCHS mission.

The Dutchess County Historical Society’s online auction of unique and special items ends on Sunday, Nov. 9. A link to the auction can be found at the DCHS website homepage: www.dchsny.org.

The public is invited to join the DCHS Board of Trustees and staff for an End of Auction Celebration at DCHS, 6282 Route 9, Rhinebeck, on Nov. 9 from 3-5 p.m.

The online auction will be displayed on a large screen as we cheer on the progress of the live bidding together. Please bring your devices (WIFI available) so you can continue bidding on the lots as they are closing in real time. Each lot will be presented during the finale, beginning with the first lot at 4 p.m. and continuing until the bidding ends with the last lot. As each item starts to close, the clock begins the countdown. If anyone bids during this last live portion, the clock will extend for two minutes to allow everyone a fair chance to get their last bids in before it closes. This makes for quite a fun and exciting conclusion!

Please join us to celebrate our community working together to preserve Dutchess County’s remarkable history. Light refreshments will be served.

An RSVP would be helpful for planning, but not essential, by emailing Bill Jeffway at bill.jeffway@dchsny.org

KDD Marketing welcomes Britani Phelps as art director and Casey Morris as design and marketing strategist

Growing its team’s capabilities and depth of expertise, KDD Marketing has welcomed Britani Phelps and Casey Morris. Serving as art director, Phelps will lead the artistic direction of the agency’s projects, ensuring alignment with client goals. Morris, a design and marketing strategist, will help guide the creative and strategic direction of marketing campaigns, bringing ideas to life across digital and traditional platforms.

“Britani and Casey both embody the out-of-the-box creativity, marketing expertise and authentic leadership qualities that our team seeks to build upon,” said Katy Dwyer, founder and creative director of KDD Marketing. “We are growing with experienced industry professionals, positioning both our agency and our clients for continued success.”

Prior to joining KDD Marketing, Phelps served as a senior graphic designer and art director at ADDIUM, Inc., while also working as a freelance designer for various agencies and small businesses in Idaho. Phelps holds certifications in digital marketing and e-commerce from Google and revenue operations from HubSpot Academy, in addition to a bachelor of fine arts degree from the University of Idaho. With a decade of experience in the creative field, Phelps leverages her design practice to build connections, focusing strongly on community-driven initiatives and nonprofit work. She has volunteered with the METER Foundation, Last Prisoner Project and more.

Morris, who most recently worked as a graphic design and marketing associate at Stella Adler Studio of Acting, brings six years of industry experience to the agency. A graduate of SUNY New Paltz, Morris holds a bachelor’s degree in theatre arts and a minor in economics. Outside of the office, Morris serves on the advisory board of the Greenwood Lake Theater and assists with the Warwick-based organization’s productions.

“With a variety of backgrounds and skillsets, the additions of Britani and Casey bring our team’s combined years of expertise to more than six decades,” added Keri Jadrovski, vice president of KDD Marketing. “Katy and I look forward to seeing the fresh energy, ideas and impact they’ll bring our clients and our team.”

Bridge Authority advises customers of billing error

The New York State Bridge Authority (NYSBA) has advised E-ZPass customers enrolled in the NYSBA Commuter Plan of a recent billing error and the steps being taken to correct the matter.

The billing issue affected only New York and New Jersey E-ZPass customers who participate in the NYSBA Commuter Plan, approximately 8,000 accounts in total. This plan allows frequent users of the Authority’s crossings – including the Bear Mountain, Newburgh-Beacon, Mid-Hudson, Kingston-Rhinecliff, and Rip Van Winkle Bridges – to cross at a reduced toll of $1.40 per trip. Customers must complete at least 17 trips during each 30-day billing cycle. Any trips not taken are billed at $1.40 and appear as “Unused Commuter Trips.”

The Authority recently became aware of erroneous charges generated by its outside vendor related to the Commuter Plan. These charges occurred during the period of October 9-10. NYSBA has been working closely with the E-ZPass NY Customer Service Center to correct the matter and has directed that refunds are to be issued for impacted accounts.

Customers who continue to notice any issues with their E-ZPass account are encouraged to contact the E-ZPass NY Customer Service Center at 800-333-TOLL (800-333-8655).

NYSBA also reminds Customer Plan participants that they may pause their plan up to four times a year for a minimum of one week if they do not anticipate making frequent trips across the Authority’s bridges.

Account information can be accessed at www.e-zpassny.com or through the TollsNY mobile app.

Town of Poughkeepsie leaf pick-up schedule

The following is the leaf pick up schedule for the Town of Poughkeepsie:

Ward 2: Wednesday, Nov. 5 and Thursday, Nov. 6

Ward 6: Friday, Nov. 7, Monday, Nov. 10 and Tuesday, Nov. 11

Ward 4: Wednesday, Nov. 12, Thursday, Nov. 13 and Friday, Nov. 14

Ward 1: Monday, Nov. 17, Tuesday, Nov. 18, Wednesday, Nov. 19 and Thursday, Nov. 20

Ward 5: Friday, Nov. 21, Monday, Nov. 24, Tuesday, Nov. 25 and Wednesday, Nov. 26

Here are a few guidelines to help make this season run as smoothly as possible:

Please remember that they rotate the schedule every year, and that there are advantages to being picked up “early” or “late” in the schedule. If one is one of the first few wards scheduled for pick up, one is virtually guaranteed at least a second pass by the vacuum trucks, according to officials.

If one has help with one’s leaves, please make landscapers aware of this schedule.

After Thanksgiving, again leaves will be picked up with the vacuum truck at the top of the schedule.

Please assume that this will be the last pass for the vacuum trucks. They may possibly return if weather permits, but they can make no promises.

Please have leaves out to the road the 1st day of one’s ward’s schedule to ensure they will be picked up.

This does not include brush pick-up. They will not pick up any loose leaves on state or county roads, only bagged leaves.

The Town Highway Department will be giving out leaf bags to Town of Poughkeepsie Residents only. One can pick up bags Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Highway Office, at 8 Burnett Blvd.

The bag truck will continue to circulate through the town through December; as soon as one fills bags, put them out.

Only leaves in biodegradable bags will be picked up. No plastic bags will be accepted.

Throughout the leaf schedule, a separate truck will be circulating the Town picking up bagged leaves. The bag truck does not follow the loose leaf schedule. Please place leaf bags roadside as one fills them, and a truck will be through periodically.

If one has any questions, please call 845-452-1750

NOTE: They will not pick up any loose leaves on State or County roads - bags only.

and planning – the individual begins to research places and people to attack, for example through social media and Internet searches Preparation – The individual starts to acquire the necessary items for their attack. Breach – the individual attempts to gain entry or follow their target. Attack – the individual carries out the attack.

DTAG tries to help individuals at the first two to three levels. “We’re trying to redirect these people back,” said Sheriffs’ Office Detective Sergeant James Daniels. “These are people that have something going on in life, and we try to get them resources ... they’re thinking of doing something wrong, but they’re still reachable.” DTAG then works to help these people and provides resources where appropriate. Aid can be provided in various forms, such as mental healthcare, assistance with housing and other social services.

If an individual progresses past the first two to three levels of the pathway to violence, it’s time for the police and the county district attorney to step in. In the past few years alone, they’ve rapidly improved their ability to monitor and respond to hate crimes.

“When I first took office, I did a complete evaluation of the operation of the D.A.’s office,” said Parisi. “One of the gaps that was identified related to hate crimes.”

Before Parisi taking over, there was no hate crimes unit or prosecutor in Dutchess County. His office applied for and received a $1 million grant from the federal government to establish a hate crimes unit. “If we can prevent even a single person from being a victim, we’re successful,” said Parisi. “This unit isn’t just about prosecution. It’s about stopping hate and preventing incidents.” Prevention starts with state-of-the-art technology purchased with the grant. “ShadowDragon” is one such tool.

“ShadowDragon” is an open-source intelligence (OSINT) tool designed for social media monitoring and analysis. It provides the ability to constantly scan a variety of social media platforms and forums, searching for anything that may indicate a crime is being planned or has been committed. The D.A.’s office has also established a CrimeWatch page to crowd-source data, to maintain transparency and keep the community informed. The CrimeWatch page features a map showing reported crimes, resources on various types of crimes, and a link to their Flock page. Flock is a community policing site where private citizens can register or integrate their cameras to make it easier for law enforcement to gather data on a crime. Registering your camera informs law enforcement that you have a camera at a specific location and may be able to provide footage if requested. Integrating your camera allows law enforcement to stream footage directly from your camera if needed. The D.A.’s office utilizes this data as part of A.R.C.T.I.C., the Analysis and Real-Time Crime Intelligence Center. If a crime is committed and it appears to be a hate crime, the Hate Crimes Unit takes over.

“I work with people in my unit to root out evil and prosecute individuals who are committing these crimes in the county,” said hate crime unit supervisor Michael Liviano. “New York State has developed a portion of the penal code related to hate crimes to make it possible to seek enhanced sentencing status for individuals who are properly convicted of a hate crime.”

To qualify as a hate crime, the target must be selected due to a protected characteristics such as race, sex, gender or religion. Examples of crimes that may qualify include damage to a house of worship due to the denomination, and swastikas or other hate symbols being spray-painted on a building. The best offense is often a good defense, and protecting a house of worship from hate crimes is no different. “Trouble doesn’t have a denomination,” said Rev. Hunt. “We can all be victimized, and it can really destroy lives.”

During the summit, one of the focuses was on keeping your house of worship safe. The sheriff’s office has established a program to assist houses of worship in need of support. They will visit houses of worship and conduct a site assessment.

“As we go through, we like to discuss best practices and ensure you understand some of the options you have because the best security features don’t always go with the openness of a house of worship,” said Sheriff’s Deputy Michael DeRosa. During a site assessment, they give recommendations, such as increased lighting to deter criminals who don’t want to be seen, or what doors should be locked to prevent unauthorized visitors from roaming unaccompanied.

Individuals associated with houses of worship who wish to have a site visit should contact the Sheriff’s office.

18-year-old indicted, arraigned on second-degree murder charges

The Dutchess County District Attorney’s Office announced that Anthony Taylor, 18, was charged by an Indictment returned by a Dutchess County Grand Jury and arraigned in Dutchess County Court on Tuesday, Oct. 28. The Indictment charges Taylor with one count of Murder in the Second Degree, a Class A-I Felony, and two counts of Criminal Possession of a Weapon in the Second Degree, both Class C Armed Violent Felonies.

“This arrest marks an important step toward justice,” said District Attorney Anthony Parisi. “The individual in custody faces allegations related to a brazen daytime shooting that put not only the intended target, but also innocent bystanders, including county employees, in serious danger. Thanks to the swift coordination between the City of Poughkeepsie Police Department and federal law enforcement, we were able to apprehend the suspect across state lines and ensure that our community is one step closer to accountability and safety.”

The incident charged in the Indictment occurred Oct. 3, at approximately 5:20 p.m. in the vicinity of Main Street and Garden Street in the City of Poughkeepsie. The defendant is accused of possessing a loaded firearm and using that firearm to shoot Gabriel Mosca and causing his death.

The case was investigated by the City of Poughkeepsie Police Department and is being prosecuted by Senior Assistant District Attorneys Joseph Gruner and

Anthony Taylor

Pamlea Bloomfield. Judge Jessica Segal presided over the case and remanded Taylor without bail. The defendant’s next court date is set for Dec. 2.

As with any criminal case, the charges described above are merely accusations, and Taylor is presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

Ex-Renegades managers Albernaz, Butera to lead MLB teams in 2026

By Morgan E. Maier

The Los Angeles Dodgers are again world champions. The MLB season is freshly over, and it's bye-bye baseball until February. By then, eight of the 30 dugouts will be led by new voices, maybe more. The Hudson Valley knows two of them well. As announced in late October, former Renegades managers Blake Butera and Craig Albernaz will take their talents to the Big Show.

Both are replacing managers fired in mid-season. Baltimore booted Brandon Hyde six weeks into 2025, as the O's saw a 15-28 start. Davey Martinez was fired in Washington in mid-July heat.

Butera and Albernaz crossed paths in the Hudson Valley. Butera was rising through the Tampa Bay Rays' organization, while Albernaz was in his third year coaching. The Renegades would win it all in 2017. Albernaz was the manager. Butera, the Renegades' first base line brigadier, was first in line to replace him the following season. He became the youngest manager in Minor League Baseball at the age of 25.

Butera is the youngest MLB manager since 1972, when the Minnesota Twins hired Frank Quilici. Quilici was also 33, and his five minutes of managerial fame were soured by Minnesota's less-than-savory season.

The New York Yankees employed five players older than Butera, who is the same age as Aaron Judge.

Albernaz was a close second in the Cleveland Guardians' great managerial race of 2023, a contest that ultimately fell in favor of Stephen Vogt ("Remember that Renegade?"), Albernaz joined his fellow Renegade alumni for Vogt's historic first-year Coach of the Year run in 2024.

It started orange for Albernaz, who became the San Francisco Giants' bullpen and catching coach in 2019. This Baltimore gig is his first MLB managerial position.

Together, Butera and Albernaz bring extensive experience from the Rays organization.

Butera, twice Manager of the Year in MiLB, was the Rays' assistant field coordinator in 2023 and senior director of player development in 2024.

While Butera has no managerial experience on any level, he isn't the only one that MLB teams have taken a risk on. NCAA champion coach Tony Vitello has left his Tennessee roots for a different baseball giant, one of the San Francisco variety.

With the High-A Bowling Green Hot Rods, Albernaz was the Midwest League Manager of the Year in 2018. In Cleveland, with fellow Renegades' alum Vogt, Albernaz was the bench coach, then associate manager.

The Nationals have missed six postseasons in a row. The Orioles disappointed this season, dead last in the American League East after a 91-win season in 2024. Both franchises are rife with young talent that could benefit from the experience of these first-year managers. As Hudson Valley roots for former players in the MLB, they'll be just as happy for the fourth and fifth Renegades alumni in history to earn the title of MLB skipper.

John Jay, Ketcham qualify for playoffs in field hockey

By Morgan E. Maier

After a 7-1 win vs. Ossining, the John Jay Patriots took a 1-0 OT victory over Arlington. Caitlin Cummings scored the only goal of the game to advance the Patriots to the Section 1 Class A field hockey quarterfinals. In the November 1 quarterfinals, the Patriots were blanked by Mamaroneck 6-0. The Ketcham Storm had a first-round exit against Scarsdale.

Beacon boys earn top seed in Class A soccer tournament - Lourdes made Beacon work for the rights to the championship, neither allowing nor scoring goals for the entirety of play, and double overtime. Beacon outlasted the Warriors 5-4 on penalty kicks. The defense and goal-keeping were exceptional on both sides, but Beacon broke through in the final round. The next overtime outing for Beacon came with a different result. A tennis-eqsue back and forth with the New Paltz Huguenots ended in a 3-2 overtime loss for Beacon. In a 2-2 deadlock at the end of regulation, New Paltz was the first to break through.

Class AAA #1 seed John Jay vs. Arlington - Would anything else be expected from a John-Jay Arlington soccer match? Uriel Botchway was all over the free kick from teammate Wynn Boscarino. Minutes away from halftime, Botchway had tied the game for his Patriots with a stellar header. Now knotted at one, John Jay found themselves in front of a clean slate against Arlington. The Section I quarterfinals would be decided in the 109th minute. An ill-timed penalty from Arlington in double overtime gave the Patriots a 2-1 victory in what fans are calling an instant classic.

John Jay and New Rochelle were named the Class AAA co-champions. JJEF advanced on penalty kicks in the title game.

The cheerleading squad from John Jay High School recently earned Section 1 Class A championship title. They compete for the state championship on Nov. 9.

Barrett announces $119,000 to promote traffic safety in Town of Poughkeepsie

Assemblymember Didi Barrett (D-Dutchess/Columbia) announced that she has secured $119,000 for the Town of Poughkeepsie for traffic safety measures, including portable speed radars and trailers, flashing stop signs, and other equipment identified by the Town Police as high-priority needs.

“Speeding is a problem across the state and I was pleased to work with Poughkeepsie Town Supervisor Rebecca Edwards and the Town of Poughkeepsie Police to secure this funding for our biggest town,” said Assemblymember Didi Barrett.

“This new equipment will protect drivers and pedestrians alike, reminding people to slow down, when necessary, and be more careful. Safe communities require safe streets and public safety is critical for our communities to thrive.”

“Speeding is the number one concern Town residents call my office about,” said Poughkeepsie Town Supervisor Rebecca Edwards. “With more tools like trailers and speed display signs, the Town of Poughkeepsie Police will have more resources to address unsafe driving all over town. I’m so appreciative of Assemblymember Didi Barrett for securing funds for these resources. I’m grateful to the Town Police for all they do to protect our community and glad we can deliver this equipment to keep our streets safe.”

“On behalf of myself and the Town of Poughkeepsie Police Department, please accept our sincere thanks and appreciation for the funding from New York State that Assemblymember Barrett was able to secure for us,” said Town of Poughkeepsie Police Chief Joseph Cavaliere. “Traffic offenses on our roads today are a significant concern for our public, our communities and law enforcement. These funds will help us purchase much-needed Traffic Enforcement and Control Equipment. This new equipment will be a huge force multiplier for us and will allow us to monitor more roadways, as well as allow us to more clearly notify the public of intersections and speed limits.”

The Town of Poughkeepsie encompasses 28.5 square miles, and has a population of over 45,000.

Jacobson to convene hearing on replacement of lead-contaminated water lines funding delays Nov. 20

Assemblymember Jonathan Jacobson (D-104) has been appointed as chair of the Assembly Oversight, Analysis and Investigation Committee, which investigates whether laws and programs are being effectively carried out in the state. As chair, he is leading an investigation into funding for the removal of lead-contaminated water lines, and will convene a hearing on Nov. 20 in Albany.

“There is no safe level of lead in our drinking water. No one is questioning the science,” Jacobson said. “The question is why, with so much State and Federal funding to get rid of lead lines available, is so little of that money reaching the municipalities that need it most?”

Even low levels of lead exposure are linked to a range of serious health issues, including developmental and neurological disorders, high blood pressure, reproductive risks, and more. The risk is particularly high for infants, it was stated.

All states are under an EPA deadline to remove all lead-contaminated water lines by November 2037. In New York State alone, there are approximately 500,000 lead-contaminated water lines. That means New York would have to remove more than 41,000 lines per year over the next 12 years to meet the deadline, at an estimated cost of $7,000-$12,000 per line, depending on whether they’re removed piecemeal or in entire neighborhoods.

Meanwhile, there are billions of dollars from the Federal Bipartisan Infrastructure Act and the Environmental Bond Act, as well as other funding sources, that the state can use to replace these lines. But since more coordinated State efforts at lead line replacement began in 2017, very little of that money has gone out the door.

The hearing will identify common obstacles to removing and replacing lead lines in the state, with a focus on the funding process. Representatives from the New York State Department of Health, Environmental Facilities Corporation, the Department of Environmental Conservation, several municipalities, and environmental advocacy groups are scheduled to testify.

“Unfortunately, the Cities of Newburgh and Poughkeepsie in my district, like so many municipalities throughout the State, have an aging water system with thousands of contaminated water lines. Removing these lines takes money and effort, but it’s not optional,” Jacobson said. “We have to figure out how we get to ‘Yes’ by sending the funding where it needs to go. We can’t let another generation of children drink water from these contaminated lines.”

Obituaries

Robert E. Deitrick

Robert E. Deitrick, a longtime resident of Poughkeepsie and recently of Rhinebeck, entered into eternal rest October 15, 2025. He was 96.

Son of the late Marcus and Ida Deitrick, he was born December 25, 1928, in Williamsport, PA. He graduated from Southside HS in Elmira, NY and received his BA in Economics from Syracuse University.

Bob proudly served for 4 years in the US Navy. He then studied for 1 year at St. Francis Seminary, San Diego, CA, and remained a deeply faithful Catholic throughout his life. He enjoyed an active career in banking and financial services for over 60 years. He was president of Beacon S&L and Hudson Valley Federal S&L. He retired as an agent and consultant for Mass Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Bob had a passion for community service, devoting his time to many different local organizations, including the Kingston Kiwanis Club (53 years), and his roles as president of the Ulster County Chamber of Commerce and as Lieutenant Governor, NY District, of Kiwanis International.

Bob will be remembered for his positive energy, great sense of humor, love of classical music and love of fishing. Highlights of his travel adventures were visiting the pyramids and tomb of Tutankhamun in Egypt and his yearly family vacation to Martha’s Vineyard. He had a passion for languages, learning Latin, German, Greek and Spanish. Family and friends will greatly miss his self-created ‘one-liners’, all to make everyone smile.

Survivors include the love of his life, his wife of 70 years, Cynthia Smith Deitrick; his children, Kathleen (Richard) Bell, Scott (Valerie) Deitrick and Laurian (Jeffrey) Harrison; his granddaughters, Rhiannon, Renee and Rebecca; and his great-granddaughters, Alexandra and Lennon. He was predeceased by his great-grandson, Anthony.

The family extends heartfelt thanks to the staff of The Meadows at Brookmeade in Rhinebeck, for the compassionate care they’ve provided over the past 3 years. Services were privately held in Rhinebeck. Interment was in Wappingers Rural Cemetery.

Expressions of sympathy may be made in the form of contributions to Kingston Kiwanis Club, PO Box 3161, Kingston, NY 12402 or St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital, 801 St Jude Place, Memphis, TN 38105

Arrangements were under the direction of Straub Catalano & Halvey Funeral Home, 55 East Main Street, Wappingers Falls. To send the family a personal condolence, please visit our website at www.StraubCatalanoHalvey.com.

The Food Bank

Going behind the scenes at the Regional Food Bank Hudson Valley

As I’m writing this, on Sunday, November 2, the federal government is still shut down, leaving the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) in limbo. I visited the Regional Food Bank Hudson Valley last Thursday, where the Food Bank’s executive vice president Felicia Kalan told me that if the SNAP impasse is not resolved, “we will be in a state of emergency.”

The Regional Food Bank Hudson Valley serves 23 counties in Eastern New York, working to alleviate hunger and prevent food waste by accepting large donations of food from the food industry and distributing those donations to more than 1,000 programs and partners that feed our neighbors in need. 54 million pounds went out last year, but they can’t possibly move the estimated 36 million pounds of food that will be needed just in November if SNAP is not restored. That’s because the loss of the average $187 monthly benefit will drive 40 million nationwide participants to local food pantries like Dutchess Outreach Lunch Box or Town of Clinton Food Pantry.

The Regional Food Bank Hudson

Valley operates out of a brand -new 50,000-square-foot warehouse in Montgomery, where food is collected, stored and distributed. Matt Wynkoop, manager of food industry partnerships, took me on a tour. At the loading dock, 17 pallets of Count Chocula breakfast cereal had just been delivered, maybe a donation from Target. I asked Matt if the Food Bank ever refuses a donation, if it’s too much of something. Well, maybe a trailer load of gummy bears, which they once re-donated to other regional food banks. But for now, every kid in the Hudson Valley will be wolfing down Count Chocula cereal.

We toured the giant coolers, and the deep freezer, critical for storing coveted donations of fresh produce, dairy and meat. In one large room, a team of volunteers was sorting a variety of items, including cherry tomatoes from Hepworth Farms, into individual packets. These boxes are moved to the shipping area, where food pantries come to pick them up. I was surprised to learn that the pantries actually pay for the food, at way below wholesale prices, but they still pay, using money from grants or donations. The Food Bank itself is a 501 (c)(3) not-for-profit organization. The people, corporations, or grocery stores that donate can deduct the value from their gross income.

As the Food Bank’s manager of food industry partnerships, Matt Wynkoop works with local farmers to organize donations of excess fruits and vegetables. New York farmers donate about 10 million pounds of food in a typical year. In addition, the state-funded Nourish New York program provides funds for food banks to buy excess products directly from farmers. It costs a lot to harvest fruits and vegetables. To help with these expenses, and to keep good food from rotting in the field, farmers can receive a 25% tax credit, up to $5,000 total, for donations. Local farms, including Fishkill Farms and Dykeman Farm in Pawling have gone way above and beyond this total.

I was curious about sell by dates. It turns out that Food Banks will accept and distribute food that is past the expiration or sell by date on the label. It depends on the items. (I personally eat lots of food that’s past the “best by” date. Some of the items on my spice rack, like whole cloves, for example, are 40 years old!) Placards on the wall at the sorting area guide the volunteers on how to address this issue. Meat and dairy cannot be distributed past the indicated date. Canned goods are okay for a few extra weeks if they’re not dented or leaking. The Count Chocula cereal is nowhere near its sell by date, but I guess the store figures nobody will buy it after Halloween.

But would kids still eat it? If SNAP benefits have not been restored by the time you read this, we’re about to find out.

The Food Bank Hudson Valley is sponsoring free Thanksgiving dinners for families in need. Matt will be manningthe drive-through location, 10 a.m. on November 22 at Dutchess Community College.

Mark Adams is an agricultural advisor to the Dutchess County Executive, Dutchess County B.O.C.E.S. and Cornell University.

Beacon Bonfire: Not your average festival

Beacon Bonfire is back for another year, and it's still not your average festival. A dynamic expression of Beacon's community and creative minds, this edition of the biannual celebration is set to upstage the sellout crowd of 2023.

Beacon Bonfire invites all to Be Curious. To immerse oneself in the festivities, engage with 400+ local artists, and the community. A film festival highlights Beacon Bonfire's brand-new additions, plus installations inspired by Beacon and beyond. Bonfire's lineup will run from Nov. 5-9. The main activation of the festival is Saturday and Sunday.

One main festival draw is the Main Street takeover, a vibrant stretch of fun, food, and dancing. This year, the entire mile of Main Street will be packed with art and music, pulsating with positive energy.

"We're utilizing the resources of Main Street and the different venues. We're there to promote and support the restaurants, the galleries and all the businesses on Main Street. [Beacon Bonfire] will draw a lot of people into town, and they're going to be there for a few days," said Kelly Ellenwood, co-founder of Beacon Bonfire.

Festival passes can be purchased at beaconbonfire.com for VIP access and single-day access

A 10K race, the first of its kind at Beacon Bonfire, will be underway on Saturday. It's a race to Beacon's firetower, the city's namesake and the inspiration for its biennial celebration. All day, music will be at Veterans Place. Film screenings, trivia, and filmmaker Q&As at Industrial Arts Brewing Company. Ecstatic dance and movement workshops, to name a few. The entire schedule can be found at the Beacon Bonfire website and via QR codes on access passes. As in life, all festival items are subject to change.

The festival is car-free. Beacon Bonfire is designed to be walkable, bikeable, and suitable for public transportation, including the Beacon Free Loop. Visitors are also encouraged to park at the Beacon Metro-North Train Station.

At the campus of the former Beacon High School, on Route 52, indoor fun for the masses at KuBe Art Center. Creative Director Donna Mikkelsen and company have worked endlessly to promote Bonfire Beacon's most extensive indoor free-of-cost festivities.

This year marks the introduction of "Seat at the Table", inviting all people to Eliza Street to a "third place" for gathering, without financial exchanges or contracts. Mikkelsen brings a table 50 feet long and enveloped in live grass, with room for laughter, creativity, and play.

"Seat at the Table is a place for families, kids, for people to come and play and interact with art and artists. It is for all ages, and we will be drawing, playing games, and we have artist Elizabeth Castagna coming in," said Mikkelsen, who leads Beacon Bonfire's visual arts programming.

Castagna will be leading a workshop in segni mossi, an art style from Italy that combines body movement with visual art. It will push the boundaries of creativity, combining two modes of expression often seen as detached from one another. The backdrop of this installation is a 50-foot-long, grass-enveloped table, inviting neighbors, friends, and families to join in on creative interaction. Seat at the Table will be active on Saturday from Noon - 7 p.m. and Sunday from Noon - 3 p.m.

On the closing day of Beacon Bonfire, Mikkelsen will also be holding a collaborative symmetry workshop.

The volunteer-run organization had a year of rest, reflection, and renewal in putting on the latest rendition of the biennial (every other year) festival. The BonfireWORKS Foundation, a nonprofit dedicated to fostering creativity and connection, was able to help fund artists' pay, among other operational costs. Grants, donations, and partnerships helped to offset other expenses.

Through the Pink Unicorn Fund, ticket-buyers can make a "buy one, give one" purchase to fund the attendance of a community member who may not otherwise afford it.

Be curious. Be creative. Be at Beacon Bonfire. Roast a s'more, and engage with community arts.

History of the Lenape and Mount Gulian Historic Site Nov. 15

By Kristine Coulter

Learn about local history by attending a talk the Lenape Native Americans, the first inhabitants of the region, at Mount Gulian Historic Site on Saturday, Nov. 15 at 1 p.m. in Beacon. Local tribes such as the Wappinger, Esopus and Tappan encountered Henry Hudson along the Mahicannituck in 1609, changing things dramatically forever, according to organizers.

Mount Gulian's property, which was owned by the Verplanck family, was identified as the site of temporary Lenape encampments, and was also the site of the Rombout Patent of 1683, the Indian deed selling much of Dutchess County to colonial settlers, it was noted.

“The Verplancks had many interactions with the Lenape, starting from the Verplancks’ arrival in New Amsterdam circa 1634. In 1683, Gulian Verplanck and partners bought 85,000 acres of land from the local Wappinger Indians (Lenape) under the Rombout Patent, for approximately $1,200 worth of trade goods, forcing the migration of Lenape People from most of Dutchess County,” said Mount Gulian Executive Director Elaine Hayes.

So, who are the Lenape people?

“The Lenape are a large indigenous cultural group whose Lenapehoking territory stretched from the southern Catskills throughout the Hudson Valley, through New Jersey and into Maryland and Delaware, western Pennsylvania and into central Long Island. Before the colonial period, Lenape lived in hundreds of settlements throughout Lenapehoking and were honored as the “Grandfather People” by other nearby Tribes for their long history here, their prowess at warfare, as well as their negotiation and mediation skills. Lenape fished, hunted and gathered nature's bounty here for centuries and were a farming people, with every settlement having rich gardens. They were a matriarchal society, with most leadership, family and big decisions made by women," explained Harv Hilowitz, who will be offering the talk at Mount Gulian.

Hilowitz, a contributing scholar for the Maritime Museum in Kingston, said “All Americans need to know about the Lenape, their lifeways in the pre-colonial period, their siding with the Americans during the Revolution, their forced migrations into Wisconsin, Oklahoma and Ontario, their survival strategies in the face of erasure, and the fact that they are thriving to this day with over 20,000 people self-identifying as Lenape, some in the Hudson Valley. Mount Gulian is a part of that story and is proud to tell others about it.”

Hayes stated, "We hope visitors will leave the talk knowing that the Lenape are a federally recognized sovereign Tribal Nation, directly involved in the renaissance of Indian Country in this area. Lenape are reviving their language and material and cultural practices, even growing their unique varieties of corn here again. Lenape want their stolen sacred objects repatriated to their People, and to be part of the conversation as to how their history is told and their culture interpreted by non-Native institutions. Most importantly, visitors will learn about a local People's survival in the face of great adversity, an important lesson in today's world."

Admission is $18/adults; $15/seniors; $12/children (5-15 years). Walk-ins are welcome, if spots are available. Mount
